BATTLESHIP IS BIG ISSUE

London Conference Confronted With Problem of Cutting Huge Cost of Replacements.

By L. C. SPEERS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD STEAMSHIP GEORGE WASHINGTON, at Sea, Jan. 10.—The American delegates to the London Naval Arms Conference began their daily meetings today to discuss the American positions and problems at the five-power parley. They met in a conference room specially fitted for their use on the voyage.

Holding his first conference with newspaper men aboard the George Washington, Secretary Stimson declined this afternoon to comment on a wireless bulletin to the ship announcing that France had definitely refused to agree to naval parity with Italy. Other members of the delegation were equally reticent. It was explained that no official confirmation of the report had come from President Hoover or other informed sources.

All talk as to the American position in the event that this issue of Mediterranean parity reaches an acute stage is pure speculation. The United States is awaiting developments and will cross that bridge when it is reached.

One suggestion, which lacks official approval, is for a Mediterranean accord along the lines of the Pacific pact entered into by the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France at the Washington conference in 1922. A Mediterranean agreement would certainly involve Great Britain, France and Italy, and possibly Spain, according to those who appear to see merit in this suggestion.

Pleased by Britain's Stand.

The British Admiralty's announcement that Great Britain was ready ot agree to reduce the British cruiser limit from seventy to fifty vessels was considered by the American delegates and their advisers a happy omen of the success of the conference. Pending official information Mr. Stimson declined to comment on the announcement by A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty.

The statement by Mr. Alexander was no great surprise, since as far back as October of last year word was received at Washington that a proposition to cut cruiser strength to fifty vessels was being seriously considered by the British Government.

Secretary Stimson announced that Lieut. Col. Charles Burnett of the army had been added to the staff of advisers of the delegation. Colonel Burnett, former military attaché at Tokio, speaks Japanese fluently and is expected to be the liasion officer of the Japanese and American delegates.

The ship is making good time. The weather is foggy, but the sea is unusually smooth for this time of year. No members of the official party have been seasick, all of them being seasoned ocean travelers. Secretary of the Navy Adams is one of the world's most noted amateur sailors.

The meeting of the delegates was behind closed doors. The conversations were general, covering all the problems to come before the conference. Never was a delegation more harmonious than this one. Senator Reed said: "We forgot politics when we passed out to sea; we are just americans now."

Admirals Also Optimistic.

The six Admirals accompanying the delegation as advisers were in frequent conference with Secretary Stimson and his colleagues. They share the views of the civilian delegates that there is every reason for optimism as to complete success at London.

Battleships, not cruisers or submarines, in the opinion of some in the American group, are the biggest problem coming before the conference, because the replacement provisons of the Washington treaty for

Higher Learning in Georgia Thwarts Anti-Hitch-Hike Law

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 10 (AP).—City authorities decreed that hitch-hiking must be stopped in Athens and made it a misdemeanor to solicit automobile rides by "speech, motion or gesture." A penalty for soliciting in that manner was provided.

Students at the University of Georgia, located here, found a loop-hole. On the main thoroughfare traveled by motorists headed for Atlanta they erected a large sign which reads, "Going to town?"

Reliable reports say that the plan has been fraught with much success.

BRITAIN SETS LIMIT OF CRUISERS AT 50

Alexander Says Kellogg Pact Permits Reduction From the 70 Formerly Demanded.

WOULD FORBID SUBMARINES

Admiralty Also Hopes That Less Expensive Battleships Will Be Required in Future.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Two high points in today's events in the proceedings preliminary to the naval conference were the declaration at Sheffield by A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, concerning this country's willingness to cut her cruiser strength to fifty vessels and another conference between Premier MacDonald and the Japanese delegates.

Mr. Alexander's statement provides what might be called the first "yardstick" for a tangible estimate of the value of the Kellogg pact to renounce war in terms of the instruments of war that may safely be discarded because the pact exists.

In behalf of the Labor Government, Mr Alexander undertook to answer the British critics who have been asking why England now is willing to reduce the cruiser estimate to fifty from seventy ships, which in 1927 the Admiralty Board had said was an irreducible minimum consistent with national safety.

Kellogg Pact Is His Reply.

"What has happened," Admiral Beatty and other critics have been asking, "since the estimate of seventy was reached to make it safe now for England to drop to fifty?"

Mr. Alexander's answer is that the Kellogg pact has happened. So, at least in the opinion of one country, the pact is worth at least twenty cruisers.

After referring to the previous conditions under which England decided that seventy cruisers were the minimum strength consistent with safety, Mr. Alexander continued:

"But today we have to take account of the new situation which has arisen through the signature of the Pact of Paris [the Kellogg pact] outlawing war by most of the nations of the world, including all the major naval powers, and not only those who are members of the League of Nations but also the United States, which by their authorship of this pact, took their second great step in the practical solution of the world's need for assured peace.

"With such powerful support for peace, we feel justified in looking

SNOWDEN PREDICTS YOUNG PLAN ACCORD AT HAGUE MONDAY

Forecast Follows Conference With Germans, Though They Are Pessimistic.

PARLEY NOW IN A TANGLE

Sanctions and Moratoria Still Separate Berlin and Allies, With Latter in Harmony.

HUNGARY BALKS AT PLANS

Count Bethlen Says He Would Quit as Premier Before Submitting to Demands.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 10.—Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, told your correspondent tonight that he expected an agreement to be reached with the Germans Monday on the troublesome and correlated issues of sanctions and moratoria in connection with the Young plan.

The French have been the most insistent of the former Allies upon retaining the right to take the sanctions provided by the Treaty of Versailles should any German Government willingly wreck the Young plan, with the World Court as the final judge of Germany's good faith. But it is the British Chancellor of the Exchequer who has been the most insistent that the Germans agree not to attempt to avail themselves of the suspension privileges of the Young plan so long as arrears from any preceding moratorium had not been paid up.

The British Government is depending largely on the receipts under the Young plan to meet its payments to the United States and Mr. Snowden regards it as most important for British interests that it be not too easy for Germany to resort to moratoria.

German View Disturbs Creditors.

While the Young plan apparently intended that a moratorium should be asked by Germany only as a last resort, the discussion of the subject here this week has given the impression that Germany attaches much too great importance to this provision for the comfort of the former Allies. Moreover, the Germans take the position that they have the right to ask for a moratorium either on mark payments or transfers or both whenever they may consider it essential for the German financial position.

It is evident that the adoption of such an idea by the creditors would mean taking a good many chances on the good-will of future and unknown German Governments. Put this beside the German demand that her creditors declare never to use sanctions regardless of what happens and one gets an idea of the difficulty of the negotiations here. The Germans indicate that they are willing to seek some formula on sanctions to give satisfaction to the French if the largest liberty is given the Germans for the suspension of payments. But it is held here that in such a case it would be very difficult to prove German bad faith.

Mr. Snowden wishes to limit the moratorium privilege and Premier Tardieu of France wishes to retain the ultimate sanctions right. M. Tardieu agrees fully with Mr. Snowden and Mr. Snowden agrees fully with M. Tardieu. The Germans are very pessimistic and predict a deadlock, but importance should be attached to Mr. Snowden's prediction tonight, which was made after a long conference with the German chiefs.

Germans Likely to Yield.

The trouble into which the conference has been dragged is not so much of concrete issues as of psychology. The former Allies came here with the intention of hurrying

Worst Cold in 60 Years Kills 15,000 Chinese; Many More Are Dying in Great Famine Area

By The Associated Press.

PEKING, China, Jan. 10.—Half of China for days has been experiencing the severest cold in sixty years with the dead numbered in the thousands and with tens of thousands suffering cruelly from lack of shelter.

Undernourished populations in the district where famine had followed crop failures this Summer were hard hit and many died in the hovels into which they crawled in vain search of warmth. The greatest mortality from the wintry blasts was in the Suiyuan district of Northern Shansi and inner Mongolia, where it was estimated that 15,000 undernourished persons, most of them aged or children, were dead from exposure.

In the town of Fengchen 2,500 were frozen to death, in Sahsien another 2,000 died and in Paotowchen 800 succumbed to the cold.

Honan Province reported the coldest weather since 1870, with below-zero temperatures reported in the three Wuhan cities in Hupeh Province. The Han River was filled with blocks of ice which had crushed thousands of junks and drowned hundreds of persons.

The Rengo News Agency said 700 soldiers were frozen during the movement of the Second Army. Bodies were sent back to Hankow on freight trains, where soldiers and relatives were summoned by the beating of gongs to come to the railroad yards and take charge of the dead.

In Peking the police reported 167 men and forty-one women found dead since Monday, while in Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang 100 persons had died within two days. Twenty Chinese coolies were found dead in the streets of Hankow. Temperatures were below zero in the three cities, constituting the severest weather in that area in sixty years. Thousands of the poor were said to be suffering, hundreds being homeless.

MADRID, Jan. 10 (AP).—Extreme cold prevailed over all Spain today. Madrid for the first time this year was covered with a blanket of snow. The thermometer was one degree above zero Centigrade, or about 33 Fahrenheit.

Aviators were told clouds would make flying difficult. Suffering in the cities from the unusual weather was intense.

Two Missing in Plane on Altitude Test Flight; Fear They Were Blown to Sea Above Clouds

In spite of unfavorable weather conditions, including fog and signs of impending storm, test pilot D. Marra took off yesterday morning from the Farmingdale, L. I., Airport of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation on a high altitude test flight. Late last night he had not returned and officials of the Aviation Corporation, of which Fairchild is a unit, broadcast a description of the plane.

Marra, an experienced pilot, had with him an observer whose last name was Kirkpatrick. The two fliers had taken weather observations, which were unpromising for extended flying, and decided that conditions, while not of the best, were good enough for an altitude flight in the vicinity of the field.

The last any one saw of them they were climbing steadily into the mists blowing in from the ocean, and a few minutes after they left the ground they were lost to view. No fear was expressed for their safety, however. For a time ground observers could hear the heavy roar of the motor and then as the fliers went steadily upward and circled away from the field even that ceased.

They were expected back within an hour or two, and when they had been gone beyond a reasonable time limit calls were put in for other fields. Nothing had been seen or heard of them.

In the afternoon the fog was succeeded by sleet and snow flurries, accompanied by strong winds at the surface. Aloft these winds were probably twice as strong, and fear was expressed last night that Marra, high above the clouds and unable to figure his drift, might have been blown out to sea.

The plane was a Fairchild cabin monoplane. Its cream-colored wing bore the license number NC3K. Its fuselage was painted dark red and the undercarriage was cream colored.

Some held the hope that Marra, finding himself above the clouds, had turned inland and flown by compass until he was certain that he had escaped landing at sea. This might place him, it was said, in some isolated spot where he could not quickly communicate with the field.

The Fairchild 71, as the plane is known, has made an unofficial record for planes of the type of more than 20,000 feet. If Marra attained that altitude yesterday it is likely that he found zero weather and winds of gale force. Pilots thought last night sleet might have formed ice on the wings at a lower altitude and driven the fliers down. Officials of the Aviation Corporation in their broadcast asked that any one seeing a plane of the description of the missing machine telephone the company's offices at Lexington 2621.

PLANE FARE TO COAST SLASHED TO $159.92

T.A.T. Reduces Charge $107.51, to Less Than Extra-Fare Train and Pullman Rate.

LINDBERGH APPROVED IT

After Jan. 14 Tariff of 5 Cents a Mile Will Be Effective for Shorter Trips.

The most drastic cut in air travel rates in the brief history of transcontinental passenger flying was announced yesterday by C. M. Keys, president of Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux Air Lines, the company which in conjunction with the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe Railroads operates a forty-eight-hour service between New York and Los Angeles.

The new rate Mr. Keys said is lower than that on the extra fare trains, with Pullman, across the country. It will become effective Jan. 14.

The new fare to Los Angeles from New York is $159.92, a reduction of $107.51 over the former rate and less than half of the tariff charged when the service was first opened last July.

The announcement was made late yesterday by Mr. Keys following a meeting of the boar dof directors of T. A. T. at 39 Broadway. While the directors were in session Mr. Keys talked with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, chairman of the technical committee of the system, by telephone in Los Angeles. Colonel Lindbergh is now on a flying survey of the system and its subsidiary branches.

Lindbergh Advised Cut.

In this long distance conversation the flier recommended a drastic reduction in rates, it was said, because he believed there was a general demand that air transportation be placed on a basis where the public might participate in its benefits.

The action of T. A. T.-Maddux follows closely that of other systems among them Southern Fast Air Express which operating in the southwest has reduced fares in some places to a point below the combined Pullman and rail rates. Another line which has recently cut its tariffs drastically is Western Air Express, operating passenger routes between Los Angeles and Kansas City and planning with Universal Aviation to operate an all-air coast-to-coast system within a few months.

T. A. T. in the first six months of its operations carried more than 4,000 passengers, a number which in the opinion of several officials of the line, exceeded expectations for a pioneer air travel system.

Cut in Response to Demand.

"Reducing fares to the equivalent of railroad tariffs," Mr. Keys said, "will certainly be in response to a demand from the general public. And with this reduction air transportation will have been made available to the entire traveling public."

In his announcement Mr. Keys said that a rate of 5 cents per mile would go into effect on Jan. 14 between all cities at which T. A. T.-Maddux planes make regular stops on its transcontinental lines, a cut from an average mileage tariff of 12 cents.

The new rate, it was said, was the lowest ever established in this country. For example, between Columbus, Ohio, and Indianapolis, a distance of 181 miles, the new rate is $9.05, compared to the former rate of $23. Over the 305-mile hop between Albuquerque and Los Angeles the new tickets will cost $35.30, as against the old rate of $110.

The new fares, it was said, include the cost of overnight train travel be-

COMMISSION OFFERS SIX CRIME BILLS

Albany Measures Are Aimed at Perjury, Mute Defendants and Hostile Witnesses.

WOULD PERMIT JURY WAIVER

Constitutional Amendment to Provide This Is Advocated by Baumes and Esmond.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 10.—Renewing its efforts to improve and speed the machinery of justice, the State Crime Commission today proposed six bills and one resolution to amend the State Constitution.

The amendment would permit optional waiver of jury trial by defendants for trial by judges. The most important of the other measures are designed to stop perjury in the courts, grant the presiding judge the right of comment on testimony and discourage the practice of defendants in not taking the witness stand.

The measures have been dropped in the bill boxes by Senator Caleb H. Baumes of Orange and Assemblyman Burton D. Esmond of Saratoga, both Republicans and chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Crime Commission. They will be read in the Legislature on Monday.

Although most of the proposals have been sponsored in previous years and failed to win majority approval in the two houses, a special drive will be launched at this session in behalf of the two perjury bills as a result of the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein in New York City. The unwillingness of the gambler friends of the defendant to testify and the changes in their stories brought vigorous protest from the former District Attorney, Joab H. Banton, against the existing trial procedure. Other District Attorneys joined him in his demands for a reform.

In line with his suggestions one of the bills would allow a prosecutor to impeach the testimony of his own witnesses. The defendant would have the same right as to defense witnesses.

Would Deal With Hostile Witnesses.

"There are so many cases," the Crime Commission states, "where the District Attorney is met with a witness who upon taking the stand testifies contrary to his previous statements or testimony. The District Attorney is yet bound by the testimony since the witness was called to the stand by him. Usually such persons are of undependable and irresponsible character. The prosecutor should not be compelled to accept the testimony without being allowed to cross-examine such a person as he would a hostile witness. He should be permitted to show by previous statements that the witness had made contradictions."

Designed more directly to punish perjury, the companion bill would define a new crime of "false swearing," which would be a misdemeanor triable in Special Sessions without an indictment. Unlike the procedure in perjury prosecutions, the materiality of the perjured testimony would not have to be proved but simply the falsity of stateemnts made.

Perjury, termed by the commission "a practice all too prevalent in the larger cities," is a felony now and necessarily prosecuted by indictment and jury trial. Because of the delays involved in such a prosecution and the size of the penalty, the District Attorneys have found it difficult to obtain convictions. By its proposal the Crime Commission hopes to make conviction for false statement easier without changing the perjury law. At the same time there would be no risk of having a bill declared uncon-

WOMAN LOBBYIST FLOUTS COMMITTEE, DENOUNCES METHODS

Mrs. Jones, Publicity Agent for Low Sugar Tariff, Tells Senators They "Play Politics."

CAUSES LIVELY SESSION

Even Her Inquisitors Laugh With Gallery as She Refuses Answers to Questions.

TELLS OF COCKTAIL DINNER

Censures Investigators as Violating Fourth Amendment by "Rifling" Files of Citizens.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A self-reliant woman of 30 faced the lobby investigating committee today and gave the Senators frankly to understand that she did not approve of the way they had conducted their inquiry. In fact, in one respect they had violated the Constitution, the Senators were told positively.

Mrs. Gladys Moon Jones, publicity agent for the American Sugar Association and the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba, was the witness. She accused the committee of "playing politics" and violating the Fourth Amendment by "rifling" the files of citizens without a warrant. Upon repeated occasions she and Senators Walsh and Caraway clashed.

Mrs. Jones entered the hearing apparently determined to have her say and ended by refusing to give the name of a lobbyist who, she said, had burned his letters every forty-eight hours to prevent them from getting into the hands of investigators. She said she had received this information at a dinner where cocktails were served, however, and she did not intend to violate the confidence that came in this way.

Mrs. Jones issued a statement attacking the committee in advance of her appearance and copies of it were placed before the Senators. They faced the thrusts and defiance of the witness good-naturedly and ignored her pointed remarks. The crowded hearing room found the session enjoyable, especially a large number of women, who appeared satisfied with the witness's encounters with that clever cross-examiner, Senator Walsh of Montana.

Tells Senators About Her Pay.

She received a salary of $230 a week and expenses from the United States Sugar Association, Mrs. Jones testified. The expenses amounted to about $500 a week. In addition, she received $1,333.33 a month from the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba. She had not undertaken this work for pay alone, she explained, but believed in the principle of keeping down sugar prices for the benefit of the American consumer. She declared she had helped to prepare a speech on the sugar tariff delivered by Representative Ruth Pratt of New York.

Mrs. Jones very early displayed her opinion of the investigating committee. As she heard her private letters being read she snapped out that she was "going to find out what right the committee had in taking my correspondence." She sought to argue the point with Senator Caraway, but the Senator refused to be drawn out. He exhibited a letter written by Mrs. Jones to H. C. Lakin of New York, asking her if she had written it.

"Yes, I wrote it," answered Mrs. Jones, "but I want to ask you what right you have to have it?"

"Well," the Senator retorted, "we seem to have it."

"How did you get it?" demanded Mrs. Jones. "By what right have you my personal letter in your hands?"

"We will argue that some other time," Senator Caraway suggested.

"I would like to," said Mrs. Jones. "We will appoint some date for argu-

Icy Wave Puts City's Untimely Spring to Rout; Cold Weather Still Grips West and Southwest

The phenomenal Springlike weather that made Wednesday and Thursday record days in New York was ended yesterday by a chill wave that brought slight traces of snow and sent the mercury tumbling to below freezing point last night. Colder but fair weather was predicted by the local Weather Bureau for today.

While the falling temperatures here were duplicated in Philadelphia and other points southward along the Atlantic seaboard, King Winter continued to hold the West, Southwest and the upper reaches of the Pacific Coast in a shivering grip. The Kansas City district reported thirteen deaths directly attributable to the season's worst blizzard, according to The Associated Press. Chicago enjoyed a let-up yesterday when its traffic arteries were cleared of snow and returned to normal, and the official forecast promising slightly warmer weather there.

In this city, the highest temperature yesterday was 48 degrees at 9:15 A. M. Then, the cold wave from the West began to make itself felt and the mercury started downward. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the temperature was 40 degrees, compared with the record-breaking high mark of 65 at the same hour on the day before. An hour later, New York was only three degrees above the freezing point and by 5 o'clock in the afternoon the mercury had sunk to 30 degrees, or two degrees below the freezing point. From that hour onward, there was a steady drop. At 8 P. M., the thermometer registered 25 degrees above zero and at 9 o'clock it had lost five more degrees. At 10 P. M. it was still 20 above zero.

Around 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to the Weather Bureau, there were slight traces of snow that soon changed to rain, which was followed in turn by another suggestion of snow.

The worst cold wave in ten years held the western Canadian prairies in a merciless grip yesterday.

LAW ENFORCEMENT FAILS, WICKERSHAM BOARD FINDS; FULL REPORT ON MONDAY

Smoot, at 68, Says Life Is Paying Him Dividends

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Reed Smoot of Utah, dean of Republicans in the Senate and indefatigable worker, celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday today with these words:

"I am drawing dividends on the life I lived since boyhood.

"I've never, never drank liquor in my life. I've never smoked. I've always eaten good, plain food and loved work. I never was lazy and never saw a time when I didn't have plenty to do.

"I've wronged nobody. I was fortunate in marrying as perfect a young woman as ever lived. My children have had a marvelous mother, a superb home-maker. Of all the blessings received by me, she was the greatest."

Senator Smoot added the last with evident feeling. His wife, who was Alpha May Endredge, died Nov. 7, 1928.

Harold and Ernest Smoot gave a luncheon at the Capitol on their father's birthday.

HOOVER ACCEDES TO PLAN OF HOUSE

Both White House and Leaders Deny Friction Over Prohibition Legislation.

LATTER PLEDGE SUPPORT

La Guardia and Schafer Assail Dry Forces—La Follette for Free Wickersham Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Both the White House and administration supporters in the House hastened today to deny that there is any breach between them over the President's proposal for the creation of a joint committee of Congress to consider prohibition legislation.

Rejection yesterday by House leaders of this suggestion from the administration was declared in some quarters to be the first hitch of any kind in the accord which has existed between the House and the President since he took office.

The White House attitude is that it has no interest in the question of parliamentary procedure, desires only the expedition of legislation and will adapt itself entirely to the wishes of the House leaders in any methods they adopt for early consideration of the various prohibition proposals.

New Plan to Expedite Action.

It was said at the White House that the plan for the creation of a joint select committee to consider the reorganization of Federal agencies for the enforcement of prohibition was agreed on by House and Senate leaders many months ago as a method of assuring co-ordinated action by the several committees involved. Technical difficulties have arisen, it was said, because the resolution, as passed by the Senate, did not permit the direct report of bills from the House members of the joint committee to the House itself, but would have required that even after action by this committee the bills would have to be referred to the regular committees of the House. This procedure meaning delay, the decision was taken that action could be expedited if the various committees of the House considered the proposals directly and immediately. Therefore President Hoover determined to send Federal Machinery Overtaxed, Says Preliminary Statement.

WORK SO FAR REVIEWED

Prohibition, Auto Theft and White Slave Cases Emphasized as Clogging Courts.

HOUSE STANDS BY HOOVER

White House Will Send Wickersham Proposals to Congress—Each Branch to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—That the criminal law enforcement machinery of the country is entirely inadequate was the declaration made today by the Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement appointed by President Hoover in making public its first detailed description of the work it has been doing since its organization seven months ago. The statement was issued by the chairman, George W. Wickersham.

Simultaneously the White House announced that the specific recommendations as to law enforcement in general, including prohibition, already made to President Hoover, would be transmitted by him to Congress on Monday.

"Prohibition, automobile theft, white slave traffic, immigration and other criminal laws of the Federal Government have overtaxed the capacity and effectiveness of the national machinery for enforcement," the statement added.

Reference to Prohibition.

Concerning prohibition, which was listed as fifth in the subjects it was considering, the commission stated that "a considerable portion of the activities of the committee has been given to development of proposals for action on most urgent questions. The question of the better centralization of responsibility and coordination of Federal agencies has been given careful examination, together with measures for relief of congestion in the courts."

The commission gave no hint of the recommendations it has made to President Hoover, simply summarizing the work on the topics it has been dealing with.

The commission recently has been under constant fire because of the secrecy concerning its activities and members of Congress have been bombarding it with demands that it reveal to Congress and the public just what has been happening behind its closed doors. There also have been reports that friction within the commission has been responsible for the failure to make a statement.

Statement by the Chairman.

Chairman Wickersham's statement follows:

"The National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, organized some seven months ago, has held during the present week its ninth regular meeting. The broad purpose of the commission being a searching examination of criminal law enforcement, including prohibition, the organization of its work naturally falls into the conduct of police, prosecution, courts and judicial procedure, the management of penal institutions, and the causes of crime; the objective of all of which is to determine positive measures of reform which will secure more prompt and effective justice.

"The commission some months ago divided its work among eleven principal committees, dealing respectively with the subjects of:

"Police,
"Prosecution,
"Courts,
"Penal institutions, probation and parole,
"Prohibition,
"Cost of crime,
"Causes of crime,
"Juvenile delinquency,
"Criminal justice and the foreign born,
"Abuses in enforcement,
"Statistics.

"A preliminary examination by the commission demonstrated unquestionably that the criminal law enforcement machinery of the country is entirely inadequate; that prohibition, automobile theft, white slave traffic, immigration and other criminal laws of the Federal Government have overtaxed the capacity and effectiveness of the national machinery for enforcement. The relations of the State agencies of law enforcement have also to be considered.

"Under the direction of these various committees, exhaustive examination of the situation has been initiated through wide correspondence, conferences by members of the commission with scores of leading men and officials and by the appointment of qualified research experts, of whom some fourteen have been engaged to date; by cooperation with crime commissions and similar agencies throughout the country, and several advisory committees have been set up for the pursuit of various phases of the problem.

Summary of Commission's Work.

"The following summary of the work of the various subcommittees may be given:

POLICE—The first point of contact between the law and the offender is through the police, and no thorough study of conditions of law enforcement could be made which did not involve a very careful examination of the subject of police organization and administration. The commission secured for the month of September last the services of Mr. August Vollmer, then Chief of Police of Berkeley, Cal., now a professor at the University of Chicago, and admittedly one of the leaders in the field of police organization and administration. Mr. Vollmer completed and furnished the commission with a preliminary report early in October, but has been prevented by his duties at the University of Chicago from following it up with the larger work of application which the commission has desired him to complete.

A further staff is being recruited. The commission has made arrangements for the gathering of information in leading scientific police laboratories in foreign countries relating to the most modern developments in the methods for detecting crime.

PROSECUTION—Immediately following the contact between the police and the offender comes the question of prosecution. Early in its work the commission secured the services of Mr. Alfred Bettman, who has had large experience in the preparation of the Cleveland crime survey of 1921, and also more recently with the Boston crime survey, to undertake a study and report on the methods of prosecution, the offices of prosecutors and other enforcement personnel and the general considerations incident to the prosecution of offenders. Mr. Bettman has been continuously engaged in this work with a staff of assistants and his report is expected within a reasonably short time.

Problem of the Courts

COURTS—The question of courts has presented many difficult problems. Most important is the question of the general organization of the Federal Judiciary, the jurisdiction of the Federal courts and procedure therein. At the request of the Commission, Judge Francis G. Caffey of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York and Mr. Benjamin A. Matthews of the New York bar undertook the study of the courts of that district.

In addition to these reports, a special study of the Federal district courts was undertaken for the Commission by the Hon. Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., United States District Judge of Houston, Texas, for the purpose chiefly of determining the extent to which congestion exists in the Federal courts and the methods which might be adopted for relief.

The Commission concluded from these preliminary studies that a far more thorough study of the whole matter should be undertaken, and that such an inquiry could be best carried on through the cooperative efforts of the law schools of the country. This work has been assigned to a committee comprising Charles E. Clark Esq., Dean of the Law School of Yale University, Hon. Owen J. Roberts, Professor E. M. Morgan of the Law School of Harvard University, Dr. O. K. McMurray, Dean of the Law School of the University of California, and President Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

Board for Penal Inquiry.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS, PROBATION AND PAROLE—After a preliminary examination of a large amount of material bearing upon these subjects and conferences with officials and others engaged in these fields, the Commission set up a committee under Dr. Hastings H. Hart of the Russell Sage Foundation, composed of the following named persons, to make an exhaustive inquiry into the subject:

Dr. Hastings H. Hart.
E. R. Cass, Prison Association of New York.
Charles L. Chute, National Probation Association.
Edwin J. Cooley, Chief Probation Officer, Court of General Sessions of New York.
Lewis E. Lawes, Warden of Sing Sing prison.
Calvin Derrick, State Home for Boys, Jamesburg, N. J.
William Ellis, Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies of New Jersey.
Dr. Ellen C. Potter, State Home for Girls, Trenton, N. J.
Dr. Walter N. Thayer, State Superintendent of Prisons of Maryland.
Judge C. W. Hoffman of the Juvenile Court, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Dr. Amos W. Butler of Indianapolis, Ind.
Oscar Lee, Warden of State prison, Waupun, Wis.
Sanford Bates, United States Superintendent of Prisons.
Dr. Bernard Glueck, Sing Sing prison.
Dr. Louis N. Robinson of Swarthmore, Pa.
The Hon. Joseph M. Proskauer, Justice of the Supreme Court of New York.
Dr. Herman J. Adler, State Criminologist of Illinois.
Herbert C. Parsons, Commissioner of Probation for Massachusetts.
O. H. Close, Preston School of Industry, Waterman, Cal.
Winthrop D. Lane of New York.

Dry Law Violation and Enforcement.

PROHIBITION—The work of the Committee on Prohibition naturally divides itself into, first, the consideration of the violation of the present laws by importation and manufacture, and by diversion of industrial alcohol; secondly, the machinery for the administration of the law, involving the personnel of the enforcement agencies, their coordination and supervision; the cooperation of Federal and State Governments and the coordination of administrative and prosecuting officials, and thirdly, the judicial machinery of enforcement, involving necessary changes in judicial organization and improvement in criminal procedure; codification of the existing statutes, recommendation of additional legislation and provisions for the relief of existing congestion in Federal courts.

A considerable portion of the activities of the committee has been given to development of proposals for action on most urgent questions. The question of the better centralization of responsibility and coordination of Federal agencies has been given careful examination, together with measures for relief of congestion in the courts. Aside from the cooperation of the various government agencies the committee has had the benefit of the services of Mr. A. W. Woodcock, United States Attorney for the District of Maryland, who has been given leave by the Department of Justice for this purpose; Messrs. Albert E. Sawyer, E. E. Lindberg and other members of the staff. Special attention is being given to the administration of the law with respect to the manufacture and sale of industrial alcohol.

Crime Causes and Juvenile Offenders.

CAUSES OF CRIME—A preliminary report on the psychiatric aspects of crime has been prepared for the commission by Dr. Herman J. Adler, State Criminologist of Illinois, and Miss Mary Van Kleeck, director of the department of industrial studies of the Russell Sage Foundation, has undertaken a study of the economic and industrial factors bearing on criminal conduct. A number of conferences also have been held with outstanding psychiatrists and psychologists, and much material assembled for use upon this important topic.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY—A preliminary report has been prepared by Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, and Miss Lenroot, her assistant. The commission also has secured the services of Miss Miriam Van Waters, referee of the juvenile court of Los Angeles, Cal., and president of the National Conference of Social Workers, to make an exhaustive inquiry, the expenses of which are borne from other sources than the commission's funds.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND THE FOREIGN BORN—Dean Abbott of the University of Chicago has undertaken a study of this subject and is pursuing investigations in California, Texas, New Orleans, Chicago and New York, having at present working under her Professor Handman of the University of Texas, Professor Horak of Tiffin, Ohio; Jackson Chance of Los Angeles, Professor Taylor of Berkeley, Cal.; Professor Steiner of Tulane University, New Orleans; Paul Warnshuis and others of Chicago and C. W. King of New York.

COST OF CRIME—One of the important factors in emphasizing the need of reform is the cost of crime to the people of the United States; the expense of maintaining police and detection agencies, courts, prisons and all the personnel and paraphernalia of law enforcement, as well as the indirect cost shown by the expense of extra-legal protection against crime. This inquiry is in charge of Goldthwaite H. Dorr, assisted by Sidney P. Simpson, both of the city of New York.

Use of Third Degree.

ABUSES IN ENFORCEMENT—The study of this subject has been undertaken by Walter H. Pollak of the New York Bar and Professor Zechariah Chafee of the Harvard Law School. The facts which are being collected in this branch of the inquiry include those relating to the use of the third degree, intimidation and other improper actions by some police prosecutors and judicial officers as well as of the administrative and enforcing officials.

STATISTICS—Early in its work the commission was troubled with the fact that the statistics with respect to crime and criminal conditions were so inadequate as to require study and recommendation of administrative or legislative action. The services of Professor Sam Bass Warner of Harvard University were secured to investigate this problem with view to the formulation of recommendations for proper production and collection of statistics upon crime and criminal enforcement. In addition to this fundamental necessity, the commission is collecting current statistics with view to the assistance of survey divisions of the commission in their conclusions.

Inasmuch as the members of the commission are serving without compensation, and as eleven out of the fourteen experts in charge of different investigations are also serving without compensation and are assisted by many others, some of whom are likewise giving their services in the national interest, the expenditure of the commission up to the present time has amounted only to about $70,000.

Rockefellers' 20-Year Fight Ousts Railroad; Family Spent $5,000,000 to Get It Off Estate

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The Rockefeller family has won a final victory in its twenty-year fight to have removed the branch of the New York Central Railroad which runs through Pocantico Hills. The victory has cost the Rockefellers, father and son, $5,000,000.

News of it came today in an announcement by the railroad that it had awarded a contract to the Walsh Construction Company of Davenport, Iowa, to relocate the section of the Putnam Division which now runs through the 8,000-acre Rockefeller estate between East View and Briarcliff. The new road will run along the Saw Mill River, to the west of Pocantico Hills.

Under the agreement between the railroad and the Rockefellers, the latter provide the three-mile right of way through the new territory and the railroad will assume the cost of construction. The Rockefellers also will receive the strip of land fifty feet wide and six miles long which constitutes the present right of way from East View through Tarrytown, Tarrytown Heights, Tower Hills and Pocantico Hills.

In their long campaign the Rockefellers have had to overcome the opposition of many of their commuting neighbors through persuasion and the purchase of their land holdings. This opposition had various motives, ranging from the desire of most residents to have convenient railroad service, to the delight of some of the aged in the friendly tooting of the locomotives, which they had heard all their lives.

A year ago John D. Rockefeller Jr. bought outright for $825,000 the entire village of East View, in which lived families antedating the Revolution, and had its homes, stores and dance halls moved bodily away. The opposition of other neighbors was overcome at a series of informal receptions in the Rockefeller manor house. The last to hold out were residents of Tarrytown Heights, but last year the Public Service Commission overruled their objections and consented to the relocating of the road.

ASSAIL JUDGES ON LIQUOR.

Speakers at Philadelphia Say They Drink at Their Tables.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Assertions that there are three times as many men in jail and in their graves today because of "alcoholism" as there were in 1919; that a "police-protected" speakeasy is operated near Senator David A. Reed's home in Pittsburgh, and that "judges drink liquor at their own tables and the next day send other men to jail for the same thing," were made by speakers at a luncheon today of the Pennsylvania division of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform.

William H. Slayton of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment declared that "America showed no signs of decay until this amendment was passed."

Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh, member of the Democratic State Committee, said "women should be concerned as mothers about the hypocritical attitude we are taking on prohibition."

the Wickersham proposals direct to each branch of Congress on Monday.

Speaker Longworth, who yesterday made known the House leaders' disinclination to agree to a joint committee, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority floor leader, and Representative Cramton of Michigan, leader of the House dry bloc, joined in asserting today that the impression that the House would not support the President in his enforcement program is erroneous.

This did not appease the wets, however, and Representative La Guardia of New York challenged the drys to "test their majority in the House by invoking the rules and discharging the committee" from further consideration of the proposal for the joint committee.

Representative Schafer of Wisconsin had his announced hour of discussion of "Christianity or prohibition," in which he decried the dry laws as "un-Christian" and responsible for crime and corruption.

Longworth Issues Statement.

Speaker Longworth issued a statement, saying:

"On reading the papers this morning I find that in some of them a wrong impression is given of the position of myself and other members of the majority party in the House, with regard to the resolution recently passed by the Senate for the creation of a joint committee to examine into and study various phases of prohibition enforcement.

"In the first place, I made no formal statement of my position. All I said was in conversation with a number of my newspaper friends individually. In some cases I must have been misunderstood. Certainly I have no recollection of using the words, 'ill advised' in connection either with the action of the Senate or of the administration. If any one has received the impression that there is any 'break' between the House and the administration it should be corrected.

"Our differences, if any, were solely on matters of procedure. Some of us thought that prompter and more effective action with regard to various phases of law enforcement could be had through the regularly organized committees of the House rather than through a special joint committee, because, as provided in the Senate resolution, even after action by such a committee, the bills would have to be referred to various standing committees for final action.

"Perhaps the most important of the various enforcement bills on the administration program is that transferring the prohibition enforcement division in the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice. I understand that such a bill has been prepared, that it will be very speedily introduced into the House, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the executive departments, which has jurisdiction of the subject matter, speedily reported and speedily passed.

"Such other measures as may be recommended for law enforcement will be referred, whenever introduced, to the appropriate committees having jurisdiction of the subject matter, and I have no doubt that speedy action will be had on them.

"In fine, the majority party of the House stands firm in its support of the President upon all measures which he deems necessary for the proper enforcement of all law of the United States."

Tilson Denies Disagreement

Mr. Tilson, in a formal statement, said:

"No one was more surprised than I to read in the morning papers that an entering wedge had been driven toward a cleavage between the President and the House of Representatives in connection with the transfer of certain functions of the government from one department to another, and nothing could be further from the truth.

"So far as I have been able to learn, there is no opposition whatever to the transfers desired by the President. There has been some differences as to the procedure in passing the legislation. These differences of opinion revolve around the question of jurisdiction of the several committees of the House, but I repeat, there has been no objection raised so far as I have learned to carrying out the wishes of the President. The methods of doing it is a matter of detail, and does not go to the substance of the matter at all. Whether the legislation is handled by a joint select committee, or by the regular standing committees of the House, it will be done.

"For some time the Senate resolution for a joint committee has been pending before the Committee on Rules, but I have not been informed of any action by that committee and until such action is taken it cannot be positively stated what that action will be. Meanwhile, numerous conferences have been taking place in an effort to work out a plan that will accomplish the purpose generally agreed upon in a manner satisfactory to all."

Cramton Expresses Views.

Mr. Cramton expressed his views in a two-minute speech on the floor of the House.

"The press this morning very generally carried news stories giving the country to understand that the House of Representatives will not go along with the President in his program for statutory changes he deems necessary for most efficient handling of the problem of Federal prohibition enforcement by his administration," he said. "That impression is grossly erroneous.

"This House has great confidence in the sincerity, the resolution and the executive capacity of President Hoover. This House stands for enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment. This House desires and intends to give the President the legislative program he desires with reference to Federal prohibition enforcement. This House is overwhelmingly dry, and I am satisfied I correctly judge its sentiment in this.

"More than that, there is a liberal percentage of wets who are for enforcement of every law and who will continue to manifest that in the future as they have in the past.

"What is to be the procedure in the House in consideration of this program of legislation, whether through a special committee or whether through one or more regular committees, is not so material. There is a program that the President desires from Congress with reference to prohibition enforcement. That program must and will be approved speedily by the House of Representatives.

La Guardia Sees Division.

Mr. La Guardia termed the present situation a demonstration of the confusion that existed in the ranks of the drys.

"The hopelessness of the prohibition cause, the confusion in their ranks which I predicted a few days ago, has now been officially demonstrated," he declared. "The drys are in such a deadlock and in such despair as to what course to pursue that, although so-called prohibitionists have the overwhelming majority in the House, there seems to be a deadlock between the executive and legislative branches of the government on this annoying question.

"The President, carrying out the recommendations of organized prohibition associations, recommended to Congress certain changes in the law and asked for the appointment of a joint commission. This was hailed as a great victory by the professional and other drys, while at the same time the father of prohibition, Mr. Andrew Volstead himself, came to Washington and solicited the aid of his former colleagues in preventing transfer of the prohibition unit in accordance with the President's recommendation.

"In response to the President's special message asking for a joint Congressional committee of investigation, the Senate finally acted and sent such a resolution to the House. This morning it is announced by the official leadership of the majority of the House that no action will be taken on this resolution.

"Now I challenge the drys to test their majority in the House by invoking the rules and discharge the committee. Let us have a test of the dry vote in the House. The rule provides for discharge of the committee. The drys numerically have the votes. We are ready for the test.

"Personally and frankly, no further investigation is necessary to show the complete break-down of enforcement and the failure of prohibition. From that point on we are ready."

Schafer Derides Drys.

Mr. Schafer, in his hour's speech, challenged those who plead prohibition as a religious cause. He declared that the American people had no sense of moral guilt from drinking and that so long as they refused to recognize it as such "prohibition will be a failure." He asserted that "our present prohibition laws are in direct conflict with the teachings of Jesus Christ and His disciples." He frequently quoted from the Bible and referred to Biblical stories.

"If the Divine Christ were to appear on earth today and attend a wedding feast in the nation's capital in these days of prohibition and again perform his miracle of transforming water into wine some fanatical prohibition demagogue from a State where the tall corn grows and the strong booze flows, clothing himself in the robes of righteousness, would no doubt appear before a grand jury two years later and demand that the Saviour be indicted on no other evidence than a keen sense of smell and laboratory experience," he declared.

La Follette Defends Wickersham.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Senator La Follette contributed to today's prohibition discussion a demand that the President's law enforcement commission have a free hand and be permitted to make its study without outside interference. His views were contained in an editorial made public by him, which will appear in The Progressive, a magazine.

"The violent outcry over the enforcement of prohibition and the torrent of criticism and abuse of the President's commission on law enforcement," he wrote, "are not conducive to the careful, patient, scientific research which the country has a right to expect and demand of that tribunal.

"That a deliberate effort is being made to hamstring the commission and discredit its work is the only fair conclusion to be drawn from the untimely, bitter attacks now being made upon it in advance of its report. Reason and justice demand that while it is conducting its far-reaching investigation, the commission should be accorded the respect and consideration and granted the time which an intelligent study of the important problem delegated to it calls for.

"That contempt for law and its violation are widespread and constantly increasing no thoughtful observer seriously disputes. It is the commission's responsibility to uncover the facts, to trace, if it can, the crime wave to its source. Prohibition, of course, is a part of the problem, but only a part. To what extent, if any, it has encouraged lawlessness and destroyed respect for for the law is for the commission to form its judgment upon the ascertained facts.

"Besides individual lawlessness the commission must direct its attention to government lawlessness. One of the most serious phases of the crime wave is the use of violent and illegal methods by the government officers who are themselves charged with the enforcement of the law.

"It may be conceded that the great majority of law officers of the Federal, State and local governments are law-abiding, yet it must be admitted that there are altogether too many cases of oppression and abuse of power on the part of those entrusted with the administration of the law.

"If the campaign to discredit the commission is successful, the solution of the crime problem will be indefinitely postponed, and the great body of fair-minded citizens, who have no preconceived theories to uphold but who are concerned as to the future, will despair of ever getting an impartial, judicial answer to one of the most serious questions with which we have ever been confronted.

"When the commission has made a thorough-going investigation and report without being influenced by coercion or permature condemnation, its conclusion will naturally be subject to discussion and constructive criticism."

In his speech in the House today assailing prohibition and its supporters Representative Schafer without mentioning names, said "the recent hysterical outburst of the four horsemen of the prohibition forces indicates the demoralization in their ranks and that they have reached a realization of the failure of the sumptuary prohibition laws."

He suggested that the "four horsemen" turn their "oratorical guns and attention to the States of Georgia, Idaho, Texas and Nebraska, where a deplorable condition exists today as a result of prohibition."

Senator Harris lives in Georgia, Senator Borah in Idaho, Senator Sheppard in Texas, and Senators Howell and Norris in Nebraska. All are dry leaders, and have taken a part in the recent dispute.

"In these States," Mr. Schafer said, "under Federal prohibition, bootlegging, drunkenness and drunken vehicle drivers have increased tremendously; fundamental rights guaranteed to our people under the Constitution have been flagrantly violated; lives snuffed out without due process of law by irresponsible and fanatical enforcement agents; the privacy of life and the sanctity of the home guaranteed under the Constitution ruthlessly violated."

"Statements appearing in the press," he continued, "indicate that the dry crusaders realize the fact that information obtained by the Federal Crime Commission would weaken the position of those favoring a continuation of the prohibition laws.

"From a modification standpoint open hearings by the Crime Commission would be wholesome and enlightening. The people would have a better opportunity of obtaining additional first-hand statistics indicating the general lawlessness and disrespect for law existing throughout the country today as a result of the sumptuary dry lows.

"Certain attacks on the Crime Commission are indefensible, such as the demand for the removal of one member who called attention to a phase of lawlessness violating sacred rights and liberties guaranteed to our people under the Constitution long before the Eighteenth Amendment was ever conceived."

HALF THE STATES COOPERATE.

Remainder Spasmodic In Aiding Enforcement, Lowman Says.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Approximately half the States are giving fairly satisfactory cooperation in dry law enforcement, Assistant Secretary Lowman of the Treasury Department said today, adding that in the other half it was spasmodic and not all the government would wish.

The treausry, through the prohibition bureau, started a movement last Summer to obtain better cooperation from the States. Conferences were held with governors and prosecutors and they were asked to shoulder more of the prohibition burden by trying minor violations under the State nuisance statutes. As a result of these conferences, Mr. Lowman said, some aid was being received in each State, though in about half it was spasmodic and not as much as the government would like to have.

Mr. Lowman did not name the States in which cooperation had increased or those in which assistance was less than expected.

THIN SNOW IMPERILS SOVIET GRAIN PLAN

Autumn-Sown Grain in Danger as Violent Thaw Brings Out Victorias in Moscow.

FROSTS NOW WOULD HURT

The Kremlin Believes Russians Will Submit to Hardships for the Achievements Sought.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—Moscow is back on wheels, which is almost unprecedented in the middle of January, when sleighs are universal in Russia. A sudden violent thaw earlier in the week has left the pavements here nearly bare of snow, and fully 75 per cent of the little two-seater droshky sleds have been replaced by the old-fashioned wheeled victorias of the Summer months.

This unusual phenomenon is not just a news item but a portent big with importance to the Soviet State in general and to M. Stalin's revised economic policy in particular. From Moscow to Odessa and from the Ural Mountains to Smolensk the snow covering, which during the Winter protects the young Autumn-sown grain from the heaviest frosts and in the Spring thaws provides needed moisture for the soil, is thinner than in the last twenty years.

Sharp Frost Imminent Danger.

The snow is so dangerously thin that if a sharp frost came before a heavy snowfall—and such frosts at this time of the year are only too likely—the damage would be severe. The loss would not be irreparable because the Autumn-sown grain is only a quarter of the total crop and much of it, if ruined, could be resown in the Spring, as occurred last year in many sections of the Ukraine. But materially and psychologically it would be a grave blow to the new collective farm movement, which is the keystone of the present Kremlin policy.

In THE NEW YORK TIMES of Dec. 21 there was a penetrating editorial entitled "Recurrent Soviet Crises," which says the "fact is that the extraordinary forecasts [of growth and new production] at Moscow seem to grow richer as the actual facts grow worse." On the following day THE NEW YORK TIMES published a dispatch from this correspondent contesting the pessimism of his former colleague, Paul Scheffer, who for some years was the Moscow representative of the Berliner Tageblatt.

Both the editorial and Herr Scheffer touched on points which this correspondent readily admits—namely, the increasing difficulty and tension of life in Russia, the increasing shortage of commodities and the more frequent recurrence of crises. That this should be the case is less incongruous, however, than the editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES impies.

The plain truth is that Russia is being sweated these days—"bled white" was the perfectly correct phrase used by an American correspondent during the World War about France and which roused a storm of French indignation. The Kremlin believes certain results can be achieved and that Russia will stand the sweating process. Georges Clemenceau believed France would stand for such sweating and France won, but Ludendorff believed Germany would stand for it and Germany lost.

Utmost Difficulty Faced.

One should not push the parallel too far, but it is exact in the respect that, as in those countries during the war, all of Russia's national energies are harnessed to a task of the utmost difficulty which involves great individual sacrifice and suffering. Perhaps the Soviet press is a trifle over-inclined to boast of Soviet achievements, but it certainly shows no signs of trying to suppress unsatisfactory news. Quite the contrary, indeed.

But it seems to this correspondent that it is erroneous to prognosticate failure of the Kremlin's policies from the current scarcity of goods in Moscow or the fact that the whole country is being sweated. The agrarian program demands that more goods be sent to the villages than heretofore, which means that the cities get less. The industrial program demands greater exports, which means that all of Russia gets less.

The Kremlin recognizes both of these facts and says:

"Never mind, they can stand it."

This correspondent also thinks they can, but it is an open question and much will depend on the weather from now to the harvest. But this correspondent wants to go on record as stating that he does not in the least underestimate the Moscow goods shortage or the general hardships or cruel suffering inflicted on private traders, members of religious cults and the richer peasants by the Kremlin's revised economic policy, any more than he underestimated the war sufferings when he wrote of victorious attacks in glowing terms. And M. Stalin's new militant communism is war.

ASSESSORS ARRESTED IN JERSEY INQUIRY

Four North Bergen Officials Are Accused of Falsifying Town's Debt Limit.

Arthur Sullivan, John Dempsey and John Toomey, composing the Board of Assessors of North Bergen, N. J., and William Klatte, clerk of the board, were arrested yesterday on a bench warrant charging conspiracy to inflate the town's assessments to $20,000,000 for the purpose of falsely representing the indebtedness to be within the legal limit.

Arrest of the four men was the result of testimony by town officials in the Supreme Court inquiry into the township's finances. At a continued session yesterday before Commissioner Gough it was disclosed that North Bergen on Dec. 24 was unable to meet notes totaling $1,000,000 and that the current account is not only without a balance, but owes the trust and capital accounts $625,000. In addition it was admitted that checks totaling $250,000 for bills outstanding are without funds to meet them.

The officials were arrested by detectives of Prosecutor Drewen's staff. They were taken to Jersey City and arraigned before Judge Brown. Each gave bail in $3,500.

Yesterday's arrests are the first resulting from the investigation which began several months ago. It was learned from authoritative sources last night that everal additional arrests are planned for higher officials. Prosecutor Drewen said that he expected to present the evidence to the grand jury in a fw weeks

RUM SHIP TO RETURN TO BRITISH OWNERS

Federal Judge in Florida Orders Turning Back of 'Billy and Betty,' Seized by Coast Guard.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP).—Federal Judge Lake Jones late today ordered the British vessel "Billy and Betty," seized by the Coast Guard off the Florida coast last Fall, returned to its owners, together with a cargo of 1,000 cases of liquor.

The Coast Guard asserted that the seizure was made within the twelve-mile limit and that the British vessel apparently was heading in to land her cargo on American soil.

W. B. Tucker, the master, however, said that his ship was not a rum-runner, but was plying between two British ports, Nassau and Halifax. He said he had not intentionally entered the twelve-mile limit, but had drifted there because of disabled engine.

Captain Tucker said he had been drifting for several days when seized.

180 LIQUOR CARS SEIZED

Custome Report for Vermont for 1929 Says Arrests Totaled 3,000.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Jan. 10 (AP).—Customs officers seized in Vermont 186,000 bottles of liquor and 180 automobiles from rum-runners during 1929. Arrested law violators totaled 3,000.

In the annual report of Harry C. Whitehill, Collector of Customs, published today, vehicles and merchandise to the value of $56,531 and three boats and nine pack horses were also reported seized.

Indictments were obtained against 101 persons out of 115 brought before the grand jury and 96 of the 101 were convicted before a United States District Court. Thirteen of the twenty-two defendants who stood jury trial for liquor offenses were acquitted. Total fines aggregated $13,341.

SUSPENDS DRY LAW TERMS.

Gov. Bilbo Holds Up Sentences in Mississippi Cases.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 10.—(AP)—After mass meetings had protested requests for pardons for twenty-two persons convicted in Forest county for alleged violations of the prohibition laws, Governor Theo G. Bilbo today granted one year suspensions of sentences in eight of the applications.

The applicants contended they were "victimized by unscrupulous undercover agents" in the raid which brought about their arrests, and that they were convicted on "biased" testimony.

Governor Bilbo said he followed recommendations of the prosecuting attorney in seven of the cases and in the other acted voluntarily.

SMITH GOLFS IN SOUTH.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP).—Ex-Governor Smith of New York hastily doffed his brown derby and assumed golfing clothes today as one of the first acts of his three weeks' visit to Miami.

The former Governor arrived here on a special train this morning with Mrs. Smith and a party of friends. He was greeted by civic officials and business men.

A motor parade, carrying the guests and reception committees, took the former Governor to the Miami Biltmore Hotel, in which he recently bought an interest with a New York syndicate.

F. H. SMITH CO. MAKES CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Statement Says Civil Suits Are Brought to Aid in Alleged Mail Frauds Prosecution.

TO OPPOSE RECEIVERSHIP

Banking Concern Asserts Integrity for 50 Years—Security Holders' Committees Formed Here.

The F. H. Smith Company, seven directors of which are under mail frauds indictments in Washington and under investigation here, issued a statement yesterday through its attorneys, George S. Leisure and Frank G. Raichle, declaring that proceedings against it were "a part of a malicious conspiracy." The company accused Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, of "fomenting civil suits against the Smith Company for the purpose of aiding him in his prosecution of the company for alleged mail frauds."

The company and four of its directors are defendants in the action filed here for an equity receivership which, according to the attorneys' statement, will be "vigorously opposed in the interests of the company and its stockholders." The defendants in the civil action are under indictment, with three other directors, in Washington. Two of these defendants are Daniel R. Crissinger of Marion, Ohio, Controller of the Currency under President Harding and former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican Representative in Congress from Maryland, who is also chairman of the House committee of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Raichle said that a suit similar to the one filed here had been brought in the District of Columbia, where the motion for the appointment of a receiver had been denied on the ground that it would benefit no one but the receiver himself and would do incalculable injury to the company and the stockholders. The court pointed out, Mr. Raichle said, that it had not been alleged that any of the defendants was insolvent or had ever defaulted in meeting obligations.

After this decision, according to the statement issued yesterday, "the same interests instituted a proceeding in the State of Delaware asking for the appointment of a receiver. No receiver was appointed in Delaware."

"The company emphatically denies the charges of fraud (in the indictment) and states that in over fifty years of business activity every bond has been redeemed for par at maturity or sooner at a premium and every payment of interest has been punctually met. Of course, the company cannot prevent security holders from making needless sacrifices of their securities upon baseless rumors emanating from seemingly high places."

The statement accused Mr. Dodds of joining forces with W. Gwynn Gardner of Washington, a former attorney for the company, who, it said, once presented a bill for $50,000 to the company and later compromised for $5,000. The company contends that Mr. Dodds should move for trial and the company should have a chance to "defend itself on its merits."

Stockholders' and bondholders' committees were formed here yesterday at a meeting in the offices of Colonel Lewis Landes, attorney, in the Woolworth Building. About $30,000,000 was said to be involved in the alleged frauds affecting persons in almost all parts of the country.

The bondholders' committee consists of former State Attorney General Charles E. Newton of Geneseo, N. Y.; A. L. Malcolm, City Solicitor of Catskill, N. Y.; Colonel Eric Fisher Wood, a Pittsburgh architect, and Peter Miller, a real estate owner of New York and Detroit.

The stockholders' committee is headed by E. A. Marshall of the E. H. White Realty Company of New York. Effort is to be made to centre all preferred stocks and bonds in the Broadway Central Bank at 261 Fifth Avenue.

COURT CRITICIZES THE STATE BANK

Appellate Division Upholds Defendant in the Siff Bankruptcy Case.

Expressing the belief that Federal Judge Hough was deceived in a bankruptcy case before him and criticizing a bank having large claims against the bankrupt for hiring a negro elevator boy for $5 to pose as the owner of $88,000 claims in order to obtain an advantage over the other creditors, the Appellate Division yesterday upheld a judgment in the lower court in favor of Ephraim Siff in a suit of the State Bank. The bank sued on a $7,500 note as one of a series given by Siff to buy up claims of the bank against his brother, Max Siff, and nephew, Albert Siff, who were in the clothing manufacturing business as Siff Brothers.

Siff contended that the note was given for an illegal consideration in order to give the bank an advantage over the other creditors in accepting a composition in the bankruptcy proceedings started by the bank. Justice Merrell, writing a majority opinion, in which Presiding Justice Dowling and Justices Martin and O'Malley concurred, said:

"The salient and undeniable fact in this case that the plaintiff, through subterfuge and pretended sale of its claim, has actually received in addition to what was received by the other creditors consenting to the composition agreement 40 per cent of its claim cannot be explained nor denied. Such a preference was illegal, and the note in suit given to carry out the same was without consideration."

Justice Merrell in reciting the facts said that Siff Brothers became involved, owing $200,000, of which $88,000 was due the State Bank. The Siffs, in order to tide themselves over their troubles, got an agreement from Ephraim Siff that he would guarantee the bank's claim up to $42,500, but the bank refused it and petitioned the firm into bankruptcy. The partners then offered a 20 per cent composition to their creditors and 92 of 100 creditors accepted, but the plaintiff with the largest claim refused to accept and filed objections.

In the course of a minority opinion Justice Proskauer said:

"I see no consideration of public policy which should cause the court to condemn the transaction. A recalcitrant creditor who objects to a composition in bankruptcy has a perfect right to sell his claim." He added that he believed the use of the dummy did not make the transaction illegal.

BOND IRREGULARITIES LAID TO MAGISTRATES

Rudich and Others Accused by Ameli's Office of Signing Papers in Blank.

Howard W. Ameli, United States Attorney in Brooklyn, and agents of the Department of Justice, it was learned yesterday, have been investigating for some time reports that certain city magistrates and other jurists have been signing bail bonds in blank for bondsmen so that Federal prisoners could be released from station houses without appearance of the person signing the bail bond.

"We have received definite information that three or four magistrates and judges have signed blank bonds and given them to surety company representatives," said a person close to Mr. Ameli. "These reports are being rigidly investigated, as they concern the release of prisoners charged with felonies and misdemeanors. The results of the bail probe will be turned over to the Bar Association."

Mr. Ameli would not discuss the matter. He would not even mention the names of magistrates whose names were said to have been signed to night bail bonds under which Federal offenders were released, but it was learned that the name of Magistrate Mark Rudich appeared on a number of the bonds.

Several weeks ago, it was learned yesterday, a magistrate visited the Federal Building after he had been criticized by Assistant United States Attorney James E. Wilkinson for releasing a Federal prisoner in what Mr. Wilkinson considered too small a bond. The magistrate reported, it was said, that he had heard that his name had been forged to bail bonds in both Federal and State cases. All Federal bonds bearing the magistrate's name were submitted to him and none was found to be forged.

There was no question of the authority of the magistrates to sign bail bonds in Federal cases raised by anybody connected with the office of the Federal Attorney, but the giving by the magistrates of blank bonds already signed would be a violation of the duties of the magistrate's office.

It was also learned yesterday that Mr. Ameli, as a result of what he has already learned from his grand jury investigation as to conditions about the Federal Building in Brooklyn, is considering a plan to compel a policeman making a liquor arrest to fill out a sort of questionnaire when he brings a prisoner to a station house.

The present system gives the policeman a chance to change his testimony, it was said. By compelling the policeman to give a complete history of the case, Mr. Ameli hopes to eliminate that.

NARCOTIC INQUIRY WIDENS.

Tuttle to Call Fifteen Persons, Some in Rothstein Files.

United States Attorney Tuttle said last night that fifteen witnesses had been subpoenaed to appear before the Federal grand jury next week in the investigation of three alleged narcotic drug rings over which the late Arnold Rothstein was said to have exercised control.

Mr. Tuttle refused to name the witnesses, although he said they would come from "all walks of life" and that the names of some of them had been obtained from Rothstein's files. Some of them, he added, might be called "key witnesses," and all of them were regarded by him as "important prospects."

Two witnesses were examined by the grand jury yesterday, but their names were not made public. Several records taken from the Rothstein files were inspected by the grand jurors. Mr. Tuttle and Assistant United States Attorneys John M. Blake and Alvin McK. Sylvester are conducting the grand jury inquiry.

Ortiz Rubio Invites Walker.

Mayor Walker received yesterday an invitation from Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect of Mexico, to attend the inaugural of the latter on Feb. 5 in Mexico City. The invitation was extended in a letter personally written by Mexico's President-elect, in which he addressed the Mayor as "Señor Jimmy Walker, Mayor of the City of New York." It was delivered at the City Hall by Colonel Sanford McNab, American military attaché in Mexico City. Mayor Walker promised to take the invitation under advisement.

1929 CITY RECEIPTS WERE $628,790,000

Berry Reports $814,938,000 Paid Out Exclusive of Bond Redemptions.

COMPARES SUMS WITH 1926

Collections Increased $131,790,000, While Total Payments Show a Gain of $397,977,093.

New York City collected $628,790,000 last year and paid out $814,938,000 exclusive of the redemption of short-term bonds, according to a statement issued yesterday by Controller Berry, giving an account of the city's finances in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

The moneys collected by the city last year represented a total increase of $131,790,000 over the money collected in 1926, which was $497,000,000.

The city's grand total of payments by checks last year, exclusive of cross entries in the books representing payments from one fund to another was $1,416,127,812, an increase of $397,977,093 over 1926, when the total was $1,018,150,719.

Comparison of Receipts.

The Controller's statement listed the cash receipts, exclusive of borrowings, collected by the city for the four years from 1926 to 1929, inclusive, as follows: $497,000,000 in 1926, $537,000,000 in 1927, about $586,000,000 in 1928 and $628,790,000 in 1929.

The grand totals of payments by checks, exclusive of cross entries in the city's books, representing payments from one fund to another, from 1926 onward were listed in even figures as follows: In 1926, $1,018,150,719; in 1927, $1,151,131,000; in 1928, $1,247,785,000; and in 1929, $1,416,127,812.

In reviewing the city's cash outgo the controller's statement said:

"During 1926 the payments on account of debt service aggregated $106,967,000; in 1927, $114,599,000; in 1928, $137,455,000; and in 1929, $171,497,000. In 1929 the debt service included 13,000,000 for amortization of four year subway bonds, and in 1929, $25,000,000 for the same purpose. In the construction of subways, docks, ferries, and in the extension and improvement of the City's water supply system there was expended in 1926, $85,516,000; in 1927, $117,129,000; in 1928, $117,718,000, and in 1929, $130,301,000. During these past four years the city paid out in construction of subways $305,247,932.

"For educational purposes, including libraries, the expenditures rose from $133,890,000 in 1926 to $152,553,000 in 1928, and to $180,407,000 in 1929.

"For the purchase of land and buildings to open and widen streets and for park purposes the city expended during these past four years $79,113,197.

"The total expenditures for all purposes, exclusive of the redemption of short-term securities, amounted in 1926 to $615,074,000, and in 1927 to $668,961,000, in 1928 to $727,688,000 and in 1929 to $814,938,000.

Classifies Cash Receipts.

The statement classifies cash receipts in eleven groups, and shows a first payment last year by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of $6,342,632 as operating lessee of the subways under Contract 3. Tax collections brought in $440,558,780 last year, and the water rates amounted to $24,366,606. From the income tax, corporation tax, bank tax, motor vehicle tax and similar sources the city received $53,056,925 in 1929, and the assessments for local improvements on property benefited brought the city between $18,000,000 and $19,000,000. From franchises, privileges, licenses, &c., the city receives from $21,500,000 to $22,500,000 each year.

Fines and penalties averaged $6,500,000 for each of the four years, and the State aid for teachers' salaries in 1929 was $37,549,688. Borrowings from the public on short-term loans and long-term bonds amounted to $643,411,000 in 1929, an increase over the 1926 figures, which were $482,000,000. The city also borrowed $366,846,000 from the Sinking Fund Commission in the last four years through investing that amount of the commission's funds.

Debt service, listed as the first item of cash outgo, amounted last year to $171,497,000. Construction of subways, docks, ferries and water supply system entailed expenditures of $130,301,000 last year, and educational purposes, including libraries, cost $180,407,000. Purchase of land and buildings cost the city $79,113,197 in the last four years. The city's funded debt increased during each of the four years about 6 per cent over each previous year, and the assessed valuation of realty increased 8.13 per cent in 1929.

In the four-year period the city issued new long-term bonds to the amount of $563,100,925 for public improvements, and redeemed $160,061,280 of its bonds. The report concludes with the observation that the city's tax rate fell from 2.66 per $100 of assessed valuation in 1926 to 2.55 in 1929.

$1,900,000,000 BUILDING BY THE SOVIET IN 1930

Albert Kahn, Inc., Get Contract as Consulting Architects in Five-Year Program.

An agreement whereby the architectural firm of Albert Kahn, Inc., of Detroit, will become consulting architects to the Russian Soviet Government in a five-year industrialization program which calls for the expenditure of $1,900,000,000 on new construction and improvement in 1930 alone, was signed here on Thursday night by Mr. Kahn and Saul G. Bron, of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, representing the Supreme Economic Council of Soviet Russia.

According to information made public yesterday, the Soviet Government proposes to construct four large motor-car, motor-truck, and motorcycle factories, and nine plants to produce tractors and farm implements During the past year, Mr. Kahn has supervised the construction of a tractor plant, representing the capital investment of some $30,000,000, at Stalingrad, in Southern Russia at the mouth of the Volga River. This plant is now practically completed.

The program also calls for the erection of six asbestos, corundum, and graphite factories; two locomotive works; fifteen factories for the manufacture of machine tools, typewriters and cash registers; twenty-four cement factories; 126 saw mills; 106 wood-working plants; twenty-seven glass factories; thirty-five spinning mills; fifteen woolen mills; thirteen cothing factories; 112 shoe factories; fifteen paper mills; and fifty-six plants to manufacture food products. The plan contemplates the expenditure of many billions of dollars, according to Moritz Kahn, brother of Albert Kahn and member of the firm, who negotiated the agreement during a recent visit to Moscow.

In the opinion of Albert Kahn, the contract represents a readiness of the Soviet Government to continue turning to America for assistance in the development of the country's industrial life and resources.

Mr. Kahn is well-known as the designer of some of the largest motor-car plants in the world, such as the Ford, Packard, Hudson, and other plants in Michigan. Last year he received the silver medal of the Architectural League for his design of the Fisher Building in Detroit.

According to the present arrangement, Moritz Kahn will go to Russia shortly with a staff of twenty-five special assistants to organize a designing bureau which will comprise about 4,500 architectural and engineering designers, selected principally from Russia. This bureau will be directed by B. E. Barsky, president of the Soviet Building Commission, who will be practically the dictator of building construction in Russia, according to Mr. Kahn.

VIENNA PLAYWRIGHT INVOKES 'MUZZLE' LAW

Suit Against Critic Who Called Play 'Catastrophe and Shame' Is First Under New Statute.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 10.—The well-known Austrian author and critic Felix Salten, whose novel "Bambi" was widely read in America, will be haled before the courts by Dr. Robert Weil, playwright of lesser note, because Herr Salten described the presentation of Dr. Weil's last play at the Academy Theatre here as "a catastrophe and a shame."

The suit, filed under the new Austrial press law, will afford an interesting test of that far-reaching and universally condemned muzzling order. Dr. Weil has subpoenaed a small army of actors, directors, first nighters and ordinary members of the theatre-going public to support his claim for damages because Herr Salten "made untrue statements by which the professional standing of Dr. Robert Weil was damaged in a way that can scarcely be made good."

Since a verdict for Dr. Weil would make criticism almost impossible in Austria, the outcome of the case is awaited with great interest. All critics and most successful playwrights support Herr Salten.

BUREAU PLANS EXPANSION.

Foreign and Domestic Commerce Head Calls Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A proposal to extend the facilities of the domestic field offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Commerce Department, so that business men and the public may more fully utilize information concerning foreign and domestic trade promotion, will be discussed at a meeting of district and cooperative office managers here next Monday and Tuesday.

Representatives of trade organizations have been invited to participate in the discussions on Tuesday.

Secretary Lamont will deliver an address of welcome. Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and William L. Cooper, director of the bureau, will speak.

During 1929 about 1,000 firms and individuals reported business totaling $42,651,854 as a result of services through these offices, while many others acknowledged the value of the services but did not report the dollar volume of resulting business.

At present the bureau maintains thirty-one district offices with forty-eight local chambers of commerce cooperating.

R. K. O. CONFIRMS DEAL.

President Tells of Plan to Produce Anglo-American Films in England.

Joseph I. Schnitzer, president of R. K. O. Productions, Inc., confirmed yesterday that his company had made an agreement with a recently formed British concern, of which Basil Dean is chairman and Sir Gerald du Maurier, the celebrated English actor, one of the directors, to establish Anglo-American talking film production in England.

"William Le Baron, vice president in charge of R. K. O. Productions, will personally approve the stories and select the staff," said Mr. Schnitzer.

Mr. Dean directed the play "Escape," which will be the first production of the new group, as well as other Galsworthy plays. He also directed the film version of "The Constant Nymph" and was partly responsible for the Paramount picture, "The Return of Sherlock Holmes."

PARROT FEVER KILLS 2 IN THIS COUNTRY

Woman in Baltimore and Another in Toledo Are Victims of Rare Disease.

ELEVEN OTHERS ARE ILL

Surgeon-General Cumming Issues Warning Against Handling Recently Imported Birds.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Louise Schaeffer died today from what hospital physicians said they believed to be psittachosis, or "parrot fever," the rare disease which has caused widespread discussion in this country and in Europe.

Mrs. Schaeffer was taken to the hospital on Monday with symptoms of pneumonia, though her condition failed to respond to treatment for that malady. Physicians say that psittachosis resembles both pneumonia and typhoid fever in its effects.

It was learned by health officials that Mrs. Schaeffer had been in contact with a parrot several days before she became ill, and an autopsy was performed under the direction of the Department of Pathology of the University of Maryland. A report on the autopsy will not be available until a bacteriological analysis has been completed.

Seven other cases of supposed psittachosis in Maryland were reported. Four employes of a pet shop in Baltimore are ill, and physicians said they believed the disease from which they are suffering is "parrot fever." A veterinarian employed by the shop, one of the four, was reported improved today.

The three Annapolis residents were said at the hospital there to be in a serious condition.

The disease made its appearance in Annapolis after the death of a parrot bought at the Baltimore shop. Health Department officials said that several other parrots, received by the shop in the same shipment from New York, have become ill in the last several days. No quarantine has been established.

One Dead in Toledo.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 10.—Toledo's first death from psittachosis was recorded here today, while another person is seriously ill at the Mercy Hospital.

Toledo specialists, after a thorough examination, have determined that the death of Mrs. Percy Q. Williams was brought on by this disease. Mr. Williams is still in the hospital with the disease.

Mr. Williams returned three weeks ago after spending two months in Cuba. He brought two parrots home, and one of the birds died three days after he arrived here.

Three persons in one family in Warren, Ohio, are ill following the death of a parrot which they bought recently.

Cumming Issues Warning.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Surgeon General Cumming of the Public Health Service today advised an avoidance of contact with recently imported parrots until the completion o fan investigation of the disease, several cases of which have been contracted from the birds in this country.

Dr. Cumming said he did not fear an epidemic of the disease, since it is generally believed that it is transmitted only from bird to human being, and not from person to person. He urged, however, that contact with parrots and their cages be avoided.

"I advise the precaution," Dr. Cumming explained, "simply for the safety of individuals who otherwise might be exposed. There is at present no indication of widespread prevalence of the disease, but I would urge that the people avoid contact with possible conveyors, the birds, until we have completed investigations."

Another report that reached the Public Health Service today said that a case of the malady was believed to have been found in Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Charles Armstrong, who went to Annapolis to investigate after Governor Ritchie asked for assistance, reported that his study left "practically no doubt" that the disease from which a man and his wife and her mother are critically ill was psittachosis.

The parrot bought by the Annapolis family, Dr. Cumming said, came from a pet shop in New York. Dr. Shirley Wynne, New York health commissioner, was notified of this today.

"We did not ask him specifically to fumigate the shop," Dr. Cumming said, "but I am sure that he will take precautions to guard against spread of the disease."

Wynne to Trace Infected Birds.

Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne said last night that he had not yet received any notification from the Baltimore Health Department to the effect that diseased parrots there came from a New York City pet shop.

Dr. Wynne said he had wired to Baltimore requesting the location of the shop immediately upon learning that the infected parrots were purchased in this city.

GERMANS PLAN QUARANTINE.

Reich Advises Ban on Parrots After Four People Die.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The recent outbreak of psittachosis that has already cost some human lives has caused the government to advise various State authorities to prohibit the importation of parrots and parrakeets.

Twenty cases of psittachosis were reported from Berlin, thirteen from Hamburg and six from Altona. Of these, four were fatal.

In its communiqué to the State authorities the Reich stated that the epidemic was caused by diseased birds imported from Argentina, where psittachosis had spread widely, especially in the vicinity of Buenos Aires.

It appears that parrots and parrakeets imported into Germany by sailors carried the psittachosis baccilus, which they communicated to persons kissing them. On American steamers arriving from Argentina at Hamburg, sailors and passengers killed all parrots on board when they heard of the disease. Now that people are scared, everybody wants to get rid of his parrot. Never have there been so many "pollys" for sale.

SHIP GOES ON ROCKS OFF BLOCK ISLAND

Freighter Edward Luckenbach Grounds in a Heavy Fog and Sends Out S O S.

CREW STAYS ON BOARD

Strong Swell Pounds Trapped Vessel and It Is Feared It Will Be a Total Loss.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 10.—The freighter Edward Luckenbach ran on the rocks on the southwest point of Block Island during a dense fog at an early hour this morning and tonight was being so pounded by a heavy swell that it was feared it would be a total loss.

Late this afternoon the Coast Guard station men had rigged a breeches buoy and made ready to bring the ship's crew of forty ashore if they were forced to abandon the vessel, but they decided to remain aboard.

A Coast Guard destroyer and the 125-foot patrol ship Legare were standing by the Luckenbach tonight, but neither vessel was able to approach the freighter and both will await the arrival of the Merritt, Chapman & Scott wrecking crew with their salvage ships, which are due from New York tomorrow morning.

The Luckenbach rests on a rocky section 400 feet from shore, just west of the lighthouse at that point.

Sends Out S O S.

The Coast Guard destroyer Henley and the patrol boat Nemaha of this port were unable to make any headway toward pulling the big craft off the rocks.

While steaming along at slow speed from New York to Boston, with a general cargo of 1,200 tons, the Luckenbach grounded while endeavoring to pick up her bearings in the heavy fog from the lighthouse. Reports received here indicated that she went aground at 2:30, but first word of her plight was not received until 4:31, when she sent out an S O S call. It is believed that Captain H. E. Dow made every effort to free his vessel before calling for help.

The S O S was picked up at both the Block Island and the local Coast Guard station. The destroyer Henley, which was out on patrol and nearest to the grounded craft, and the Nemaha, which was tied up at the State Pier here, were dispatched to the assistance of the vessel.

Frank B. Lincoln, commander of the Third District of Coast Guard life-saving stations, also ordered the crews at the Block Island and New Shoreham stations to render any assistance possible.

Fog Delayed Locating.

Due to the heavy fog prevailing, it was not until late this forenoon that the stranded vessel could be definitely located. Although close to the beach, she could not be seen from shore, and small boats had to be launched from the Coast Guard boats to make the search from the water. Captain Dow did not know his exact position, as he was off his course when he went aground.

The Edward Luckenbach left New York City yesterday and was to proceed to Pacific Coast ports after discharging cargo at Boston.

She is a steam freighter, 7,916 tons gross register and 436 feet long. She was built in 1916 at Quincy and is owned by the Luckenbach Company of Delaware, which has offices at 44 Whitehall Streeet, New York City.

FOG DELAYS SHIPS IN BAY AND SOUND

Four Stay at Quarantine Till 10 A. M.—Ellis Island Ferryboat Goes Aground.

Fog again visited New York Harbor and its environs yesterday and interfered with the navigation of Long Island Sound steamboats, and tied up four ocean steamships in quarantine for more than three hours. It caused the Ellis Island ferryboat, bound for the Battery, to go aground near its own slip with thirty passengers on board, who were taken off and carried to New York by the cutter Surveyor of the Customs Enforcement Bureau. The three Coast Guard cutters Wissahixon, Calumet and Hudson were put on the ferry service to Ellis Island until the boat was floated at high water at 2 P. M. and returned to her slip ready for duty.

Transatlantic steamships held in Quarantine by the fog were the French liner France, with 277 passengers; the Italia America liner Augustus, with 985 passengers; the Spanish Royal Mail steamship Juan Sebastian Elcano, with 22 passengers.

The Orizaba of the Ward Line, with 42 passengers, from Havana, was also detained until 10 A. M., when the fog began to disappear as a southwest breeze sprang up and the vessels started for their respective piers.

In Long Island Sound the Richard Peck had to anchor and the Robert E. Lee, from Boston, landed her 200 passengers at Whitestone Landing, whence they were brought to New York by train. The Providence of the Fall River Line managed to creep through the fog to her pier at the foot of Fulton Street, North River. Ferries were ten minutes late.

KILLED BY FALLING DYNAMO.

Philadelphia Workmen Are Struck as It Drops 13 Stories.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10 (AP).—John Delwig, a bricklayer, was killed and six were severely injured when a large dynamo fell thirteen stories through an elevator shaft of a partly constructed building in Germantown today. The machine crushed Delwig while he was working on the twelfth floor. The dynamo had been placed on a framework on the thirteenth floor and workmen were attempting to get it in place when the framework gave way.

Dies After Philadelphia Explosion.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—One man died today from injuries received in the Globe Theatre explosion and fire, which rocked the downtown section last night. Charles W. Hallowell Jr., 24 years old, of Collingswood, N. J., a workman whose clothing caught fire when a tank of gasoline exploded, died this morning. Two others in the hospital were seriously burned, but were reported today to be "doing fairly well." Five separate investigations were pressed today by municipal and State authorities into the causes of the series of blasts.

EXCHANGE OFFICIAL HEARD IN FRAUD TRIAL

Governor of Salt Lake City Institution Tells How Member of Utah Lead Co. Got Seat.

The trial of the five individuals and three corporations on a charge of mail fraud in the sale of the stock of the Utah Lead Company of Delaware, before Federal Judge John M. Woolsey and a jury, brought to the witness stand yesterday H. R. Wooley, a governor of the Salt Lake City Stock and Mining Exchange. William H. Rankin, a defendant, is a member of the Exchange.

The witness explained that Rankin had applied for membership in March, 1928, through a seat bought by him from a retiring member, and that the application had been endorsed by the brokerage concern of Pynchon & Co. of this city, two banks here and P. W. Dunbar & Co. of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

It was explained that dealings on the Exchange were subject to the securities commission under the State's blue-sky law.

William Walter Rager, an accountant of the United States Smelting and Refining Company's plant at Marysvale, Utah, told of seventeen lots of ore shipped to the refinery by the company between the Fall of 1925 and November, 1928. This ore, according to the witness, produced from $2 to $32.32 a ton. The lower price, it was explained, was barely enough to cover removal charges, although the average price was high enough to pay.

A letter written by Michael Barnett, defendant and president of the Utah Lead Company, to H. M. Wooley, an official of the smelting company and nephew of H. R. Wooley, was identified by the witness. It complained that Mr. Wooley had not inspected the lead company's plant, and this failure, the letter intimated, indicated a lack of interest in the company. The letter said that Barnett wanted Mr. Wooley's opinion as to whether the mine was worth working. The letter was dated Nov. 22, 1928.

The trial will continue Monday.

SCHOOL OUSTS 5 GIRLS FOR 'SIN' OF SMOKING

Father of One Student at Northampton Institution Threatens to Seek Legal Aid.

At a conference at the Hotel Belmont yesterday, Miss Sarah B. Whitaker, co-principal of the fashionable School for Girls in Northampton, Mass., announced the expulsion of five New York girls to their parents because the girls had committed the "unpardonable sin" of smoking cigarettes. Last night Victor Roe of 220 West Seventy-first Street, father of one of the girls, made counter accusations and said he intended to seek legal advice on the matter.

Mr. Roe's daughter, Beatrice, 15 years old, and four companions were accused by Miss Whitaker of having smoked cigarettes on a train bound from Washington to Springfield, Mass. The identity of the four other girls was not disclosed.

Last night Mr. Roe said that, although he did not smoke and although he could not approve of the girls smoking, he thought the punishment of dismissal was "very dastardly and drastic." He said that the school rules had been broken at one time by the principal herself because she had allowed his daughter to return to her home in New York once for a week-end without first having obtained the consent of the parents and without notifying them that the girl was on the way home. Mr. Roe said he considered that the smoking on the train constituted a "minor" offense, and he added that there was not even proof that the girls had smoked.

DISCOUNT EFFECTS OF REJUVENATION

Eminent Austrian Physicians Find Voronoff Method Beneficial in Only Few Cases.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 10.—That the Voronoff monkey gland rejuvenation is effective only in a relatively small number of cases, and even then is effective only for short periods, is the verdict of a number of eminent Austrian physicians who have just completed a prolonged trial of the method. Gland transplantation was carried out on a number of poor patients selected by Professor Pappenheim, chief neurologist of the Lainz Welfare Centre, and Professor Albert Mueller, the operations being performed by Dr. Bachrach, well-known pupil of Dr. Voronoff.

Only patients of advanced age who seemed likely to be benefited by the rejuvenation method were selected, yet with only one of them, a 74-year-old man, was a lasting improvement attained. Even this case failed to exhibit a regrowth of hair, disappearance of wrinkles or other striking signs of rejuvenation described by Dr. Voronoff.

Doctor Bachrach attributes the relative failure of the test to the fact that the patients selected no longer had a store of latent vigor upon which the gland transplantation could call. The conclusion drawn was that only aging, not aged, organisms were capable of regeneration.

ESCAPE AS PLANES CRASH.

Pilots Unhurt as Two Ships Are Forced Down Near Roosevelt Field.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Jan. 10.—Within two hundred feet of the place where the Fokker 32 crashed recently two planes from this field today were forced down, the pilots in each case narrowly escaping injury. The two accidents occurred within three minutes of each other and the planes landed on adjoining farms in Carle Place, just north of Roosevelt Field.

The first plane to crash was a Waco biplane piloted by William Hulick. His motor stopped almost immediately on taking off from Roosevelt Field and he came down on a plowed field.

Felix Hornke was the pilot of the second machine, a Robin monoplane. Motor trouble was also the cause of this accident. The pilot barely managed to skim over the embankment of the Long Island Railroad running through Carle Place.

Only minor repairs will be necessary on the two ships, it was said at the field. They were towed back to their hangars by trucks.

I.R.T. CARS DERAILED, TYING UP BRONX LINE

First Three of Subway Train Leave Track on Elevated Over Southern Boulevard.

300 ARE BADLY SHAKEN UP

Southbound Traffic Above 149th St. Is Delayed Three Hours—Open Switch Blamed for Accident.

Three cars of a ten-car I. R. T. subway train, southbound on the Bronx Park division of the Lexington Avenue subway line, were derailed on the line's elevated structure above Southern Boulevard, between Wilkins Avenue and Jennings Street, the Bronx, at 7:30 o'clock last night. None of the 300 passengers in the train, all of whom received a severe shaking up, was reported injured, but southbound traffic on the line above 149th Street was disrupted for more than three hours, and northbound for about an hour.

Considerable confusion and congestion resulted at the 149th Street station and extra police were sent there to help preserve order and keep traffic moving. Many passengers were forced to travel to their destinations by trolley, taxicab or elevated.

Edward White, motorman of the train, told the police that after leaving the 174th Street station he had run into an open switch leading to the centre track between the north and south bound belts. He jammed on his brakes, but before the train came to a halt the first three cars had torn up the rails and the electric feed lines.

A small fire started in the third car, but was quickly put out with hand extinguishers. Considerable excitement prevailed and police reserves and fire apparatus were called. The 300 passengers were led to safety through the cars to the rear end of the train.

The power was shut off from the third rails of the tracks and wrecking crews were put to work at once to clear the rails and repair the damage.

About an hour after the mishap, service on the northbound tracks from 149th Street to the end of the line was being handled by an emergency shuttle train.

Two ambulances from Fordham Hospital and two from Lincoln Hospital were rushed to the scene, but no passengers reported for medical attention.

SMOOT DENOUNCES CITY BANK ON TARIFF

He Charges in Senate That New York Institution Is Guided by Its Cuban Sugar Investments.

BROUSSARD FOR HIGH RATE

He Will Move to Limit Free Philippine Imports—La Follette Fights Advance in Duty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A sharp attack on the National City Bank of New York by Senator Smoot of Utah and intimations that independence for the Philippines would have to be effected as a means of protecting American agriculture were features of today's Senate debate on the sugar schedule of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill.

Senator Smoot took exception to the action of the National City Bank in opposing increased sugar duties. He charged that the bank's officials were more concerned over protecting their investments in Cuba than in maintaining the sugar industry in the United States, and urged the adoption of the duties proposed by the Finance Committee. The committee recommended a rate of 2.20 cents a pound on Cuban sugar and 2.75 a pound on that from other foreign countries, as compared with 2.20 cents and 1.76 cents, respectively, in the existing law.

Senator Broussard of Louisiana said that the rate of 2.40 cents a pound on Cuban sugar proposed by the House bill was essential to the prosperity of the industry in the United States, and that any lower figure would prove ineffective in relieving the cane and beet growers. He gave notice that he would offer an amendment to limit the importation of duty-free sugar from the Philippines to 300,000 tons a year.

La Follette Backs Present Rates.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin supported the rates of the existing law, denounced the sugar lobby and contended that substantial increases of duty on Cuban sugar would violate treaty obligations and would be likely to cause ill feeling in Latin-American countries.

Senator Smoot assailed American interests advocating reduction of the sugar duties, and referring to the National City Bank said:

"That institution has been broadcasting statements throughout the country opposing the sugar duties, and, at the same time, spreading propaganda inimical to the domestic industry."

The New York bank entered Cuba in 1920, as a result of the sky-rocketing of sugar prices that year, in the hope that it would reap heavy profits, the Senator declared.

"During the past nine years," he said, "the National City Bank has been lending its name and its resources to a program designed to continue abnormal sugar prices."

It had suffered, he said, in the deflation period that began in 1921.

"I submit that in the final choice of a solution of this issue one must decide between the injudicious investment made in Cuba by the National City Bank and the judicious investments made by farmers in the American sugar industry," he continued. "When the crash descended on Cuba in 1921 many Cubans with investments found themselves indebted to the National City Bank. That institution was primarily interested in squeezing the Cubans to the limit.

Charged With Insincerity.

"Officials of the bank are broadcasting propaganda against increased rates on sugar because it would help the poor Cubans. The insincerity of their professed interest in the Cubans is obvious when we remember that they put the screws on them when the opportunity came. This bank exacted its pound of flesh from the Cubans with whom it was doing business."

After it had taken over Cuban sugar properties the National City Bank organized General Sugars, Inc., Senator Smoot stated.

"In my own mind," he continued, "I have not the slightest doubt that any investigation by a Senate committee of the activities of the National City Bank in gaining control of a considerable number of sugar mills in Cuba would bring to light information which the stockholders of that bank and the public are entitled to have.

"It is greatly to the advantage of the National City Bank that we have no adequate protection for sugar, and in the same degree it is detrimental to the producers of domestic sugar. We must not be misled by the false arguments advanced by an institution which a few years ago attempted to levy tribute on the American people by taking advantage of unduly high prices."

Most of the propaganda against adequate sugar rates was inspired, the Senator charged, by Americans having investments in Cuba. He declared they were willing to exploit the island at the expense of the American sugar industry. He stated that while the National City Bank and other American groups were fighting increased sugar duties the proposed rates had the approval of innumerable organizations speaking for American farmers.

Sees Free-Trade Argument.

"It is argued," he said, "that we should buy our sugar in Cuba and not attempt to maintain an industry in this country. This is a time-worn free-trade argument. If this theory were carried out to the full, it wouldmean that we would buy wheat in Australia, shoes in Czechoslovakia, butter in Denmark and cheese in Italy and Canada. How much more serious would our farm problem be today if we bought all these products in other countries."

Increased sugar duties would operate as farm relief in that they would tend to divert acreage from wheat, Senator Smoot added. He aroused laughter among Senators when he attacked the American "pop" industry, which, he stated, wanted lower sugar duties.

"Pop was selling at 5 cents a bottle when sugar was high, and it is selling at the same price now that sugar is cheap," he said. "The American pop makers are deeply interested in the farmer, aren't they?"

He also assailed the Hershey and other chocolate groups, declaring that regardless of whether sugar is high or low, the chocolate makers charge the boys and girls of the country five cents a bar for the finished product.

Action on Philippines Urged.

Senator Broussard argued that the domestic sugar industry was in a serious plight, due in part to Philippine competition, and that unless duty-free sugar from the islands could be restricted a decision on the question of independence could not be much longer delayed. He said that a further increase in the importation of Philippine sugar would place "the industry in this country in a precarious condition." He scouted the idea of building up the industry in the archipelago with a view of providing supplies in time of war.

"We cannot maintain lines of communications with the Philippines in times of war to supply our people with sugar," he said. "We are confronted with a very serious situation. I had offered an amendment to the pending bill, which was debated and voted upon, proposing to tax products from the Philippines and to remit that tax to their treasury as compensation for our free entry of manufactured products into the Philippine Islands. Many objected to that plan. The alternative is to grant them independence, but one or the other must be done, and done soon."

Senator Broussard recalled that until 1913 there was a limit of 300,000 pounds of free sugar importations from the Philippines, and said this restriction should again be invoked. He saw no reason why the sugar industry in this country should be "sacrificed for the benefit of the Filipinos, to whom we have promised independence and who are now clamoring for it."

The United States could adequately protect itself against Cuban sugar, Senator Broussard thought, but it was dissuaded from doing so "because certain large interests in New York with $1,500,000,000 invested in Cuba are flooding our country with misinformation and propaganda and prejudice against one industry." In the last twenty-four years, through the 20 per cent preferential treatment accorded Cuban goods by treaty, he said, this country had practically given the Cubans a "present" of $2,000,000,000.

Would Ignore Lobby Activities.

Senator La Follette declared that the "activity of the tariff lobbies on sugar" should not affect the consideration of this important schedule.

"No one will deny," he continued, "that there has been employed by both the high duty lobby and the lower duty lobby tactics which cannot be defended. I condemn the methods which have been used to influence action upon the sugar tariff.

"I stand ready to support legislation to prevent the pernicious activities of lobbies and lobbyists, but I contend that it is the responsibility of the Senate to weigh the facts concerning sugar, and to fix the duty based upon the facts without regard to the activities of interested parties on both sides of the controversy."

"If we could hope to make our sugar crop one self-sufficient for the needs of this country a stronger argument might be made on behalf of a higher duty on sugar," he concluded. "But even the representatives of the domestic sugar interests have admitted that we cannot hope to substantially increase our proportion of domestically grown sugar."

Librarians Appeal to Senate.

Approval by the American Library Association of the Cutting amendment to delete from the existing tariff law provisions designed to bar the importation of obscene literature and immoral pictures was voiced in a letter read to the Senate on the motion of Senator Borah. At the recent meeting of the association in Chicago, attended by 1,200 members, the letter said, a resolution was adopted disapproving the continuance of customs service censorship of foreign literature as provided by the tariff bill as reported to the Senate.

Chairman Smoot will ask for reconsideration of the Cutting amendment when the tariff bill is reviewed for individual amendments. During the holidays Mr. Smoot examined a score or more volumes barred at American ports, and this survey convinced him, he said, that the existing provision of law should be retained.

SILENT ON TARIFF TRUCE.

Washington Acknowledges League Inquiry Without Comment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The United States Government has acknowledged the inquiry recently sent out by the League of Nations with reference to the desirability of calling a special conference to consider a tariff truce but has expressed no opinion on the question. The Council of the League is to consider the relies to the questionnaire from the various governments at its meeting next week.

Should the League decide to hold the conference, it is assumed that the United States would be invited, as one of the principal tariff countries. The American Government would then probably be obliged to decline the invitation, inasmuch as the tariff in the United States is held to be a matter for Congressional consideration only.

SAYS SCHOOL BOOKS MALIGN THE UTILITIES

Counsel at Propaganda Inquiry Asserts Authors of 46 Charge or Imply Use of Bribery.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Federal Trade Commission was told today, in its investigation of propaganda by power companies, that no representative of the electric light or power industry ever had tampered with school or college textbooks, nor had any of those representatives ever done more than to examine the books to ascertain "as business men ought to do," whether the students of the country were being "systematically misinformed" about their industry.

With this denial, the presentation of documentary evidence by the joint committee of National Utility Associations was concluded. Hearings will continue Tuesday when the witness will be P. S. Arkright of Atlanta, former president of the National Electric Light Association.

B. F. Weadock, counsel for the Utilities associations, admitted that representatives of the utilities had made careful examination of textbooks.

Sixty-six textbooks were examined, it was stated, and in nineteen it was found that a direct statement was made or implied "that municipal and State governments are corrupt by nature and that all public utilities have the right to do business by bribery."

In twenty-seven other texts, it was asserted, the investigators had found the authors giving their opinions as fact.

"In examining some of those texts," said Mr. Weadock, "we found that one author classed public utilities along with immoral shows, special privileges, party machines, and charged that we absolutely owned legislative bodies."

Mr. Weadock sought to include in the record certain affidavits respecting the employment of college professors by utility companies, the affidavits purporting to show that the professors were engaged in research work with the approval of their faculty boards or trustees, but these were rejected by Commissioner McCulloch.

REPUBLICANS SPLIT ON SENATE SLATE

Insurgents Demand McMaster on Commerce Committee and Fight Is Reopened.

REGULARS START BACKFIRE

Vote Set for Today on Observing Seniority Rule to Disqualify La Follette and Thomas.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A new controversy over Senate committee assignments that directly involves the proposed consolidation of railroads started today at a meeting of Republican Senators to ratify nominations made by the party's Committee on Committees.

Plans made by the regulars to confirm the committee slate, including the assignment of Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Thomas of Idaho to the Finance Committee, went aglimmering, as Senator Howell, Republican, of Nebraska, demanded that a place on the Interstate Commerce Committee, which handles railroad bills, be given to Senator McMaster, Republican, of South Dakota, instead of to Senator Hastings of Delaware, a member of the Young Guard. Senator McMaster is ranked as an insurgent Republican.

Counter Move to Upset Slate.

Senator Howell took the regulars by surprise, as they had assumed that with the assignment of Senator La Follette to the Finance Committee the insurgents would make no further demands.

Senator Phipps of Colorado, a regular, made a counter motion that in filling committee vacancies the rule of seniority should be observed. This will be voted on tomorrow morning. If it should prevail, it would reopen the fight over the Finance Committee assignments, as application of the rule would sidetrack both Senators La Follette and Thomas.

Only a few of the insurgents attended today's party conference and neither Senator Borah nor Senator La Follette was present.

Demand for Voice of the West.

In urging Senator McMaster for the Interstate Commerce Committee Senator Howell pointed out that the West was vitally concerned in railroad consolidation, as that question has been brought to the front by the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He also inferred that if Senator McMaster's claim was ignored he might take the issue to the floor of the Senate.

Doubt was expressed tonight that the Progressives would go the extreme to which they resorted in forcing the appointment of Senator La Follette to the Finance Committee. They met this afternoon, but failed to reach an agreement.

It is understood that they may call off the fight if assured that the next vacancy on the committee will be filled by Senator McMaster.

At today's meeting of the Republican leaders, Senator McNary of Oregon was unanimously named as assistant to Floor Leader Watson.

URGE ERIE CANAL FOR OCEAN TRAFFIC

Representatives Dempsey and Hull Advocate Expending $40,000,000 on Waterway.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The feasibility of deepening the Erie Canal as a waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard was urged by Chairman Dempsey of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee today, when the committee began hearings on the rivers and harbors bill.

Mr. Dempsey, a Representative from New York, was supported by Representative Hull of Illinois in advocating an appropriation of $40,000,000 to deepen the canal to thirteen feet within two years. They contended that 2,000-ton barges should be used on the canal instead of the 1,200-ton barges now used, and that the improvement would enable Michigan automobile manufacturers to ship their exports to the seaboard direct instead of unloading and shipping by rail from Buffalo.

The committee agreed to hold a hearing on the project next week.

Chairman Dempsey declared that early improvement could not be expected in the St. Lawrence waterways on account of conditions in Canada. He said the St. Lawrence Canal had reached its capacity and that a large part of the 500,000 tons yearly increase now apparent has to use the Erie Canal. The deeper canal proposed, he said, would also serve the "great consuming northern part of the country" and was "three times as important to the American grain farmer as a canal which would serve only Europe."

Mr. Dempsey asserted that hauling costs on a deeper canal which would enable the use of bigger barges could be cut 40 per cent and that "substantial relief would result in transportation rates."

He declared that the Erie Canal project would provide a economical waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Coast and sufficient for the needs of the country, within two years, whereas the St. Lawrence or the All-American waterways would take ten years to build.

Both Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Hull said that the Erie Canal improvement would be one unit in the development of a unified waterway system from the Gulf of Mexico, up the Mississippi River to the lakes and thence to the sea again.

APPROVE GARMENT PEACE.

Cleveland Workers Endorse Union Agreement Ending Strike.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10 (AP).—More than 2,000 Cleveland garment workers affiliated with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union today approved the agreement reached by union officials and representatives of the manufacturers ending the strike begun last Tuesday.

The approval lacked five or six votes of being unanimous.

The union workers were victorious in all their demands except one, and in that instance a compromise was effected.

Two Plead Guilty to Blackmail.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 10 (AP).—William Carroll, 35, white; Robert Garrett, 20, negro, and Mary J. Russell, 19, negro, pleaded guilty to charges of blackmail in connection with a plot to extort $8,000 from Mrs. Otho K. Wathen Sr., wife of a wealthy Louisville distiller, in city court here today. The three were held under $2,000 bond each to the February term of Clark County Circuit Court.

SAYS ARMY RESERVE IS POLITICAL FORCE

Representative Collins of Mississippi Warns of Expansion "Propaganda."

BUDGET INCREASE ASSAILED

Democrat, in House Speech, Asserts Influence of Civilian Soldiers Is Used to Prevent Cuts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A warning of the "political dangers" in the civilian training agencies connected with the army was sounded on the floor of the House today by Representative Collins of Mississippi, minority member of the subcommittee handling the War Department appropriation bill.

Mr. Collins attacked particularly the organized reserves, which he characterized as "probably the most powerful political wing of the whole army."

"The fact that these officers are in civil life, scattered throughout the country, and in the various government departments, even in the Budget Bureau, makes them a splendid sales force for military expansion," said Representative Collins.

"Thousands of these officers are organized unofficially into the Reserve Officers' Association, which body becomes a very powerful political influence."

Mr. Collins's statement was made during a speech setting out the minority views on the pending War Department supply bill.

"This appropriation bill is a great surprise and a tragic disappointment," said Mr. Collins, after he had reviewed President Hoover's stand for decreased expenditures in the armed services. "This bill represents a substantial increase over the bill for the fiscal year 1930, and is entirely out of accord with public hopes for economy and the current trend toward peace."

The same fault he found with the organized reserves, Mr. Collins found with army units in schools, and with the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in high schools and colleges. He charged they were helping propagandize the army. He charged that the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was using the schools to oppose President Hoover's army reduction program.

Morgue Got 15,927 Bodies in 1929.

The Bellevue morgue received 15,927 bodies of persons who died by accident, violence or under suspicious circumstances last year, it was announced yesterday. Burials at Potter's Field during the past year totaled 7,005, including 166 unidentified bodies, and 660 bodies were sent to institutions for medical research purposes.

Reward Offered for Incendiaries.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Jan. 10.—A reward of $1,000 was offered today by Chief of Police Joseph H. McGarvey of Long Branch for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person in Long Branch on an arson charge. In the last three months more than $500,000 damage was caused here by fires of suspicious nature, the chief said.

WOMAN IS ACCUSER AT LOBBY INQUIRY

ment and set it down for special hearing," the Senator said.

"Then don't forget it," Mrs. Jones retorted.

Makes Charge to Walsh.

Senator Walsh drew here from Mrs. Jones when he read from one of her letters that Diaz de Medina, son of the Bolivian Minister, had been employed for several weeks in her offices as a special writer.

"You know, Senator Walsh," the witness said, "you are going to cast a lot of shadows over these boys, and they did nothing wrong. I say to you that perhaps you would like to argue the question with me that Senator Caraway side-stepped a minute ago."

"I will let him do that now," interjected Senator Caraway, with evident relief.

"I maintain that you have no right," continued Mrs. Jones, "under the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, to have those letters in your hands at all."

"Mention of that was made in your statement this morning, and I will take that up in a minute," said Senator Walsh.

Another letter stated that Miss Eleanor Hard, daughter of William Hard, the newspaper and magazine writer, was employed at various times by Mrs. Jones. Miss Hard received $10 for errands done in New York, it was stated. The letter also said that William E. Shea, a secretary to Mark Sullivan, the writer, was employed by Mrs. Jones.

Referring to Miss Hard, Senator Caraway asked:

"Did you think that if you had her on your payroll it might influence her father or mother?"

"I don't think her father or mother are capable of being influenced at all," responded Mrs. Jones. "She is a friend of mine. Her mother is a sorority sister of mine. I have known them for years."

"Well, you have some other sorority sisters, and you did not give them all $10, did you?" asked Caraway.

Calls Their Questions Silly.

"I say," asserted Mrs. Jones, "you are wasting so much time and so much of the taxpayers' money here asking me silly questions like that, and then you tell me I am paid too much for trying to tell the country that Cuba—"

"No, no," said Caraway, attempting to stop the counter-attack.

"Now, I want to ask you a question," continued Mrs. Jones, refusing to be silenced. "Do you know that Cuba has, over a period of five years, paid one quarter of the entire customs duties collected by this country? Did you know that?"

Mrs. Jones declared that some of the sugar interests elected their "lobbyists" to the Senate and House. Explaining, she said that Representative Timberlake, who was a beet grower and came from Colorado, in the heart of the Great Western Sugar Company district, was chairman of the subcommittee on sugar, and that Senator Smoot was chairman of the Finance Committee and chairman of the subcommittee on sugar.

"Senator Waterman," she declared, "who was the Great Western Sugar Company counsel for a number of years, was elected to the Senate from Colorado, and that sort of thing, and it means that the Cuban people—"

"But, Mrs. Jones," interrupted Senator Walsh, "these are matters which we already know."

"Of course you know them, but there are a lot of things you got out of the Cuban side that you already know, for the purpose of getting it into the newspapers."

Tells of Employment of Shea.

Mrs. Jones explained why she had employed Mr. Shea. In a letter written to her clients on June 24, last year, she said:

"He is writing for Mark Sullivan and he happens to know a great deal about Cuba and the Cuban situation. He has spent several years in Cuba, his wife is a Cuban and his brother-in-law is connected with the Cuban Embassy. Mrs. Jones first came in contact with him when he wrote a favorable comment on her work and showed a particular interest when she called him up. Naturally, Mr. Shea's newspaper experience in Washington and interest in Cuban affairs are very valuable. Mr. Shattuck has met Mr. Shea and knows of his work and connections."

"Which was the controlling consideration in the employment of Mr. Shea, his Cuban connections or his connection with Mr. Sullivan?" asked Senator Walsh.

"His Cuban connections. The controlling interest I had was the social contact which that man could do for me, with people who knew the Cuban angle," she replied.

"Did his connection with Mr. Sullivan enter into the matter?"

"It did not," was the reply. "It only meant that his brain could be trusted. He has a good position."

Senator Walsh questioned Mrs. Jones as to her prepared statement, which was later placed in evidence.

"Apparently the two chief purposes of the so-called Lobby Investigating Committee" her statement read in part, "have been to create political difficulties for President Hoover and to whitewash the twenty-five years' activities in Washington of the domestic sugar interests.

"The committee has placed great emphasis on the amount of money spent to turn the light of publicity upon economic questions in connection with the tariff bill. What shall be said of the expense to the nation's taxpayers of the committee's propaganda scheme conducted under the guise of an investigation for the good of the people?

"The committee is not only guilty of playing politics by striking through the witnesses at any political opponent whose name may have been mentioned in private letters, but it took the files of personal correspondence of private officials in violation of the spirit of the Fourth Amendment, which set forth the 'right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers.'

"The conduct of the investigation has degenerated also into a mockery of the first article of the Bill of Rights. The committee could have performed a real public service, but has succeeded only in warning vicious lobbies to be more secretive. Instead of wasting time ridiculing those who wrote unguardedly and kept their letters, the committee might look into the activities of those whose years of lobbying experience have caused them to replace fireproof filing cases with modern incinerators.

"Perhaps the lobby committee is looking for an excuse to capitulate to the politically powerful domestic sugar interests. The American interests operating in Cuba control no definite sections of voting strength, while the domestic industry is able to manoeuvre its Congressional representation into chairmanships that write the sugar schedule. This may explain, too, why the United States is willing to lose millions of dollars in export trade to Cuba to protect a domestic industry worth only $250,000,000."

Mrs. Jones declined to withdraw her statement, especially that part which stated that the committee perhaps was looking for an excuse "to capitulate to the politically powerful domestic sugar interests."

"Do you include Senator Robinson in this charge of having a purpose to create political difficulties for President Hoover?" Senator Walsh asked.

"That is the answer you want me to make," the witness replied.

"No, no; I want you to say yes or no," Senator Walsh said.

"I refuse to answer it," the witness replied. "You want me to answer it so that the newspapers will publish it."

Refuses to Name Lobbyist.

Senator Walsh's attention was directed to Mrs. Jones's suggestion that the committee would do well to look "into the activities of those whose years of lobbying experience have caused them to replace fireproof filing cases with modern incinerators."

"I heard a man, the head of a sugar company, say that for years he had carried on a correspondence where the rule was they should keep letters only forty-eight hours," the witness explained.

"Who is that man, please?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I will not say who he is," the witness answered.

"Do you remember his name?"

"I certainly do."

"So we are to understand you have information that some of those who are carrying on agitation in favor of an increased duty on sugar have been in the habit, and have pursued the custom, of burning their correspondence?"

"Yes, sir."

"But you refuse to give that information to the committee?"

"You will have to find that out through them. Ask them if they keep their files. You had them here on the stand and you didn't ask them any of those things."

"The committee," said Senator Walsh, "would be obliged to you if you would give the information that would"—

"I say," said Mrs. Jones, "if a personal friend says something at a dinner party to me, do you think I will come up here and tell it to you?"

Later in the hearing both Senators Caraway and Walsh again asked Mrs. Jones to name the man who had told of burning his files.

"A man tells you something after he has had a few cocktails, and do you think I ought to come up here and repeat it to this committee?" Mrs. Jones asked in return.

The inquiry into the sugar tariff phase of lobbying activities ended with the testimony of Mrs. Jones.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Dr. Edward R. Pickrell of the General Dye Stuffs Corporation of New York was summoned today by the Senate Lobby Committee to appear Tuesday to answer reports that he had used the office of Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, as headquarters during consideration of the tariff bill.

LABOR WEIGHS STAND ON RAILWAY MERGERS

Florida Convention Views Possible Unemployment—To Ask Safeguards, Says Green.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 10.—Consideration of the possibility of unemployment resulting from the proposed consolidations of railway lines and discussion and approval of organization work that has been undertaken throughout the South in recent weeks featured the executive session of the council of the American Federation of Labor here today.

William Green, president of the labor federation, said, following today's meeting, that organized labor will insist that the interests of workers be protected in the event of consolidations by railroads and any move that does not furnish that protection will be opposed.

The greatest problem will come in the removal of terminal points at various centres throughout the country, he asserted. He indicated that labor will ask that the contractual relations between railroads and employes be protected, and that the material and property rights of the workers be considered, in the event the terminals either are abandoned or removed from their present locations.

The employment situation, due to the increasing use of mechanical methods by the transportation companies, is already serious, Mr. Green said, pointing out that there are now 375,000 fewer workers employed by the roads than ten years ago, despite huge increases in railroad tonnage.

Regarding the campaign now in progress in the South for the organization of workers, Mr. Green said that there are now more than fifty trained organizations in the field and a systematic campaign covering a year or longer will be conducted. Southern headquarters recently were opened at Birmingham, Ala.

The council recessed this afternoon until Monday.

CRITICIZES RED WORKERS.

C. G. Wood Says No Employer Can Afford to Treat With Them.

The mass demonstrations by Communists which have occurred recently in New York City have no connection with labor disputes and "no employer can afford to treat with this element," Charles G. Wood, United States Commissioner of Conciliation, said in a statement issued here yesterday.

He referred especially to the demonstrations in front of the Dan Palter shoe store in West Twenty-sixth Street last Thursday and to others at the William Goldstein factory and the Elmore shoe factory in Brooklyn yesterday.

If an employer agreed to treat with the Communists, Mr. Wood said, "he would be obliged to bind himself to give employment only to those who pay dues to the Communist movement, thus putting himself in a position of denying employment to loyal citizens of Greater New York."

FOR RESERVE BOARD FREED OF TREASURY

National Chamber of Commerce Proposals Ask Removal of Secretary as Chairman.

FREEDOM HELD HAMPERED

Tendency to Reduce Board to a Bureau Is Asserted, but Criticism of Mellon Is Disclaimed.

CURB ON CREDIT ENDORSED

But Report Opposes Legislation to That End—1,700 Chambers to Be Polled on Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A proposal that the Secretary of the Treasury be dropped from the Federal Reserve Board and supplanted as its chairman by the governor of the board headed a list of recommendations for strengthening the Federal Reserve System, which were submitted today to a nation-wide referendum of the 1,700 members of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal, the chamber announcement said, is not intended to involve any reflection upon Mr. Mellon, whose administration and high character of public service were praised.

The proposals, which were recommended after more than a year of study by a group of the chamber's banking and currency committee, including leaders in business, agriculture and labor, also included a recommendation supporting the authority of Federal Reserve officials, with the cooperation of member banks, to restrict the flow of credit to speculative channels when necessary to prevent the curbing of credit accommodations for commerce and industry.

Other proposals were aimed at enhancement of the power of the governor and members of the Federal Reserve Board, at upholding the autonomy of regional banks and limiting the power of the central bank to initiate changes in rediscount rates. Alterations in administrative policies, rather than legislation by Congress, was recommended to bring about the changes proposed.

Vote to Determine Policy.

The results of the poll are to be made public on Feb. 23, the chamber announced. The vote is expected to determine the policy of organized business toward the reserve system, it was said. The referendum report stressed the fact that relatively few of the changes proposed call for amendments to the Federal Reserve act.

"In no instance," the report stated, "is there insistence upon the necessity of immediate legislation."

The committee report declared that the Reserve System had "demonstrated such success as to meet with widespread public endorsement of most of its basic features," but pointed out that the system is a "growing organism" which "must be adapted to our country's needs as those needs actually appear."

In urging the elimination of treasury influence upon the board, the report said:

"The position of governor of the board should be enhanced. The board cannot possibly be expected to meet the anticipations of the framers of the reserve act while it continues to include the Secretary of the Treasury as its chairman, overshadowing the governor. Indeed, we are convinced of the inadvisability of including the Secretary of the Treasury as a member of the board.

Cites Borrowing by Treasurer.

"On general principles the exclusion of treasury representation on the Reserve Board would seem to be desirable because the treasury is a frequent borrower and is consequently prone to attach major importance in the determination of credit policies to the maintenance of easy conditions in the money market that will facilitate the placing of loans at minimum rates."

The report declared that the proposal was not urged on the ground that treasury influence had been exerted in support of unwise policies.

"Treasury influence at times undoubtedly has been a factor in securing effective action without unreasonable delay," the report continued. "Even so, it is evident that representation of the treasury on the board has not been conducive to realization of that personal responsibility independence of action and freedom from administration influence which the country has a right to expect."

The committee asserted the tendency since establishment of the system had been to reduce the Board to the status of a bureau. The dominant personality on the Board should be the governor, as chairman, and not the Secretary of the Treasury, the report continued.

"This proposal," the report added, "is not to be understood to involve any reflection upon the present Secretary of the Treasury. On the contrary, his ability and the undoubted high character of his public service stamps his administration as one of the ablest the country has ever enjoyed."

Even with Treasury influence removed from the Board, the report recommended there should be "some rather close interrelationship" between the Board and Treasury, as well as close contact and cooperation.

Opposes Legislation on Credit.

The report opposed attempts by legislation to restrict flows of credit to speculative markets.

In discussing the power of the Board to initiate changes in rediscount rates, the report pointed out that the "changes in such rates are closely watched by the banks and are of vital interest to the public generally because of the influence of the rediscount rate upon the lending rates of the member banks.

"It is in relation to this function of Reserve operation that some tendency to weaken regional autonomy has developed which, if it persists, will furnish a considerable impetus to undue centralization of power within the system."

On the same point, the report says that "it has been generally accepted that when a Reserve bank applies to the Board for permission to raise or lower its rediscount rate, the Board can grant or refuse that permission—a power to veto. It has not been so generally accepted that the Act gives to the Board the authority to force a regional bank to change its rate."

"The System must be subjected," the report said, "to periodic review by those who have an understanding of its values and a sympathetic appreciation of the complexity of the problems with which it deals. If friendly and constructive critics do not devote attention to perfecting the credit structure, it will be difficult to meet radical proposals of a harmful nature or well-meant but mistaken effort to divert the system from its proper course."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—The referendum submitted today to its membership by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States proposed that the salaries of Federal Reserve Board members be increased from $12,000 to a minimum of $30,000 annually for the Governor and $25,000 for other members, holding that the salaries must approach, at least, the salaries paid in the field of general banking, from which Federal Reserve management must be drawn.

Recommendations also were made that the feasibility of divorcing the office of the Controller of the Currency from the Treasury Department and bringing it under the purview of the Federal Reserve Board be considered.

COTTON BROKERS' FIRM ENJOINED IN BROOKLYN

Robin Fowler & Co. Ordered to Stop Trading Temporarily on on Order Obtained by State.

Robin Fowler & Co., cotton brokers at 67 Wall Street, were temporarily enjoined by Supreme Court Justice Riegelman in Brooklyn yesterday from further dealings in cotton, cotton futures and other commodities. The order was granted on motion of Deputy State Attorney General Matthew Tiffany, of the State Bureau of Securities. Argument on a motion to make the injunction permanent will be heard next Friday.

Mr. Tiffany said the members of the firm were Robin M. Fowler, Mrs. Emma Herd, wife of Anderson T. Herd, under $75,000 bail on a charge of defrauding Rob Roy S. Converse, architect at 277 Park Avenue, out of $40,000 in a stock deal, and Carlisle Rountree. Mr. Tiffany said also that Rountree had been permanently enjoined from further dealings in cotton on Oct. 27, 1927. In a statement later in the day Mr. Rountree denied that he was a member of the firm and said its members were Mr. Fowler, Mrs. Herd and Mr. Converse. He denied also that he had been previously enjoined permanently.

According to Mr. Tiffany the firm of Fowler & Co. was operated as a bucketshop with a list of more than 100,000 customers, most of whom lived in the South. Its business, he declared, was transacted almost wholly by telegraph with no actual trading by the firm.

Mr. Tiffany said that Fowler admitted to Justice Riegelman that the firm had no assets and that he would be unable to pay his customers. Fowler testified further, according to Mr. Tiffany, that he had discussed that question with Rountree and that the latter knew of the insolvency. Mr. Rountree's statement said:

"This firm made a deal with me for the use of certain equipment and mailing lists for which they were to pay me 25 per cent of the profits. However, I am not a member of the firm and have no control over the assets of the company and have not received one cent from them either directly or indirectly as there have been no profits as yet. The order secured by the Attorney General from Judge Riegelman was an ex parte order and was not signed on its merits, as the merits of this matter have never come up.

"This action arose out of a controversy between Mr. Converse and A. T. Herd, the husband of Emma Herd, with reference to money paid by Mr. Converse to Mr. Herd on a stock transaction which was entirely independent of the cotton business of Robin Fowler & Co."

BLOODGOOD HOPEFUL ON CANCER PROBLEMS

Declares Education Will Greatly Reduce Disease and Cures Can Be Increased.

"We know now that, with our present means of treatment, the actual incidence of cancer should be reduced from 80 to 17 per cent, and the actual cures should be increased from 10 to 60 per cent," Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, Clinical Professor of Surgery at Johns Hopkins University, said yesterday at the New York Academy of Medicine in an address on "The Cancer Problem in its Various Phases."

"This can be done only through education," he continued. "Knowing that at present there is very little educational effort and only a small part of the public is informed, the first thing we should do is to establish on a broad scale the correct information of children in the primary schools and of adults throughout this country. The next problem is the education of the profession in the more difficult diagnostic problems of examining people who think they are well, or have but recently been warned, and the equally new demand of the treatment of the lesion of cells that as yet are not cancer.

"The last problem is research. This must be speeded up. It would seem that the people themselves should tax themselves for this protection."

He stressed the importance of the periodic health examination, and said that the reason cancer can be so largely controlled through education is based upon the fact that cancer does not begin as cancer, but as something which, at first, is not cancer. He told of the need for submitting any lump or irritation to the examination of a physician. He said that he had never seen face cancer on a beautiful woman, because she watches the spots on her face.

Dr. John C. A. Gerster, chairman of the New York committee of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, presided at the meeting.

Two Held in Woman's Death.

Bail of $500 each was set for Samuel Shangold, 41 years old, of 644 Lefferts Avenue, Brooklyn, and Samuel Lehman, 23, a taxicab chauffeur, of 1,864 Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in Homicide Court yesterday as a result of the death of Mrs. Yetta Stein of 209 Eldridge Street. Mrs. Stein was killed on Thursday afternoon, the police charged, when she was struck by Lehman's taxicab after it had collided with Shangold's machine at Allen and Stanton Streets.

TOWN IN VERMONT MENACED BY FLOOD

Missisquoi Reaches Level Higher Than 1927's at Swanton and Spreads a Mile Wide.

COLD WEATHER AIDS HOPES

Upper New York Relieved as Cold Snap Lessens Sleet Danger and Makes High Water Recede.

SWANTON, Vt., Jan. 10 (AP).—Some residents of this town were prepared to leave their homes tonight as waters of the Missisquoi River continued to rise, reaching a level higher than in 1927 when a large part of Vermont was flooded.

A temperature of 10 degrees below zero aided the hopes of the residents. It was believed that a continuation of the extreme cold weather would prevent further rising of the river.

The water had backed up seven miles from the mouth of the river at Lake Champlain and covered an area more than one mile wide.

Plans had been made to dynamite an ice jam near the mouth, but another jam developed upstream from the first, and this gave temporary relief. It afforded an opportunity for farmers in boats to reach barns sheltering cattle that had been abandoned as several families left their homes. It was impossible to remove the animals, but they were fed and blanketed.

The second ice jam caused the waters to recede to such an extent that the stock were no longer standing in icy water.

The water tonight was from two to three feet deep in the street near the river bank and the floor of the Vermont Marble Company plant was three feet under water.

More than a score of families were making preparations to go to homes on higher land, although it seemed certain that the cold weather would at least temporarily halt the flood conditions.

Several boat houses and smaller structures along the river bank were carried away by the water.

The same section that is now under water was swept by a destructive windstorm last Summer.

Cold Aids News York Conditions.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP).—Cold weather relieved New York State today of threatening high water and sleet-storm conditions which caused great damage last month.

Three days of thaws had swollen streams to Spring freshet proportions and accompanying rains had burdened wires and trees with ice. The cold snap, which began with dawn today, brought a flurry of snow of no consequence, but caused some inconvenience to pedestrians and motorists, as it froze the light rain left on the ground over night and made the going treacherous.

The Saranac River and the other Adirondack streams, the Hudson River at Troy and Albany and the city of Rome's reservoir receded with the colder weather.

At Glens Falls and Saratoga Springs the lower temperatures brought relief from sleet-storms, which also were felt in Jamestown, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other towns in the western part of the State.

Mississippi River Welcomes Cold.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Mississippi valley today welcomed a cold wave which promised relief from threatened serious high water stages.

Slow rains changed to sleet and snow in many sections and freezing was expected tonight in the lowlands of Tennessee, Kentucky, Southeast Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi. There was no sign of any more rain in the Memphis area and the thermometer was expected to go below twenty degrees before morning.

Near Calhoun, Ky., on the Green River, residents were preparing to move to higher ground as the stream passed flood stage of 34 feet.

Memphis was shivering but had dried out after the nine inch rainfall which did damage estimated by city officials at more than $400,000.

At Coldwater, Miss., the Coldwater River was standing several inches deep in the streets.

SWINGS ABOVE STREET IN FALL OFF ELEVATED

Brooklyn Printer Is Charged With Intoxication After His Narrow Escape.

Things didn't seem just right to Dennis Eddington at 6 o'clock last night For some reason he had a feeling that he was hanging head downward from between two railroad ties about thirty feet above the corner of Fulton Street and Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn.

He blinked down at the tops of lighted taxicabs, saw plainly the roofs of trolley cars passing noisily and his perspective on the throngs hurrying homeward was most unusual. The whole world seemed upside down.

His train of thought was rudely broken as he felt some one hauling at his legs. He had a sensation of being tugged upward and the street lights vanished. He passed, for a few seconds, through an era of darkness and then suddenly things came right again. He was on his feet, even if they were not behaving properly.

A crowd was surging around him, all strange faces. Behind them the lights of a chop suey sign twinkled. Then Eddington remembered. He was standing on the elevated platform of the Fifth Avenue-Bay Ridge line at Fulton Street, just where he had been before the world turned upside down.

Some one was holding his arm, a policeman, judging by the blue coat and brass buttons. Dennis Eddington took a punch at him, just to make sure, and the next thing he knew he was facing a lieutenant in the Poplar Street police station. Patrolman Charles Dittmar was explaining something.

"——and this guy fell right off the platform head first," the bluecoat was saying. "His head and shoulders went through, but one of his legs hooked around one of the rails. Just then a Bay Ridge train pulls in. Pat Murphy, the motorman, jams on the brakes and one of the front wheels nips this guy's trousers to the rail and saves him from falling into the street. We pulled him out."

The lieutenant wrote in the blotter, "Dennis Eddington, 63, white, printer, 145 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn."

"What's the charge?" he asked.

"Intoxication," said the policeman.

"Take him away," said the lieutenant.

Anti-Christian Chinese Close A University and Hospital

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10.—The anti-Christian movement in Tsinanfu has resulted in the closing of the Shantung Christian University and Hospital and all patients have been evacuated except a few who are critically ill and who are being attended by American and British physicians.

The university and hospital are being picketed and the water and light services have been cut off. The authorities refuse to take any action unless "the pickets cause loss of life or destruction of property."

AIR PILOTS START MOVE TO UNIONIZE

Proposal Is Coincident With Revision by Two Companies' Changes in Pay.

DEEMED A CUT BY SOME

Country-Wide Plan to Organize Has Full Cooperation of Federation of Labor.

Coincidental with the announcement here yesterday of drastic changes in air pilots' pay by at least two operating companies, it was learned that there is a widespread movement throughout the country for the organization of pilots' unions with the full cooperation of the American Federation of Labor.

Fifty pilots representing the flying fields of New York and of New England met last night at McAuliffe's Inn, Valley Stream, and, after enlisting the aid of Carl F. Egge, secretary of the National Air Pilots' Association, sent the following telegram to Major Brainard of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and to Seth Low, president of Roosevelt Field, Inc.:

> We, te pilots employed on the Atlantic seaboard, having read the stipulations set forth in the recent announcement regarding a drastic reduction in salary, do as a body hereby lodge a protest against the action set forth therein on the following grounds:
>
> First—That the salaries accorded instructors and pilots heertofore have been sufficient to attract a better-class man to aviation, but that the new scale is not sufficient to guarantee such effect in the future.
>
> Second—That in the best interests of your companies, their equipment and the aviation industry in the East, any drastic change in personnel would, in our opinion, destroy the safety and morale of the present student body, which is the result of our efforts of the past two years.
>
> Third—That the above conditions will act as a boomerang, in that it will destroy outstanding incentives to future student enrolment and passenger booking, a condition which will further lessen our flying time.
>
> Inasmuch as the economic condition of Eastern pilots in Winter prohibits our direct refusal of the terms you offer, we take this occasion to invite you to conference so that we may arrive at some collective and amicable settlement.
>
> THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The committee is made up of six pilots chosen by the organization.

Major E. H. Brainard, vice president of the Curtiss Wright Flying Service, which operates forty airports and flying fields throughout the country, announced yesterday a new schedule of pay by which "base pay," or guarantee, is raised materially and "flying pay" is reduced.

The figures announced, it was said, were the "maximum" to be paid This was taken to indicate that in many cases the base payment would be lower than the published figures.

"Effective Jan. 1," Major Brainard said, "the maximum rates of pay for pilots will be as follows:

"Chief pilot, $3,600 a year, base pay.

"Grade A (present graduates of instructors' school and other experienced men), $3,000 a year, base pay.

"Grade B (all new pilots will start as Grade B pilots, except under exceptional circumstances), $2,500 per year, base pay.

"In addition to base pay outlined above, the chief pilot and Grade A pilots will be paid flying time at the rate of $3 an hour for single-motored ships and $4 for multi-motored ships; Grade B pilots, $2 per hour. Double flying pay for night flying.

"It should be borne in mind that these schedules are maximum rates of pay.

Pilots Now Graded.

"From our point of view," Major Brainard said, "these new rates accomplish two improvements over a system which has been in force heretofore. For the first time we are able to grade pilots in two groups. There is no logical reason why a pilot who has flown 4,000 to 6,000 hours should be considered on the same level with a pilot who has recently obtained his license.

Pilots yesterday were not inclined to look on the new rates in the same manner as Major Brainard announced them. They regard the base pay figures as about $57 a week maximum. Many of them were formerly paid a flat rate of $5 flying time plus a base pay and double flying pay for night work.

New Schedule at Roosevelt Field.

A similar schedule was announced at Roosevelt Field, where, according to some pilots, the new rates would mean a virtual cut from more than $9,000 a year to about $4,800.

In connection with the movement to organize the pilots along the lines of the rail brotherhoods, it was learned that a charter had already been issued by the A. F. of L. for an aviators' and pilots' union at Muskogee, Okla. One of the leading spirits in the organizing work is Dale ("Red") Jackson, who, with Forrest O'Brine, holds the world's refueling duration record. Jackson is now in Miami. Associated with him is W. L. Wilkinson, formerly with Universal Aviation Corporation. They have approached the A. F. of L. with a view to getting a charter for an international brotherhood of airmen of America.

ARMY FLIERS REACH FIRST DAY'S GOAL

Eighteen Planes Land at Duluth in Winter-Test Flight From Mount Clemens to Spokane.

FOUR DELAYED AT START

Three of Them Take Off Late and Alight Safely in Northern Michigan.

Special to The New York Times.

DULTH, Minn., Jan. 10.—Eighteen army planes attached to the First Pursuit Group at Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., today completed the first leg of their 3,500-mile Arctic patrol flight to Spokane, Wash., forty-five minutes ahead of schedule.

The squadron landed on the ice of the Duluth Harbor at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon after first circling over both Superior, Wis., and Duluth. The appeared over the twin ports at 3:15, 2 hours and 15 minutes after leaving St. Ignace, Mich., their noon stop.

Two transport planes attached to the patrol, which were delayed in starting from Mount Clemens this morning, were forced to land at Munsing, Mich. The third of the twenty-one planes in the group which failed to reach the first night control point, the radio plane, remained at St. Ignance, Mich., 340 miles from Duluth.

Winter-Flying Devices Tested.

The temperature was near zero when the planes reached here and Major Ralph Royce, flight commander, who was the first to land, declared that weather conditions had been ideal for testing the winter-flying equipment.

"The weather is favorable to determine mobility of planes in zero weather and also to test the numerous recently developed devices designed to facilitate winter flying, the main purpose of the flight," he said.

"We experienced no trouble in the jump from St. Ignance. We made the distance in record time."

The planes of the pursuit group, al lequipped with skis, made perfect landings on the harbor ice, although, due to the direction of the wind, each had to come down over an open stretch of water near the Duluth ship canal.

Local short-wave radio stations, which had been asked to assist in maintaining radio communications with the group, reported tonight that they had been unable to communicate with the radio plane during the day. One of the purposes of the flight had been to test radio communication.

Officers and pilots of the group were guests tonight at a banquet given by Mayor S. F. Snively, city officials and the Duluth Chamber of Commerce.

The army fliers will take off tomorrow morning for Minot, N. D., with a noon stop at Grand Forks, N. D.

Planes Delayed at Start.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 10.—Four planes of the twenty-two scheduled to leave on the army Winter flight today were delayed.

The huge radio plane was frozen solid in the ice, another transport was likewise locked and another developed mechanical trouble. The fourth large accompanying plane was forced back after flying across the lake and will be delayed until Saturday morning. It was piloted by Lieutenant Ennis Whitehead and carried H. J. Adamson, War Department representative.

One of the marooned planes was able to leave at 10:30 and another an hour later. The radio plane did not lift from the ice until 2:20 o'clock this afternoon. They were to fly straight to Duluth before overhauling the faster planes.

The two transports stopped at Munising, Mich., and the radio plane at St. Ignace for the night.

BERRY SEEKS 2 NEW AIDES.

Submits Bill to Create Deputy Controllers for Realty Bureau.

The number of Deputy Controllers will be increased from three to five under the provisions of a bill introduced yesterday by Controller Charles W. Berry in the Board of Estimate branch of the Municipal Assembly.

The two new deputyships will be given to John H. O'Brien and Patrick A. Whitney, both of whom now hold the title of Assistant Deputy Controller. Their present salaries of $5,000 each will be raised to $10,000. The present Deputy Controllers are Frank J. Prial, $12,000 a year; Arthur J. Philbin, $11,000, and Joseph A. Fitzgerald, $11,000.

Under the terms of Controller Berry's bill the real estate division of the Finance Department will be reorganized as a bureau and the new deputies will be placed in charge of it. The Controller said the purpose of the legislation was to give these two deputies, who now have charge of the real estate division, full authority in real estate matters, such as acquiring and selling property and closing title. The measure was referred to the committee on local laws.

ACQUITTED IN AUTO DEATH.

But Driver Is Fined for Failure to Renew His License.

Philip Rider, 39 years old, a broker residing at the Hotel Delmonico, Park Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, was acquitted yesterday of a homicide charge by Magistrate Thomas F. Doyle in Long Island City court. It was charged that his automobile struck and killed Max Bilow, 51, of 107 First Avenue, Manhattan, on Jan. 1 at Queens Boulevard and Forty-sixth Street, Woodside, Queens.

Mr. Rider told Magistrate Doyle that the accident was unavoidable. The police were unable to prove that he was negligent.

Magistrate Doyle imposed a fine of $25 on Mr. Rider when he said he had forgotten to renew his old license. He paid the fine.

JOIN GROUP TO FIGHT FRENCH AUTO TARIFF

Americans Form "Committee of Defense" in Campaign Against Proposed Increases.

FACTS WILL BE CIRCULATED

Group Will Stress Economic Results of Barring American Product—Official Move Forecast.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Representatives of all the American automobile companies selling products in the French market met here this afternoon and formed a "committee of defense," through which the American industry will fight with all the legitimate means in its possession the proposed new prohibitive tariffs on imported automotive products. The Ford company and General Motors are the two American concerns most severely hit and their agents have joined the committee.

The French governmental plans for increasing the duties on imported parts to a basis three and four times the present schedules and for raising the duty on completed cars from 45 to about 90 per cent have already been disclosed. A survey by the American motor car interests here showed the new rates, if adopted by the Chamber of Deputies, would probably force Americans from the market. The first projected measure, dealing with imported parts, is already circulating among the Deputies, but the second, having to do with completed cars, is kept secret—presumably until the moment for its introduction in the Chamber, which it is now thought will take place before Jan. 25.

To Lay Facts Before Edge.

The first effort of the defense committee will be directed toward informing the people of France of the economic consequences of the barring of American cars and trucks from the French markets. A carefully prepared statement giving facts and figures will be widely circulated and the essential points will be presented by Ambassador Edge, who is taking a deep personal interest in the serious difficulties with which the American automobile industry is now faced in this country.

At the proper time the embassy will no doubt take the necessary steps to put before the French Foreign Office the facts of the American position. Etienne Flandin, Minister of Commerce, whose department experts are responsible for writing the new tariff, is already aware of the great anxiety felt by the American interests involved.

There are factors in the present issue, it is emphasized, of far greater importance to the automobile industry than the question of the mere value of the products sold in the French market. As a matter of fact, the 15,000 cars and 7,000 trucks which Americans sold in France last year were valued at $32,000,000, or but one-fortieth of America's total automotive exports. France, however, has come to be regarded as the leading exponent of European tariff thought, and what she does has much influence upon the tariff policies of other nations.

Move Planned for Years.

It is easy, therefore, to understand the American fears that if France puts over a prohibitive tariff on American cars a general European movement definitely to limit or even exclude American automotive wares is likely to develop. For this very potent reason, it is held, a vigorous fight must be waged, and in these efforts the American industry will have the full support of American governmental channels.

Nevertheless, it is pointed out, it must be borne in mind that the problem before the State Department is clearly a delicate one. There are, for example, the high American tariffs against which Europeans have fought. Like the French, Americans are not inclined to welcome outside attempts to tell the nation how it should regulate its tariff duties. Furthermore, observers say, the French Government, having been forced into the present issue by such powerful leaders as Louis Renault, will find it embarrassing if not impossible to turn back.

French automobile makers say the American inroads into their markets menace the home industry—an argument which is not unfamiliar to the ears of American tariff makers. Also, the French industry has been quietly planning this fight for several years. They expect a severe reaction in America, but they are prepared for the worst and they are determined to push their plans to fruition.

It may be rather too soon to predict the outcome, but, it is declared, past experience would suggest that nothing short of reprisals in the form of higher duties on some item which France sells to America in large quantities will now halt an upward revision of the French motor-car tariffs. In view of the political questions involved doubt is expressed here that the United States will be willing to go so far, and, therefore, the best the Americans may hope for is a modification of the present projects.

PARIS TAXI MEN STRIKE AS TAX IS INCREASED

Drivers Protest Against Levy Accompanying Higher Fares Granted by Council.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—As a protest against the increased taxes levied on its members by the Municipal Council, the taxi drivers' union ordered a strike for today. More than 90 per cent of the membership heeded the call, officials of the union claimed this evening. The Prefect of Police said only 83 of the 6,890 cars this morning left the fifteen provincial garages housing taxis.

The tax increase was voted at the same time the Municipal Council authorized an increase in taxi mileage rates, and the drivers must share it with the owners of cabs.

Several hundred individual owners driving their own cabs are not participating in the strike, as most of them do not belong to the union. They reaped a rich harvest during the evening rush hour.

Meanwhile protests pour in on the Municipal Council because of increases in the tramway, autobus and subway fares, which were voted at the same time and became effective Jan. 1. Now apparently taxi drivers do not want increased rates, if increased taxes go with them. It is believed that the whole question of higher transit costs may be reconsidered by the Municipal Council.

BERLIN TO HEAR SCHURMANN

But Only by Means of Record Broadcast on Radio.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—More than 3,000,000 radio subscribers were counted in Germany Jan. 1, 1930, against 2,365,000 a year ago. The increase has been especially remarkable in the last three months, with 223,113 new subscribers. The press is urging speedy construction of new powerful broadcasting stations to keep step with the favorable development.

Berlin's broadcasting association intends to follow the example set by Washington in inviting foreign diplomats to broadcast addresses to the public to popularize the countries represented by them. Ambassador Schurmann, who was asked to deliver a short speech before his departure declined, but agreed to make a gramophone record, which will be broadcast after his departure. A Berlin paper says that although it is only a substitute Berliners will at least hear once more "the voice of a good friend of the Fatherland."

JEWISH AGENCY PARLEY OFF

Meeting Scheduled for Feb. 1 Deferred Due to Delay on Invitations.

Postponement of the meeting of the Jewish Agency's administrative committee scheduled to be held in New York on Feb. 1, and the naming of a committee to carry into effect the resolution adopted at the recent conference of Zionists and non-Zionists in Washington to establish a Palestine economic corporation was announced yesterday through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency by Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the administrative committee of the Jewish Agency.

In a notice sent to all members of the administrative committee, Mr. Warburg declared that the scheduled meeting was called off until further notice because of the omission of the London office to issue invitations in time. Mr. Warburg also pointed out that efforts to reach a workable and satisfactory agreement for the first joint fund-raising campaign between Zionists and non-Zionists for Palestine and European relief are being actively continued.

The committee named by Mr. Warburg to promote a Palestine economic corporation consists of Dr. Lee K. Frankel, chairman; Bernard Flexner, Israel B. Brodie, Edmund I. Kaufman, Aaron Straus and Judge Julian W. Mack.

BRITISH BANKS BACK INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL

Minister of Employment Arranges Credits to Permit Modernizing Factories.

TO PROVIDE WORK FOR IDLE

Thomas Also Will Strengthen Commercial Forces Abroad as Stimulus to Commerce.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The greatest financial powers in the City of London have agreed to help depressed British industries in reorganizing and modernizing their plants from top to bottom.

This announcement was made in Manchester today by J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, after long consultations on the unemployment problem with Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England. While Mr. Thomas's speech did not mention the Bank by name, it was made "with authority and knowledge of the City" (the financial district of London). In addition to the Bank of England, it is believed that Mr. Thomas obtained promises of cooperation from five great joint-stock banks.

Of immediate importance was Mr. Thomas's declaration that the British Government had decided to send commercial attachés to Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Persia and Switzerland, to create new posts in Finland and to strengthen the staffs of commercial attachés in Egypt, China, Canada, South Africa, East Africa and the West Indies. He also announced the government would soon send to various countries trade missions on the same lines as last year's successful mission to Argentina, headed by Viscount D'Abernon.

Urges "Trade Diplomacy."

"Political diplomacy is good," Mr. Thomas exclaimed, "but why not trade diplomacy as well? America sent trade commissioners to all parts of the world when we were withdrawing ours. I have decided that this must be altered."

For months Mr. Thomas has been asserting with increasing emphasis that the problem of British unemployment is a problem of Britain's depressed industries and her dwindling export markets. To every plea for rationalization British industrialists have replied that they could not afford costly improvements in equipment, with the result that Mr. Thomas interceded with the bankers. It was the same procedure on a larger scale as a year ago, when the Bank of England took the lead in reorganizing the Lancashire cotton industry.

Today Mr. Thomas alluded to a widespread feeling among manufacturers that "long-continued trade depression has pushed to the limit the credit they can reasonably expect to obtain from their bankers or which the bankers can reasonably be expected to provide."

"As a result of consultations I have had, I am now in a position to state the City is deeply interested in placing industry upon a broad, sound basis and ready to support any plans that, in its opinion, may lead to that end," Mr. Thomas said.

Calls Reorganization Vital.

"Those in the City who have been studying this matter are convinced that a number of our important industries must be fundamentally reorganized and modernized in order to be able to produce at prices which will enable them to compete with the world. An industry which proposes schemes that, in the opinion of those advising the City, conform to this requirement will receive the most sympathetic consideration and cooperation of the City in working out their plans and finding the necessary finance."

The same pledge holds good in the case of individual undertakings, Mr. Thomas added, providing the scheme fits in as a part of the reorganization of their industry as a whole.

The new financing arrangement, in Mr. Thomas's opinion, is the first instance of the whole forces of British finance coming forward to strengthen British industry. Nevertheless, he warned "government can do nothing comparable with industry itself. Organized collective marketing and salesmanship are required.

"Canada imports 300,000 tons of steel annually, all of which can be supplied by Britain," Mr. Thomas said. "We were not getting the orders because there was no one man who could speak for the industry and could conclude a bargain. Now a man has been appointed whose job is to represent the whole of the industry. That is a policy which can be copied with success."

NEW YORK FIRM WINS RUMANIAN CONTRACT

David M. Oltarsh Obtains Award for $100,000,000 Government Housing Project.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The firm of David M. Oltarsh, Inc., New York construction engineers, has obtained a contract from the Rumanian Government to build, in association with another American engineering company and a group of German constructors, houses for government employes in Bucharest and elsewhere in Rumania to cost $100,000,000.

Major Oltarsh arrived in Parris today from Bucharest, where he had been conferring for several weeks with Premier Maniu and other officials of the National Peasant party government in Rumania. The contract he obtained is signed by M. Clinchy, President of the Rumanian Senate. He explained that the necessary legislation was enacted during his stay in Bucharest for the creation of a special funding bank to meet the costs of the housing construction. This bank will deduct installment payments on houses from the salaries of State railway, postal and other government workers.

The contract calls for the payment of $100,000,000 over a period of fifteen years.

"After the war Rumania's territorial size trebled and the population of her capital, Bucharest, increased from 300,000 to 1,000,000," Major Oltarsh said. "The housing shortage is the most serious in Bucharest, of course, but it is quite bad in other cities, too.

David M. Oltarsh, architect and construction engineer, is the president of the Oltarsh Engineering Company of 36 West Forty-fourth Street, the Broadway-Oltarsh Building Company and other building corporations. He is 46 years old, the son of Wolfe H. Oltarsh, who came to this country from Russia at the age of 16, and later founded the Oltarsh Engineering Company.

The son is a native of New York City. He was educated in the New York public schools and holds the degrees of B. S. and C. E. from the College of the City of New York. According to information obtained at his office, he sailed from New York on Dec. 7 to arrange the Rumanian contracts and will return to New York next week. His New York home is at the Hotel Monterey.

Among the office buildings, theatres, department stores, apartment houses, hotels and synagogues in and about New York for which he was construction engineer are: Bank of the United States Building, Court and Montague Building in Brooklyn, Bar Building, Prudence Bond Building, 400 Madison Avenue Building, fifty-one stories of the 36 Wall Street Building, Gallo Theatre, Colony Theatre, Public Theatre, Major Theatre, Throgs Neck Theatre in Rockville Centre, L. I.; Interborough Theatre in the Bronx, Royal Theatre in the Bronx, Santiago Theatre in Santiago, Cuba; Kopley Plaza Apartment House in Brooklyn, East 172d Street and Socony Avenue Apartment House, Manger Hotel, Russeks Department Store, Kurzman Department Store, Sheridan Department Store, B'Nai Jeshurun Temple, Talmud Torah of Crown Heights and four Childs restaurants—one at Ninety-fourth Street and Broadway, another at Ninety-fifth Street and Broadway, a third at 27 Beaver Street, and the Holland House.

HINDUS TO FIGHT CONGRESS

They Plan New Political Party to Attack Nationalist "Bureaucracy."

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 10 (AP).—President Moonjee of the Hindu Mahasabha organization for the propagation of the Hindu religion announced today that a meeting would be held here on Jan. 18 for the purpose of forming a new Indian political party.

He said the party would be organized on "a high standard" in opposition to the "bureaucracy maintained by the Indian National Congress so long in the legislatures, and to thwart all attempts of the bureaucracy to strengthen its hold on the people."

Mr. Moonjee appealed to the electors not to pledge their votes in the impending by-elections to "nondescripts and pseudo independents."

CALCUTTA, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Bengal authorities made their first arrest today since the signal for a campaign of civil disobedience was given by some leaders of the India National Congress at Lahore recently.

They arrested Bijoy Chandra Roy, secretary of the Nationalist Congress Committee at Bendbila, who is also local leader of the "pay no tax" movement, on charges of refusing to pay the local authorities taxes on his house.

Police raided his house and attached his belongings.

Five File in Race for Congress.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 10 (AP).—With the expiration today of the time limit for filing nomination papers, the definite line-up of candidates for the Second District Congressional vacancy in the primary of Jan. 28 became apparent. James H. Mulcare, attorney, the latest Democratic aspirant, filed his papers today. He will oppose William J. Granfield, attorney, of this city and John Hall, former County Commissioner, of West Springfield for the party nomination. On the Republican side the candidates are Frederick D. Griggs, former State Representative, of this city and Frank C. Hinckley of West Springfield.

GERMANY DENIES MEDDLING IN CHINA

Government Says Officers Aiding Chiang Are Doing So on Their Own Responsibility.

EXPLAINS WAR SHIPMENTS

Points Out That It Could Not Have Sent Tanks and Bombing Planes With None in Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The German authorities deny and resent the charge made by Wang Ching-wei of Shanghai, leader of the Extreme Left of the Kuomintang, that the German officers now acting as advisers to President Chiang Kai-shek of China had been recommended by the German Government.

The government's statement asserts that these officers were selected by Chiang Kai-shek's friends in Germany and that the German Government disapproves in principle of any German national taking part in the internal conflicts of foreign countries. Any Germans who disregard this principle do so on their own responsibility, the government says.

As far as German shipments of arms are concerned, the government had nothing to do with them, the statement asserts. Since the embargo on shipments of war materials to China had been raised the government had no right to forbid German ships to carry war materials to China, but such war materials as had been taken there did not originate in Germany but had been purchased in other countries, the government said. It also suggested that if any arms bore the stamp of German origin they must be part of a mass of war materials which Germany according to the Versailles Peace Treaty had to deliver to the Allies.

As to tanks and bombing planes, the statement said, there were none in Germany and therefore none could have been exported.

Colonel Kriebel, who now is one of the principal military advisers to Chiang Kai-shek, went to China without consulting the government, and neither he nor his predecessor, the late Colonel Bauer, were friendly to the German Republic. Indeed, Colonel Kriebel was a friend of General Ludendorff and a member of his staff. He was also implicated in Hitler's and Ludendorff's futile attempt in 1923 to overthrow the republican government.

NANKING REPUDIATES SOVIET-MUKDEN PACT

Wang Says Haborovsk Conference Exceeded Its Scope—Mongolians Flee Hailar With Stores.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10.—A belated disavowal that any concession had been made to Russia at the Haborovsk conference was issued today by Dr. C. T. Wang, Foreign Minister of the Nanking Government, who declared that the minutes just received revealed that the conference had discussed "questions not within its scope." It is believed that Russia will not agree to any attempt to refuse to abide by the preliminary Haborovsk agreement.

The Mongolians, who had occupied Hailar and established a Soviet Government there, have withdrawn to Mongolia, taking vast stores of foods, merchandise and $1,500,000 in cash.

The fighting in Honan in the far South has practically ended, the conquered troops being absorbed by the victorious forces in accordance with immemorial custom.

NANKING, Jan. 10 (AP).—Declaring that the steady slump in silver and the sensational jump in gold bars have seriously affected the country's finances, the Council of State today decided to prohibit all speculation in gold bars.

The council has instructed the Ministry of Finance to prepare adequate measures for dealing with the situation.

BUENOS AIRES PAPER ATTACKS US ON HAITI

La Prensa Decries "Illegitimate Military Occupation" Under Guise of "Protection."

DEPLORES DELAY IN INQUIRY

Editorial Urges the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to Take a Stand on Hoover Proposal.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 10.—The Argentine newspaper La Prensa, aroused by opposition in the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee to President Hoover's proposal to send a commission to Haiti to investigate the present situation, suggests "a more definite policy." While the nature of this more defined policy is not suggested, La Prensa says: "The peaceful tone of President Hoover's message to Congress and its general attitude toward international relations lends hope that the new policy will tend toward recognition of the right of Haitians to govern themselves.

"The postponement of the proposed commission's investigation aggravates an already serious situation in Haiti, which has been submitted to foreign control for fourteen years without a Congress, without free elections, without the possibility of resolving its own internal problems under even a pretended appearance of sovereignty.

"The subjection of the Haitian people is complete. The maintaining of military forces, which are increased on the slightest provocation, and the shameful way in which the leading politicians run to the offices of the American authorities whenever faced with a difficulty are factors which, day by day, are tightening the bands by which imperialistic power is absorbing this small republic. Despite many objections which could be made against sending an investigating committee to Haiti, it appears, under the actual circumstances, to be an opportune measure to bring to the attention of Americans what is going on in a sovereign country which has been completely subjugated by American force.

"The commission's investigations might disclose why sovereign rights are not returned to the republic, which now is approaching an election in which the public will be deprived of the liberty of voting freely by pressure exercised by detachments of American marines.

"The fact that Senator Borah suggests in the American Congress that Haitians be permitted to vote for Congressmen shows to what extent they have been deprived of their liberties. The interference of the United States has assumed the character of complete enslavement of the Haitian people to the extent that a clause has been inserted in their Constitution recognizing the validity of all decisions made by the authorities of the military occupation.

"Haiti must be restored to the full enjoyment of its sovereign rights in the shortest time possible. It is obvious that certain United States interests will oppose such a move, but it is time to serve notice on American government officials that the American Hemisphere cannot accept the existence of capital investments or the possibility of increasing the material progress of any one country as an excuse for maintenance of illegitimate military occupations. This policy of 'protection,' which is repudiated by entire America, must cease at once and for all."

HOPES TO DISTILL COAL.

Lord Melchett Sails to Investigate South African Fuel.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Lord Melchett, chairman of the Imperial Chemical Industries, left London today for South Africa accompanied by Lady Melchett. The Imperial Chemical Industries have large interests there in conjunction with the De Beers Company and African Explosives and Industries, and Lord Melchett is interested in the possibility of applying the process which his firm is engaged upon for the distillation and the production of oil and petrol from coal.

"South Africa," he said, "possesses large quantities of cheap coal but no other natural fuel, and we consider that it would prove an interesting field of study for development. It is of special importance to the empire to neglect no potential source of supply of oil and fuel."

Lord Melchett's visit will mark the opening of an extensive campaign of the South African interests for empire free trade, in which he is interested. He will be the guest of Sir Abe Bailey on his visit.

SWEDEN HAS WARM SPELL

Mildest Winter Known in 140 Years Is Recorded.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 10.—Sweden, too, is having a warm spell in mid-Winter. Owing to the almost complete lack of snow this has been the warmest Winter known in 140 years. Nervousness is felt in woodcutting districts where logs cannot be hauled by the usual Winter methods and serious unemployment is threatened.

SNOWDEN PREDICTS YOUNG PLAN ACCORD

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

through the application of the Young plan. The Germans immediately asked for a guarantee about sanctions, and with their adding the moratorium theory the meeting has got into a discussion not of how the Young plan should be carried out but of what will happen if the Young plan is not carried out. Little else has been talked about.

Naturally, the German insistence upon protection from dire results if they do not pay has directed the creditors' attention to what might happen in that case, and the conference is now tangled up in arguments which have involved the domestic political positions of the German and the French Governments.

However, unlike the situation at the August Hague meeting, all the former Allies are united, and since, after all, Germany would be the greatest gainer from the Young plan and since the Dawes plan remains in effect if the Young plan does not begin operation, it is a good broad guess that the Germans will meet the allied terms. Up to now the Germans have been playing on M. Tardieu's desire to get away quickly to attend the London Naval Arms Conference, but if M. Tardieu confronts the Germans with two or three months' delay if the conference does not finish next week, things may move along faster.

Hungarian Issue In Setback.

The hopes for an early settlement of the issue of Hungarian reparations were dampened tonight when Count Bethlen, Hungarian Premier, issued a statement saying his country would not agree to the demand of the Little Entente nations that Hungary pay reparations after 1943 and that he would resign rather than agree to honor the demands of Hungarian nationals that lands in territories ceded to Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia be checked off against reparation payments.

Count Bethlen argues that Hungary by the Treaty of Trianon lost 72 per cent of her territory. Former State property in regions taken from her was estimated by him to be worth $600,000,000, and Hungary agreed to pay $50,000,000 between 1924 and 1944. All in all, he estimates that Hungary has paid and is paying $700,000,000 annually for the debts of Hungarian nationals.

"Remember," he says, "that all these payments are being made by a country with 8,600,000 inhabitants, which was overrun by foreign armies after the armistice, then subjected to bolshevism and afterward to occupation by a foreign army."

Who can tell, he asks, if Hungary can pay reparations after 1944? Sooner than agree to that he would resign. "No government," he said, "could live one day in Hungary if it promised to pay reparations after 1943."

Coming to the real issue Count Bethlen's statement says:

"It is proposed that the Paris question of reparations should be connected with some 5,000 or 6,000 claims being brought by Hungarian nationals in the mixed arbitral tribunals in Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia and that possible awards by these courts against the three succession States should be compensated against reparations to be paid by Hungary after 1943.

"In other words, reparations payable by Hungary would then be determined not by the damage done by her during the war but by damage done to Hungarian nationals in contravention of the treaty of peace by the governments of the succession States. That is Alice in Wonderland with a vengeance."

Count Bethlen concludes by saying that it would be a fitting completion of The Hague conference to relieve Hungary from all reparations after 1943 "and thus help her in her struggle to become a sound and self-supporting unit among the nations of Europe."

Briand Leaves for Paris.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 10 (AP).—The leading delegates at the second session of The Hague conference on reparations are beginning to leave this city. Foreign Minister Briand of France took the North Star express for Paris today with Geneva and the session of the Council of the League of Nations as his ultimate destination. Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany is getting ready to join him there at the beginning of the week.

Belgium Now Claims World Bank.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—An unexpected difference of views concerning the seat of the future Bank for International Settlements, as provided by the Young plan, has arisen between Belgium and Switzerland. It was generally thought that Basle had been definitely chosen, but Belgium now claims the honor for Brussels.

Germany is backing Belgium and France is backing Switzerland in the dispute, while England and indirectly America want Basle for several strong reasons, chiefly the stability of the Swiss franc and the strong position of the Swiss finance and political situation protected by Switzerland's neutrality in Europe, all of which favor large international financial transactions with a maximum of safety.

Professor Bachmann, president of the Swiss National Bank, who is expected to be elected president of the Bank for International Settlements, is now visiting Brussels and Paris concerning this important question. He is expected to make a statement on the situation on his return to Berne next week.

FRENCH SAY PARLEY IS VAGUE ON AIMS

They Protest Lack of Clarity as to Naval Stands of Powers —Score Unpreparedness.

PROBLEMS ARE STRESSED

Lack of Agreement With Italy Is Emphasized—Size of American Delegation Stirs Interest.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Except as regards her own position, it is being complained in France that there is, even now, on the eve of the London Arms Conference, no precision and no clarity as to what is hoped for or intended, or as to what is the position of each of the other interested powers.

The fact that such an important and numerous delegation has sailed from the United States has come rather as a surprise to the man in the street here, for he is accustomed to conferences, and this one has suddenly assumed an unusual and unexpected importance from the items of news which have appeared in the French press as to the country houses which have been rented by the American delegates in England, the statement of President Hoover that the conference might last three or four months and the unusual number of newspaper men who are accompanying the American delegation. For the first time, these news items have really aroused a general interest in what has always been considered as a highly technical question.

Hold Parley Is Unprepared.

The Chamber of Deputies has certainly been fully aware, from the first, both of the importance of the conference and its probable difficulties. But even among those who are beginning to reassemble for next week's opening of the Chamber there is a kind of puzzled complaint that neither Washington nor London nor Rome has yet made its position on anything connected with the conference very clear. Indeed, the criticism is strong that the conference is entirely unprepared, and an unprepared conference, in French opinion, means one which is bound to fail.

There are certainly none of the high hopes which seem to have accompanied the departure of the American delegation. Here there is rather a tendency to count the difficulties, and when these are counted the conclusion is always that it will not take three months for one conference, but three years and many conferences to straighten them out.

"It is all so obviously business for the permanent commissions and an organization like the League of Nations," one of the parliamentarians who will accompany the French delegation declared today. "Something may be done in two or three months' but it can be nothing definite," he added.

Stress Difficulty With Italy.

Some of the difficulties seen here can be enumerated. The French feel they are going into a conference about which not even the first principles have been decided. They do not know whether or not any of the arguments advanced in their memorandum of last month have been or will be accepted. They do not know what is going to be proposed. They do know that during the three months they have been trying to reach an understanding with Italy nothing has been accomplished. Several notes have been exchanged, but these have revealed only that there is an essential and irreconcilable difference between the Italian and French views on nearly every major issue.

The Italians began the negotiations by demanding publicly in Washington parity with France. That was believed to be in itself enough to wreck any effort to arrive at an understanding, for the French, with their six new colonial naval bases in the West Indies, West Africa, the eastern Mediterranean, the southern Indian Ocean, China and Polynesia, and with a colonial empire equal in size to all Europe, say they cannot and will not accept any parity with a country whose interests are confined to the Mediterranean.

Press Fleet Equal to Needs.

But M. Briand was not discouraged. He tried his suggestion of a Mediterranean pact of non-aggression. The Italians have so far regarded it coldly. They would, it appears, prefer first a settlement of their difficulties with France—such as that concerning Italian rights in Tunisia—and then to make a two-power pact. Before they enter any general pact, however, they are anxious to have a settlement of the Tunisian claim.

There are other difficulties between these two members of the London conference, and, indeed, it may be said the only point of agreement between them is that arms limitation should be made as a whole—and on that point they are at variance with all the other delegations, and especially with that of America. Even on the question as to whether tonnage should be calculated as a whole or by categories, they are not in complete accord.

Between the French view and that of a certain school in England which disagrees with the present government, there is much more agreement than is to be found almost anywhere else. That agreement lies in the claim that each country should have a fleet sufficient for its needs and dignity. Such a claim, the French declare, ought never to create a spirit of rivalry, for the needs are easily definable and should be justifiable in open court. Their own basis for the calculation of their needs has already been clearly stated, and, of course, it includes a large submarine program for coast protection in place of the old system of coast fortifications.

French Lack Optimism.

There, they come counter to the English thesis and are not sure of the American attitude, though recently assurances seme to have been given that the American delegation will not oppose their claim on this count.

Considered by and large, therefore, the Frenchman of ordinary perception sees little ground for optimism as to the outcome of the conference. Certainly, he cannot foresee any startling and sensational achievement for world peace as likely to emerge. He feels that all that can legitimately be hoped is that a quarrel should be avoided at London and some points of principle laid down for further consideration at Geneva and inclusion in a general arms limitation pact.

M. Briand returned to the capital this evening from The Hague and he will be at Geneva on Monday for the opening of the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations. From there he will go almost directly to London, so the chances for further preliminary arrangements are small. It must be at London that the many differences which still exist must be smoothed out, if possible. It seems likely there will be much smoothing to be done before any concrete propositions can be considered.

SAYS NAVY PARLEY MUST ACHIEVE ENDS

Mrs. Catt Asserts People Demand Delegates to London Accomplish Their Purpose.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Naval Arms Conference at London will succeed because a successful outcome is demanded by the people, according to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, who arrived from New York today for the fifth annual conference of the committee, beginning next Tuesday.

"I believe that we are at a real turn of the road," said Mrs. Catt. "The previous naval parley failed. But the people had nothing to say about it. Now the people are ready to speak and the government representatives to this conference must accomplish something because the people demand it."

Mrs. Catt declared that the purpose of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War was to "adopt a constructive, sensibly operating peace program."

"We are not for a radical peace," said Mrs. Catt, "by which I mean the laying down of arms on the part of the United States and allowing the other nations to walk over us. What we desire to do is to become acquainted with other nations, to study their policies and aims and to come to peace by a well reasoned and carefully protected road. Peace is by far the most popular question among organized women of the United States at this time and international relations departments in the various societies are crowding all other committees and programs in point of interest."

House Appeals for Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Hope that the London Naval Arms Conference will bring relief from the burdens of competitive naval construction and give "people and governments firm assurance of national security," was expressed today in a resolution adopted by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The resolution constituted merely an expression of opinion.

Five women, representing five great nations, are on their way to Washington to discuss what women can do to support their governments in steps taken at the Naval Arms Conference in London. They are delegates to the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, which opens here Jan. 14.

This will be the first presentation of the viewpoints of other nations at the conference since it was organized five years ago.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt arrived today to welcome as chairman the five international delegates and the 500 women representing ten organizations in this country.

The five women delegates will hold an open forum Jan. 17 to discuss the causes and cures of war from viewpoints gained in their individual countries. The delegates are Kathleen D. Courtney of England, Frau Dorothee von Velsen of Germany, Mme. Marie-Louise Puech of France, Mme. Tsune Gauntlett of Japan and Miss Ruth Morgan of the United States.

Kathleen Courtney is honorary secretary of the British Women's Peace Crusade, which she helped organize and which worked for the acceptance of the Kellogg pact. She was decorated by the Serbian Government for relief work in the World War.

Frau Dorothee von Velsen was in the German civil service in the occupied districts of Belgium and the Ukraine during the war. Last Summer she organized the Berlin Congress of Women.

Mme. Marie-Louise Puech has been connected with the French peace movement since 1908. She wears a war decoration for her work among refugee children. She helps edit La Paix par le Droit, a monthly magazine.

Mme. Tsune Gauntlett is vice president of the Japan Women's Christian Temperance Union. She helped organize the Japan Women's Peace Association. She is the wife of an English professor in the Tokio University of Commerce.

WILL ROGERS SAILS.

Leaves on Bremen as "Surprise" Delegate to Naval Conference.

Will Rogers, American humorist, sailed last night on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen as a "surprise" delegate to the naval conference in London. He said he had found himself with three weeks' vacation on his hands and had decided to go to London and "fix things up" at the naval conference so that the regular delegates would escape being "swamped under by a lot of heavy issues." He is always ready to do what he can for the country, he said, whenever he has the time.

The Bremen sailed shortly after midnight with 1,400 passengers. Among those on board were Captain Hermann Koehl, transatlantic aviator, who plans a trip to South Africa; Theodore Douglas Robinson, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy; William Philip Simms of the Scripps-Howard newspapers; Mrs. William Randolph Hearst and Max Bartsch, ship designer. About 5,000 were at the pier for the sailing.

LEGION COMMANDER FAVORS NAVAL CUTS

Opposes Disarmament by Example, but Hopes for Parity by Reduction.

BRITISH STAND PLEASING

United States Glad of Assurance of Willingness to Reduce Cruiser Fleet to Fifty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—The American Legion opposes American "naval disarmament by example" and demands parity with the greatest naval power at the London naval conference, but hopes that "parity will be brought about by reduction rather than by construction," Major O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the Legion, declared in an address tonight at a banquet of the Sojourners at the Mayflower Hotel.

"It is to be hoped," he asserted, "that the conclusions of the London conference will be such as to meet with the hearty approval of the American people. Pending the announcement of such conclusions, however, certainly our obligation to the promotion of world peace and to the progress of international goodwill justifies us in giving to the American delegation and to the conference a sympathetic and friendly attitude.

"The ultimate results sought by the United States and Great Britain in this impending conference—that of equal strength, with safe reductions and with the guarantee of peace—are in keeping with the strongest desires of the American Legion."

Welcomed by Administration.

The position of the Legion as defined by its national commander was generally accepted here as in line with the program of the United States at the naval conference, and was welcomed in administration circles as encouraging support from ranks which know from experience the cost of war.

This government was glad to have the assurance today of A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the British Admiralty, in his speech at Sheffield, England, that Great Britain was prepared to reduce its cruiser fleet from the seventy it contended for at Geneva in 1927 to fifty, which was the basis set forth in the conversations of recent months between Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes.

There was also satisfaction over the reference to the Kellogg antiwar treaty as the cornerstone of the London naval conference, but at the same time hope was still held that Great Britain would eventually agree to fewer than fifty cruisers, so that the United States might reduce its cruiser fleet below the approximately 300,000 tons it now contemplates.

Should Great Britain continue to stand for the fifty cruisers as the minimum, it is believed the American demand will have to be for at least twenty-one of the 10,000-ton cruisers and that considerable time will be required in the conference to reach an accommodation on that basis as among Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

Commends American Delegation.

Major Bodenhamer in his address tonight commended the American delegation as well balanced, and said the members were "qualified to represent the United States of America."

"We, as Americans," he continued, "desire no advantage in the matter of armament. We, however, are just as firm in our conviction that no other nation should, by armament or otherwise, secure an advantage over the United States. We of the Legion know the futility of war, but we likewise know the disastrous results of unpreparedness. We must therefore continue to insist that the safety of America demands the adoption of a safe and sane policy relative to national defense in all of its different phases. As we march toward the goal of world peace and reduction of armament is it not the part of wisdom for the United States and all the other nations to advance in even rank, step by step, as we discard and reduce the weapons of war?

"The aftermath of the Washington conference, in which we set the example by scrapping approximately 800,000 tons of ships, proved that reduction by example does not necessarily produce the desired results. Disarmament by agreement, however, even though we follow this plan of reduction, should not be allowed to reach such a point as to endanger the security and permanency of the Republic.

Major Bodenhamer, in urging preparedness "for defense, not offense," called upon Congress to pass the Reed-Wainwright resolution for ascertaining the feasibility of a universal draft applicable to property as well as to men within reasonable limits and sounded a warning against too great reduction in the national defense.

PARLEY DELEGATES CONFER ON LINER

the limitation of naval armaments will begin next year, when, under the twenty-year efficiency rule of that treaty, the United States can begin the construction of battleships to replace the Utah and Florida.

Huge Outlay in Fifteen Years.

The replacement costs, an average of $50,000,000 for each battleship, will, unless the matter is adjusted at the London conference, cost the United States not less than $700,000,000 in the next fifteen years. Great Britain's outlay would be about the same and Japan's would be at least a third of the United States. The reduction of this huge financial load by a treaty is believed to be one of the principal subjects of the conferences on the ship.

The George Washington is expected to arrive at Plymouth early Friday morning. A special train will proceed immediately with the American party to London, where it will arrive about 1 P. M. that day.

With the possible exception of the South American trip of President Hoover, it is not believed any other vessel has handled so much official wireless business with Washington and London since the World War.

Many Felicitations Received.

ABOARD S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, AT SEA, Jan. 10 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Stimson continue to take their meals in the main dining room, although all delegates and their immediate parties are spending much time in their suites except for occasional walks along the decks.

Unlike their chiefs, the personal staffs of the delegates are constatnly engaged in responding to radio messages of felicitation from all parts of America. It was estimated tonight that more than 600 such messages had been received and many came from organizations and churches expressing sympathy with the purpose of the conference. Secretary Stimson said that none of them had been adverse to the mission upon which he is engaged.

This steamship tonight made its way eastward with the best speed compatible with the intermittent fog banks and rain squalls encountered. As is usual off the North Atlantic coast in Winter, the weather was alternately foggy and clear today. After a bright dawn the weather thickened. Captain Randall throughout has personally supervised the bridge, even after his long vigil through last night.

It was expected tonight that the party would reach London on Jan. 17 before the close of business and efforts will be made to permit its arrival even earlier on that day.

GERMAN NAVAL MEN EXHIBIT IRRITATION

Experts There Cannot Understand Why Their Country Was Not Invited to London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—With the approach of the London conference, German naval experts are evincing decided nervousness and even touchiness because of the not always friendly discussions of "Germany's little navy" in the French and English Parliaments and the foreign press. Former Vice Admiral Carl von Hollweg, writing in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, points out that while French and English critics are for selfish reasons magnifying the fighting qualities of Germany's new 10,000-ton mystery cruiser, some American naval writers are poking fun at "the German baby battleships."

"However, it is France's own business if in London she should decide to exchange the superior speed of her 10,000-ton cruisers for the greater fighting power in ships of equal size," argues Admiral von Hollweg, "but they (the five powers) cannot expect Germany to waive the right to make any improvements or that before starting any new construction she will ask the French Naval Minister's permission. The result of any compromise dictated by France might again be objectionable to England."

But what irritates Admiral von Hollweg and other German naval men most is the fact that Germany was not invited to take part in the London conference.

"That Germany was not invited in 1921 we can understand," says the Admiral, "because the world then was still war mad. There was no German merchant fleet left to speak of and Germany's foreign trade was destroyed. The victorious powers had nearly accomplished their aim: Disappearance of the German flag from the seas. But today one glance at the world's trade statistics will convince anybody that the Germans are still a seafaring people and always must be—at least if expected to carry out the so-called policy of fulfillment.

"Germany will also remain a so-called world power even if she lacks complete sovereignty. She has a seat in the Council of the League of Nations. Now would it not have been better to invite her, if only in an advisory capacity, to the five power conference, especially as the world seems to take such a great interest in the reconstruction of her tiny fleet?

"Surely the effect of Germany's representation in London would have been quite in keeping with Hoover's, Kellogg's and MacDonald's aims for maritime disarmament. Perhaps Germany would have done well to apply for admission if only for an observer, because she cannot afford to let any chance for naval disarmament pass—not even the slightest."

ADMIRALTY LISTS NAVAL STRENGTHS

British Return Puts American Cruisers at 14, British at 54 and Japanese at 37.

NOTES REDUCTIONS HERE

Survey Gives Britain's Destroyer Total as 134 and Ours as 309—Tokio Has 64 Submarines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Almost on the eve of the naval arms conference, the British Admiralty Intelligence Department has issued its annual return showing the strength in ships built, buildin gand projected of the seven principal naval powers.

Counting from the date of completion, the return assumes the life of battleships, battle cruisers and aircraft carrier cruisers is twenty years; of destroyers, sixteen years; of submarines, twelve years; of coastal motor boats, ten years, and of other vessels, twenty.

It puts the numerical cruiser strength of the various powers on Dec. 1, 1929, as follows:

Britain, fifty-four; the United States, fourteen; Japan, thirty-seven; France, seventeen; Italy, thirteen; Russia, four, and Germany, seven. This summary, it is pointed out, should not be taken as a criterion of relative strength, which must be considered in relation to such matters as the size of the ships, the calibre of guns, age and war-worthiness.

In the British cruiser total, it is remarked, there are twenty-four ships of the "C" class—small, slightly armed vessels of pre-war or early war design, built for work in the North Sea and sometimes described as "glorified destroyers." They have no contemporaries of similar design in other navies.

On the other hand, Japan has twenty-three cruisers of post-war design, all with a speed of thirty-three knots, a rate of which only two British cruisers, the Enterprise and the Emerald, have been shown to be capable.

Work has not been started on any new cruisers for the British Navy since the last return was issued, but it is shown that the United States has commenced to build ten cruisers of 10,000 tons, France having started on one of 10,000 tons, to be named the Duplex, and Italy on six, of which four will be of 10,000 tons, carrying eight 8-inch guns, and two of 5,000 tons, carrying eight 6-inch guns. Japan has not laid down any new cruisers.

The United States cruiser list of completed ships, according to the Admiralty return, shows a big reduction owing to the elimination from the list of certain classes of the older armored and protected cruisers completed between 1894 and 1906. For some years the total was thirty-two ships, but the removal of these obsolete vessels reduced it to fourteen, of which ten are post war vessels of the Omoha class, of 7,050 tons and armed with twelve 6-inch guns.

During the year, Britain's Destroyer total declined from 140 to 134, while that of the United States remains at 309, of which sixty-one are shown in the return as "listed for disposal." Japan's destroyer total has increased from 101 to 106 and that of France from fifty-four to fifty-eight. The totals for the other powers have remained about the same. There is a net gain of one in the British total of fifty-three submarines, which is still less than half the United States total of 122, and eleven less than Japan's total of sixty-four. France has fifty-two submarines built and is projecting forty-seven.

An interesting move which may have some connection with a possible agreement by the London conference concerning smaller vessels is shown in the particulars of the new British flotilla leader class, the displacement of which has been reduced from 1,520 to 1,330 tons, and the armament from five to three 4.7-inch guns. Similarly, in the list of British submarines, it is shown that of the six authorized, two will be of 1,760 tons and four small ones of 640 tons. Some of France's submarines are rated at 2,880 tons.

The return contains no figures of Spain's growing fleet, and it is said the figures for Russia are open to some doubt.

PRINCE WILL HEAR KING'S NAVAL TALK

British Heir to Listen to Speech of Father by Radio 8,000 Miles Away.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Prince of Wales will listen in from Cape Town —8,000 miles away—when his father, King George, broadcasts the opening speech of the London Naval Arms Conference Jan. 21. He will hear it from Government House at Cape Town, where he will be the guest of his uncle, the Governor General, the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice.

Officials of the British Broadcasting Corporation are making elaborate preparations to send the King's speech not only to the United States, but also to distant dominions and are confident of reaching Cape Town by relay from the powerful Johannesburg station.

In case the Prince's ship, Kenilworth Castle, should be delayed and fail to reach Cape Town by the twenty-first, there is still likelihood that the Prince can hear his father's speech. The Kenilworth Castle is due on the twentieth, but in any event she will be near enough for the Johannesburg relay to be picked up on the ship's wireless.

forward to a period in which armed conflicts need not be expected."

Report Progress After Parley.

At the end of their second conversation, lasting two hours, today, Premier MacDonald and the Japanese delegates, former Premier Wakatsuki, Admiral Takarabe and Ambassador Matsudaira issued a communiqué saying:

"Progress has been made in the discussion of the various questions of special interest to Japan and Great Britain which will come up at the naval conference."

From what was learned after the talk it was evident the word "progress" applied to that part of the discussion which concerned tentative proposals to reduce the size of capital ships and not to Japan's demand that she should have 70 per cent of large-type cruiser strength of the power which holds the largest number of such 10,000-ton cruisers.

This is a demand which the Japanese advanced in Washington without receiving encouragement from the American Government that it would be granted. The British Government apparently has no intention of taking an attitude in this matter different from that of America in the preliminary negotiations.

The number of large cruisers which Japan asks as a minimum consistent with her security is twelve or thirteen, which would be 70 per cent of eighteen, the least number which America is supposed to be considering for herself. But Japan's twelve or thirteen would be 80 per cent of the fifteen which would satisfy England in the 10,000-ton group, and 80 per cent, in the opinion of the British, might be too much of a jump from the 60 per cent which was allotted to Japan as her battleship proportion at the Washington conference of 1921.

It is significant that at today's conference with the Japanese delegates Premier MacDonald was accompanied by Robert L. Craigie, head of the American division of the Foreign Office. Mr. Craigie also will be a guest tomorrow at Chequers, where Mr. MacDonald is going to entertain the Japanese at a luncheon.

London Times Scores Stand.

The London Times does not think Mr. Alexander's view that England can reduce her cruisers from seventy to fifty because of the Kellogg pact is satisfactory, because while the cruiser may be an instrument of war with other nations it is useful to England for many purposes.

"There is no explanation," The London Times will say editorially tomorrow, "merely in the signature of the Pact of Paris for so substantial a change in view. Moreover, assuming that the new confidence is justified and the possibility of war may now be safely left out of calculations, it might have been expected that the effect would be felt not so much in the number of cruisers which we need for peace as well as war purposes as in those ships which were built solely for war, the huge battleships which are the core of the fighting fleet. It is beginning at the wrong end to cut down cruisers instead of dealing with ships that exist for war and war only."

SHEFFIELD, England, Jan. 10 (AP).—The text of Mr. Alexander's address here today follows:

I want to acknowledge that up to the present the press in this country has maintained an attitude of great friendliness and helpfulness with regard to the forthcoming five-power conference. But with the emergence of some of the main problems to be considered, and particularly the problem of cruiser strength, I have observed a tendency for the press to ask "What is the attitude of the Admiralty with regard to fixing the minimum requirements of cruiser strength for the British Empire at fifty ships instead of the seventy ships asked for in 1927?"

Let me say at the outset that in decisions of policy on matters of this kind it is the government which is responsible and which must answer to the nation. But in view of the nature of certain questions which have been put in the press, I think it would be opportune for me, as First Lord of the Admiralty, to explain the Admiralty's views.

Our estimate of the defense requirements of the British Empire has been summed up in the policy of successive governments to his Majesty here and in the Dominions, namely, a one-power naval standard.

In the matter of capital ships, this has been very simply expressed in the form of parity with the greatest other naval power. This was the main achievement of the Washington conference. In the matter of cruisers it is not so simple, and this was the crux of the Geneva conference of three powers, which failed to reach an agreement.

Cruisers Important Issue.

One of the most important aims of the London conference will be to reconcile our defense needs in the matter of cruisers with the requirements of an international agreement.

After the Washington conference, at which the question of cruiser strength was only to a limited extent touched upon, the Board of Admiralty advised the government of the day of their views of the needs of the British Empire in cruiser strength.

The number, which is based on the needs of defense for our world-wide vital sea communication, was fixed at seventy. That was the number which, had conditions remained the same, would be our requirement today.

But today we have to take account of the new situation which has arisen through the signature of the pact of Paris outlawing war by most of the nations of the world, including all the major naval powers, and not only by those who are members of the League of Nations but also by the United States, who, by their authorship of this pact, took their second great step in the practical solution of the world's need for assured peace.

With such powerful support for peace we feel justified in looking forward to a period in which armed conflicts need not be expected.

The Board of Admiralty, therefore, having regard to all the circumstances of today and especially to the pact of Paris and to improved world political relationships, are prepared to agree to fifty cruisers as the minimum needs of the empire up to the next date for a conference and a revision, which we expect to be near 1936.

I must emphasize that this figure is the lowest we feel can be fixed to meet even peace conditions in present world circumstances.

British Responsibility Enormous.

The responsibility of the British Commonwealth, both imperially and internationally, including large commitments to the League of Nations is enormous, and the navy is required again and again—as illustrated in the recent Palestine disturbances—to take both precautionary and effective action in carrying out our obligations to keep the peace in some parts of the world even when the major powers of the world are at peace.

We hope that international peace will be permanent, and that a further agreement in 1936 will confirm and extend the present agreement. But if, unhappily, the international horizon, should become in the future less unclouded than it is today, it will be upon the Board of Admiralty to review their position and to make further proposals to his Majesty's Government.

The proposed reduction in the number of cruisers to fifty is, of course, dependent on agreement at the forthcoming conference on adequate limitation of projected building programs being made by other powers.

Our aim is to reduce existing commitments and to stabilize our position by mutual agreement with others, avoiding competitive building and the expenditure of excessive sums of money.

The naval conference upon which we are entering will probably be the greatest of its kind ever held in the history of the world and no delegates of the British nation can afford not to be impressed with the importance and the responsibility of the occasion.

In 1921 and 1922 at Washington we achieved an agreement with regard to capital ships, and on the assumption that we adopted a one-power standard we then conceded to America parity with regard to capital ships. That agreement still runs and ultimately our strength of capital ships will be reduced to fifteen, but so far as we are concerned we should very much like to see, if replacements are to take place as they must take place, a capital ship which would be less expensive to build and to maintain than the ship involved in the maximum tonnage laid down in the Washington treaty.

Ready for Parity in All Classes.

There has never been an agreement with regard to the ratios of cruisers and destroyers. We said to America we were prepared to concede full and friendly parity between this country and theirs in naval strength in all the categories in addition to those agreed upon in 1921 and 1922.

At whatever point we think requirements will allow us to come down to, we should be quite willing for the other great English-speaking nation to take parity with us, ship for ship and ton for ton, but the difficulty has been that after you have agreed on the general principle of parity there has not been any agreement as to how the total tonnage covered by the parity should be allocated and as to what size a ship should be built inside that tonnage.

The difficulty up to the present has been to get agreement as to what should be the proper equation to get effective parity between us and the United States.

That was the position when the Prime Minister made his visit to the United States. We hope now we shall arrive at a lasting basis of agreement not only on the question of parity between ourselves and America but also in regard to ratios between ourselves and other countries.

There are two other main categories, destroyers and submarines, which must come under review. The extent to which you can get very substantial reductions in destroyer provision depends upon the measure of success you can get in regard to reduction in submarines.

I have never hesitated to say that nothing would please us more from the humanitarian point of view than complete abolition of the submarine, but there are difficulties to get the consent of other powers with regard to proposals in this respect. At the same time, it ought to be possible to have some measure of reduction.

It has been quite obvious that the feeling between ourselves and America has not always been of the best and since the war something has wanted doing. I am quite sure now that we are in for a more free and frank relationship than at one time was likely.

Britain Has Sixty Cruisers Now.

LONDON, Jan. 10 (Canadian Press).—The announcement by the First Lord of the Admiralty tonight that Britain will reduce her cruiser requirements for the British Empire from seventy to fifty does little more than bring official policy in line with fact.

All cruisers of the British Empire, including Australia and New Zealand, old and new, built and building, do not total more than sixty vessels. This includes six cruisers laid down or to be built later for replacement. Of the sixty, more than two-thirds are light vessels under the 10,000-ton measurements of the Washington treaty, the bulk of these forty or more being at least ten years old and some of them being pre-war vessels.

SMUTS SEES DANGER IF WE SCORN LEAGUE

Addresses Meeting of Notables, Presided Over by John W. Davis, Urging Entry of America.

KERR TELLS OF CHANGES

Compares Former Alliances for War With Present-Day Combinations for Peace.

Reviewing the first ten years of the League of Nations and prophesying on its future during the next decade, General Jan Christiaan Smuts, speaking last night at a dinner to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the League, declared that it would be tragic if the seat of the country that originated its idea, the United States, were to remain empty ten years hence. Twelve hundred members of the League of Nations Association attended the dinner, which was held in the ballroom of the Hotel Commodore. Among them were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who sat beside General Smuts; Alistair MacDonald, son of the British Prime Minister; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Philip Kerr, Raymond B. Fosdick and Bishop James Cannon Jr.

The work accomplished by the League of Nations, particularly in the matter of world peace, was lauded by General Smuts and other speakers. The South African statesman referred to the League as "your baby, placed on the doorstep of the Old World."

"Greatest Adventure of History."

It was, he said, the greatest adventure of history, doomed to disaster by its enemies, covered with ridicule by its opponents, but living on triumphantly.

"You may feel a bit shy about this baby of yours," added General Smuts; "but the fact remains that the idea originated in the United States and I think it both proper and fitting that you should celebrate its tenth anniversary in this country."

Referring to the League as "the temple of peace of the human race," General Smuts said that victors and vanquished alike, with the exception of Turkey and Russia, have joined and are keenly working together over the conference table instead of forming alliances for war and employing the old secret methods of diplomacy. He predicted that all the nations, "with one possible exception," would join the League in the next decade. By the exception he meant the United States, and expressed the opinion that it would be a great tragedy were not its seat at the council table filled.

Speaking of Russia, General Smuts said that her abandonment by all other countries was a bitter event in history.

Smuts Has Hopes for Russia.

"There is some burden on the conscience of mankind regarding Russia," he declared. "Russia broke down after losing millions of men and has been left alone to flounder along. But the fatted calf will be slaughtered yet for Russia, and I am certain that she will join the League of Nations within the next ten years."

General Smuts expressed hope also in the mission of the American delegation that has just left for the naval disarmament conference in London, saying that it should become a real turning point toward the success of permanent peace.

Kerr Reviews League's Work.

A descriptive account of the workings of the League of Nations, as well as its history in the last decade, was given by Mr. Kerr, who was attached for several years to the League of Nations and has edited publications in South Africa. In his work he has been closely associated with General Smuts, and in his address he paid frequent tributes to both the former Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa and to President Wilson's contributions to the creation of the League.

Mr. Kerr, who is now secretary of the Rhodes Trust and is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on matters pertaining to the League of Nations, dwelt on the critical situation that existed in the early days of the League when one faction wanted the League to be a sort of international policeman, employing force to prevent war, and another advocated the settlement of disputes by conference. The latter won and Mr. Kerr pointed out the tremendous advantages thereby gained.

Mr. Kerr said that in the conferences of the representatives of the fifty-odd nations that compose the League of Nations it would be impossible to arrive at any results without "that Tower of Babel," the Secretariat. He described the methods of finding evidence, of bring to light the whole truth by men of great ability, who thereby furnished the material of proof and weight for those who conferred.

League Secretariat's Importance.

"In a court trial," said Mr. Kerr, "you must first of all have the evidence. When you have all the evidence, three-quarters of the work is accomplished. This evidence is furnished, and readily furnished, by the members of the League Secretariat, without whom, I can safely say, it would be well-nigh impossible to carry on the work that goes on so smoothly."

The achievements of the League of Nations in the field of peace since its formation were sketched by the speaker, who recalled the days before the war, when countries made alliances not for peace but for the eventualities of war. If, he said, the world of 1912 could see the world of 1930 it would gape with amazement. The formation of the League was not a sudden matter. It was well conceived, well planned, and yet, had it not been formed then, there would, in all probability, always have been strife, discontent and danger in the world.

John W. Davis, who presided, also pleaded for the entry of the United States in the League of Nations. He introduced Frederic Coudert Jr., who presented a resolution lauding the entry of the United States in the World Court.

Text of the Resolution.

The text of the resolution which was adopted follows:

Whereas on Jan. 27, 1926, the Senate of the United States adopted a resolution by a vote of 76 to 17, advising and consenting to the adherence of the United States to the protocol and statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice, popularly known as the World Court, subject to certain reservations and understandings, and

Whereas copies of this resolution were sent by the Secretary of State to the powers signatory to said protocol and statute, and

Whereas ready and unconditional acceptance by the Conference of Signatory States, held in Geneva in September, 1926, was given to all the United tSates reservations except the first part of the fourth and fifth, and

Whereas, the conference of signatory States, in their reply, indicated that there should be a further exchange of views with the Government of the United States, and

Whereas, under date of Feb. 29, 1929, the Secretary of the United States, in a note addressed to the signatory States, agreed that an informal exchange of views should lead to an agreement upon some provision that in unobjectionable for mwould protect the rights and interests of the United States as an adherent to the Court, and

Whereas, the Committee of Jurists, of which Mr. Root was a member, adopted, on March 18, 1929, a draft protocol designed to satisfy the reservations of the United States, and

Whereas, fifty of the fifty-four member nations have signed this agreement and the other four are expected to do so within a very short time, and

Whereas on Dec. 9, 1929, by the authority of President Hoover, the signature of the United States Government was affixed to the three World Court protocols;

Now, therefore, be it Resolved, By those present at the dinner given at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, on the evening of Jan. 10, 1930, that this action of President Hoover be most heartily approved; and

Be it further Resolved, That the President be respectfully urged to submit, at an early date, the signed protocols to the United States Senate for its consent and ratification; and

Be it further Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to President Hoover by the presiding officer of this meeting.

LEAGUE IS HAILED ON TENTH BIRTHDAY

Sweden and Denmark Felicitate It for Accomplishments in Name of Peace.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—The tenth anniversary of the birth of the League of Nations, which came into being with the entry into vigor of the Treaty of Versailles, on Jan. 10, 1920, passed here without ceremony, the secretariat doing business as usual.

The occasion was marked, however, by telegrams of felicitations to the Secretary-General received from the Foreign Ministers of Sweden and Denmark.

The former expresses the Swedish Government's "best wishes for this great international institution, which already, in the short span of its existence, has rendered such remarkable services in the stabilization of world peace and whose useful work and beneficial influence is developing continually."

Denmark expressed "sincere gratitude for the work so successfully accomplished by the League and its secretariat during the first ten years," adding that the Danes "always endeavor to contribute to its future development."

The only allusion to the occasion made here came from Sir Sydney Chapman of Great Britain, who, in a report to the regular session of the Economic Committee today mentioned as a member his appreciation of the development of the League in the past decade.

The committee devoted the day to technical reports. The American member, Lucius Eastman, is not attending this session.

The tenth anniversary of the first meeting of the council will be on Jan. 16, in the course of next week's session. That day probably will be commemorated here with a speech by Foreign Minister August Zaleski of Poland, who will preside at the meeting, also possibly by the Spanish member, Señor Quinones de Leon, who is the only delegate attending the coming fifty-eighth session who was present at the first one.

Germans in Danzig Mourn.

DANZIG, Jan. 10 (AP).—Today, the tenth anniversary of the "forcible" severance of Danzig from the German Fatherland, was kept as a day of mourning by the overwhelmingly German population of the Free City. It was made the occasion for patriotic addresses and articles in the press, in which hopes of ultimate reunion were revived.

The newspapers recalled the declaration by Poland's first Premier, Ignace Jan Paderewski, in 1918, that "Danzig's occupation will be Poland's aim." They emphasized that Polonization of the Danzig port and railways was making continuous headway and that Danzig's financial affairs had become increasingly dependent upon Poland's overlordship, while competition of the new Polish port, Gdynia, constituted a growing menace to Danzig prosperity.

The newspapers then called upon the German populace to stand shoulder to shoulder and work for the weal of the Free City, never "forgetting the glorious past nor ever abandoning hope of revision of the Treaty of Versailles so that Danzig may return to the German fold."

The manifesto appealed to all Germans to pledge themselves never to rest until "these stolen territories are peacefully restored to Germany."

The manifesto pleaded that for this purpose readers join organizations whose aim is "to avert the threatening ruin of Eastern Germany, to promote the economic and cultural development of German nationality in the Eastern provinces, to aid the German compatriots on this as well as the other side of the frontier, to enlighten the whole world on Germany's right to the provinces torn from her and on the necessity of readjustment of Eastern Germany."

Berlin Organization Laments.

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (AP).—The East German League, observing the tenth anniversary of severance of Danzig from Germany, issued a manifesto today recalling "the robbery of almost the entire provinces of Posen and West Prussia for the benefit of Poland."

Henderson Off to Geneva.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson left today for Geneva, where he will attend the Council of the League of Nations. He was accompanied by Dr. Hugh Dalton, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who will represent Great Britain at Geneva after Mr. Henderson returns to the naval conference in London.

Grandi Also on Way.

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today bade farewell to Foreign Minister Grandi on the eve of the latter's departure for Geneva for the coming session of the League Council.

Signor Grandi will go to London from Geneva as the chief Italian delegate to the naval conference. Consequently, Premier Mussolini gave the Foreign Minister last instructions as to the line of action to be followed at both gatherings.

JAPANESE LIFT BAN ON EXPORT OF GOLD

Embargo in Force Since 1917 Ends Today—Premier Emphasizes Improving Trade Balance.

INOUYE SEES CREDIT FIRM

Wakatsuki, in London, Stresses Budget Cuts—Holds Step Is Aid to World Stabilization.

By HUGH BYAS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Jan. 10.—The gold embargo which has been in force since 1917 ends tomorrow when the banks close. The free export of gold will become effective, as from Monday morning. Premier Hamaguchi, in a statement to your correspondent, thanked the American and British bankers for their substantial help and said this this evidence of good-will and confidence was sincerely appreciated. The government and people of Japan, he said, will continue their efforts to improve Japan's international credit and to protect the gold standard.

In a public statement, Mr. Hamaguchi exhorts the people to continue to economize, and declares he fears no adverse effects, as the removal of the embargo accords with the country's economic condition as reflected in the improving trade balance.

Official financial statistics support the Prime Minister's confidence. Japan at present possesses not only the largest reserves in proportion to her currency, but directly and indirectly has reserves covering her currency to the extent of about 125 per cent.

Inouye Sees Finance Firm.

Against a note issue of 1,115,000,000 yen (about $547,465,000 with the yen at 49.1 cents), the Bank of Japan's gold reserve amounts to 1,073,000,000 yen (about $526,843,000) in addition to 304,000,000 yen deposited abroad and 100,000,000 yen credits on New York and London. The Finance Department holds 35,000,000 yen in foreign bonds and 82,000,000 in foreign currency abroad, making a total gold backing of 1,594,000,000 yen. Junnosuke Inouye, Minister of Finance, in a statement to the press, claims the preparations made for the removal of the embargo, and the removal itself, reflect a firmer condition of Japan's finances and a satisfactory state of Japan's credit in the estimation of foreign countries.

Retrenchment on the part of the Government and the economy of the people, he declares, have redressed the trade balance, improved the exchange and lowered the general level of prices, thus making all the conditions favorable for the removal of the embargo.

The beneficial effects of the Wall Street slump for Japan are indicated by Mr. Inouye's remark that the recent fall of money rates abroad relieved Japan of all fear that the removal of the embargo would cause a drain of gold and a consequent rise of money rates here.

Wakatsuki Hails Move.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Reijeiro Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation to the London Naval Arms Conference, had an opportunity to discuss something other than disarmament today, when he was the guest of Juichi Tsushima, Japanese Financial Commissioner in London, at a luncheon attended by many British bankers. Twenty years ago, Mr. Wakatsuki himself was Financial Commissioner here, so he met the leaders of British finance as old friends. His only reference to the naval conference was in his expression of the hope that it would make the reduction of armaments a reality, as Japan needed to devote all her financial resources to the development of peaceful pursuits.

Mr. Wakatsuki said:

"If we have been slow in this matter of gold as compared with your country and other countries, it is largely because the post-war depression that affected all lands was, in Japan, tremendously aggravated by the earthquake in 1923. But the restoration of the gold standard has been long a cherished object of ours, and in preparation for which the government inaugurated a policy of strict retrenchment, although retrenchment envisages an immediate, if temporary, check on industry and involves considerable political difficulties.

Budget Cuts Stressed

"Last Summer the new government began by cutting down the appropriation of 1,773,000,000 yen (about $870,543,000) in the approved budget for the current year, by 92,000,000 yen (about $45,172,000), and it has appropriated for the coming year only 1,608,000,000 yen (about $789,528,000) for public expenditure, which means a retrenchment of 165,000,000 yen (about $81,105,000) from the figures of the preceding year. Moreover, in the matter of the issue of loans, the government has not only reduced the amount contemplated for this year, but for next year, although there are some items of capital expenditures, it has excluded from the budget loan issues of any kind. On the other hand, greater amounts are being allocated to the repayment of the existing governmental indebtedness.

"The determined policy of economy, loyally supported by local governments and private banking and industrial circles, has already borne visible fruit. For instance, at the close of 1929 provisional figures for our exports and imports stood respectively at 2,148,000,000 yen and 2,216,000,000 yen, showing an excess in imports of something like 68,000,000 yen. In comparison with the preceding year there is an increase in imports of 20,000,000 yen, but also a remarkable increase of exports of 177,000,000 yen. Our foreign trade has never achieved such results in the past ten years.

"The lifting of the gold embargo at this moment will open a new vista for Japan of prosperity and progress on a solid, permanent footing. It will not only be a boon to us, but I believe it is a contribution to the process of world-wide economic rehabilitation and stabilization."

Last of Powers Back to Gold.

The announcement, made on Nov. 23, 1929, of the intention of the Japanese Government to lift the gold embargo today, followed by a few days the completion of negotiations for a credit of $50,000,000, extended by bankers here and in London, to be used in connection with the stabilization of the yen. The removal of the embargo brings the last of the important nations back to the gold standard, which was so generally abandoned during and immediately after the World War.

Juichi Tsushima, financial commissioner of the Imperial Japanese Government in London, Paris and New York, yesterday issued, through the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., an announcement of the lifting of the ban, which said, in part:

"The return of Japan to the gold standard not only inaugurates an era in which the greatest stability and development in our economic field is envisioned, but also marks a fact of deep historic significance—the fact that now Japan has placed her currency on a gold standard, the solution of the world-wide problem of post-war currency stabilization is virtually achieved."

Prior to the placing of the embargo on gold exports in 1917, Japan had adhered to the gold standard since 1897. Its return to a free gold market was delayed by a series of national calamities, including the commodity panic of 1920, the earthquake of 1923 and the financial disturbances of 1927.

The yen reached its low point for last year on June 26, when cable transfers sold for 43.46 cents. Since then it has climbed back to 49.18 cents. Parity for the Japanese currency is 49.80 cents.

Holders of yen for speculative purposes will, it is expected, take steps to convert their holdings into gold. The credit of $50,000,000 arranged last November was largely for the purpose of meeting such a development.

SPAIN HALTS SHAFT FOR GIBRALTAR TUNNEL

Test Drilling Stopped by Rock Too Hard for Available Machinery.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Jan. 10.—According to Lieut. Col. Pedro Jevenois, a member of the government's Gibraltar Tunnel Committee and author of a book on the project, sounding at Tarifa practically has stopped owing to the strength of rock struck and lack of proper machinery in Spain.

Colonel Jevenois says the government will grant 3,600,000 pesetas (about $465,000) for drilling the shaft at the Moroccan end, and that the committee, which studied the work on the ground last week, hopes to take action toward speeding the Tarifa work, saying that if possible all geographical crews exploring other parts of Spain would be brought to assist.

The exploration boat Xauen has left for Kiel and Copenhagen to take on new sounding equipment.

Colonel Jevenois said today:

"I believe the French would like to make Spain a highway to French Morocco, Algeria and to the suggested South African Railway."

Colonel Jevenois disclosed for the first time that in 1927, after unofficial discussions with the French Government, he discussed with the Spanish Government a proposition that France give 800,000,000 francs' worth of machinery paid by Germany as reparations to Spain, the proceeds of the sales to go toward construction of the tunnel. Spain refused, but took up further development of the work.

"I am sure the French are still interested in seeing the tunnel developed," said Colonel Jevenois.

Pierre Flandin, the French Minister of Commerce, arrived in Madrid on Friday to discuss trade questions and Colonel Jevenois says he will meet the French Minister tomorrow to discuss the project of a highway direct from Paris to Casablanca.

CALLS LEAGUE ENDURING.

President of Smith Says If It Were Blown Up It Would Be Reborn.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 10.—"If any political catastrophe should blow up the League of Nations tomorrow, we should be getting together to make a new one within the year," said William Allan Neilson, president of Smith College, addressing the students today on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the covenant of the League of Nations.

"It may be modified or born again, but there is no question today about the permanence of the League idea," he said. "The question for us is whether it is going to continue with us or without us.

"The most important large scale accomplishment of the League, in my mind, is the creation of the Permanent Court of International Justice, in whose foundation we have taken a considerable part."

NUPTIAL FESTIVITY CONCLUDED IN ITALY

Humbert and Marie Jose Free to Go on Honeymoon After Gala Opera Performance.

PRINCESS KISSES CHILD

Girl Wins Reward for Flowers—Belgian Sovereigns and Other Guests Leave Rome.

By ARNALDO CORTESI.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 10.—With a gala performance at the Royal Opera House tonight, which was attended by the Belgian and Italian royal families and all of the visiting sovereigns and princes, as well as most of the Italian aristocracy, Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José concluded the official ceremonies in connection with their wedding and now are free to depart on their honeymoon. Tomorrow, in fact, they will leave Rome for the royal hunting lodge at San Rossore, which has been placed at their disposal by King Victor Emmanuel.

The honeymoon will be cut short by the Prince's military duties, his presence at Turin, where his regiment is now stationed, being necessary before the end of the month.

This morning the princely couple, accompanied by Prince Francesco Boncompagni-Ludovisi, the Governor of Rome, received the salute of some fifteen thousand Roman school children in the Villa Borghese Park. Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José stood on an especially erected stand overlooking the huge field, which was whitened by the aprons and caps of the small pupils of Rome's elementary schools.

When Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José stepped on the stand they were greeted by loud cheers in a shrill, childish treble while every arm shot up in the Fascist salute. The children then sang several popular songs and marched past the bride and groom, giving the salute.

There were renewed cheers when Princess Marie José lifted into her arms and kissed a little girl who offered her a large bunch of white flowers tied with ribbons in the Belgian, Italian and Roman colors.

Municipal Officers Parade.

In the afternoon, from a stand erected before the Quirinal Palace, the princely couple received the salute of some 10,000 municipal and provincial officials, representing every province and muncipality in Italy, who filed before them in a well-ordered procession. The procession was led by Arturo Turati, Secretary General of the Fascist Party, accompanied by all of his closest collaborators and included every podesta or mayor in Italy.

Many podestas were followed by their municipal attendants, several of whom were in traditional medieval uniforms, which lent much beauty to the procession. Especially admired were the delegations from Florence and Sienna, dressed in multi-colored medieval uniforms seen only on great state occasions.

The procession filed past the prince and princess for three hours, saluting them in Fascist fashion with undiminished enthusiasm, despite a slight rain which fell today for the first time since the wedding celebrations began on Sunday.

Especially beautiful was the gala performance at the Royal Opera House tonight. The central box was filled with royalty and princes in glittering uniforms and fine dresses, while all the other boxes and the floor of the house were occupied by members of Italy's most aristocratic families. The men all wore uniforms or evening clothes with decorations, while the ladies wore their choicest jewels and finest dresses.

The whole place blazed with light and color. The sovereigns and princes received a great ovation, which was repeated at the end of each act and at the conclusion of the performance.

Aerial Show for Princess.

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP).—Before the rain began to fall Italian army aviators staged a great show in the sky for Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José, Italo Balbo, the Minister of Aviation, taking up Prince William of Sweden for a flight during the manoeuvres. The airplanes described the letters of the word "Italia" in trailing smoke and then formed the monogram "U. M." for Prince Humbert (Umberto) and Princess Marie José.

The Prince and Princess rounded out six days of festivities for their marriage at the opera, which was specially redecorated for the occasion.

The performance began at 8:15 P. M., an unusually early hour for the curtain to rise in Rome, presumably in order to allow the bridal couple to escape in a royal train or automobile to the hunting lodge of San Rossore, near Pisa, where they will spend their honeymoon. Prince Humbert and his bride kept the actual hour of departure to themselves. From San Rossore they will go later to Turin, which will be their official residence, and be welcomed officially by the city.

The Royal Opera of Rome really lived up to its name this evening, when it opened its doors to more Kings and Queens, future sovereigns and Princes of the blood royal than have ever crossed its threshold since its renovation three years ago. The general public was not able to witness this, the first gala performance of the season. Admittance was by invitation only.

In honor of the heir to the throne and his bride, Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" was presented under the direction of Maestro Marinuzzi. The soprano Bidou Sayao and Tito Schipa, with the basso Cirino, were the principal artists. The opera was followed by the ballet "Casanova," interpreted by Iliana Leonidoff and the first ballerina, Signorina Mazzucchelli.

The exodus of wedding guests from Rome began today. Cardinal Maffi, Archbishop of Pisa, who performed the ceremony, left for Pisa, and the Duke of York for London. Only a few of the visiting celebrities will remain over the week-end.

The Belgian sovereigns, with their sons, the Duke of Brabant and the Count of Flanders, left at 11:40 o'clock tonight for Brussels. The departure of the royal train was in strict privacy, with the Italian rulers and the Prince and Princess of Piedmont in attendance. The bride and groom in particular were very affectionate in their farewell salutations.

Princess Marie José brought as her dowry, it was said in diplomatic circles today, in excess of 50,000,000 Belgian francs, or about $6,500,000.

This, with the appanage of the Crown Prince, his own private properties, including Racconingi Castle, which by itself is one of the largest estates in the world, forms such a substantial patrimony as to give the newlyweds an independent status equal to if not surpassing that of most European royalties.

King Victor Emmanuel, father of Prince Humbert, is believed to be the wealthiest man in Italy.

ASKS PRAYERS FOR PARLEY.

Herman Bernstein Pleads for Peace at Unity Synagogue.

Herman Bernstein, author and journalist, asked the congregation of the Unity Synagogue at 130 West Seventy-ninth Street last night to pray for the success of the London five-power naval conference, saying at the same time that "we may expect a lot from the conference, but not too much."

In his appeal for enduring peace he spoke of President Hoover and Premier MacDonald as "incomparable statesmen, soldiers in the cause of peace." His talk was on "Universal Peace From Prophecy to Fulfillment," based on his interviews here and abroad with leading statesmen and scholars.

BARTEL WINS FAVOR WITH POLISH SEJM

Premier Tells Parliament New Government Seeks Cooperation and Constitutional Reform.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Jan. 10.—Prime Minister Bartel won a considerable personal success tonight in the Sejm, which was very favorably impressed by a speech of the Premier detailing the program of the new government.

At the beginning of his speech M. Bartel paid a compliment to the Sejm, admitting its full right to demand from the new Cabinet a statement of its policy. He wished, he said, to throw a veil over the past and confine himself to speaking of the present and immediate future.

The last change of government, M. Bartel said, did not in any way imply a fundamental change in the policies pursued for the last three and a half years by the government which resulted from the election of May, 1926. The present government, he said, wishes to achieve the aims of that régime in cooperation with the Parliament.

He desires, M. Bartel asserted, to eliminate useless wrangling, which he believes is not the right way to solve political problems such as changes in the Constitution. The government, he said, hopes Parliament will continue successfully its work on the Constitution.

MAIER IS GREETED WARMLY BY WOMEN

He Tells Republican Leaders State Victory Is Assured if All in Party Vote.

LEGISLATION IS ACTED ON

Prof. Myers of Princeton Scores Lobby Investigators as an Attempt to Reflect on Hoover.

William J. Maier, chairman of the Republican State Committee, was greeted most cordially yesterday when he addressed the women leaders of the party at a conference at the Women's National Republican Club, 8 East Thirty-seventh Street.

Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice chairman of the State committee, presided at the conference, which was attended by about seventy women members of the committee and vice chairmen of the county organizations, representing forty different counties. Mr. Maier, whose resignation was demanded a few days ago by W. Kingsland Macy, Suffolk County chairman, was pleased by the demonstration. He declared that if every Republican in the State voted at the next election there would be no difficulty in electing a Republican Governor and urged party harmony in preparation for the State campaign.

The conference endorsed the equal guardianship bill, introduced in the Legislature by Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, member of the Assembly from St. Lawrence County, and State Senator Seabury C. Mastick. It also declared for an appropriation of $5,000 for a mental hygienist in the State Department of Education and one of $3,000 for the appointment of a woman physical supervisor in the same department. Dr. Frederick Rand Rogers, director of health education of the department, in urging the necessity of a woman physical supervisor, asserted that masculine athletics have been harmful to women. Physical training for women along masculine lines, he added, developed ugly muscles and destroyed feminine attractiveness, so that athletic girls of today found it increasingly difficult to attract worthy men for husbands.

Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, predicted a further recession in business during the next few months with an upward swing in the Spring and a definite betterment by Fall or early Winter. He lauded President Hoover for promoting markets for American exports and said the primary object of the national administration was to prevent a further increase in unemployment.

Professor William Starr Myers of Princeton University addressed the club's activities committee on "Political Strategy in Washington." Professor Myers criticized the methods employed by the Senate lobby investigating committee and attacked its treatment of Joseph R. Grundy, now a Senator, as highly improper. Much of the propaganda at Washington, he added, was designed to make President Hoover appear in the wrong, and its use had resulted in diminishing the popularity and influence of the Senate.

THONET HELD IN $5,000 BAIL

Dealer in Antiques Accused of Larceny in Sale of Furniture.

Alfred Thonet was held yesterday in $5,000 bail for a hearing next Monday in West Side Court on a complaint charging grand larceny in an alleged sale of furniture to Mrs. Marthe Thors of 260 West End Avenue.

In the complaint Mrs. Thors alleged that she had ordered eight pieces of furniture from Mr. Thonet and had paid the entire purchase price, including $261 for two antique chairs. Six pieces of the furniture were delivered and after some delay two chairs arrived from another concern, she said. A demand for $261 was made by this company, Mrs. Thors charged. She said she refused to accept the chairs because they were not made according to specifications and swore out a warrant for Thonet.

Le Roy Mandle, Assistant District Attorney, said that several other complainants against Thonet would appear at the hearing Monday. Mr. Thonet gave his age as 33 and his address as the Logan Hotel, Washington, D. C.

FIREWORKS BILL FRAMED.

Would Limit Sale in New Jersey to Period of June 20 to July 5.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 10.—Under a bill to be introduced in the Legislature for State Labor Commissioner Blunt, sale of fireworks at retail would be limited in New Jersey to the period from June 20 to July 5, inclusive, each year. Manufacture of "dangerous fireworks" would be prohibited by the measure.

The bill embodies the recommendations of a committee of State and municipal safety representatives and leading manufacturers named by Colonel Blunt to draft regulations for the fireworks industry. Assemblywoman Florence L. Haines of Essex will sponsor the measure.

Commissioner Blunt said that the act would insure safer fireworks, limit cannon crackers to five inches and permit toy pistols using paper caps. The term "dangerous fireworks" includes toy torpedoes containing more than five grains of an explosive composition.

Chairman Morganthau Says Three Republicans Have Promised Support to the Project.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Governor Roosevelt opened his farm relief program for this session of the Legislature today by sponsoring a dirt road improvement project that he expects will renovate the lateral highway system of the State. It is designed to increase from $25 a mile to a minimum of $100 the State aid to comparatively poor rural towns for their dirt roads outside of incorporated villages.

The Governor announced his intention of pushing this plan after his Agricultural Advisory Commission, headed by Henry Morgenthau Jr., had discussed it in detail in an all-day session.

As an indication that the Governor will have support in his efforts, Mr. Morgenthau declared that the three Republican legislators who attended the meeting concurred in the adoption of the plan.

They are Senator Seabury C. Mastick of Westchester, Senator Leigh Kirkland of Randolph, chairman of the Senate Farms Committee, and Assemblyman Walter L. Pratt of St. Lawrence.

Calls It Comprehensive Step.

"This is a comprehensive step forward in aiding the poor dirt-road farmer," the Governor said as he accepted the commission report.

The report pointed out that the present highway law so works out that poorer towns are limited to assistance of not more than $25 a mile, while wealthy towns receive much more, sometimes in excess of $500 a mile.

"Your commission," it said, "recommends an equalizations program similar to that enacted last year with respect to schools employing one teacher. It proposes a minimum standard per mile of unimproved highway of $100 and urges that any town which raises a local tax of three mills ($3 per thousand), based upon full value, or a tax of $50 per mile, shall receive from the State a sum sufficient to average $100 per mile of highway, and that towns which do not meet either of these minimum requirements shall receive a sum equivalent to that raised in the town for the maintenance of unimproved highways."

The commission recommends that the apportionment of money be on the basis of the mileage of highways required to be maintained outside of cities and villages.

Sets Anual Average at $3,750,000.

The purpose of the proposal is to equalize, not to increase, the State appropriation, the commission says.

"The annual appropriation necessary to meet this program will not be more than $4,050,000, and as nearly as your commission can estimate will average $3,750,000," the report declares. In other words, the average annual expenditure by the State for the next five years will be less than that now required by Section 101 of the highway law."

This is expected to be only the first of several farm projects to be urged upon the Legislature by the Governor.

GUGGENHEIM AND LOEB CRITICIZED BY MOSES

Fight Against Putting Ocean Boulevard Through Game Preserve Is Scored.

Predicting that Solomon Guggenheim and William Loeb Jr. would be unable "to hold up a great public improvement to prolong the life of a lame duck shooting preserve," Robert Moses, president of the Long Island State Park Commission, reviewed yesterday the controversy over a right of way for the Ocean Boulevard through the preserve of the Oyster Bay Game Protective Association.

"There have been a good many efforts on the part of selfish people of large wealth to interrupt the park program, but this attempt to maintain a private shooting ground on the finest ocean front on the Atlantic seaboard is the most impudent of all," said Mr. Moses in his statement. He denied a report that a restraining order halting the work on the boulevard had been served on the park commission.

Mr. Moses charged that the Guggenheim family and Mr. Loeb had leased 500 acres of land on Jones Beach from Oyster Bay in 1920 at the "ridiculously low" consideration of $1 an acre and that they have shown "intense hostility" to permitting the construction of an ocean boulevard through it. After reviewing the negotiations with the Guggenheim family and Mr. Loeb, Mr. Moses said:

"In any event the State and the town will take care of the public interest in this matter. My personal belief is that the lease has always been voidable, and I believe that the new supervisor of Oyster Bay, Mr. Downing, will come to this conclusion when he has studied it."

PICKS J. L. HOFFMAN AS AUBURN WARDEN

Kieb Appoints Assistant Superintendent at Napanoch to Succeed Jennings.

HE IS VETERAN IN SERVICE

Entered the State's Employ in 1902 as a Guard at Elmira—Fought in Two Wars.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 10.—Captain John L. Hoffman, assistant superintendent of the Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch, was appointed today to succeed General Edgar S. Jennings as warden of Auburn Prison by Rr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, Commissioner of Correction. The appointment was announced by Dr. Kieb after a conference with Governor Roosevelt.

General Jennings, who was gassed during the riot at Auburn last month, resigned last week and was placed on a pension of $6,800 a year. He had been warden at Auburn for twelve years.

Captain Hoffman, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, will take office as warden on Jan. 16, Dr. Kieb announced. He will be succeeded as assistant superintendent at Napanoch by Robert Wager, for several years captain of the guards at that institution.

Captain Hoffman's appointment is a provisional one, Dr. Kieb explained, and later he will be required to take the civil service examination.

Captain Hoffman has been identified with State penal institutions for twenty-eight years.

Entered Service in 1902.

He was born in Buffalo fifty-one years ago. He entered the State service in 1902 as a guard at Elmira Reformatory, where he remained for two years. He was then transferred as a guard to the Eastern New York Reformatory at Napanoch, which later became the State Institution for Defective Delinquents.

In 1917 Captain Hoffman was promoted to captain of the guards at Napanoch, and in 1921, when the name of the institution was changed, he became assistant superintendent. He was a Captain of infantry in the World War.

"I feel that Captain Hoffman is eminently qualified for the post of warden at Auburn Prison because of the many years which he has had in prison work," Dr. Kieb said.

"The appointment was made in strict accordance with the civil service law, which provides that a prison warden must have had at least three years of correctional work. Captain Hoffman at all times has rendered excellent service to the State, and has displayed fine executive ability."

Dr. Frank L. Christian, superintendent of Elmira Reformatory, has been acting warden at Auburn since a few days after the December riot.

Auburn Man Was Urged.

Governor Roosevelt and Dr. Kieb had been urged by Democratic leaders of Cayuga County to appoint an Auburn man as successor to General Jennings. They pointed out that if this were not done a precedent of 100 years would be broken. The Democratic leaders who recently called on the Governor to urge such an appointment were headed by Lithgow Osborne, son of the late Thomas Mott Osborne.

Governor Roosevelt and Dr. Kieb at first gave serious thought to the proposal to appoint Dr. Christian as permanent warden at Auburn, but the latter preferred to return to Elmira. Warden William Hunt of Great Meadow Prison also was considered for the post, but he too preferred to remain in his present position.

Dr. Kieb also announced that he had appointed James S. Owens of New York as director of the division of probation in the Correction Department. Mr. Owens, who for several years has been a probation examiner, succeeds Frederick A. Moran of Albany, who has been granted leave of absence to engage in social welfare work in New York.

Convict's Body to Be Exhumed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP).—In an effort to ascertain whether Henry Sullivan, a leader of the recent Auburn prison riot, was shot to death by guards or fellow prisoners, the convict's body, buried here, will be exhumed.

Sheriff Morgan of Cayuga County arrived today to take charge of the work. The information was expected to play an important part in the murder trials of the other convicts who took part in the riot. An autopsy will be performed by the Cayuga County medical examiner, said to be on his way to this city.

An order to exhume the body was given by Supreme Court Justice Cunningham on application of District Attorney Hosmer of Cayuga County.

BUFFALO MAN SLATED FOR SERVICE BOARD

F. S. Burzynski, Lawyer, Is Due to Be Named by Roosevelt to Succeed W. R. Pooley.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Governor Roosevelt will send to the Senate at the session on Monday evening the nomination of a successor to William R. Pooley as Public Service Commissioner. It is generally understood that the Governor's nominee will be Frank S. Burzynski, a Buffalo lawyer of Polish descent.

The Governor would not confirm this today, but the report is accepted as true in Democratic circles at the Capitol, following a visit yesterday of John W. Henry, Democratic leader of Erie County, and Chairman John Stiglmeier of the Erie County Democratic Committee, who conferred with Governor Roosevelt at the executive chamber. M. William Bray, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, also attended.

Mr. Pooley has held his present position since April, 1921, when he was appointed by Governor Nathan L. Miller. His term expired last year, but he has been holding over. Commissioner Pooley is a Republican.

Mr. Burzynski is a Democrat who has been more or less active in the work of the Democratic organization of Erie County. He served in the Assembly from 1905 to 1908 and was a municipal civil service commissioner in Buffalo under the administration of Mayor Louis P. Fuhrman.

Many years ago Mr. Burzynski served as a member of the Alaska-Yukon Commission. More recently he was a member of the Charter Commission, headed by former Justice Daniel J. Kenefick, which evolved the new charter that became operative when Buffalo abandoned the commission form of government two years ago. At that time he became a candidate for member at large of the Buffalo City Council, but was defeated.

In addition to the approval of the Erie County Democratic organization, Mr. Burzynski had the endorsement of Democratic National Committeeman Norman E. Mack and Oliver Cabana, a Buffalo banker, who holds a position of great influence among the Erie County Democrats.

Mr. Burzynski was born in 1876. He was educated in the common schools of Buffalo and is a graduate of the University of Buffalo Law School. He comes from a family that was among the early settlers of Buffalo, where the Polish vote, when solidly cast, is large enough to swing the Republican county for Democratic candidates on the State ticket.

BIRTH CONTROL UNIT PLANS $100,000 FUND

Committee on Legislation Will Conduct Drive for Money to Push Its Bills.

Plans for a campaign to raise $100,000 by Sept. 1 to promote legislation which would allow physicians to give contraceptive advice and to aid the further dissemination of birth control information were discussed yesterday at a luncheon of the Eastern division of the National Committee on Federal Legislation for Birth Control in the Ritz Tower. Representatives from seven States were present.

Mrs. Walter Timme, chairman of the division, in whose apartment the meeting was held, outlined the program. The allotments for the Eastern, the mid-Western and the Far Western districts are $30,000 each, while the Southern section's quota is $10,000, Mrs. Timme said.

New York will be asked to contribute $7,500; Pennsylvania, $5,000; New Jersey, $5,000; Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, $2,500 each, and Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Delaware and Maryland, $1,000 each.

The members of the various State committees present were Mrs. R. T. Whitehouse, Portland, Me.; Mrs. E. M. East, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, Ardmore, Pa.; Mrs. Williard B. King, Convent, N. J.; Mrs. Charles E. Scribner, New York; Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Raymond McOrmond, Simsbury, Conn.; Mrs. Leon H. Whitney, New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Elmer Kramer, Marshallton, Del., and Mrs. Frances H. Bangs, Mrs. Constance Heck and Mrs. Donald McGraw, New York.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, chairman of the national committee, it was announced, is in California organizing the Far Western group. Dr. Smith Jelliffe of New York is vice chairman of the Eastern division.

Back Broken, Dies After Year.

BLACKWOOD, N. J., Jan. 10.—Howard Carrow Firth, 39 years old, of Blackwood, died at his home today after living almost a year with a broken back. Firth was injured Feb. 16, 1929, when a railroad train struck his automobile truck at a crossing at Homestead. A jury in Federal court at Trenton awarded Firth $46,750 in his suit for $200,000 damages. The railroad has appealed the verdict.

stitutional which simply changed the status of perjury from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Urges Comment by Judges.

Urging the bill to grant judges the right to comment on testimony and the character of witnesses, the commission says:

"We believe and recommend that there should be restored to the judge the right of the control of a trial which was enjoyed at common law. The modern criminal trial in the States has quite largely developed into a battle of wits between the opposing attorneys, with the judge officiating as little more than a referee and not permitted to assist in the development of the true facts.

"The defendant, in his anxiety to be set free, is not interested in how many or what tricks his attorney may employ so long as the desired freedom is attained. The interest of the public is a fair ascertainment of the truth without tricks, falsehoods or camouflage of any sort. We conceive it to be the duty of every judge to so conduct a trial that the truth be developed and the facts presented to the jury with the law relating to them clearly stated in an understandable way to assist the jury in its determination."

A fourth bill would permit the District Attorney to comment on the failure of a defendant to take the stand. At present such refusal to testify created no presumption against him.

Defendant May Now Sit Mute.

"The construction put upon the present wording of the section by the courts," the commission says, "has turned a well-meant statute into a bulwark of defense for the guilty defendant. He may sit mute in the court room, with full knowledge of all the particulars of the crime with which he is charged, and not be compelled to take the stand and tell the truth about the affair, and the attention of the jury cannot be called to the fact that he has not taken the stand in his own defense. Nothing more out of harmony with the modern conception of the administration of justice can be imagined than the situation which has grown up in this regard."

The object of the constitutional amendment allowing waiver of jury trial by a defendant would be to speed the disposition of cases. There are many times when the accused as well as the prosecution desires to hasten the trial or prefer consideration by a judge or judges, according to the Crime Commission.

Of the other two measures, one would provide for police training schools under supervision of the State Education Department, promotion depending on ability to pass the requirements of the schools. The last bill would insure that when two or more sentences are imposed upon a defendant they shall be served consecutively.

DEFEND EMPLOYING PRENDERGAST SONS

Utility Officials Testify They Got Jobs on Own Merits and Not Through Chairman.

CHARGES TERMED "SILLY"

E. L. Phillips Says Employment of One Has Saved His Companies $300,000 on Insurance.

Employment of the sons of William A. Prendergast, chairman of the Public Service Commission, by the E. L. Phillips Company, W. C. Langley & Co. and the National City Bank was wholly independent of the fact of Mr. Prendergast's official position, officials of all three concerns testified yesterday before the commission on revision of the public service law at the bar association. The witnesses were Mr. Phillips, Mr. Langley and John A. Garver, who is a director of the Consolidated Gas Company and the National City Bank.

The matter of the employment of the two sons was taken up publicly by the commission only after the Community Councils of the City of New York had forced its hand by adopting a resolution Wednesday night calling for an investigation by Governor Roosevelt of alleged bias by Mr. Prendergast in favor of the utility interests of the companies which have employed his sons. The denial on Thursday by Mr. Prendergast that any such bias existed, coupled with the denials of ulterior motive on the part of the employers, will end the matter so far as the commission is concerned, it is understood.

Garver Terms Charge "Silly."

Mr. Garver, in answer to questions by Colonel William Donovan, counsel for the commission, asserted he had had "absolutely nothing" to do with the employment of William A. Prendergast Jr. by the National City Bank last July. He said the young man was one of thousands of employes and that he did not know him by sight.

"I can't make my answer too emphatic," he concluded. "The whole suggestion is absolutely silly."

Mr. Langley said William A. Prendergast Jr. had worked for him for six years, and had become a highly valued employe who had been difficult to replace. He worked up from a salary of $25 a week to $100 a week, he said, and originally obtained the job without any aid from his father.

Mr. Langley said he had known the father since 1916 and regarded him as a very close friend. He pointed out that this friendship antedated Mr. Prendergast's election to the Public Service Commission by five years, while the employment of the son antedated Mr. Langley's election as a director of the Long Island Lighting Company by three years. The petition of the Long Island Capital Corporation to take over the Long Island Lighting Company, now pending before the Public Service Commission, was cited in the Community Council's resolution in connection with both the Phillips and Langley concerns.

Phillips Praises Employe.

Mr. Phillips, who is president of the Long Island Lighting Company, said he had known Mr. Prendergast since the latter had been on the commission. He had employed Thomas Hull Prendergast since May, 1927, he said, to handle insurance matters for all the utility companies which he controls. This employment came about as the result of suggestions made by young Prendergast for reducing insurance costs, he said, and as the result of that employment the companies had saved $300,000. Young Prendergast's salary was $500 a month until this year, he said, when it was raised to $660.

Chairman Prendergast was a witness again and was questioned by Professor James C. Bonbright of the commission about the provision by which the Long Island Capital Corporation was to acquire the Long Island Lighting Company by purchase of common stock at market price. The market price at the time Mr. Prendergast wrote his approving memorandum was $70 a share, although the book value was only $1.70. Professor Bonbright declared that either approval by the Public Service Commission would be wrong or else the whole law on which such approval was based was wrong.

The commission will continue its hearings Monday morning and is expected to conclude the taking of evidence not later than Friday.

M'COOK WILL DIRECT WESTCHESTER INQUIRY

New York County Justice Is Expected to Replace Tompkins on Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Governor Roosevelt's designation of Justice Philip J. McCook of New York County to preside over the extraordinary special and trial term of the Supreme Court, which is investigating land transactions in Westchester County, in place of Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, who is being promoted to the Appellate Division, was filed here today.

The order makes no mention of Justice Tompkins's elevation to the Appellate Division. It is expected that the formal appointment of Justice Tompkins will be announced before Monday, as he said last night that he would not be here Monday morning when the pleas of Howard R. Washburn, who resigned yesterday as chairman of the board of supervisors, and of the four business associates indicted with him, will be heard. Justice McCook, who is a Republican, is expected to be here Monday morning.

Washburn was indicted for misconduct in office on four counts, and Charles Fenno, L. Ward Prince, A. H. Atwood and Frank T. Bailey were indicted on single counts of aiding and abetting his alleged misconduct.

McCOOEY NOT TO RESIGN.

Says He May Apply for Pension After 42 Years in Public Office.

Denying a report that he was to quit as Chief Clerk of the Surrogates' Court of Kings County, John H. McCooey, Democratic leader in Brooklyn, last night said:

"I have not resigned nor have I any intention of resigning. Having been continuously employed for the past fifty-two years, forty-two of which were in public service, I may during the course of the coming year apply for retirement and receive the pension to which I am entitled."

The veteran Democratic chieftain said he was in the best of health, although he admitted that he was a bit tired from the strenuous political campaign of last Fall.

Rockefeller in Talking Film for First Time Greets Men Who Helped Him Build Standard Oil

Oil man shown on veranda of his home at Ormond Beach as he delivered his greeting on the Standard Oil Company's sixtieth anniversary.

A talking picture of John D. Rockefeller, the first to be recorded of him, is being exhibited simultaneously at the Embassy Newsreel Theatre here and in Cleveland where the Standard Oil Company is celebrating its sixtieth anniversary. The film was made on Monday at Ormond Beach, Fla., where Mr. Rockefeller is spending his vacation.

The picture shows Mr. Rockefeller seated on the veranda of his home at Ormond Beach. The speech follows:

Dear Mr. Holliday:

I am deeply touched by and very grateful for your kind invitation to attend the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Standard Oil Company, to take place on Jan. 10. I exceedingly regret that it will be impossible for me to attend. I am grateful beyond measure for all these long, happy and prosperous sixty years now drawing to a close. I have no words to express my appreciation of all who have had a part in making the company the success it has been—far beyond our fondest dreams at the time of its beginning. We cherish the memory of the multitude of our dear associates who wrought gloriously in their time of service and have passed on with unclouded records. We who remain are to carry on the work which they established, with the highest ideals, sharing with each other our successes, and even our failures, with an ever-growing confidence, and an increasing desire to be of the greatest service to mankind.

I send heartiest greetings to each and every one who is privileged to be present on this most happy and memorable occasion, and every best wish for continued improvement in service, from which alone we may hope for continued success.

MARK ANNIVERSARY OF STANDARD OIL

Leaders of Industry at Cleveland Meeting Are Greeted in Talkie by John D. Rockefeller.

EARLY DAYS ARE RECALLED

Founder, Now 90, Has Outlived Partners Who Helped in Organization Sixty Years Ago.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10 (AP).—More than 200 leaders of industries of the United States celebrated here tonight the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Standard Oil Company by John D. Rockefeller Sr., and his former associates. Mr. Rockefeller, spending the Winter at Ormond Beach, Fla., was unable to be present, but a talking picture of him conveyed a personal greeting to to those assembled.

It was the founding of the Standard Oil Company that was the beginning of the high attainments of the present oil industry and the stroke that made Mr. Rockefeller at one time the richest man in the country. From that fortune he is known to have given more than $750,000,000 to science and charity.

Joining in the tribute to Mr. Rockefeller tonight were representatives from all of the Standard Oil Companies which have grown out of the original firm, and from many of their large competitors. The celebration was arranged by W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio.

Smiles for Movie Camera.

Although now past 90 years of age, Mr. Rockefeller as shown in the talking picture appeared to be in excellent health. He was shown walking in front of his Ormond Beach home and then reading a letter addressed to Mr. Holliday, conveying his greetings to tonight's gathering.

In conclusion, the first great figure of the oil world smiled happily and waved cheerfully toward the camera.

Mr. Rockefeller's beginnings in the infant oil industry were discussed at the meeting. He was among the first to realize the potentialities of oil after the first oil well was drilled in 1859, near Titusville, Pa.

Taking $17,000 profits out of a commission business in Cleveland, Mr. Rockefeller invested it with an equal amount from his partner, Maurice B. Clark, in a "cheese-box" refinery here, in 1862. Three years later, when he was 26 years old, he bought out Clark for $72,500. Ten years before he had been an office boy at $15 a month.

Former Partners All Dead.

Samuel Andrews and Henry M. Flagler later became interested with Mr. Rockefeller, and Mr. Flagler gave him a contract with Stephen V. Harkness, then Cleveland's richest man. Mr. Harkness provided unlimited credit, and a partnership of Rockefeller, Andrews & Flagler was formed and bought out many competitors.

The next step in Mr. Rockefeller's industrial structure was the founding of the Standard Oil Company. The incorporation papers were signed Jan. 10, 1870, bearing the names of Messrs. Rockefeller, Andrews, Flagler, Harkness and William Rockefeller, a brother. All of these except John D. have died.

An elaborate entertainment was on the celebration program including vaudeville and grand opera stars, a symphony orchestra, a dance orchestra and a male chorus. The entertainment was broadcast by radio.

OFFERS SOLUTION ON POSTOFFICE SITE

Mrs. Pratt Says Government Now Is Willing to Accept Vesey Street Plot.

Representative Ruth B. Pratt, in a letter to Mayor Walker, made public yesterday, wrote that the Treasury and Postoffice Department officials in Washington now are willing to accept the Vesey Street site for postoffice purposes in exchange for the present building just south of the City Hall, if the city will pay the cost of the Vesey Street property. She believes also they would consider favorably the construction of a Federal court house on land to be purchased by the government from the city in the civic centre. In her letter to the Mayor Mrs. Pratt said:

"Following our interview with reference to the possibility of working out a solution of the problem which has been pending so long relating to the site at present occupied by the United States Postoffice and which the city desires for park purposes, I have looked into the matter further and find that the attitude of the Treasury and Postoffice Department officials appears to be as follows:

"They are willing to recommend acceptance of the Vesey Street site for postoffice purposes in exchange for the present postoffice site and to consider favorably the construction of a Federal court house on the land to be purchased by the government from the city in the so-called civic centre. In the discussion which took place with the representatives of the Merchants' Association, it was suggested that it would be possible for the Federal Government to condemn the Vesey Street property to sell it to the city at a fair value and that the city then tender the Vesey Street site to the Federal Government in exchange for the present postoffice site.

"The net result of this would be the elimination of the present unsightly postoffice building, the availability of a site for park purposes, the erection of a Federal postoffice building on the Vesey Street site and of a Federal court house in the civic centre. It seems to me that such a program is highly desirable from the standpoint both of New York and of the Federal Government.

"I shall be pleased to cooperate with you in any way that I can to help bring about this desirable result and to introduce any legislation that may appear to be necessary."

Commenting upon the letter, Mayor Walker said he would take up the matter with the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate and with Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly. The attitude of the City Administration, he said, would depend upon what the net cost to the city would be if this project were to be carried out.

The Mayor conceded the power of the Federal Government to take the Vesey Street site by condemnation for public purposes, but he was in some doubt whether the city thereafter could legally buy it from the Federal Government merely for the purpose of returning it for postoffice purposes and in exchange for the old building in City Hall Park.

If the Vesey Street property should cost, under condemnation proceedings, $7,000,000, for instance, and the Federal Government should look to the city to furnish that sum, and if then the Federal Government should be unwilling to pay more than $4,000,000 for the new civic centre court house site, then the transaction would cost the city a net sum of $3,000,000, which the Mayor has always said would be excessive for the privilege of ridding the city of an unsightly encumbrance.

ASSAILS BOB'S PLANS IN NEON SYSTEM DEAL

Lawyer Says He Intended to Get $17,000,000 From Public to Pay for $2,403,822 Property.

A charge that Charles V. Bob, promoter of the Federal Neon System, Inc., intended to get $17,000,000 from the public to pay for the Federal Electric Company, with a net worth of $2,403,822, was made yesterday by Julius Cohen, attorney for Claude Neon Lights, defendant in the hearing before Magistrate Simpson on the complaint of Mr. Bob and his associates that Claude Neon Lights published a misleading advertisement concerning stock the plaintiffs were preparing for issue.

According to Mr. Cohen, George L. Johnson was to receive for his $7,000,000 option on the Federal Electric Company 2,000,000 shares of the Federal Neon System's common stock, having a book value of $10,000,000. The Federal Neon System was to pay the $7,000,000 to the Federal Electric Company out of the $10,000,000 which it was to get from the public from its stock issue as advertised, Mr. Cohen explained. Thus $17,000,000 was being paid for a business having a net worth of $2,403,822, Mr. Cohen charged.

HUBERT WILL TEST SOUGHT BY BROTHER

Joseph Horwich Wants Court to Construe Terms Giving $6,000,000 to Charity.

ACCOUNTING GOES FORWARD

Coolidge, Smith and Rosenwald Had Picked 34 Institutions to Benefit Under Provisions.

Joseph Horwich, brother of the late Conrad Hubert, pioneer flashlight manufacturer, has just begun an action to test the legality of the clauses of his brother's will under which former President Coolidge, former Governor Smith and Julius Rosenwald have arranged for the distribution of $6,000,000 among thirty-four institutional beneficiaries.

The will provided that any of the heirs-at-law or next of kin who contested its probate should thereby lose his share in the estate. Mr. Horwich's share under the will is $1,000,000. Isadore P. Eisenberg, Brooklyn, counsel for Mr. Horwich, contended, however, that the provision did not apply to the action begun by his client.

He explained that the will already had been admitted to probate without contest and that the action now being begun in the Kings County Supreme Court is to obtain a judicial construction of the paragraphs establishing the trust funds. The complaint charges that the provisions establishing the trust are "indefinite and uncertain" and that its purposes are "repugnant to the laws of the State of New York."

The complaint in the suit was served yesterday on Samuel K. Abrahams, attorney for the executors of the Hubert estate, by Mr. Eisenberg. Mr. Hubert was born in Minsk, Russia, of Jewish parents named Horowitz and adopted the name Hubert after he came to America as a boy.

The executors of the estate, according to Mr. Abrahams, have been expecting the complaint for two weeks, since a summons without the complaint had been served. With the service of the summons they knew who was bringing the suit, but had only a vague idea of the nature of the action.

Estate May Be Tied Up.

The action brought by Mr. Horwich might result in temporarily tying up the distribution of the late Mr. Hubert's benefactions along the lines proposed by Mr. Coolidge, Mr. Smith and Mr. Rosenwald, according to the belief of Mr. Abrahams, who hopes, however, that there will be no delay.

The executors have twenty days in which to file their answer, following which Mr. Horwich might seek to enjoin the executors from going ahead with the distribution of the funds. In the meantime, the executors plans to go ahead and file their accounting in the Surrogates' Court within the next two months. In the event that they are not halted by court order, they then will proceed immediately with the distribution of the Hubert estate.

In his complaint Mr. Horwich names as defendants the Bankers Trust Company and C. Bertram Plante as executors and trustees of Mr. Hubert's will, and as beneficiaries, Moses Horwich, also known as Moses Horwitz, brother; Anna Hutner, sister; Mr. Plante, Lydia Utgoff, Mrs. John Constable and Benjamin Scott.

The complaint says that Mr. Hubert, a resident of Mountain Lakes, Lake of Wales, Fla., died on Feb. 14, 1928, leaving a last will which had been duly executed on Dec. 23, 1927 and which was properly admitted to probate in the Surrogates' Court of New York County on April 20, 1928. It is further set forth that the executors duly qualified and entered upon their duties; that the late Mr. Hubert left two brothers, including the defendant, and a sister, his next of kin, since he was survived by no other relatives, and that he left an estate valued at more than $8,000,000.

"The plaintiff is advised by counsel and verily believes," continues the complaint, "that the provisions in said will hereinafter set forth are indefinite and uncertain in their subjects and objects, and that the beneficiaries are indefinite and uncertain. That the purposes are indefinite and uncertain and repugnant to the laws of the State of New York, plaintiff hereby alleges on information and belief that such provisions are and each of them is illegal and invalid in law."

Cites Provisions Attached.

The document goes on as follows:

"That the following provisions are those referred to in the preceding paragraph of this complaint, namely, paragraphs "eighth" and "eighth a" of the will:

Eighth. And the remaining three parts or shares of my said residuary estate, to wit: the remaining three-quarters of my said residuary estate, I give, devise and bequeath to my executors hereinafter named and the survivors of them as trustees, for and in and upon the following trust purposes, to wit:

(a) I direct my said trustees to pay over the same to such religious, educational, charitable or benevolent institutions that shall in other respects be valid under the laws of the State of New York and for such purpose to select a committee of three prominent citizens who shall investigate and determine the institutions to receive such gifts or bequests and the respective amounts thereof, and whose findings shall be subject to the approval of the said trustees. Upon the approval of such findings, the said trustees are hereby directed to pay over and distribute the said three-quarters of my said residuary estate unto the said religious, educational, charitable and benevolent institutions so selected and found and approved and to whom I give, devise and bequeath the same absolutely and forever.

"That the plaintiff and the defendants, Moses Horwich, also known as Moses Horwitz, and Anna Hutner, are the legatees mentioned in said will who are interested in the provisions of the will herein prayed to be declared invalid.

"Wherefore, plaintiff demands judgment that the validity, construction and effect of the aforesaid provisions of the last will and testament of Conrad Hubert, deceased, may be determined and that the parties hereto may be enjoined from making any claim in contravention of such determination; that it may be adjudged and decreed that the said bequest in paragraphs 'Eighth' and 'Eighth A' of the will were on the death of said Conrad Hubert, and each of them, was and is illegal and void and of no effect, and that in respect to said property therein mentioned, the said Conrad Hubert died intestate, and the said property and each part thereof at the death of said testator vested in plaintiff and Moses Horwich, also known as Moses Horwitz and Anna Hutner, the defendants, the only heirs and next of kin of the said Conrad Hubert, deceased, entitled thereto; that the said executors and trustees be required to account for all that portion of said estate embraced in paragraphs 'Eighth' and 'Eighth A' of said will hereinbefore set forth, and to pay to plaintiff his proper proportion thereof; and that plaintiff may have such other and further relief as may be just and equitable, together with the costs and disbursements of this action."

Paragraph Ninth, providing for the revocation of the legacy to any beneficiary contesting the will, reads:

Ninth: It is my will that none of my heirs-at-law and next to kin who shall contest the probate of this will shall share in any distribution of my estate and I therefore hereby revoke any legacy hereinbefore given to any such next of kin who shall contest my estate and direct that the share of such one-quarter which would have gone to the next of kin so contesting my said will be added to and distributed with the three-quarters of my estate given for charitable, educational or religious purposes, as hereinbefore provided.

Tells of Consent to Probation.

Commenting on the action brought by Mr. Horwich, Mr. Abrahams said:

"He consented to the probating of the will on April 20, 1928, as the records of the Surrogate will show. Prior to the probating of the will this same plaintiff was in this office to see me and executed a consent and waiver in connection with the probating of the will. He also knew at the time he consented to the probating of the will that any steps taken by him to contest the will would have meant that he would have been disinherited and his legacy revoked."

"As soon as the accounting is filed in the Surrogate's Court," Mr. Abrahams continued, "the executors will be in a position to distribute $4,600,000 to some of the institutions designated in the report of Mr. Coolidge, Mr. Smith and Mr. Rosenwald. The rest of the institutions designated in the report will have to await the liquidation of assets in Florida owned by the estate. Those assets comprise mostly real estate, including the beautiful home of the late Mr. Hubert at Mountain Lakes near that of the late Edward Bok's. The Hubert estate adjoins the estate on which Mr. Bok built the singing tower.

"That part of the estate which has been liquidated and on which an accounting is about to be rendered in the Surrogate's Court includes mortgages, stocks and other securities. The bulk of the securities are those of the Bond Electric Corporation, 259 Cornelison Avenue, Jersey City, N. J., of which the late Mr. Hubert was chairman, and C. Bertram Plante, my law partner, president."

The cash beneficiaries selected by Messrs. Coolidge, Smith and Rosenwald, to share immediately together with their legacies, were announced on Monday as follows:

$375,000, American National Red Cross.

$250,000, Y. M. C. A., Jersey City; Jewish Mental Health Society, New York City; the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and New York University.

$200,000, Children's Aid Society, New York.

$175,000, Y. M. H. A., New York City.

$50,000, the New York Foundling Hospital, New York City, and International Migration Service, Inc.

SMUTS'S TALK STIRS ANGER OF NEGROES

Du Bois Challenges Him to Debate Race Views, but General Ignores Controversy.

PICKENS CRITICIZES HIM

Allusion to the Africans as "Most Patient of Animals, Next to the Ass" Is Cause of Indignation.

General Jan Christiaan Smuts, former Premier of South Africa, refused yesterday to be drawn into controversy or engage in debate with American negro leaders on the status of the African negro. His allusion in his Town Hall address on Thursday afternoon to the native Africans as "the most patient of animals, next to the ass," aroused a protest and prompted Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, negro leader and editor of The Crisis, to challenge General Smuts to a debate on the relations between the whites and the natives of South Africa.

While awaiting Mayor Walker yesterday afternoon in the City Hall, General Smuts was informed of the challenge.

"I had not heard of it until now," he replied. "But I shall most certainly ignore it. Why, I am not here to advertise Mr. Du Bois. Life is too short. What I said in my address was entirely misunderstood by those who are complaining. I was complimenting the negroes, the natives of Africa, and praising their faculty for happiness and their contended outlook on life."

Pickens Assails Smuts's Views.

The first objection, voiced at Thursday's lecture by Dr. Robert R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, was mild in comparison with protests from several negro leaders in New York. One of the strongest came from William Pickens, field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who, in a written statement, dealt with "the amazing philosophy of General Smuts."

In discussing the race problem of Africa, said Mr. Pickens, General Smuts was "about as logical and as impressive as the average politician from Mississippi would be if he were talking to an audience in Harlem on the political and social privileges of American negroes."

He upbraided General Sumts for talking "like a representative of some travel agency bidding for American tourists." Also he criticized the South African statesman for lack of logic.

"When General Smuts speaks on the League of Nations," he commented, "or some other non-provincial question, his logic is sound and his language lucid. But on such general topics he is a man of the world, while on the question of the negro he is a man of South Africa. While General Smuts represents the best that is in the South African system, his social mind shows very plainly that no man can rise above the system in which he was born and nurtured and in which he continues to live. He may rise to the top of his system; he cannot get above it. The system of South Africa is a system of the exploitation of black uncivilized or civilized natives in the interests of the whites of European extraction. Mr. Smuts is the most 'benevolent' and humane exponent of this terribly cruel system."

Smuts Again Speaks on Africa.

An audience of 1,200 men and women heard General Smuts speak yesterday on "Africa and the United States" at a luncheon sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association in the Hotel Astor. His address touched on Africa's fauna and flora, climate, natural resources and beauties. He again warned against attemping to force white civilization on the African natives, declaring that the result would be disastrous and lead to a racial problem so tremendous that it would be well-nigh impossible to cope with it.

General Smuts characterized the negroes of Africa as "child peoples." They are happy, he said, and do not feel the burden of life like the white man; neither do they brood over their grievances.

"They are not so oppressed with the discontent which makes us such unhappy creatures," added General Smuts. "They are one of the most curious types of humanity, living their lives immemorial. I have been struck somewhat by what I have seen of the colored people here. I have been impressed by the change that has taken place in their transfer to the new conditions and environment in the United States, their education and their living here among the whites.

"If you go to Africa you are transported to an entirely different world. You have there hundreds of millions of natives living an entirely different life, with different ideas, a different mentality, and you will see there a condition which in many ways is one of the most interesting human situations today in the world—the negro at home, the negro in Africa."

After praising the military qualities of the blacks, from the time of Hannibal to the last war, General Smuts urged that something be done to regulate the racial contacts.

"Unless we are wisely guided in our relations to Africa," he warned, "the civilized world may find itself up against a most dangerous economic and social situation in the generations to come."

After the luncheon General Smuts called on Mayor Walker at the City Hall. They chatted informally and were photographed together.

Last night General Smuts was the guest of honor at the tenth anniversary dinner of the League of Nations Committee at the Hotel Commodore.

RITCHIE TO ASK 4TH TERM.

Maryland Governor Would Avoid a Primary Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie will seek renomination for a fourth term, his friends said today. He plans to announce his candidacy before March 1, provided political conditions do not change.

The Governor, it is said, would like to avoid a primary fight in the Democratic party, but several of the party leaders say such a contest is inevitable. State Senator David G. McIntosh Jr. is an avowed candidate for Governor and the Democrats will have to choose their candidate in a primary to run against a Republican.

SLEDGES IN PERIL, HUNTING EIELSON

Two Dog Drivers Battle Arctic Storm After They Confirm Sighting of Flier.

PARTED IN BLINDING SWIRL

One, With Axe, Menaced by Wolf, the Other Has the Supplies—Both Follow Drifts to Beach.

By MARION SWENSON.

ABOARD THE MOTORSHIP NANUK, North Cape, Siberia, Jan. 10.—Tazret Berdieff, a dog team driver spending his first season in the North, and a native who accompanied him to the reindeer camps south and east of the Nanuk in search of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, the missing fliers, battled a blizzard and barely escaped with their lives.

Both men came in with frostbitten faces. Berdieff was a day ahead of the native. They had experienced a successful trip, however, bringing the first definite clue that made it certain Eielson and Borland had reached our vicinity on the Siberian coast and all but made the Nanuk, their destination, before something happened to their plane.

Natives at the reindeer camps told of seeing and hearing the plane, which flew low over them. Where it went they did not know.

Joe Crosson will fly over that district as soon as the weather permits.

The native, returning yesterday, told him while stopping to untangle his dogs he became separated from Berdieff in the storm.

Berdieff, who had better dogs, was heading directly into the gale. Blinding snow was driving directly into their faces, making it impossible for them to see more than a few yards or to hear the other's voice.

Night came on in the bleak, open country. Both made camp and started out again the next day.

Each headed for the beach, using the snowdrifts as guide. They knew that the wind was from the northwest and by watching the drifts could determine the direction of the shore. Berdieff found a trapper's hut and the native reached the beach about ten miles east of it.

Berdieff made a fire with driftwood, but he had neither tea kettle nor provisions. The native had the tea kettle and provisions, but no axe with which to cut wood. Berdieff carried the axe. The native had lost his knife and his matches were wet.

During the day Berdieff saw a wolf. Unarmed, except for his axe, he crawled into his sleeping bag. Finally he fell asleep. During the night he was awakened by one of his dogs that had gotten loose and pounced upon the sled to reach a reindeer carcass which Berdieff was bringing to the Nanuk.

Berdieff's last thought before dropping off to sleep had been of wolves. He jumped out of the bag and with axe raised, was about to slay the dog when he discovered the animal was spotted and that it belonged to his team.

WAHABI CHIEF SURRENDERS.

Sheikh Feisal Ed Dowish Interned in Air Force Camp.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAGDAD, Jan. 10.—Sheikh Feisal Ed Dowish, rebel Wahabi leader, has surrendered to the British and is now interned in the air force camp at Shaibah, near Basra.

Details of his capture still are scanty, although it was learned today from a trustworthy source that he was captured by a British force consisting of airplanes and armored cars patroling the desert southwest of Basra. A force of armed cars of the Iraq army has left Bagdad for the disturbed area, where the victorious forces of the Wahabi King, Ibn Saud, are hotly pursuing the rebel tribesmen.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JEDDAH, Arabia, Jan. 10.—The Hedjaz Government has sent a message to the British Government demanding the delivery of the rebel Sheikh Feisal Ed Dowish and all other fugitives according to pledges given by the governments of Iraq and Transjordania. A meeting to discuss the question will be held soon at Ebeid, on the Nejd frontier, between Hedjaz and British representatives.

6,000 MINERS END MARCH.

Australians Quit Move to Eject Non-Union Workers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 10.—A night spent in the open cooled the tempers of the 6,000 miners marching on the Rothbury colliery. The formidable army, bent on ejecting non-union workers from the mine being operated by the New South Wales Government, disbanded after a conference in a gully five miles from their objective.

A large force of mounted police intercepted a contingent of 3,000 from Cessnock and prevailed upon the leaders to turn the men back. A similar contingent from Kurri also listened to wiser counsels, but tension still exists.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 10.—The application of the Rothbury miners for a compulsory conference has been granted by the Federal arbitration court.

A conference will be held here on Jan. 20 under Judge Beeby.

BRITISH SHIP IN DISTRESS.

Transylvania Speeds to Eskbridge's Aid 600 Miles Off Grangemouth.

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Lloyd's reported tonight the receipt of a wireless message from the British liner Transylvania, stating that she was going to the assistance of the British steamer Eskbridge, which was in distress in Lat. 57 N. and Long. 20.13 W.

The Eskbridge, which is a steamer of 2,107 tons, reported that her steering gear had been carried away. She sailed for New York on Jan. 1 from Grangemouth, Scotland.

The position given is about 600 miles west and slightly north of Grangemouth.

Only Gutenberg Bible Owned In Poland Sold to American

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Jan. 10.—A Gutenberg Bible belonging to the Catholic seminary at Pelplin, a former province of West Prussia, was sold yesterday for $110,000 to an American.

The Bible, which was the only one in Poland printed by Gutenberg, had been kept since the fifteenth century in the library of the Bernardine Monastery in Lubawa and only recently moved to Pelpin. It is said to be one of only ten known to exist.

The Council of Polish Bibliophiles has sen a protest to the Ministry of Education against the Bible's exportation, but it remains to be seen whether the government can cancel the sale.

REVOLT PLOT BROKEN IN SAO PAULO RAID

Police, at First Repulsed by Rifle Fire, Seize Headquarters and Four Leaders.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Jan. 10.—Because no women ever entered a house situated in a respectable section of Sao Paulo and every man had an individual key, neighbors became suspicious and advised the police. After observing the movements of mysterious visitors the police attempted a raid, but were repulsed by rifle fire lasting some time and wounding one policeman.

When the police later gained entry the occupants, with one exception, had fled, but the police unearthed a well-organized revolutionary plot headed by ex-army officers who were associated with the last Sao Paulo revolution. By late afternoon today the police had arrested four of the principal members of the movement, but it is understood many have fled the city. Two of the four were ex-army officers who, on account of being connected with the last revolution, are subject to two years' imprisonment. The police are keeping a sharp watch on roads leading out of Sao Paulo.

MRS. MUNN ASKS DIVORCE.

Two Other Americans Involved in Paris Applications.

PARIS, Jan. 10 (AP).—Three divorce applications involving Americans were filed in the Paris courts today.

Mrs. Mary Astor Paul Munn filed suit against Charles Alexander Munn. They were married June 21, 1909, at Radnor, Pa. Abandonment was given as the grounds.

Mrs. Yvonne Lelievre Dodelin brought suit against Edward Dodelin of Camden, N. J., charging abandonment.

Mrs. Eugenie Jugie Shores filed suit against Jacob Shores of Brooklyn. They were married Jan. 23, 1927, at Bridgeport, Conn.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Filing of a divorce action in Paris by the former Mary Astor Paul, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James W. Paul, follows four years of rumors concerning plans for the separation or divorce of the Charles Alexander Munns. Mr. Munn is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn of Washington.

The Munns were married in the Church of St. Martin's in Radnor, Penn., on June 21, 1909, with socially prominent guests from several cities present. Following the sale of their home, Woodcrest, in Radnor, in the Spring of 1925, they announced their intention of going to Paris to live for at least ten years. Before sailing Mr. Munn denied that a rift existed between Mrs. Munn and himself.

Mrs. Munn is a sister of Mrs. Paul Denckla Mills and of A. J. Drexel Paul, while her husband is a brother of Gurnee and Ector Munn.

AFGHAN ENVOY IN LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Shah Wali-khun, the conqueror of Kabul, arrived in London tonight to be the new Afghan Minister in London. He asserted that Afghanistan had returned to normality under the rule of his brother, King Nadir Khan.

"The new government wants to cultivate, promote and maintain good relations, not only with one of its great neighbors, but with both," the new Minister asserted, "with Britain on the south and Russia on the north.

"As to internal policy, my brother will encourage educational progress and introduce necessary reforms which the people may decree, and especially will devote his attention to industrial development."

FRANCE LEADS IN GOLD.

Ratio Per Capita Now $40—Only $37.50 in United States.

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 10 (AP).—With the arrival aboard the Cunard liner Berengaria of 216,000,000 francs in gold (approximately $43,200,000), France today took the lead of all the nations in the world in the gold ratio per capita.

Every Frenchman, man, woman and child, may now theoretically boast of possessing $40 in the vaults of the Bank of France. French records place the United States second with $37.50 for each of its citizens.

ALIENS WIN RIGHT OF MEXICAN APPEAL

Supreme Court Agrees to Take Expelled Foreigner's Plea Under Advisement.

FIVE MORE ORDERED OUT

Southern Capital Thinks Envoy to Washington May Be Next Foreign Minister There.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 10.—The right of foreigners to appeal from an order of deportation under the drastic Article XXXIII of the Mexican Constituion was upheld today by the Supreme Court of Mexico.

The recognition was tacit in the admittance to discussion of an appeal by Joseph Kasado, an Arab, who was ordered expelled as, in the words of the article, a "pernicious foreigner."

Heretofore foreigners who have been "thirty-threed" out of Mexico have had no recourse, as the article has been interpreted. Any foreigner considered by the authorities as "pernicious" was expelled from the country without trial or redress. He or she was taken to a convenient place on the border and more or less pushed over.

Señora Ortiz Rubio Ill.

President-elect Ortiz Rubio cut his visit to the United States short because his wife is indisposed, according to dispatches published today. This seemingly is in answer to suggestions that he was hurrying home because of the political situation, the silver crisis or some incident in the United States. He will arrive Sunday, it is said.

In connection with political developments, it is said in reliable quarters that Ambassador Manuel Tellez has been recalled from Washington, probably to be appointed Foreign Minister in Señor Ortiz Rubiro's Cabinet. If that is correct, Señor Tellez will not become dean of the diplomatic corps in Washington, as he would within a month in the ordinary course of events.

Business men here were relieved today by an appreciable hardening of quotations on Mexican gold. In financial circles it is thought that yesterday's drop was due to artificial rather than basic causes. A slight rise in bar silver also causes satisfaction here, as indicating some relief in the crisis which was so adversely affecting one of Mexico's chief industries.

Five Others Ordered Expelled.

MEXICO CITY, Jan 10 (AP).—President Portes Gil has issued an order for the expulsion of five foreigners for illegal activities, the nature of which was not made public. The nationality of the foreigners was not stated.

Those ordered expelled are Julio Rawsky, Froien Rendire, Faiwell Solovciezki, Rogello Teurbe Tolon and Ana Donawoka. They are being sent to Vera Cruz to be placed on the first ship sailing from that port.

COTTON AGENCY READY.

$30,000,000 Cooperative Will Incorporate Today, Operate Monday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Ready to operate on Monday, the new $30,000,000 National Cotton Cooperative prepared tonight to file articles of incorporation in Delaware tomorrow.

It will probably be called the "Cotton Corporation of America" and have headquarters in the export market judged most advantageous. The location is expected to be announced tomorrow.

Announcement of the progress was made by Carl Williams, representing cotton on the Federal Farm Board. He said he expected the organization to elect officers tomorrow, take stock subscriptions from member cooperatives and be ready to buy and sell cotton on Monday.

He predicted that it would act immediately to market what it could to get of the remainder of the present crop.

"Under the laws of Delaware," Mr. Williams said, "a corporation can start business with $1,000 capital. Stock subscriptions ready to be delivered to the cotton corporation far exceed that figure and, if it wishes, the corporation can get whatever loans are necessary from the Federal Farm Board."

Asserting that the corporation would keep its business secrets away from the public, he added:

"We are going into this to make money for the cotton farmers."

BRITISH STEEL MILL SHUTS

Nearly All 1,000 Male Residents of Penistone Thrown Out of Work.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHEFFIELD, England, Jan. 10.—A thousand men, virtually the entire male population of the Yorkshire village of Penistone, will be thrown out of work this week by the sudden shutting down of the steel works of the Cammell Laird Company.

The workmen, who have been given a week's notice, will swell the Sheffield's district's total of unemployed to 31,000, which is fifty per cent above normal.

Rennie Smith, Labor Member of Parliament for Penistone, is lecturing in the United States in behalf of peace organizations.

RED OUSTED FROM SEJM.

Polish Parliament Suspends Him for Defying the Speaker.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Jan. 10.—M. Rosiak, a Communist Deputy who occupied the tribune today in spite of the Speaker's refusal to allow him to speak, attempted to read a Communist declaration, but was able only to shout a few words before the Speaker's guard entered, seized him and carried him out of the Sejm. The Sejm decided on M. Rosiak's exclusion for a month, which means that he will lose remuneration of nearly $125.

This is the first time a Deputy has ever been rejected by the Speaker's guard in the Sejm.

Plan Franco-German Veterans' Rally

BERLIN, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Reichsbanner, weekly organ of the Republican former soldiers, today said a proposal was afoot under the auspices of the Reichsbanner organization to call a mass meeting this Summer of French and German former combatants on the battlefields of Chemin des Dames or Verdun. It would be for the purpose of organizing a joint demonstration to cement the peace of both nations.

MAGISTRATE'S ABSENCE CAUSES M'ADOO TO ACT

Goodman Is Asked by His Chief to Forward Medical Certificate if He Is Ill.

Learning later in the day that Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman had failed to appear on the bench at Yorkville Court yesterday morning and had failed to report his absence to the chief magistrate's office, Chief Magistrate William McAdoo sent a telegram to Magistrate Goodman requesting him to send a medical certificate "at once" if he were ill. Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky, who filled Magistrate Goodman's place as well as his own in the Family Court in the same building, had reported to his superior that the absent magistrate was ill.

Although Magistrate Brodsky said last night that, on the previous day, Magistrate Goodman had told him he was ill and had asked him to take his place yesterday, Magistrate McAdoo said he had not been told anything of the matter until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. "I sent him a telegram at once," said the chief magistrate, explaining that the rules require a magistrate to send word to the chief magistrate's office when it will be impossible for him to sit.

The text of the telegram, sent to the Goodman home at 250 West Ninety-fourth Street, follows:

"Magistrate Brodsky reports to me that as an emergency, owing to your sickness, he had to take both courts today in Fifty-seventh Street. If you are sick and disabled, send a medical certificate to this office at once and we will take measures to fill your place."

Magistrate Brodsky said last night that he understood Magistrate Goodman was "a very sick man," although he did not reveal the nature of the illness. Magistrate Brodsky said that he arrived early, disposed of all cases ready in Family Court yesterday morning and was in Magistrate Goodman's place five or ten minutes after 10. By 11:30, he said, he had completed the Yorkville calendar.

After a brief early afternoon conference with the chief magistrate, he said, he returned to the court, remaining there until after 5 P. M. Magistrate Goodman's residence could not be reached by telephone last night.

URGES ARMS PARLEY TO ACT ON AIRDROMES

Brazilian Official in Rome Proposes League Control of Floating Havens for Ocean Fliers.

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP).—Da Fonseca Hermes, secretary of the Brazilian Embassy to the Holy See, has transmitted to the secretariat of the London Naval Arms Conference a project aiming to internationalize in time of peace and neutralize in time of war all floating airdromes that may be built in the open sea for landing and refueling of airplanes or seaplanes.

Mr. Hermes's plan was approved by an international aviation congress in Rome in 1927. He maintains that his project is closely linked with the principle of full freedom of the seas, which he thinks will come either directly or indirectly under discussion at the London conference. He believes that unless his suggestion is accepted aviation will become an increasingly dangerous threat to the freedom of the seas.

Yugoslav Dictatorship Believed Planning Move to Strengthen Kingdom.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, Jan. 10—Almost 600 years after it was extirpated by the Turkish conquerors of Serbia, the institution of nobility, according to a report, is to be re-established in Yugoslavia.

When Serbia shook itself free of the Turk, more than 100 years ago, aristocracy was not recognized under its Constitution. The country, though a monarchy, remained strongly democratic in its social system.

It is thought the dictatorship plans to re-establish nobility as another step toward welding the triune kingdom into one nation.

Another evidence of the government's determination to attain this end, although of a different sort, is afforded by the reported dismissal of Dr. Silovitch from the post of Danus or head of the newly created Banat of Croatia. Dr. Silovitch's offense was his intervention to request a more merciful handling by the Belgrade Government of Dr. Matchek and other members of the Croat party who were arrested a fortnight ago on suspicion of being concerned in a bomb plot aimed against the celebration of King Alexander's birthday.

REPORT DAVIS WILL STICK.

Capital Rumors Say That He Will Remain in Cabinet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—That James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, had decided not to run for Governor of Pennsylvania or for the Republican nomination for Senator from that State and would remain in the Hoover Cabinet was reported here tonight. It was said that President Hoover had asked the Secretary to continue at his post if he did not enter State politics.

Confirmation of the reports could not be obtained from White House officials and Mr. Davis was in Pttstown, Pa. It is believed that President Hoover would be quite willing to hace Mr. Davis remain in the Cabinet if he did not enter either of the State races.

DELANEY FOR RAZING ELEVATED LINE NOW

Work in 6th Av. Could Begin in Six Months if Condemnation Started at Once, He Says.

SEES CUT IN SUBWAY COST

Eliminating Need for Underpinning Would Save $4,000,000 and Speed Construction, He Holds.

Chairman John H. Delaney of the Board of Transportation aligned himself yesterday with Borough President Julius Miller and a group of civic associations in favor of immediate condemnation proceedings for razing the Sixth Avenue elevated line of the Interborough system. Condemnation maps, covering the elevated route from Morris Street and Trinity Place to the junction of Ninth Avenue and Fifty-third Street will be prepared by Board of Transportation engineers and submitted to Borough President Miller within three or four weeks, Mr. Delaney declared.

At a recent conference with a committee of the Thirty-fourth Street-Midtown Association Mr. Delaney expressed the belief that the work of razing the elevated structure could be started in about six months if condemnation proceedings were pressed at once. He declared that conferences with subway contractors and with Chairman Fullen of the Transit Commission had convinced him that the razing of the elevated structure was essential to speedy construction of the proposed new Sixth Avenue subway line. The subway route, he estimated, could be built at a saving of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 if the necessity for underpinning the elevated structure were eliminated.

Great Engineering Problem.

At his conference with the midtown business group Mr. Delaney disclosed that the contract for construction of the first section of the Sixth Avenue line, from Fifty-third Street to Thirty-fourth Street, had been advertised for bids several months ago, but withdrawn after contractors had pointed out the tremendous technical difficulties and the high cost of underpinning the elevated structure, located in the centre of the street. The engineering problem was most acute, he said, in the stretch below Thirty-fourth Street, where a tube of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company is located.

The Board of Transportation has completed practically all the working plans for the Sixth Avenue subway route and will soon call for bids. The line will tap the Fifty-third Street tube under the East River and will extend southerly to a point just below Eighth Street, where it will join the Eighth Avenue line of the new city system. That line extends south to a point near Church Street, connecting with East River tubes to Brooklyn. Where the Sixth Avenue line parallels the Hudson tube line it is planned to locate local tracks on each side of the Hudson tube line. Express tracks will be in a deep-level tube below the Hudson tracks. An agreement to this effect is now in negotiation with the Hudson & Manhattan company.

Condemnation of the Sixth Avenue elevated line was authorized by the Legislature several years ago. In this plan, submitted to the Board of Estimate in June, Borough President Miller declared that the official records of the Transit Commission showed that the original cost of the elevated structure, plus easements, was $6,835,618 and that depreciation had reduced the value to about $5,000,000. He also declared that the line had for some time been operating at a loss.

Sees No Cost to City.

In his plan Mr. Miller declared that it would cost the city nothing to raze the structure, the cost being borne entirely by owners of abutting land whose holdings would be increased in value from $112,000,000—the present total assessed valuation—to $224,000,000. The increased value of buildings, he declared, would bring the total increase in valuation up to $200,000,000.

Traffic counts, made by the civic groups and the Transit Commission, Mr. Delaney said yesterday, show that the great majority of the passengers on the elevated line are persons employed or having business in the immediate area through which it runs. They could be handled adequately, he said, by existing facilities if the elevated structure is razed, especially when the new Eighth Avenue subway line begins operation in the Spring of 1931. If the elevated line comes down within six months, Mr. Delaney said, the new Sixth Avenue subway could be completed not very long afterward. The delay in starting the work, he explained, would be more than compensated by the extra speed with which it could be carried on, because of the absence of the need for underpinning.

Construction of the Sixth Avenue subway line without removing the elevated structure, Mr. Delaney declared, would mean the closing of the highway to traffic while the work was being done. The presence of the elevated columns and necessary new steel supports, plus the open cut for the subway and the congestion of subway materials in the roadway, he said, would make the street useless as a traffic artery.

Would Facilitate Using Buses.

It was also declared that removal of the elevated structure would facilitate the substitution of buses for surface cars in Sixth Avenue. Negotiations for such a substitution are already under way, but one objection has been the presence of the elevated columns which are considered serious obstacles to the free movement of motor vehicles.

The work of tearing down the elevated structure, it was said, can be started before condemnation proceedings are finally closed. The Interborough, which has opposed the plan on the ground that it would destroy a needed transit facility, would be left to its remedy in the courts on the question of the value of the property taken. The condemnation proceedings, involving a mass of technical detail, including statutory hearings before the Transit Commission and a probable review in the State courts, would require about a year, Mr. Miller estimated in his report to the Board of Estimate in June. The project is on the Committee of the Whole calendar for Tuesday, but action will be deferred until the Board of Transportation has drawn up the necessary maps.

Mr. Delaney took up with the Thirty-fourth Street-Midtown Association the proposed "reservoir" plan to relieve congestion at the Grand Central station of the Interborough subway. Chairman Fullen of the Transit Commission was at the conference. The plan contemplates a new line under Lexington Avenue from Twenty-eighth Street to Forty-second Street, as well as double island platforms at Forty-second Street and Thirty-third Street and the making of an express station at Thirty-third Street. Mr. Delaney and Mr. Fullen were non-committal, but promised to give the project serious consideration. The plan involves a minimum cost of about $25,000,000. Mr. Fullen declared recently that the question was one for the city authorities to settle and voiced the belief that the problem was whether it was wiser to spend the money on the new Second Avenue subway or to concentrate on the "reservoir" plan, which would serve primarily a single locality.

The Board of Estimate Committee of the Whole named Aldermanic President McKee, Borough President Harvey of Queens and Borough President Byrne of Brooklyn yesterday to confer on Wednesday with Mr. Delaney and representatives of civic groups in the dispute over the route of the proposed Queens Boulevard subway where it connects with Hillside Avenue. One group favors a connecting spur running through Sutphin Boulevard, while the other desires a Van Wyck Boulevard link.

ADOPTED SON STARTS SAVIN WILL CONTEST

Alleges Document Leaving Bulk of $10,000,000 to Fourth Wife Is Not Last Testament.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The will of the late Frank W. Savin of Port Chester, which left the bulk of his $10,000,000 estate to Anna Mary Schlies Savin, his fourth wife, who was a former servant in his house, was contested today in papers filed with Surrogate George A. Slater by Charles Monroe Savin, 52-year-old adopted son of Mr. Savin. His adopted daughter was the only one of his two natural and two adopted children to be mentioned in the will.

The papers, which move for voiding the will on four grounds, name John Ambrose Goodwin of this city counsel in the interposition proceedings. The contestant was adopted by Mr. Savin during the lifetime of Mrs. Sarah Monroe Treadwell Savin, his third wife, who, like his fourth wife, had been an employe on the estate. Charles Savin was a brother-in-law of the third Mrs. Savin. He was about forty years old and employed as a superintendent at Winchester Hall, the Savin estate, at the time of his adoption. The grounds for the contest were as follows:

That the said paper writing is not the last will and testament of said decedent, and that the alleged execution thereof was not his free unconstrained or voluntary act.

That neither at the time said paper purports to have been executed, nor at the time that it was executed, was decedent of sound mind, memory and understanding.

That the paper propounded for probate herein is invalid as a will and testament and it is illegal and void, and contestant demands a trial by jury of the issues herein.

That the said paper was not subscribed, published or attested as and for his last will in conformity with the statute in such case made and provided.

There will be no jury term in the surrogate's court until March and it is expected that the date will be set by Judge Slater on or about Feb. 11, the date set for the hearing on objections to the probation of the will.

Miss Muriel Elizabeth Savin, the adopted daughter, was the only one of his four children to receive a share of the estate. She received an annuity of $2,400.

WOULD AID BAY STATE ROAD.

Southbridge Business Men Want Railway Charter Extended.

BOSTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Southbridge Manufacturers and Merchants Association, through Representative Edward J. Staves, today filed with the Legislature a bill to extend for three years from the passage of the act the corporate powers of the Southern New England Railroad.

The Southbridge association and a group of Providence, R. I., bankers have been interested in continuing the railroad's charter, which expires on April 15. The road would link Canada with the sea at Providence, R. I., by joining the Central Vermont road at Palmer. From Palmer it would pass through Southbridge and other Southern Massachusetts towns into Rhode Island.

The road was under construction when the World War broke out and was then abandoned by the Grand Trunk Railroad, which had sponsored the project.

CHILD GETS $10,000 A YEAR.

Bay State Court Holds That a Reasonable Sum for 12-Year-Old.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 10 (AP).—Ten thousand dollars a year is a reasonable amount to allow for the education and maintenance of 12-year-old Olivia Ames, Judge Mayhew R. Hitch decided in Probate Court today. She is the daughter of Colonel Oliver Ames Jr. of Easton, who was killed in France in the World War. While she will receive but $10,000 a year it was stated that her annual income is more than $30,000. The difference is to become part of her estate administered by her mother, now Mrs. Caroline Lee Bigelow.

Olivia Ames's grandfather, Oliver Ames, who died last August, left an estate estimated at $4,365,000, and interest in trust funds left by his father and grandmother, bringing an ultimate total of about $8,000,000. Today's hearing was over interpretation of details of the will.

Amateur Golf Rating Restored to Miss Browne—Layton Keeps World Cue Title

MISS BROWNE MADE GOLF AMATEUR AGAIN

U. S. G. A. Reinstates Player Who Was Barred in 1927 After Engaging in Pro Tennis.

DECISION SURPRISES STAR

Elated Over the News as She Sails for Europe—P. V. Carter Also Regains Status.

JONES WALKER CUP CAPTAIN

Named to Lead Team in Britain This Year—Age Limit for Caddies Raised to 18 Years.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Miss Mary K. Browne, one of the outstanding women athlets of the country, was reinstated to the status of an amateur golfer yesterday by the actiton of the United States Golf Association, following the executive committee meeting held at the Hotel Belmont.

The news was made public by Prescott S. Bush, secretary, following the closed session, along with other important announcements, which included the designation of Bobby Jones as the captain of the 1930 Walker Cup team.

Although the decision of the U. S. G. A. concerning Miss Browne, who became a tennis professional in 1926 to join C. C. Pyle's troupe and who was subsequently barred in 1927 from competing in championships of the U. S. G. A., was expected by a number of her friends, no one was more surprised to learn the news than Miss Browne herself.

At the Hotel Weylin last night, previous to her sailing for Europe on the Olympic, Miss Browne was overjoyed. When informed that the executive committee a few hours previously had waived the entire length of the three-year probationary period, which would actually end on Feb. 12, and had instead immediately classed her as an amateur, Miss Browne was almost stunned.

"Isn't that exciting," she exclaimed, "but are you sure it is a fact? You may not believe it, but this is really a great surprise to me, and it simply makes me feel great sailing for Europe with this news."

Star Noticeably Affected.

When Miss Browne was informed that Rodman E. Griscom, chairman of the amateur status and conduct committee, had submitted her name for reinstatement at the meeting she said, simply, "Wasn't that fine," but when mention was made of the petition which had been submitted to the U. S. G. A., signed by fifty women headed by Miss Glenna Collett, to have her reinstated, Miss Browne was noticeably affected.

"That's what makes this thing so fine, to know that the women really wanted me reinstated. I can't tell you how much I think of Glenna, for she has been splendid, and I know she is responsible for that petition."

Miss Brown said she expected to play golf when she returned from Europe in March and hoped to be able to get back into the championship class. "I don't think I'm too old," she said, and laughed.

Miss Browne, however, didn't have any golf clubs or tennis racquets in her luggage, which was rather unusual, she explained. "But this is a business trip, and, in fact, I've been very busy in Cleveland, so that I haven't really played golf or tennis very much recently."

Miss Browne has had an interesting career both on the links and the tennis courts. Back in 1924 she achieved the distinction of gaining the semi-final in the national tennis championship as well as the final in the national golf championship. She defeated Miss Collett at the Rhode Island Country Club that year in the semi-final in the famous match that went to the nineteenth hole, after her ball hit a tree and caromed onto the eighteenth green. They went on to the extra hole and Miss Browne won, her putt glancing off Miss Collett's ball and dropping into the cup for the victory. In her final match against Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, however, she lost by 7 and 6. She was eliminated in the tennis title play by Miss Helen Wills.

Had Won Tennis Crown.

Previously Miss Browne had won the national tennis crown in 1912, 1913 and 1914 and was captain of the Wightman Cup team in 1926. Following her national golfing triumph of 1924, Miss Browne reached the third round the following year in the women's championship and although she did not compete in 1926, her entry was not accepted by the U. S. G. A. for the 1927 championship. She had signed her four-month contract with Pyle (which terminated in January, 1927) to act as playing opponent for Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen when the French champion toured the country from October to January, and the action by the U. S. G. A. followed.

In the Spring of 1927, the golf executive committee adopted the resolution which stated that "Miss Mary K. Browne has capitalized her skill in amateur athletics and in the opinion of the executive committee she has acted in a manner detrimental to the best interests and true spirit of the game of golf and she is therefore declared ineligible to compete in any amateur tournament under the jurisdiction of this association." A short time later, Miss Brown submitted her application for reinstatement which was under consideration until yesterday.

With the announcement concerning Miss Browne, Philip V. Carter now of Los Angeles, formerly of the metropolitan district, was also declared eligible for amateur status, while a new ruling was adopted concerning the caddy, or those who carry clubs for hire. Heretofore an amatuer golfer by definition was one who had not carried clubs for hire upon attaining the age of 16 years. The new ruling will raise the age limit to 18 years, thus taking in the high school age group and increasing the number of potential caddies.

Jones Captain in 1928.

The balance of the team personnel which will invade Britain for the international matches and serve with Jones, who was captain in 1928 when the British played here, is expected to be announced within the next six weeks. Jones, as a member of the executive board, was among those attending the meeting when the announcement of his selection was made.

Times Wide World Photo.
MISS MARY K. BROWNE,
Who Was Reinstated as an Amateur Golfer by the U. S. G. A. Yesterday.

The time of the national amateur championship was also set at yesterday's conference, which preceded the annual meeting today at the Hotel Biltmore. The amateur tourney, scheduled for the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, will be held from Sept. 22 to 27. Besides stipulating that on June 16 the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship would be held, the Buffalo district was added to the nineteen districts already having these preliminary tests.

Practically all of the members of the present executive committee and the 1930 board that will be officially elected today were on hand for the meeting, including Findlay Douglas, U. S. G. A. president; H. H. Ramsay, Robert Cutting, Charles S. Sabin, Prescott S. Bush, A. S. Kerry, Herbert Jaques, Ganson Depew, Harrison Johnston, the amateur champion; Cornelius S. Lee, Rodman E. Griscom, John G. Jackson, Cornelius S. Lee, Wynant D. Vanderpool and Jones. The exceptions were E. H. Seaver and Roger D. Lapham of the Pacific Coast and Harry Potter of St. Louis, who will not be here for any of the sessions.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—One player, Johnny Rogers, long-driving professional of the Denver Country Club, broke par on the difficult Riviera Country Club course today in the first round of the fifth annual Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament. Over a 6,910-yard course, slow from heavy rains, Rogers shot a 70 to lead a stellar field of 129 starters by two strokes.

One over par for the stern Riviera course, which is considered the most difficult in Southern California, were Al Espinosa of Chicago and the 18-year-old Los Angeles amateur, Charley Seaver. It was Seaver, a senior from Hun School at Princeton, N. J., who is home on vacation, whose 66 led the first-round returns in the Long Beach open last week.

Horton Smith, Leo Diegel and Densmore Shute were grouped in fourth place with 73s.

Many of the favorites finished from seven to a dozen strokes behind the leader. The winner of the tournament for the last two years, Macdonald Smith of New York, had 77, the same score made by Bill Mehlhorn, Al Watrous, Craig Wood, Henry Ciuci and Johnny Golden.

Hagen Returns an 81.

Several of the other stars were higher. Walter Hagen, British open champion, took 81, as did Harry Cooper, who won the first Los Angeles open in 1926, and Joe Turnesa. Fred Morrison, the Los Angeles pro, who was medalist in the P. G. A. championship last month, required an 82, including a 9 on the twelfth hole, where he put four balls out of bounds.

The course was slow from a heavy rain that fell yesterday afternoon and early last night. Except for a shower that lasted about thirty minutes this morning, no rain fell during the play, but the ground remained soggy and there was casual water in some of the traps and on the greens.

Conditions were the worst for the early starters, who not only had to play before the sun came out but also had to go through the morning rainfall. In the afternoon, playing conditions were much improved. Most of the stars were late starters.

Hagen was not playing any club well. He took 41 to go out and was not much better coming home. Walter's iron shots left him much to do, usually being either short or over. When he had a chance to make up for these errors, his putter failed him.

Two 6's for Mehlhorn.

Mehlhorn was an early starter. His score included a 6 on the eighth hole and another one on the seventeenth. The seventeenth, 585 yards long, played as an unusually long par 5 hole, required two woods and a full No. 1 iron to get home.

Shute, the former West Virginia amateur, who played through bad weather at Winged Foot last June to finish in a tie for third in the national open, had the lowest score of the early starters. He went out in 35 when conditions were at their worst and came back in 38 for a 73. Shute played with Willie Hunter, former British amateur champion, and George Von Elm, former United States amateur champion.

Hunter also played fine golf in the rain and went out in 34, but he took 41 on the second nine when conditions were better. Von Elm took 39 to come home after starting with a 3 on the tenth. His score was 76.

Diegel had five 3s on the first nine and made the turn in 34. He returned in 39. Leo's play was good in all departments except chipping.

Boy's Fall Upsets Armour.

Tommy Armour, whose sensational 67, 68—135 led the field over this course in the first two rounds of last year's tournament, also went out in 34. He finished 6, 4, 5, 5, three over par on the last four holes. This run started on the fifteenth tee, when a small boy fell to the ground just as Armour was swinging at his ball. The disconcerting noise caused the former open champion to take a large divot.

Attempting to make up the ground lost by his very short drive, Armour hit a long brassie that caught a trap by the green on the 445-yard par four hole.

Armour attempted to chip out of the wet sand and left the ball in the trap. After taking a 6, he went for a 2 on the next green and took a 4, the only short putt he missed on the round. A tee shot in bad position cost Tommy a 5 on the 445-yard elbow eighteenth.

Bobby Cruickshank, who won the Los Angeles open three years ago, also had a 74. This total was tied by Massie Miller of Norwich, Conn., and Billy Burke. Miller went out in 34. Burke never missed a green and played perfect golf except for putting lapses on three greens.

Rogers Gets Two 2s.

Rogers, who has been professional at the Denver Country Club for three years, won the Pennsylvania open championship in 1926 when he was located near Pittsburgh. He finished eleventh in the national open last year. The long-driving pro had two 2s on his round.

One came by a short putt on the sixth and the other as a result of a very long putt on No. 14. Rogers went out in 34 with a 5 on the ninth, where his drive caught a trap. He missed 5-foot putts for pass on the tenth and eleventh. His only hole over par on the second nine was the eighteenth, where his second was short of the green and he missed a 3-foot putt after a good chip shot.

Al Espinosa had three pushediron shots, on the fifth, thirteenth and fourteenth, and he lost a stroke to par each time. These were his only mistakes. Seaver played steadily, holing two birdies on long two-shot holes and missing his pars twice.

Mole Cricket Pronounced Deadly Enemy Of Links at Greenkeepers' Meeting Here

Golfers were warned yesterday at the annual meeting of the Green Section of the United States Golf Association at the Hotel Biltmore of the mole crickets as a formidable menace to golf courses, the pest being called as ruinous to turf as the bool weevil is to cotton. Cornelius S. Lee, green chairman of the Jekyl Island Club, Georgia, reported the damage the mole cricket has wrought in the South and at his club in particular, where one course was entirely destroyed.

"It is impossible to exaggerate the destruction caused by the pest," state Mr. Lee. Robert White, the architect, supplemented Mr. Lee's remarks and said that he thought the cricket had advanced to the stage that it not only ran and swam, but that it had wings.

One hundred and fifty greenkeepers attended the meeting. Professor F. H. Hillman of the seed laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture spoke on the problem of identifying bent seed. Dr. T. P. Hinman of Atlanta discussed the problem of keeping satisfactory greens on a course that is open twelve months of the year, and he said that the Druid Hills club had done it by building two greens, one for Summer use and the other for Winter, on every hole.

Other speakers were Dr. K. F. Kellerman, associate chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, and Dr. John Montieth. Wynant D. Vanderpool, former Uunited State Golf Association president and chairman of the green section committee, reviewed the work of the section during the past year.

WRESTLING IS ORGANIZED.

National Boxing Association Frames Regulations for Sport.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10 (AP).—Wrestling, a profession which never recognized any national affiliation and frequently witnessed many muddled championship situations, was placed today by the National Boxing Association on the same organized basis as all governed sports.

Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the N. B. A., which last year included the mat game in its jurisdiction, announced that, effective immediately, all wrestlers are subject to the benefits, championship awards, suspensions and discipline of the national organization. About 3,500 wrestlers are affected.

High spots of the N. B. A. requirements call for defense of championships three times a year, posting of title appearance forfeits ranging from $2,500 to $5,000, public bidding by promoters for the privilege of staging championship bouts, wrestlers to accept terms of the highest bidder, national champions to be decided in recognized classes by April 20, 1930, and championship entries to be matched by public drawing.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP).—The lightweight fight between Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Manuel Quintero, Cuban cavalier, was called off before the first preliminary bout tonight on account of inclement weather.

The fight will be held in the outdoor arena of the Miami Kennel Club Wednesday night, Jan. 15, according to announcement from the office of G. R. K. Carter, promoter of the bout.

COWARD IS VICTOR IN MARTIN SQUASH

Downs Cordier, Also Former U. S. Champion, as Tourney Opens at Yale Club.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Two former national champions, both members of the home club, met in the opening round of the annual Clyde Martin Memorial squash tennis tournament at the Yale Club last night and after the closest struggle of the evening Thomas R. Coward was still numbered among the contenders, while Auguste J. Cordier passed from the picture.

Overcoming the loss of the opening game and a lead of 4-0 that Cordier held over him in the second, Coward fought his way to victory by the narrow margin of 2 points in the final chapter. The score was 12—15, 15—10, 17—15.

Both players were obviously off form as a result of their long lay-off from tournament play and it was only sporadically that either of them produced anything like the brilliant squash for which they were known three or four years back.

Steadiness Is Deciding Factor.

Coward, the hardest hitter in the amateur ranks until the appearance of Rowland Haines of Columbia and arch rival for years of Fillmore Hyde, the gifted exponent of the soft game who is making a come-back also, won more through greater steadiness than any other factor.

Practically all of the play was around the corners. There seemed to be a tacit agreement between the friendly rivals to refrain from the straight up and down shot. Cordier kept the ball straight a good deal in the opening chapter and was in front all the way, but he changed to the round the corner style in the second, and Coward was just a little too good for him.

Coward was the only one of the host of luminaries in the tournament who went into action last night. The others will appear either this afternoon or on Monday. These include Haines, the national champion; H. R. Mixsell of Princeton, Edward R. Larigan of Crescent A. C. and all the other members of the first ten, as well as a number of other stars of the recent past, including Hyde.

The first round was completed when Frank Lafforgue marked up the last score last night. Among the winners were J. C. Lyons and Stanley Greene of the New York A. C., Dr. C. J. MacGuire of Yale and Gardner Hirons of Columbia.

Lyons Puts Out Stevens.

Lyons, one of the liveliest athletes who ever stepped into a squash court, turned in a commendable victory in defeating Yale Stevens of the home club at 15—8, 11—15, 15—12.

The summaries:

PAULINO CONQUERS VON PORAT IN UPSET

17,000 See Victor Gain Verdict After Surviving Severe Attack in First Round.

DECISION IS UNANIMOUS

Gallagher Outpoints Grosso in the Semi-Final—Lenhart Knocks Out Mercurio in Sixth.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Paolino confounded those who thought he was on the ragged edge as a fighter and confounded some 17,000 fight fans in Madison Square Garden last night with one of the greatest demonstrations of true fighting courage a local ring has produced in years. Battered and pounded in the first round, rocked and staggered until many thought the gallant Spaniard could not survive the storm which buffeted him, Paolino came back to conquer Otto Von Porat, solemn-visaged Scandinavian heavyweight in a ten-round struggle which was savagely fought, carried along at a burning pace and held enough thrills to satisfy the most exacting fight fan.

Referee Arthur Donovan and Judges Harold Barnes and C. W. Dingee voted a unanimous decision for Paolino and the announcement o fthis verdict released a roar of acclaim from the crowd.

The work of arriving at a decision was easy for the three officials. Paulino, weathering a storm of crushing righthand drives to the jaw and heart in the first round, went methodically, gallantly through to win the succeeding nine rounds by completely overwhelming Von Porat in an admirable exhibition of ring grit.

Paulino Weathers Storm.

Paulino almost bent double under devastating rights to the heart, and his head whirled under powerful rights to the jaw delivered by Von Porat in a savage opening bid for a knock out. But with a fury and a recklessness that were characteristic, Paulino went on the attack with the second round and never stopped thereafter in his steady pursuit of his foe.

Only once after that first round did Von Porat really hurt Paulino. That was in the fourth session, but Paulino squirmed out of danger and offset Von Porat's efofrts with a resumption of the offensive he launched with the second round and seldom interrupted. Von Porat had nothing to match the sterling grit of his foe, who triumphed in his first start under Billy Gibson.

Paulino weighed 196½ pounds, Von Porat 203¼.

Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, conquered Johnny Gross, Mt. Vernon, in ten rounds of hard fighting which served as the semi-final. His ability to outlast Grosso and his cleaner, harder hitting, it seemed, earned Gallagher the verdict, but it was not a popular award. Grosso, fighting valiantly for a third conquest of Gallagher, carried off the first four rounds and the seventh, and with an heroic recovery, made a desperate bid for victory in the tenth.

Gallagher spread his best fighting over the fifth, sixth, eight and ninth rounds, staggering Grosso in the sixth, the eighth and again in the ninth under shocking rights to the jaw. But Grosso survived the attack and closed gloriously, if ineffectually. Grosso weight 198½; Gallagher 196½.

Lenhart Victor in Début.

Fred Lenhart, Spokane light heavyweight, who boasts a victory over Maxie Rosenbloom, made an auspicious metropolitan debut when he knocked out Phil Mercurio, Mount Vernon heavyweight, in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round bout. The finish came after 1:16 of the sixth round when Lenhart deposited his rival in a neutral corner under the effects of a prodigous left hook to the jaw. Referee Arthur Donovan counted Mercurio out and then assisted the beaten boxer to his corner.

Lenhart's performance was impressive. He weighed 179½ against Mercurio's 192, and was handicapped in reach and height as well. Nevertheless, the Spokane lad tore after his rival from the time the first bell sent the men on their way and had all the better of the action prior to landing the finishing blow.

Edgar Norman, Norwegian light-heavyweight, carried off the decision over Bremer Eddy Husil, German lad, in their six-round bout. Norman weighed 172, Husil 170. In the opening bout of four rounds Paul Bianchi, Argentine heavyweight, 213, received the decision over Mark Simon, local giant, who weighed 232¼.

BALDUC KEEPS TITLE BY BEATING CHERNOFF

Retains National Guard Lightweight Crown Before 7,000 in 106th Infantry Armory.

Georgie Balduc, 134¼ pounds, of the 106th Infantry, National Guard lightweight champion, successfully defended his title against Sammy Chernoff, 133¾, of the 102d Medical Regiment, in a twelve-round title match last night at the 106th Regiment Armory before a crowd of 7,000.

Balduc, starting awkwardly in the opening rounds, staged a rally toward the end to give him a slight advantage.

Cannonball Pierre Cole, 154¼, hammered out a decision over Jerry Kline, 155, in a hard-fought eight-round semi-final. Both boys are from the 106th Infantry.

sion Joe Calucci, 147, of the Twenty-seventh Division Train, beat Banty (Kid) Wyoming, 144, of the Fourteenth Infantry in the initial six-rounder. In the second six-round bout Freeman Pepper, 175½, of the Fourteenth Infantry, substituting for Joe Vosdick, knocked out Charley Smith of the Regular Navy in 1:05 of the second round. Johnny Cucci, 147, of the 102d Medical Regiment outpointed Dusty Dumont, 147, of the home outfit in the first eight-round bout.

SHIRES WINS AGAIN; 18,000 AT THE BOUT

Boston Crowd Jeers Ball Player as He Defeats Spohrer, Whose Seconds Throw Towel in Ring.

BOSTON GARDEN, Boston, Jan. 10 (AP).—Arthur (the Great) Shires chalked up his fourth ring victory out of five starts here tonight by gaining a four-round knockout over Al Spohrer, Boston Braves catcher.

The Great One started swinging his wild right hooks at the opening bell and kept right on top of the National League catcher, who clinched by grabbing Shires about the legs. Spohrer's only blows were rights to the kidneys during clinches.

After Spohrer was dropped for nine by a right hook to the head in the second, he seemed content to remain in a neutral corner, with his arms protecting his face.

Spohrer became aggressive enough to cut Shires's lower lip with a light left jab in the third and they rested again, after the great Arthur had pelted him with a few harmless rights. Shires continued his wild right swings in the fourth, and so many of them landed that Spohrer's seconds threw in the towel.

Ringside statisticians announced that Shires landed 87 right hooks during the brief bout and had 39 misses. Spohrer's score was 27 hits, none of them heavy, and 20 misses.

The capacity crowd of 18,000 jeered Shires before, during and after the performance, but he finally waved it into silence long enough to announce: "I don't want Al Spohrer, I want Hack Wilson."

The main bout, a bruising ten-round encounter between Ernie Schaaf, and Al Friedman, rival Boston heavyweights, appeared to be an anti-climax in the crowd's estimation. They slugged toe to toe in every round, but the spectators did not become enthusiastic until late in the bout.

Schaaf won the decision but the verdict was not received kindly by the crowd which gave Friedman a lusty reception as he left the ring. Schaaf's heavy rights to the head and body gave him six of the ten rounds and Friedman, who used the same weapon to the same places, had an edge in the other four. Schaaf scaled 200 and had a 14-pound advantage.

WORLD'S CUE CROWN RETAINED BY LAYTON

Defending Champion Triumphs Over Reiselt, 50 to 32, in Three-Cushion Final.

CONTEST GOES 43 INNINGS

Victor Gets High Run of 8 in 42d Frame After Neck and Neck Duel Most of Way.

HALL DEFEATS KIECKHEFER

Triumphs by 50 to 31 to Gain Second-Place Tie With Reiselt—700 Attend Final Match.

In a game marked by many dramatic moments and with each player staging the battle of his life, Johnny Layton successfully defended his world's three-cushion billiard championship before a crowd of 700 at the Palm Garden last night, defeating a former titleholder, Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, 50 to 32, in forty-three innings.

It is the fifth time that Layton has captured the crown. With it goes a prize of $1,200 in cash and a yearly salary of $6,000 as well as a diamond and ruby-studded gold medal bestowed upon the champion by the National Billiard Association of America.

Layton wound up the match with a flourish, getting a run of eight, the best of the evening, in the forty-second inning and then grouped three in the forty-third to triumph.

The turning point of the match was in the thirty-sixth inning. In the thirty-fifth Layton miscued and then came on to run four. Two innings later he made five, and four innings further along, Layton ran his eight to practically clinch the crown.

Layton Receives Medal.

After the match Layton received the medal which remains his permanent property.

Layton won the bank and clicked off three with two clever shots. He left the balls in poor position for Reiselt and the latter returned the compliment by playing a safety. Layton also played a safety in his second inning and Reiselt drew a blank. Layton clicked off two in his third and Reiselt immediately tied the count with a run of five. Layton added one in his fourth and Reiselt matched it with one in his half of the inning.

The next two innings were blanks for both players and the following also was blank for Layton, but Reiselt gained two. Layton drew even again in his next inning with two and Reiselt got none. Layton got two more in the next inning and Reiselt one. Reiselt evened the count with one in the tenth. That left the score 10-10.

Layton Leads in Twelfth.

The eleventh was a blank for both. Then Layton got two in the twelfth to lead. Neither scored in the thirteenth, but each got one in the fourteenth. The play had the crowd on edge every minute, for up to then it was apparent that neither player had an advantage over the other, and each was able to match the other at shot-making and safety play.

In the next sixteen innings, or until the thirtieth, the advantage of one over the other was never at any time so wide that it lent confidence to either's game. Layton led by 21 to 18 in the twenty-eighth inning, then added one in his twenty-ninth to give him a margin of four. Reiselt missed in his twenty-ninth and Layton in his thirtieth, then Reiselt ran three to trail by only one.

In the thirty-first each made one. Layton got one in the thirty-second and Reiselt missed. But Layton missed in the thirty-third and Reiselt made two; but Layton got two in the next inning. Reiselt missed in that session and in the next Layton miscued. Reiselt drew a blank and then came a turning point as Layton got four.

Layton Gets Run of Five.

Both were blanked in the next and Layton set the crowd wild with a run of five to give him a lead of 36-24. Reiselt got two in the thirty-ninth, against which Layton matched three in the fortieth.

But Reiselt fought on gamely and got the longest run of the match to that point in his fortieth, a cluster of six, which left the score at that point 39-32 for Layton. Since the champion is expected to make about $25,000 in the year as titleholder the experts figured each point worth $500 at this stage of the game.

Both missed in the forty-first inning and then came the beginning of the end. Layton clicked off eight straight before he missed in the forty-second inning. On his first shot in this cluster, however, after he had made the point, the balls kissed and they were in perfect position so that the succeeding points were easily made. That gave the champion a lead of 47-32 and he ended the game in the forty-third with the required three.

Allen Hall assured himself of finishing no worse than third when he defeated Augie Kieckhefer, the southpaw cue artist, in the afternoon, 50 to 31.

Hall can finish second by taking the measure of the loser of the final match. Kieckhefer, whose third defeat dropped him into a tie with Tiff Denton for fourth place, can cinch that position only by beating the veteran former champion in the play-off.

The two play-offs will be carried to Dwyer's Billiard Academy, Fifty-second Street and Broadway, with Denton and Kieckhefer ending the four-place deadlock on Monday evening. The match to decide second and third place positions will be held Tuesday night.

New Orleans Feature Won by Virado in Best Time of Meeting for 6 Furlongs

VIRADO IS VICTOR BY 3-LENGTH MARGIN

Goes Fastest Six Furlongs of Fair Grounds Meeting With Time of 1:12 1-5.

BROWN BRUTUS IS SECOND

Jockey Landolt Gets Double, Riding Bill Morris and Joan K. Home in Front—Vole Also Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10.—The fastest six furlongs of the meeting were clicked off at the Fair Grounds today when Mose Goldblatt's Virado went the route in 1:12 1-5 to win the Jackson Square Handicap from half a dozen others.

The track record is 1:11 1-5, but there have not been many fast surfaces since the beginning of the meeting and Virado was running over a strip that was not at its best. Moreover, he won easily by three lengths and was not pressed at any time.

Brown Brutus came second to the wire, beating First Mission by a head, with Uluniu another head back to be fourth. The last named was the odds-on choice, but he never seemed to get under way. The winner paid $8.40 and carried 104 pounds.

Raced Well at Latonia.

Goldblatt is the Western trainer for Harry Payne Whitney and is considered one of the shrewdest judges of horseflesh. He acquired Virado some time ago after he had been brought out by the Nevada Stock Farm. Like many of that organization's horses, Virado is by Volta. He is out of Erase and ran some very good races at Latonia.

Kenneth Russell was up on Virado and made the most of his opportunity. Getting the gelding away fast, Russell kept him in front all the way and at the end had him just galloping. Brown Brutus ran a good race in coming from last position in the early stages to be second at the finish, but he never had much chance to overtake the leader.

Jockey C. Landolt scored a consecutive double when he brought home the winners in the first and second races. The first was Bill Morris, a nice looking colt by Theo Cook out of Les Invalides that was making his racing début. Running in the colors of Knebelkamp and Morris he won by a city block from Nervator, with Afrost third.

Joan K. Beats Miss Ramsey.

The margin was just as wide in the second race when Joan K. was first under Landolt's tactics. This is the Escoba filly that formerly was known as Freeway. She, too, bore the Knebelkamp and Morris colors and thus gave the stable and Trainer Elmer O'Connell a double. Joan K. seemed to have no trouble with her opponents and coasted home in front of Miss Ramsey and Chorister.

The last race on the program found the players of divided opinion, for eight horses were well played and closed at varying prices from about 3 to 1 to about 8 to 1. The winner turned up in H. H. Chopin's Vole, which won by a length from Turquoise.

Argentine Polo Squad Reaches Havana on Way to Los Angeles

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 10.—The squad of Argentine polo players with their families, who are en route to the United States, arrived here today for a five-day visit before continuing their journey to Los Angeles where they will play the West Coast champions. Plans are under way to hold one or two games here, probably against the Cuban Army players. The Argentine players are making a leisurely trip, stopping at numerous cities on their way. Their ponies were shipped to California several weeks ago, they said, in order to become acclimatized.

HAVANA, Jan. 10 (AP).—The Argentine polo squad now here is composed of Alfredo Harrington, Juan and José Reymal, Carlos Uranga and Manuel Andrada, captain.

3 MET. POLO GAMES SET FOR TONIGHT

Guest to Lead Optimists Against Squadron A Team in Manhattan Armory.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Two more members of the Metropolitan Indoor Polo Circuit go into action tonight in the most promising evening of play yet arranged for the new season of indoor polo. Winston Guest leads his Optimists into play against Squadron A and the New York Athletic Club starts against the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club.

These games are the circuit encounters to be played at Squadron A Armory on Madison Avenue, and in another circuit game, the interesting Pennsylvania Military College team faces the 101st Cavalry in Brooklyn. At both places there will be other encounters. In Manhattan the evening opens with a Class C game between the Riding Club and another Squadron A team, and in Brooklyn another Riding and Driving Club team meets the Riding Club high goal team and Fort Hamilton meets P. M. C. Junior Varsity.

In Manhattan the start of play by Winston Guest, who carries this year the first ten-goal rating ever given a player in the indoor game, is interesting. Guest is playing tonight with his brother Raymond at No. 1, the same post he filled in aiding the Optimists to the national Class A title the past season, and with the hard hitting Lieutenant McDonald Jones at back. Squadron A is sending William Jackson back to its high goal team for tonight's game.

The Brooklyn-N. Y. A. C. game will be the first meeting between these teams since the Winged Foot trio gave Brooklyn such a battle in the final of the national open of 1929. Brooklyn is playing tonight with Gerry Smith and Warren Sackman of the championship team, but with Walter Kopke and Reginald Webster alternating at No. 1 in place of Carl Pflug, who leads the other Brooklyn team against Earle Hopping's Riding Club team at the 101st Cavalry.

The New York A. C. will have Cyril Harrison and D. O. Nelson of the past year's team and either Matt Winn or Harry Albright.

BAN ON PETKIEWICZ IS LIFTED BY A. A. U.

Polish Runner Gets Permission to Compete in 3 Meets, Including N. Y. A. C. Games.

IN PAY OF GOVERNMENT

Proof Is Submitted That Star Gets Expenses From Poland as Diplomatic Courier.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

Permission to compete in three specified meets in the United States this Winter, and perhaps in others at the discretion of the A. A. U., was granted the hitherto suspended Stanislaw Petkiewicz of Poland at the completion of a meeting of the executive committee of the A. A. U. yesterday.

Documentary proof from the Polish Legation in Washington to the effect that Petkiewicz was traveling as diplomatic courier of the Polish State Department with his expenses defrayed by the Polish Government greatly modified the stand that the A. A. U. had taken in regard to Petkiewicz.

However, the amateur sports governing body still looked askance at several meets in which the Warsaw law student had entered, and refused permission for him to participate in them. However, the Prout memorial games at Boston on Jan. 25, the New York A. C. meet at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 17 and the national championships at Atlantic City on March 8 were considered satisfactory media for his competition in this country.

A definite move to have New Jersey athletic clubs sever connections with the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. and branch out with their own district organization was made yesterday when thirty sports institutions in the State petitioned for a New Jersey Association of the A. A. U. At the present time the section of New Jersey that lies north of Trenton is included in the metropolitan association, which has agreed to relinquish control over all this territory with the exception of Hudson County. The matter has been submitted to the board of governors of the A. A. U. for a vote by mail.

The Brooklyn Evening High School games will be held at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory in Brooklyn tonight with Willie Ritola and Eino Purje as opponents in a two-mile team race. Evening high school championships also will be staged.

CRICKET RECORD SET BY ENGLISH PLAYER

Captures Wickets of Four Batsmen With Five Balls in New Zealand Match.

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, Jan. 10 (AP).—A feat unparalleled in international cricket was performed here today in the opening phase of the test match between England and New Zealand when M. J. C. Allom, young Surrey amateur, captured the wickets of four batsmen with five balls. He also did the "hat trick," taking three wickets with successive balls.

The game was the first test between the Marylebone Cricket Club's touring team, representing England, and New Zealand. The New Zealanders batted first and made a mediocre showing, being all dismissed in their first innings for only 112.

England had lost four wickets in its first innings for 147 runs when stumps were pulled. Another English bowler who came out of the day's play with a fine average was Nichols, the Essex player, who took four wickets for twenty-eight runs.

The wicket was in excellent condition and Allom found it entirely to his liking. He sent down a number of offerings which came up fast from the pitch with a leg break. After a dozen overs he was quite unplayable. Nichols kept a consistent length and with Allom bowled practically through the entire New Zealand innings.

MEDVILL EQUALS RECORD

Ties Kojac's Time of 56 Seconds in 100-Yard Sprint—Brooklyn Tech Winning Team.

One record was broken and another equaled at the individual senior high school swimming championships of the P. S. A. L. in the 75-foot pool of Columbia University last night. The Stuyvesant four won their heat of the 200-yard relay race in 1:44 2-5, lowering the mark of 1:47 3-5 held by Erasmus Hall. Walter Medvill of Evander Childs took his heat of the 100-yard sprint in 56 seconds, tying George Kojac's mark.

Brooklyn Tech upset all predictions by coming through with the lightest team score of 15 points. Evander Childs followed with 14 and George Washington, winner of the league's team championship last week, was third with 11 points.

The Stuyvesant relay swimmers—E. and R. Jennings, Burdian and Wicklum—almost equaled their time of the heat in the final of the 200-yard race and won the event easily. Manuel Training touched five yards back and gained the place from the Washington four.

Eugene Altschuler of James Monroe earned a clear-cut victory in the 220-yard free style event. Trailing Fred Delany Jr. of Flushing at first, he shot into the van at 125 yards, and opened a lead of three yards before crossing the line in 2:34. Delaney was second.

Carl Willer of Tech won handily in the 50-yard back stroke. He covered the distance in 0:31 4-5 and finished more than two yards ahead of his nearest rival, Harold Weinberger of Evander.

Meyer Victor in Dash.

The 50-yard breast-stroke test was keenly contested. Louis Meyer of Tech just nosed out Lester Kaplan of New Utrecht in 0:33.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The Fordham basketball team of New York was defeated tonight by the Syracuse five. The score was 35 to 15 and it was the worst defeat the New Yorkers received in many a day.

The fast and flashy attack of the Syracuse quintet was more than the New Yorkers could cope with although they never gave up trying. In the second half, after trailing by 15 to 5, at the interval, Fordham staged a brief rally, but the Syracuse quintet then spurted and widened its winning margin.

The crowd was surprised at the wideness of the score, but Syracuse was in splendid form and accomplished everything it set out to do. Despite the score, the contest was inteersting.

YALE FIVE DEFEATS CONN. AGGIES, 25-19

Triumphs Over Basketball Team From Storrs in Contest Played at New Haven.

ELIS LEAD AT HALF, 17-4

Losers Stage Spurt in Second Period and Outscore Rivals, 15-8—Duffy, Wilson Star.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 10.—Yale inflicted a 25-to-19 defeat on the strong basketball five from the Connecticut Agricultural College tonight, mainly by sweeping the visitors completely off their feet in the first ten minutes of play. Six goals were tossed in the basket by Horowitz and Patterson, producing a 12-to-2 lead.

Yale continued to outclass the visitors throughout the first half, which closed with a 17 to 4 lead. The Aggies, however, scored fifteen points against eight for Yale in the second half.

Although Yale opened the second half with brilliant goals by Captain Gus Uanry and Stewart Patterson, the visitors uncovered a brilliant spurt of effective team play midway in the chapter, penetrating the Yale defense with scoring tosses by Duffy, Wilson and Lemoureu. Then the defense of both fives stiffened and the visitors resorted to long shots from mid-floor for their scoring efforts. Several narrowly escaped the basket.

Chubbuck played the game following a severe cold which had kept him from the sport until tonight. Captain Ray Ryan was effective in interfering in passing, but Chubbuck's all-around game was outstanding for the visitors.

Yale played the entire first half without substitution. No line-up change was made until only five minutes remained, when Booth was compelled to retire because of four personal fouls, Townsend replacing him. The visitors made only one change.

Horwitz, with 10 points, was high scorer, while Patterson and Captain Ryan with 8 each were next.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THOSE who worry about amateurism and overemphasis in sports might be glad to know that Robert T. Jones Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., a young attorney, who plays a surprisingly good game of golf, has been out on the links but three times since he returned from the amateur championship at Pebble Beach last September.

Incidentally, this may be a valuable tip. There are thousands of golfers in this vicinity who played regularly through October, November and on up to the very moment when the various greens committees shut down the courses. Their average score was approximately 103, which is terrible. Now, Mr. Jones, having played but three times in four months, could step out and rack up a 72 or say a 76 if he had to play with borrowed clubs. Perhaps that's where the dubs go wrong. They play too often. They hit the ball too many times, especially during one round.

This is just a theory. There is no guarantee that any divot-digger can take up corporation law, confine his golf to three rounds in four months, and then tee up and take a 72 over the Winged Foot west course. Not the first time around, at any rate.

Under-Emphasis.

But the idea of a champion playing but three times in something like four months is extraordinary when other sports and other players are taken into consideration. Consider the top-flight tennis players who play all through the calendar and all over the map, migrating from clime to clime and country to country to keep up with the fine weather and the extensive tournament program. Consider the amateur runners and swimmers who keep in competition practically throughout the year, indoor and outdoor.

There are exceptions, it is true. There are a few top-flight tennis players who insist on sacrificing tennis for business over extended periods, and there are track stars who remain out of competition or training for months because they have more important matters to keep them busy. But the general trend is the other way.

It is not that way in golf, however, and that's a point in favor of golf. There are several reasons for the difference. The first is that golf, since the time it was introduced in this country, has been under the government of a "benevolent despotism," so to speak. The men in charge have ruled things with a high hand and a firm hand, but they have been able, intelligent, and, for the most part, wealthy men who had nothing at heart but the best interests of the game.

The second reason is that, according to the rules drawn up by these men, no amateur golfer can accept expense money save in a few isolated instances such as the Walker Cup trip and the annual public links tournament. It is the "expense money" that causes most of the trouble and criticism in other amateur sports.

Friendly Rivalry.

The third reason is that amateurs and professionals in golf were put in harmonious relationship years ago. No other game comes to mind in which the professionals and amateurs compete so regularly together and in which the two divisions work so well for a common end.

Professional baseball has swamped amateur baseball. Professional rowing, which killed itself, injured amateur rowing at the same time. Professional tennis has not yet risen to any importance in the field of active competition. The first open tennis tournament in this country is yet to be held. Amateur track and field athletes are forbidden to compete against professional athletes, a rule that isn't particularly important because of the scarcity of professional runners. An amateur boxer cannot engage in a match with a professional.

But amateur and professional golfers can mingle freely, play against each other as often as they wish, and the open tournaments rival the amateur championships as the big events of the national and international golf program.

An Odd Contrast.

If an outstanding amateur tennis player or amateur runner were to take a tour and compete in matches or meets from San Diego eastward to Miami in the next few months, it would cost him little or nothing except in the expenditure of time and muscular effort. If a professional golfer made the same trip, he would have to pay his own expenses all the way. He might get it back, and more, by winning purses here and there along the route. But there is no assurance of that. The professional golfer would be taking a chance on his skill. The amateur runner or tennis player would be traveling in comfort on a guarantee.

It is insisted by many men who have studied the problem that the permitting of expense money for amateurs is necessary for the continued development of amateur athletics and amateur tennis. Most of the competitors in these sports are youngsters with no financial resources worth mentioning. Probably that view is correct. But there is no need of bringing the expense allowance into amateur golf, and it is to be hoped that the U. S. G. A. officials will stand firm all along the line.

As things are now, a squabble over the amateur standing of any golfer is a rare thing. If expenses were permitted, the battles would be raging along the whole front. Golf is fairly well in the clear and should stay in that position.

The Spring Invasion.

Getting back to a lighter topic, Bob Jones doesn't plan to go through the whole of this year on a diet of three games of golf every four months. He will head the Walker Cup invasion of Great Britain and remain there to compete in the British amateur and open championships.

Though he didn't say so, the big prize for Bob will be the British amateur title if he can get it. He has won practically every other important title in golf at least once. The British amateur crown is missing from the collection.

The eighteen-hole rounds make that competition something of a gamble as well as a stern golf competition and luck wasn't with Bob in his previous efforts. But if he keeps trying, he'll get it sooner or later. Perhaps this will be the year.

C. C. N. Y. NATATORS BOW TO PRINCETON

Lose Meet, 49-13, Steffen Gaining Lavender's Only First Place in the Dive.

TRIUMPH AT WATER POLO

Score Their First Victory Over a Tiger Team in the History of the League, 34 to 15.

Scoring its first victory in the history of the league over a Princeton water polo team, City College divided its swimming and water polo contests with the Tigers last night at the C. C. N. Y. pool. The Orange and Black scored a 49-13 victory in the meet and C. C. N. Y. gained just as easy a triumph in the game, 34 to 15.

The Tigers were competing in their first meet of the year against the Lavender and because Jack Brooks, their intercollegiate diving champion, had to stay out of the springboard event the Nassau squad failed to make a clean sweep of the first places. Myron Steffen, C. C. N. Y.'s captain, turned in a splendid exhibition to win the dive for the Lavender with a point total of 75.7 points.

A new meet record was set in the 200-yard breast stroke, when Ted Moles of Princeton, national collegiate record holder, turned in the time of 2:41. He was forced to this fast pace by a team-mate, Maynich, who finished only five yards behind.

Nicholson scored an easy victory for the Tigers in the 50-yard free-style in 0:26 and Turner was also an easy winner in the other sprint at 100 yards, turning in 0:58 1/5.

50-Yard Free Style — Won by Nicholson,

Jesse Sobel, C. C. N. Y.'s centre-forward, took a long lead for scoring honors in the I. S. A. by amassing 24 points against the Tigers on three touch goals and nine fouls.

HARVARD COACH BACKS MOVE THAT BANS HIM

Mitchell to Absent Himself From Bench in a Number of Baseball Games.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 10 (AP).—The Harvard baseball team will play at least a dozen home games this Spring without professional coaching, Coach Fred Mitchell said today when he voiced approval of the agreement to banish him and Joe Wood, Yale coach, to the grand stand during the next Harvard-Yale diamond series.

Mitchell said that he would not ask any visiting coach to follow his example, and gave them the choice of running their teams from the bench or sitting with him in the grand stand.

"I think," he said, "the invitation from Yale to play the Harvard series without coaches on the bench is an experiment, and an experiment of that nature should not be confined to one series. In order that the principle behind the Yale invitation may have a thorough trial, I will remain off the Harvard bench for about a dozen of our home games, but I will not ask or desire the visiting coach to do so."

Drama—Music—Art—Fashions

The New York Times

Tomorrow (Sunday)

DRAMA—J. Brooks Atkinson comments on continuance of the "carnival" spirit in current productions. Paul Morand protests against the change since 1900, prior to which time, as Francis de Croisset remarked, "the whole world awaited our work. . . We alone (the French) possessed dramatic traditions." Now America has invaded the nations of the world with her plays. Something of the history of the Knickerbocker and the Casino, which must bow to Broadway's advance.

MUSIC—Olin Downes writes on the ways of the lyric drama and comments on the values and problems of a native opera company. Henry Prunieres writes from Paris of Stravinsky's new Capriccio and the group of "six."

ART—Edward Alden Jewell describes Mrs. Whitney's museum, which, together with the Museum of Modern Art, recently opened, is attracting attention. Elizabeth Luther Cary discusses the Brooklyn Society of Etchers, which is giving more "advanced" work a place.

FASHIONS—Hats for Spring have the centre of the stage, showing the influence of the new "dressmaker mode." Brims and pleats are innovations.

BOY, 12, COMMITTED AS WOMAN'S SLAYER

Children's Court Sends Edward Moran to House of Refuge in Strangling Case.

VERDICT TO BE APPEALED.

Lad Continues to Repudiate His Alleged Confession and Weeps When Decision Is Announced.

Edward Moran, 12 years old, who was accused of strangling to death Mrs. Clara Hewes, 76-year-old fortune teller, was committed yesterday to the House of Refuge as a juvenile delinquent by Justice Samuel D. Levy in children's court. Francis J. Mahoney, counsel for the boy, announced that he would appeal the case.

On the day after the woman was found dead, Edward made an alleged confession to the police, but he later repudiated it, his attorney charging that it had been obtained by intimidation. During repeated questionings in court by Justice Levy the boy steadfastly maintained his repudiation, and yesterday he sat calmly until the commitment was announced, when he burst into tears.

The justice announced his decision in chambers after reviewing the case to the boy and his father, also named Edward. The boy's mother was not present because of illness. Justice Levy read the alleged confession, and in declaring it admissible at the trial, pointed out that Edward had told substantially the same story to Assistant District Attorney John J. Green and to Miss Mary Cole, Children's Society Matron.

The boy, whose father was the superintendent of the house at 300 West Seventeenth Street, where Mrs. Hewes lived, had said in his alleged confession that he struggled with the woman and overpowered her when she awoke in her apartment and found him taking $3 from a box on her bedside table. When he repudiated the story, he said he told it because he was tired and afraid, and the police had told him he could go home if he would confess.

Frequent objections were made by the boy's attorney during the session in children's court. Mahoney, the attorney, grew indignant when he interpreted Justice Levy's statement that the boy had not repudiated his confession until after counsel had been engaged as an implication that the boy had been coached by the lawyer.

Justice Levy said he had been influenced in his decision largely by the fact that the boy in his confession admitted a struggle with Mrs. Hewes.

A formal motion that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the weight of evidence was made by the boy's attorney. Originally, the boy was indicted for first degree manslaughter but the case was transferred to the children's court by Justice Koenig in General Sessions.

In a short talk with Edward in the detention room at children's court after the session yesterday, Mr. Mahoney explained to the boy that an appeal would cost his father "a lot of money and a lot of worry," and added: "So before we go ahead with it, tell us the truth: Did you do it?"

"No, sir," the lad replied.

His father declared he would "fight the case if it takes my life."

7 LAWYERS OUSTED IN 'CHASING' INQUIRY

Two Suspended for Two Years and Five for One Year for Soliciting Negligence Cases.

TEN CLEARED OF CHARGES

Former Justice Lynch, Once on Westchester Bench, Among Those Exonerated.

ONE FORMALLY CENSURED

Municipal Courts Are Scored by Justice Dowling for Failing to Fix Fees in Such Actions.

The Appellate Division handed down yesterday the first of its decisions in the cases of the attorneys accused of ambulance chasing in the investigation started two years ago before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel in which Isidor J. Kresel was chief prosecutor. In eighteen cases decided yesterday ten lawyers, including former Supreme Court Justice Humphrey J. Lynch of Westchester County, are exonerated, one is censured, two are suspended for two years and five suspended for one year.

The lawyers and the disposition of their cases were:

Suspended Two Years—Louis Feuerman and Emil H. Reichman.

Suspended One Year—Samuel M. Goldberg, Moses N. Schleider, Nathan Rosenberg, Samuel Seligsohn and Mordecai P. Springer.

Censured—Arthur Wayne Uran.

Charges Dismissed—Bernard Budnick, Fred Flatow, Thomas J. Stapleton, M. Bernard Greenberg, Charles Kennedy, Abraham Pindek, Jacob M. Friedman, Louis N. Jaffe, Humphrey J. Lynch and Harold H. Feigin.

Clears Ex-Justice Lynch.

The Appellate Division's opinions, all written by Presiding Justice Dowling, showed that in nearly every case of exoneration the referees so reported and the prosecuting attorneys representing the Bar Association and the New York and Bronx County Bar Associations agreed that the charges had not been sustained by sufficient evidence. In the case of former Justice Lynch, however, it appeared that the chief witness against him died before the case was heard by a referee and it was decided that the evidence given before Justice Wasservogel in the preliminary inquiry should not be used.

Mr. Lynch, who was appointed by Governor Smith to fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court bench in Westchester County and was defeated in the next election by County Judge Bleakley, was charged prior to May, 1925, with paying a solicitor of negligence cases, particularly Bernard H. Wood, who had been employed previously by another lawyer as an investigator. Referee Leslie J. Tompkins reported that the bar associations failed to meet the burden of proof by a fair preponderance of evidence. In confirming the decision Justice Dowling said:

"We find no satisfactory evidence of any violation of the law or of the code of ethics by the respondent (Lynch). He appears to have been unusually successful as a trial lawyer in both the State and Federal courts, and to have gained a reputation as such extending even to neighboring States which brought business to him without the necessity of soliciting by improper means. His standing at the bar is certified by an unusual array of distinguished jurists."

The suspension of Louis Feuerman for two years was based on a finding by Referee Louis V. Bright that he was guilty on four out of five specifications of soliciting negligence cases which came to him through a man named Rubin, who carried on an investigation business and leased office room to Feuerman. The lawyer testified that when the witnesses said they came to him with their cases through Rubin they were "lying." The referee reported that the witnesses "were all solicited by the man named Rubin in accident cases which were dormant and which in all probability would have remained so but for the solicitation of Rubin," and "that all believed they were retaining Rubin" until he introduced them to Feuerman.

One Scored for Absence.

Emil H. Reichman's suspension for two years was due not only to twenty-eight charges of soliciting negligence cases but to leaving the State for five months while Justice Wasservogel's inquiry was proceeding and not returning until testimony had been closed, for the alleged purpose of avoiding service of a subpoena in the case.

Reichman's explanation was that he had tried to get life insurance just before the inquiry started and was told he had a chronic heart condition. He was "distressed and frightened," he said, and when his own physicians verified the diagnosis he went to several up-State places and finally to Atlantic City, where he was recuperating when his wife notified him he was wanted as a witness in the inquiry. He decided it would be "unwise" to return because of his health, and his wife so notified Justice Wasservogel.

Justice Dowling's opinion says that Reichman was "concededly guilty" of ambulance chasing, and adds:

"His weak heart condition, suddenly discovered as the investigation was about to begin, is no excuse for his flight from the State to a near-by watering resort where he could snap his fingers at the court. An honest lawyer does not so act. If he values his good name or the honor of the profession he belongs to no illness which does not cripple him or confine him to bed would prevent his answering the call of the court to aid in clearing up abuses and to protect his own honor."

Municipal Court Criticized.

Absence from New York during the investigation helped in the year's suspension given to Samuel M. Goldberg. He admitted that he got negligence cases through solicitors between 1923 and 1926, but there was no proof found by Referee James A. O'Gorman of personal solicitation, although he said he got half his cases through paid solicitors. He defended his action in settling a case for an infant without getting the required court order fixing his fee by testifying it was the custom in the municipal court. Justice Dowling said Goldberg could not be held liable for the failure of the municipal court to fix the fee when his application to settle the case was passed upon.

"Why that court should have done so is unexplainable," said Justice Dowling. "It was plainly its duty, and the number of instances of neglect or refusal brought to our attention in these proceedings is deplorable, and shows either carelessness, sloth or willful defiance of the law."

Justice Dowling's opinion said that former Senator O'Gorman's report as referee stated that Goldberg was in Europe for five months while the inquiry was on, and that "an impelling motive" of the trip was the desire to "take himself out of the investigation."

One Admitted Charges.

Moses N. Schleider, suspended for a year, "admitted his guilt to the extent to which the record sustains the charges." He said he got 500 or 600 negligence cases a year, and that two-thirds were "sent out for and obtained." He said he started solicitors at $25 to $50 a week and they might make $75 to $100," the highest he ever paid. His counsel stated he had quit the practice a year before the first complaint was made to the Appellate Division.

In the case of Samuel Seligsohn, suspended for a year, described by the Appellate Division as a clear case of "ambulance chasing," although the lawyer contended that all the claims he obtained were legitimate, the evidence was heard by Mark W. Potter as referee. Justice Dowling said that apparently Mr. Potter "was not in sympathy with the investigation," and the court "expressly repudiated the views" expressed in six paragraphs of the referee's report. The referee said that Mr. Seligsohn handled more than 600 cases, and "that may have established his reputation as a negligence lawyer."

Justice Dowling said that none of the witnesses "knew him or his name," and that he got their cases "because of the activity of his clerk, a physician and a police officer in soliciting business for him."

Another Said Friends Helped.

Mordecai P. Springer, also suspended for a year, testified that he got many retainers from friends who said they would send cases to him when they heard of any, and he gave them blank retainers for the purpose. Many of them came from an old friend named Rose, and from his cousin, Maxwell Springer, he said. The decision said that the lawyer conducted his practice in a loose and unlawful manner, although no criminal act was shown, for which reason he was suspended.

Nathan Rosenberg, who was acquitted by Referee Dean Emery on charges of submitting a false affidavit of clerkship on applying for admission to the bar, was suspended for a year "because he did not deal fairly with the court and its committee on character and fitness, and with candor on the threshold of his professional career."

Presiding Justice Dowling's opinion said that the referees who reported that charges against Thomas J. Stapleton and Jacob M. Friedman, partners, and against Bernard Budnick, Harold H. Feigin, H. Bernard Greenberg, Louis H. Jaffe and Charles Kennedy had not been sustained, were justified in doing so. The chief testimony against Fred Flatow and Abraham Pindek was given by David M. Laulight, a criminal serving a sentence for attempted grand larceny, whose testimony was uncorroborated and was refused credence on charges against the lawyers of making false claims for personal injuries. The bar associations did not oppose the decisions.

A. W. Uran Censured.

Arthur Wayne Uran, who was censured, admitted that he had settled injury claims in behalf of infants for $22.50 and $25 without getting a court order fixing his fees because the amounts were so small. Justice Dowling said that the statutory requirement to this effect is "mandatory and not permissive, and applies to small cases as well as to large ones." The court warned the lawyer that "a continuance in his mistaken course of action will merit more severe punishment."

The Appellate Division also acted on three attorneys not accused of ambulance chasing. J. Selig Maisel was disbarred because he forged the name of a clerk to a satisfaction piece to a mortgage, asserting that he had a right to do so because the clerk was his dummy, and then when examined on the clerk's application for admission to the bar testified that the clerk himself signed. Samuel A. Langfur was suspended for two years for failing to pay promptly money due a client, but charges that Ellsworth Baker withheld money paid in settlement of automobile accident claims of two women clients were dismissed when he offered proof that they had lent him the $2,650 involved.

Great-Grandmother, 78, Urges Big Families to Halt Divorces

Lack of large families is held to be the greatest cause of modern divorce by Mrs. Anita Mason Whitley, 78 years old, of 57 Newkirk Street, Jersey City, who is preparing with her husband, William Wallace Whitley, 84, to celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary on Feb. 22. The couple then will renew their connubial vows at a new wedding ceremony, and the word "obey" will not be left out.

"Modern young folks seem to like cats and dogs in the home more than they like children," Mrs. Whitley said. "If there were more large families there would be fewer divorces."

Mrs. Whitley is the mother of eleven children, six of whom are living. She has twenty-one grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren. She is an active church worker and does her own housework.

Mr. Whitley, a Civil War veteran, is a retired furniture mover. Both were born in New York City. They were married at 321 Fourth Street, Manhattan, where they lived fourteen years before moving to their present home, thirty-two years ago.

BROUGHT BACK AS THIEF.

Bookkeeper Accused of Taking $82,000 Arrested at Sea.

Herman R. Vought, formerly bookkeeper for the silk concern of Julius Kayser & Co., 353 Fouth Avenue, returned yesterday on the steamship Juan Sebastian from the Canary Islands in the custody of Detectives Frank Walsh and William Whalen to face charges of embezzling $82,000 from his employers.

Vought, who is married, disappeared while auditors were examining his accounts and was traced first to Havana, then to Mexico and finally to a ship bound for Europe. He was taken off the vessel under arrest and held for the New York police.

PARTOS ROUTS THIEF IN HIS 5TH AV. HOME

Wealthy Realty Man, Weighing 135 Pounds, Battles Six-Foot Intruder and Chases Him.

SAVES $250,000 JEWELRY

Police Say Robber Was Familiar With House—Servants and Ex-Employes Questioned.

Dr. Nicholas C. Partos, wealthy real estate operator and head of a chain of seventeen drug stores, fought a successful battle in his home at 923 Fifth Avenue just before dawn yesterday with a six-foot burglar and prevented the theft of jewelry valued at more than $250,000.

The burglar escaped after hitting Dr. Partos over the head several times with a jimmy. He left behind the weapon, a pair of shoes (size 11), an overcoat, a felt hat and a black silk handkerchief used for a mask.

The battle between Dr. Partos, who is 48 years old and weighs 135 pounds, and his big opponent took place in a third-floor bedroom. The noise awakened Mrs. Partos, who was saleep, and her cries for help, as well as those of 13-year-old Irene Partos on the floor overhead, and the servants, brought a squad of police from the East Sixty-seventh Street station.

They arrived just a few minutes too late. The intruder had managed to shake off Dr. Partos and run down the stairs. He left through the front door and disappeared in Central Park after jumping the stone wall near Seventy-third Street.

Detectives Dugan, Finn and Connolly examined the jimmy for fingerprints. They searched the clothing left behind by the burglar for initials. They said the hat, overcoat and shoes disclosed only the names and marks of the manufacturers.

Tells Story of Fight.

Dr. Partos, who is head of the Partos Realty Holding Company and the Cornel Drug Stores Company, 285 Madison Avenue, told the police, after he had been treated for bruises by a physician, that he and Mrs. Partos returned from the theatre just before midnight. He said their daughter was asleep on an upper floor, and he and Mrs. Partos retired a few minutes after their arrival.

About 3:30 o'clock in the morning, Dr. Partos said, he awoke and walked across the room to open a window. He also opened the door leading into an adjoining room.

Dr. Partos said he was confronted by "a man more than six feet tall, weighing about 200 pounds, who had a silk handkerchief over his features and a small crowbar in one hand."

Dr. Partos said the intruder shouted, "Throw up your hands!" Instead of complying, Dr. Partos declared he struck the burglar in the chest. The burglar, he said, lunged with the jimmy. Several blows were then exchanged, and Dr. Partos manged to rip the mask from the intruder's face. The noise by that time had aroused Mrs. Partos. She and others in the house began to scream.

The burglar ran down the stairs with Dr. Partos after him. Dr. Partos said he then returned to Mrs. Partos fearing she would become hysterical, and the burglar got out of the house.

None of Jewelry Missing.

About the time the police arrived Dr. and Mrs. Partos made a quick inventory of the jewelry, of which Mrs. Partos has a fine collection. The safe door in the wall had not been tampered with. The diamonds Mrs. Partos wore when she went to the theatre were on a near-by table.

A search of the house by the police disclosed the burglar's overcoat neatly folded in the library on the first floor. Near by was his hat. This led the detectives and Dr. Partos to believe that the intruder had got in after the doctor and his wife left for the theatre and before they returned. It was said that the burglar by his movements disclosed he was familiar with the interior of the house, as he knew how to open doors on his way out that are equipped with patent locks.

The detectives questioned the servants. Dr. Partos also said several former servants would be questioned. The police got a good description of the intruder from Dr. Partos, who said the burglar tried to prevent his face from being seen.

Dr. Partos, who carries more than $3,000,000 life insurance, began life as the son of poor parents. He served as an apprentice to a chemist in Budapest, worked his way through the Budapest College of Pharmacy and came to the United States twenty-seven years ago.

He obtained a job in a drug store at $3 a week. With borrowed money he bought the shop and nine years later was one of the largest manufacturers of medicine in the United States, with branches all over the world.

About fifteen years ago he became interested in real estate. Nine years age he leased the Herald Building, at Broadway from Thirty-fifth to Thirty-sixth Street, for $150,000 a year for sixty-three years. The transaction involved $12,000,000, and he leased one part of the building to a firm for $150,000 a year. He planned a $9,000,000 development in Times Square and is the owner of valuable real estate in Harlem and in several Western cities.

BOY IS HOLD-UP APPRENTICE

Helps Two Armed Men Steal a $2,000 Payroll in Printing Plant.

Two armed hold-up men with an unarmed apprentice boy helping them stole a $2,000 payroll from Clark & Fritts, printers on the third floor of 229 West Twenty-eighth Street yesterday afternoon.

Leon Freedland, the cashier, sat at a desk directly opposite the door in a little anteroom which serves as an office, making up the payroll. The money was spread out on the desk as he was putting it into envelopes. With him in the room were John Cunningham and George Dowling, also employes. The outside door was flung open and two men with pistols commanded, "Hands up."

Cunningham failed to comply immediately and the order was repeated twice without being heard in the workroom adjoining because of the rumble of presses. While the two men kept their guns trained on the three in the office they steped aside to permit a boy, about 16 years old, to enter. Following their instructions he scooped up the money and started out while they covered his retreat. The men escaped although Cunningham raced down an inside stairway to try to intercept them.

Open-Air Operas to Be Presented at Great Neck; Kahn and North Shore Society Backing Plan

An open-air operatic centre is to be established at Great Neck, L. I., which will be conducted on a scale larger than that of any similar institution in the country, it was announced yesterday by Edward L. Williams of 63 Wall Street and Great Neck. He is the attorney for the Long Island Open-Air Opera Association, which was incorporated as a non-stock corporation for educational and charitable purposes on Tuesday at Wilmington, Del. An incorporators' meeting will be held within a few days, Mr. Williams said. Among the association's subscribers he listed Otto H. Kahn and many persons prominent in North Shore society.

The association plans to present open-air operas twice a week, for a period of six weeks, beginning as soon as weather will permit in the Spring. If the season is successful, the organization will be made permanent, Mr. Williams said.

He declared that the project is the first of its kind in New York and would be conducted on a larger scale than the open-air civic operas in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Los Angeles.

The project was started by Bennett Challis, a member of the German Grand Opera Company, and Hans Taenzer, who have directed open-air opera in Germany and will direct the productions of the association, Mr. Williams said.

More than $20,000, in $300 shares, has been subscribed. About $30,000 is needed to underwrite the first production, which probably will be "Tannhäuser" because of its suitability for out-of-doors presentation.

It is expected that negotiations will be completed within a few days by I. G. Wolf, Great Neck real estate broker, for the leasing of the old polo ground on the Brokaw property at Old Mill Road.

Messrs. Challis and Taenzer, it was said, were attracted to the site on their arrival here last year because of its acoustic qualities. It is a natural amphitheatre, and could accommodate seats for about 10,000 persons. Trees and shrubbery provide a rustic background.

The association plans to use the Brokaw mansion in Nirvana Garden, now occupied only by a caretaker, for a conservatory of music. The house also will be used for dressing-rooms and for storing equipment.

The incorporators of the association are Colonel Arthur S. Dwight, Walter Bockstahler, George Nicols, James H. Baker and Mrs. Roswell Eldridge, all of Great Neck.

BANKER SENTENCED FOR $500,000 THEFT

Callahan Gets 2½ to 5 Years in Sing Sing on Plea of Guilty to Bancitaly Charge.

JUDGE COMMENDS REFUND

Attorney's Assertion That Bank Profited $400,000 by His Stock Deals Denied.

A sentence of from two-and-a-half to five years in Sing Sing was imposed by Judge Collins in General Sessions yesterday on Cornelius Callahan, 29 years old, of 39-46 Fifty-sixth Street, Woodside, Queens, on his plea of guilty to the theft of more than $500,000 from the Bancitaly Corporation while he was employed as its assistant secretary in the Spring of 1928.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Collins said he had taken into account that Callahan's life "had been blasted by his dishonesty and his family had been disgraced," but added that Callahan had evidenced an intent to make amends for his offense by turning over to two surety companies $26,000 in an account he had opened with a brokerage firm, to repay part of the money he had stolen.

Callahan had been an employe five years when the Bancitaly increased the capital stock of one of its subsidiaries, the Bank of America, in the early part of 1928 and placed him in charge of receiving the incoming subscriptions. In April of that year he converted fourteen checks, totaling $96,665, all payable to the Bancitaly, to his own use by having them exchanged at another bank for checks made out in other names. These checks he used in opening accounts with about twelve brokerage firms, using about $500,000 of the corporation's funds to carry on his stock transactions and to cover up the theft of the $96,000. The specific charge on which he pleaded guilty was the theft of $21,600, which he used in opening an account with Richard & Co., one of the brokerage firms.

His dishonesty was not discovered until the following August, after he had been discharged and an audit made of his books at the instigation of bonding companies. He fled to Montreal, but was arrested there on Aug. 10, 1928. Although Callahan had sixty clerks under his direction he received a yearly salary of only $2,700, yet he bought an automobile for $3,225 and spent $1,000 on his trip to Canada.

Callahan's explanation was that he had discovered irregularities by others in the bank's books in the Summer of 1926, but to avoid letting his superiors know of these, he began the stock transactions to hide the discrepancies. In pleading for clemency, Thomas I. Sheridan, his lawyer, declared that the corporation had profited $400,000 through Callahan's manipulation of its money, but this the bank denied. He added that Callahan had been caught in a rising market, in which the bank stock, in five weeks, advanced from $500 to $2,500 a share, and he had to pay the increased price for the stock to cover his previous thefts.

The American Surety Company already has paid $200,000 to the bank on its claims for $547,543, including about $14,000 in interest, because of Callahan's thefts, and it was understood that Lloyd's had agreed to pay $265,000. While Callahan was at liberty under $25,000 bail pending his arraignment on the indictments he became a partner in a tavern at 1,531 Broadway, drawing a $50 weekly salary.

RUDICH QUESTIONED IN BAR INQUIRY

Complaints in Shoplifting Case Also Are Heard by Brooklyn Committee.

Magistrate Mark Rudich appeared before the grievance committee of the Brooklyn Bar Association, 123 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. Conrad Saxe Keyes, chairman of the committee, investigating the magistrate's fitness for reappointment, announced that the inquiry would be continued on Tuesday at 3 P. M. He said the committee had nothing further to say.

Closeted with the committee behind closed doors for more than two and a half hours, in addition to Magistrate Rudich, were Howard Moyer, owner of the Gloria Dress Shop in Brooklyn, and Misses Viola Baker and Flo Wolff, salesgirls in the store. Mr. Moyer was the complainant in the case against the two woman shoplifters, the freeing of whom by Magistrate Rudich caused him to be reprimanded publicly by Chief Magistrate McAdoo and influenced the Mayor to ask for the bar inquiry.

It is understood that the proceedings concerned chiefly the shoplifters' case, for the complainants in that case remained before the committee as long as did the magistrate.

The committee began its meeting at 3 P. M. and for about and hour Magistrate Rudich sat outside in the reception room waiting to be called. He was called before the committee together with the complainants at 4 P. M. and remained within the committee room until 6:30 P. M.

Only one other witness appeared. He was Magistrate John J. Walsh, also of Brooklyn, who was invited by the committee at Magistrate Rudich's suggestion. It is believed that Magistrate Walsh, who had nothing to do with the shoplifters' case, gave testimony as to Magistrate Rudich's record on the bench.

M'ADOO EXONERATES VITALE IN ONE CASE

Finds Reduction of the Charge Against Fortune-Teller Was Not Culpable.

DENIES DUMMY APPEARED

But Asks the Police to Continue Search for Complainant—Still Hunts Missing Records.

While police officials and the bar association marked time yesterday pending the resumption on Monday of the association's investigation of Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, Chief Magistrate William McAdoo announced the results of his own investigation, which seemed to exonerate his subordinate from improper conduct a year ago in the case of Mary Morris, fortune teller.

Magistrate McAdoo denied that a substitute had been permitted to appear for her in court, and found that Magistrate Vital's reduction of the charge from petit larceny to disorderly conduct was not necessarily culpable, but raised "a nice legal question." He called upon the police to find the complainant and declared that the search for the missing papers in the case, which has been under way in vain since the beginning of the week, would go forward.

McAdoo Questions Detective.

Outlining his investigation in a long statement, the chief magistrate said that the case had originated in January, 1929, when an Anna Polovitch complained to the police that she had given the Morris woman more than $40 to cure her husband who was dangerously ill in a hospital and that the fortune teller had demanded $500 for "a complete cure." The case was turned over to Detective Richard Maher, whom he questioned at length in the presence of Chief Inspector John O'Brien.

One of three assistant clerks, just which one Maher could not say, had taken the complaint in the Sixth District magistrate's court in the Bronx. She was freed by Magistrate Vitale in bail of $500. When the case was called again on Jan. 20, she failed to appear and bail was forfeited.

On Feb. 4, however, the case came up for the third time before Magistrate Vitale. The woman pleaded guilty. The court brought out that the defendant had no police record, then asked, according to the chief magistrate's statement, "Have the people suffered any loss of any rights, or have they been prejudiced in any way whatever by reason of the fact that bail has been forfeited?"

The arresting officer replied "No," and to a similar question put to Assistant District Attorney Edward M. O'Gorman the reply was, "I feel the same way, your Honor." Magistrate Vitale asked: "Have you any objections if I rescind the forfeiture?" Mr. O'Gorman said he had none and the forfeiture was rescinded. Magistrate Vitale said: "On the question of sentence, this woman, she has never been convicted before and it is the first offense. Is she still in that business?" The arresting officer replied that she was not. The court then ascertained that she was married. The court asked: "Shall I give her a suspended sentence?" The Assistant District Attorney, according to the statement, replied "Yes."

Charge of "Dummy" Denied.

The chief magistrate went on to say that Maher vouched for the fact that no "dummy" had been substituted for the Morris woman, and continued: "Now, as to the papers, this is the first instance during my long term in the office of a complete disappearance of papers in one of the 500,000 cases that pass through these courts every year. Sometimes in the great masses which we handle papers are telescoped—one paper with the other—and it might require weeks to trace them. We have so far been unable to find how the papers disappeared.

"Of course, the loss of the papers has fortunately been followed by no miscarriage of justice. Detective Maher tells me today that he was instructed by Magistrate Vitale to take the larceny charge papers back to the complaint room and tell the clerk there to substitute a complaint for fortune telling as against the larceny charge; but he says he does not recollect and cannot give me any information as to what particular clerk he spoke to to make the change.

"The change from larceny to disorderly person was based apparently on the fact and the law that the false pretense was an unreasonable one, based on superstition, and was not, therefore, a reasonable one which would sustain the charge of larceny within the meaning of the code. This is a nice legal question, namely, whether the offer to cure her husband was a false pretense upon which larceny could be based. Magistrate Vitale would be well within his rights in changing the charge of larceny to that of a disorderly person for fortune telling. I am making no comment upon the record as to why he suspended sentence instead of punishing this confessed individual gypsy fortune-telling woman. In that respect the minutes speak for themselves. I am asking the police, if they can find her, to bring before me the complaining woman, Anna Polovitch. The search for the papers will go on as far as we can reach."

Bar Inquiry Head Makes Denial.

Kenneth M. Spence, chairman of the committee on criminal courts, law and procedure of the bar association, denied through a secretary yesterday that the meeting of the committee at his office at 52 Wall Street had considered the Vitale case. The meeting was devoted solely to discussion of proposed recommendations to the Legislature, he said, and the association would do nothing further about Magistrate Vitale till Monday's hearing.

Former Magistrate Michael N. Delagi, who with Detective Arthur Johnson is scheduled to testify before the committee Monday, declared yesterday that he could "tell them nothing that hasn't already been printed. I have nothing to say to them. I will merely answer questions." Asked to comment on reports that unnamed Bronx political leaders had charged that Magistrate Vitale was being made a scapegoat in a Tammany quarrel, he replied: "I wouldn't dare make any such statement. I don't know any such situation. Don't quote me for anything like that."

Will Rogers Thinks Heads, Not Hearts, Are Strong

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seemed like old times to hear Mr. Coolidge quoting statistics over the "rodeo" last night. No man can quote figures like he can, and he always pulls a new one for us. Since the Wall Street crash, which the Republicans refer to as a "business readjustment," prominent men have done nothing but tell us of the strength of the country. "Steel was strong," "T. and T. was strong," "Radio was strong," "breath was strong."

We have been "stronged" to death in speeches and statements, but last night Mr. Coolidge said, "The heart of the American people is strong," and here over 500 died of heart failure during the late "Republican readjustment." What he really meant was that "the American public's head is strong but his heart is weak."

Yours for true statistics,
WILL ROGERS

5 POLICEMEN TRIED IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

Whalen Reserves Decision on Laxity Charges Against Three Officers and Two Patrolmen.

INQUIRY WANTS McMANUS

Grand Jury Revived by Crain Seeks His Testimony on Murder Mystery.

The second series of departmental trials arising out of the Rothstein murder investigation began and ended yesterday with the arraignment of three lieutenants and two patrolmen before Police Commissioner Whalen at headquarters. In each case decision was reserved.

The accused men, all charged with technical violations of police regulations, were Lieutenants John Collins, Edward J. Moran, Francis J. Stainkamp, Patrolmen Robert J. Rush and William S. Davis. All were on duty at the West Forty-seventh Street station on the night of Nov. 4, 1928, when Arnold Rothstein was fatally wounded in the Park Central Hotel.

The complaints against them developed out of their failure to sign memorandum books, make full entries in the blotter or transmit and distribute police calls or information promptly.

"I want to say in fairness to these men," said Deputy Commissioner Nelson A. Ruttenberg to the commissioner, "that there is no evidence to show that the violations were willful or intentional or were the result of outside influences. Practically, it was the result of carelessness which has grown up and which I might say has been rectified since you became Police Commissioner."

The men were tried together. Patrolmen Rush and Davis pleaded guilty to failing to have their notebooks initialed by the lieutenants and explained the failure as "oversight." Word reached the commissioner during the brief examination of Patrolman Rush that the officer had become the father of a boy at 4 A. M. yesterday.

"Congratulations," said Mr. Whalen to the patrolman; "go right home."

Rush made a bee-line for the door, while the commissioner and Frederic Kernochan, presiding justice of the Court of Special Sessions, who sat with Mr. Whalen as a guest, smiled.

The lieutenants pleaded not guilty, and their examination, except in the case of Stainkamp, was brief. Stainkamp quoted rules to Deputy Commissioner Ruttenberg, who cross-examined him.

After the trials Captain Henry Duane, Captain John L. Largarenne and Acting Lieutenant Samuel Dribben were arraigned for negligence in the Rothstein case. All were directed to appear at headquarters for trial on Wednesday at 10:30 A. M.

The possibility that George A. McManus, the race track bookmaker, may become a witness before the grand jury in District Attorney Crain's revived investigation of the Rothstein murder rests on McManus's willingness to return to this city from Florida, it was learned yesterday. McManus went to Miami, it was said, about a month ago, but has been in touch in the last few days with James D. C. Murray, the lawyer who defended him in the recent trial in which he was acquitted of participation in the Rothstein shooting.

It was said that McManus had indicated he would stay away from this city for some time, going to Cuba from Florida. It could not be learned whether any word has reached him from his lawyer or Mr. Crain regarding the reported desire of the prosecutor to have him testify before the grand jury on his knowledge of the Rothstein shooting; neither could it be learned if he had indicated willingness to return to this city for that purpose.

Mr. Crain let it be known several days ago that he had found new evidence in the case, but that thus far he had not arrived at any conclusion regarding the identity of the slayer or the motive for the shooting.

McManus could be forced to appear before the grand jury under subpoena, it was explained, his acquittal in the murder having removed the immunity from such testimony. If he refused to testify, after entering the grand jury room, he could be punished for contempt of the grand jury authority.

Mr. Crain repeated his promise yesterday that he would make a statement on his new Rothstein inquiry next Wednesday. In his campaign for District Attorney last Fall he promised he would have his investigation in full swing by that day, Jan. 15.

APARTMENTS FOR FARMERS.

Iowa Contractor Visions Crossroads Towers Housing Hundreds.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 10 (AP).—Along comes P. L. Bryant of Waterloo predicting apartment house life for Iowa farmers.

"Apartment houses will tower from the crossroads and whole communities will sleep within a single building," said Mr. Bryant, who is president of the Iowa Associated General Contractors, at a convention today.

"The farmer will drive on an all weather road to his farm, plow his corn and return at night not to an isolated house but to the flashing life of dinner with orchestra music," he said.

O. F. Priester, secretary of the association, supported the prediction.

PROSECUTOR SCANS UNITED CIGAR DEALS

Inquiry Follows Report by New Management Cutting 1928 Profits $4,000,000.

WHELAN TO BE CALLED

Washburn Says Juggling of Accounts Would Constitute Violation of State Laws.

GETS COPY OF AN AUDIT

Hearing Is Set for Tuesday—Bookkeeping Methods of Old Group to Be Studied.

Following the United Cigar Stores Company's report to stockholders that its 1928 profits had been almost $4,000,000 less than the $8,352,762 reported by the management in control that year, announcement was made yesterday by Assistant State Attorney General Watson Washburn, head of the State Bureau of Securities, at 74 Trinity Place, that he was investigating transactions of the company while it was under the leadership of C. A. Whelan and his associates.

Mr. Washburn said that officers of the Whelan organization, which was succeeded on Aug. 19, last by the Morrow interests, would be examined at his office Tuesday morning. He refused to go into any detail with respect to the form the inquiry would take, but said that if figures had been juggled to create a false impression of the value of the company's stock, it would constitute a violation of the State securities statute. He denied that subpoenas had been issued.

Gets Copy of Audit.

From this statement, and from other sources, it was deduced that the investigation of the company under the Whelan régime would centre for the present upon the bookkeeping methods which resulted in reports of profits greater than the present management has been able to discover. Mr. Washburn has obtained a copy of an audit of the company's affairs by Price, Waterhouse & Co., auditors for the Morrow interests.

C. A. Whelan and W. T. Posey resigned in August as president and vice president, respectively, and Frederick K. Morrow became president and George K. Morrow was made chairman of the board. It was said yesterday that Mr. Washburn hopes to question on Tuesday C. A. Whelan and also George J. Whelan, although the latter recently was reported to be recovering in a sanitarium from a nervous breakdown.

Profits Cut in New Report.

In the first report of the Morrow management to stockholders, published yesterday, not only were the profits reported for 1928 by the Whelan management cut almost in half, but a reported surplus of $21,915,523 on Dec. 31, 1928, was wiped out and became a deficit of $776,286 on June 30, 1929. This report was the first public statement of a difference between the former and present managements of the company, although in October the Morrow management passed the preferred dividend on the ground that it was in serious doubt as to whether the company had earned it.

Deductions from the surplus in the six months from Dec. 31, 1928, to June 30, 1929, include a loss from operations amounting to $252,051, preferred dividends, $2,701,612, and common dividends $586,350. In a comment upon the revision of the 1928 report, the report published yesterday stated:

"The most important difference between the profit and loss statement for the year 1928 as published and as revised, is an item of $3,325,866.11 for appreciation of certain securities, the book value of which had been increased to reflect part of the appreciation in market value, the amount of such increase having been taken into current earnings. However justifiable this write-up may have appeared at the time, the directors are not inclined to adhere to the policy of taking up on the books any part of the appreciation in value of securities owned by the company.

"Another important difference is an item of $579,043.51, 'expenses and losses applicable to the year 1928.' Of this amount $469,631.69 represents deferred expenses and losses of the Whelan Drug Company, Inc., which the auditors have recommended be charged off in the year in which they occurred rather than deferred."

The report set forth that the company's business continued to be operated at a loss in 1929 and that it would need to conserve cash to carry out its plans for expansion and the development of its reorganized business. The hope was expressed that economies made and proposed would soon turn losses into profits and that the closing out of certain unprofitable lines would return capital adequate to carry out the company's plans.

Samuel Untermyer, attorney for the company, will be present at the examination of its former officers on Tuesday, it was said.

ORDERS DETECTIVE'S TRIAL

Whalen Sifts Charge That He Blackjacked Innocent Citizen.

Commissioner Whalen ordered a trial yesterday in the police disciplinary court of charges that Detective August Gilman struck John J. McGovern with a blackjack several nights ago in McGovern's room at 1118 Third Avenue.

Gilman, with two other detectives, went to McGovern's room to find a notorious character. They found only McGovern, a man of good reputation. McGovern's head was lacerated in the course of the detectives' visit. The detectives afterward told Deputy Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney, who investigated the incident for Commissioner Whalen, that Gilman had not blackjacked McGovern, as McGovern charged, but that McGovern had been struck by the door when the detectives battered it down. Inspector Mulrooney told Mr. Whalen that he believed the detectives had made "an honest mistake."

Mr. Whalen said yesterday that if the explanation were true Gilman had nothing to fear, but that he thought it best that both sides be officially heard.

SMITING "THE OTHER BODY."

In killing Senator Jones's resolution embodying President Hoover's suggestion for the appointment of a joint committee of Congress to study certain aspects of prohibition enforcement, the wise old heads of the Committee on Rules show that the resentment of the House against the Senate has not abated. Last Spring a great majority of the House believed that its constitutional power had been violated by the Senate by the insertion of the export debenture plan into the farm relief bill. "All "bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representa"tives"; and the debenture scheme was held to be a revenue bill. Tempers boiled. Hotheads proposed a public reprimand of the erring and usurping brother. Later a measure of censure was introduced as a result of acrimonious language in what Speaker Longworth calls "the other body."

These flames have never been quenched. The House has shown self-restraint. It has not been undignified in seeking to maintain its dignity. For political reasons Democratic support in the contest with the Senate may have been weakened; but the House has a strong corporate sense and pride. It now returns to the attack. Its own committees are adequate to deal with such legislation as may be proposed. Why should it pass over their heads and surrender half its initiative in the matter to "the other body"? Whatever the merits of the argument, its purpose is plain. The House prefers to conduct its own business with as little interference as possible from its august compeer. Besides, the long months in which the House did nothing and the Senate held the stage, can hardly have increased the lower chamber's affection for what, according to that ingenuous discoverer, Mr. Capper, is the more authentic representative of the people.

It was hardly necessary for Mr. Longworth to disclaim, on behalf of the House Republicans, any intention of disloyalty to the President. When the Wickersham Commission makes to the President its prefatory report and sends it to Congress, the proper House committees will take up the recommendations—perhaps with an eye on the Fall elections and no unseemly haste.

MEDITERRANEAN SECURITY.

Despite the apparent failure of France and Italy to agree upon a common course to be pursued at the London Conference, the proposal of a Mediterranean "Locarno" treaty, by which the four principal Mediterranean Powers would pledge themselves to preserve the peace in that region, is by no means foredoomed to failure. Like France, Italy is manoeuvring for position. Both nations are approaching the conference with their maximum demands loudly proclaimed. From the extreme positions each expects to recede. It does not mean, therefore, that, just because Italy for the moment appears unfriendly to a general regional understanding, she will steadfastly adhere to that course.

A Mediterranean agreement might well form part of the entire settlement which it is to be hoped will be reached at London, just as the so-called "Four-Power Pact" concerning insular possessions in the Pacific was an essential element in the results of the Washington Conference. France and Italy both wish security in the Mediterranean. What more natural than that this should be provided by agreement with the two other principal Mediterranean Powers, Spain and England? If, by a joint agreement, greater security could be established in that region, it would be easier for France to view with equanimity the reduction of her naval plans. This, in turn, would diminish the opposition of the English to going below a given tonnage, and so would forward the cause of general limitation of naval armaments.

It should not be forgotten that when the Four-Power Pact of the Pacific was first discussed the thought was to make it a three-power agreement, the United States, Great Britain and Japan alone participating. But it was deemed expedient to include France, not only because of her insular possessions scattered throughout the Pacific area, but also because of her potential influence for peace in the event of sharp differences of opinion between any two of the signatories. While logic would suggest that a Mediterranean pact signed only by France, Italy and Great Britain would be adequate, there is reason to consider Spain in much the same relation to such an agreement pertaining to that region as was France in the case of the Pacific treaty.

The question of the Mediterranean promises to be one of the most important which the conference in London will have to face. In this country it is not often realized that this sea not only connects France and Italy with their African possessions, but that through it passes at least a third of England's trade and all of its sea communications with the Far East and with East Africa. Great Britain holds Gibraltar, Malta and Suez because these are the keys to the Mediterranean, and the Mediterranean is one of the principal links in the Empire. It is as important to Great Britain as the Caribbean is to the United States. For all three of the chief Mediterranean Powers, therefore, the final arrangements concerning that region will have a direct bearing on the concessions which they will be able to make in London.

PLACING THE BLAME.

Witnesses of late have been striking back at the Caraway committee of the Senate investigating the activities of lobbies. And to their own surprise they have not only lived to tell the tale but to receive the praise of their countrymen. The first witness who answered back is now himself a Senator, Mr. Grundy. The second, Mr. Pike, a New York sugar broker, left the stand with less official but equally substantial honors. The third, Mrs. Jones, a press agent, struck hard at a vulnerable spot which Mr. Pike had neglected.

The points made by these two witnesses will bear consideration. They dealt with the now confirmed habit of Congressional committees to seize private correspondence, even the most casual, and select for public disclosure those parts of it which seem best to suit their purposes. Mrs. Jones made her protest against this custom in its entirety, feeling that citizens not charged with criminal offenses should not be compelled to turn over their papers to political committees. With this position many Americans will agree. But Mr. Pike made an interior point which was instantly effective. For the effect of what he said was on the public. Accused of having "bandied" the name of the President, because in private correspondence he had spoken of persons with "approaches" to Mr. Hoover, the witness seized the committee's artillery and turned it against his assailants. If there was any "bandying," the committee had been guilty, because the references to the President became public property only through the committee's action in "broadcasting" them. If no discretion is used by the investigators in distinguishing between a press agent's boast or a lobbyist's scheme, and a real participation in these schemes by personages mentioned, the injustice involved comes from the undiscriminating action of the Senate. If committees continue to seize fugitive memoranda and publish all their foolish contents as if they were State papers, innocent and important persons will be the victims. This will be the case unless, as Mrs. Jones predicted, the recklessness of the investigating committees finally induces lobbyists to "install incinerators instead of filing cabinets." Then what will Senators who are candidates for re-election do for publicity material?

INCOMPETENT AMERICANS.

The present is not the moment to quarrel with any well-meant effort to inculcate lessons of hard work, sober living, foresight and thrift. Nevertheless, public opinion has for some time been growing restless under insurance company figures dedicated to such purposes. The statement that virtually everybody in this country is economically bankrupt at the age of 65 has of late been strongly challenged, and in the resulting confusion it may be that the intended moral lesson will fail. It may be true, as asserted at an underwriters' convention at Toronto, that only one man in ten at the age of 65 has sufficient capital investments to assure him a monthly income of $50. But serious doubt arises concerning the other reported statement, that of three healthy men at the age of 30, one dies before 60 and the other two "usually" become dependent on their children for support. How usual is "usually"?

Earlier this week we had the summary of an investigation into old-age dependency by Abraham Epstein, secretary of the Association for Old Age Security. It is a field with no exact data, according to Mr. Epstein, and consequently prolific in guesswork. The guesses run all the way from optimistic assurances that there is no old-age dependency to statements very much like the one cited above from Toronto. Using such approximations and approaches as he found available, Mr. Epstein places his own reasoned guess at 2,000,000 men and women over 65 partly or wholly dependent on others; in the vast majority, of course, on children and relatives. The 2,000,000 dependents are about one-third of all persons in the country 65 years old or over. It thus seems obvious, with only one out of every three persons dependent at 65, that "usually" is not the word; and this number would be further reduced by partial dependency only. It would be interesting and instructive to have President Hoover's committee on "social trends" bring back some fairly definite information on this subject.

PAROLE OF PRISONERS.

None of the measures of prison reform now under discussion at Albany has received wider support than the proposal to reorganize the State's present parole system. Governor Roosevelt, Senator Baumes and independent prison authorities are agreed that the part-time board of prison officials should be abolished and a full-time commission or court established in its place. The idea is not new. For many years the Prison Association of New York has been urging this reform. Three years ago Mr. George W. Alger, serving as a commissioner under the executive law, formally recommended it. At that time the administration of the prisons was in weak hands. Parole was treated as a matter of hurried routine, and little attempt was made to comply with the provision in the law requiring the board to determine the "reasonable probability" that the prisoner, if allowed to go free, would "live and "remain at liberty without violating "the law."

Commissioner Alger found that the State employed four parole officers to handle the cases of the 1,600 prisoners placed on parole each year. It was in the habit of skimping appropriations for the service. The whole system was little but an "under-financed moral gesture." Yet parole is capable, if liberally and capably administered, of helping the prisoner, improving discipline within the prisons by offering an incentive for good behavior, and actually saving the State millions of dollars for the construction of cells to contain prisoners who might otherwise have to serve longer terms. Dr. Kieb, the present Commissioner of Correction, has apparently done his best to improve the administration of the law, but the results are still unsatisfactory.

The Prison Association supports the change to a full-time board on the ground that a man's fitness for parole could then be determined as a quasi-judicial function by persons free from administrative responsibilities. Such a board might incidentally be of great aid to the Governor in passing on the hundreds of applications for executive clemency he receives every year. Since questions of life or death are often involved, they impose a heavy responsibility on him. Even under the present law he could refer them to the parole board if he chose to do so, but he seldom does. If the board were composed of men of character and ability working full-time and with a staff capable of making the proper investigations, the Executive would no doubt feel less hesitation about seeking their advice.

A FRANCHISE FOR TAXICABS.

Even the most regular patron of New York's taxicabs will be surprised to learn that they collect more fares every day than all the street railways put together. Mayor Walker's figures bear eloquent testimony to the extraordinary growth of this transportation facility since the day, several centuries ago, when a mythical cabby fixed a drum behind his seat, hitched a stake to his front wheel and by the taps on the drum reckoned the distance traveled and charged accordingly. Twenty years ago, when the automobile had only begun to displace the horse-drawn vehicles, there was one taxicab for every 10,000 persons in the United States. Today the ratio is something like one to 1,000, and there are more than 20,000 cabs in New York City alone. The latest development in the industry is the built-to-order cab, which Commissioner Whalen expects will soon displace the converted vehicle now in common use here.

A business of such proportions so essential to public convenience clearly demands better regulation than it has inherited from the days of the hack. Some years ago a committee headed by Chief Magistrate McAdoo brought in a report the principal feature of which was a proposal to limit the number of taxicabs and so restrict cruising and consequent congestion. But that would not meet the case. Other communities have recognized its complexity and its importance. In Philadelphia taxicabs are under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission, which recently rejected an application from a rival company on the ground that it would introduce a competitive factor ruinous to the industry and contrary to public interest. Mayor Walker hints at franchises for taxicabs, with a fixed return to the city. That might be a help if the franchises could be drafted and disposed of in such a way as to avoid a repetition of the Equitable Bus fiasco. Some civic associations are advocating a special board of control, but it hardly seems necessary to set up any new machinery. If regulation is to be taken out of the hands of the police, it could appropriately be given to the Transit Commission.

THE SEAMEN'S CHURCH INSTITUTE.

Celebrating his thirty-fourth anniversary as a member of the Seamen's Church Institute staff, the Rev. Dr. Archibald R. Mansfield rejoiced that New York's old "sailor town," with its degrading exploitation of the merchant seamen on leave or looking for a ship, was absolutely of the past. If the drugging of the sailor with bad rum and his falling into the clutches of harpies and thieves still occur, the cases are rare. With not only the Seamen's Church Institute but numerous other clubs, homes and missions offering Jack accommodations and entertainment, there is no excuse for backsliding. As for shanghaing him, the laws as well as friendly institutions protect him against the outrage. Writers of fiction may find him less picturesque today as a subject and lament the passing of "romance." Prohibition has little or nothing to do with it. The clipper ships have gone, and the few sailing ships left are now curiosities. Steam has worked so great a transformation in the life of sailors that the old-fashioned mariner has ceased to exist, except perhaps on whalers in polar seas—and even whalers are for the most part engined nowadays.

The sailor coming to New York today heads for the Seamen's Church Institute's new thirteen-story building on South Street, with its private rooms, baths, social hall, library, restaurant, medical clinic, employment service, postoffice and various forms of entertainment, including the universal radio. And on West Street, Twenty-third Street and elsewhere in the city there are clubable shelters where he can be comfortable and enjoy himself.

For the change to the good new times seamen are indebted to reformers like the Rev. Dr. Mansfield and to philanthropists and ship owners who have made handsome contributions to the upbuilding of the Seamen's Church Institute from the floating church moored at the foot of Pike Street almost a hundred years ago. Where the great modern building rises was formerly the "Museum" saloon of the old bad days, grim, sordid and foul. South Street at night is now as quiet as the financial district. The Seamen's Church Institute is the finest sailors' hotel in the world, for so it can be called, as three-fourths of its regular revenue comes from the patrons. But it is not yet free of debt, the sum of $1,225,000 being still outstanding.

READING SPEECHES IN THE COMMONS.

One of the criticisms of the Labor Government in England is that members of the Cabinet do not hesitate to read their speeches in Parliament. This is against a custom which almost has the force of law. Any one who has spoken his way into election as a member of the House of Commons, especially one who is prominent enough to be appointed a Minister or Under-Secretary, is expected to get on his legs and say what he has to say without reference, either open or furtive, to a manuscript. Perhaps the chief offender today against the rule is Miss Margaret Bondfield, the Minister of Labor. It caused something like horror among older members when, a few days ago, "Our Maggie," who was in charge of the bill to extend the system of unemployed insurance, pulled a paper out of her pocket and read it. Bad enough for a man, it was thought still worse for a woman not to be able to speak right on like Mark Antony.

Speeches may, of course, be carefully prepared, and even written out, though not read. Mr. Winston Churchill is a very ready and dashing orator who would doubtless never think of standing up and reading an address—though in his budget speeches he might now and then have to pull a few tables of figures out of his hat—yet he has often been accused of having polished up his sentences and epigrams long in advance. One way in which his opponents used to get the laugh on him was to refer to the rumors that he had been a week or so practicing in his bedroom the brilliant impromptu with which he planned to crush an adversary. The general notion about speechmaking in the House of Commons is that it is better to be halting and fumbling and even apologetic in discourse rather than to read. Reading may make the full man, but will not satisfy the appetite or the whim of the House.

No absolute line can be drawn for every man in the matter of reading a speech or giving it apparently extempore from his mother-wit. So much depends upon the reading. The old custom of the Scottish Church was not to read sermons in the pulpit; but when two devout souls from the village once got into the gallery of the church of the great Dr. Chalmers they perceived that he had before him written pages. Going out, one said to the other in an awed tone, "But did ye "see his paper, Jock? He was read"in'." "Yes, Jamie," was the reply, "but it was fell readin'."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Freakish Mass Psychology.

Study of the crowd-mind has gone on for years, but is always turning up startling novelties. One of the most striking of them lately to fall under notice was the mob which, several thousand strong, tried to rush the building and the room where the Einstein theories were to be exhibited—let it not be said explained—in moving pictures.

Starting out with the premise that only a dozen men in the whole world understand Einstein, and not all of them are always sure that they do, the question arises what possible motive the mass of the people could have whom the police were called out to keep in order because they were actually rioting in order to get a sight of the Einstein films. Did any of them expect to add to their knowledge? Did they think it fitting for them to rush in where even philosophers fear to tread?

Probably no such thought entered the mind of any of them. They had heard of a curiosity to be seen—seen free—and they were bound to see it. They got great comfort out of their sense of numbers, no doubt. To be caught into a stream of 3,000 people gives one, somehow, a feeling of importance. So many elbows touching each other must indicate great mental activity. But if the straight query were put to those members of the mob why they had come together, their only honest answer could not have varied much from saying: "We're here because we're here, and because there are so many of us."

The City Magnificent.

If General Smuts had walked in our streets early yesterday morning, he would not have found the city the "wonderful place" which rose to its full height in giving him welcome a few days ago. A fog shut away from view everything above the eighth or tenth story and left the city shorn of its supreme glory. Each "mighty Taj with dome or minaret" became an ordinary office building of an earlier period. New York had sunk back into the mediocrity of a city that was an "overgrown town," such as the South African visitor had found other cities to be, its buildings all of monotonous height.

It was not a buried city, but one that had been left its foundations only. Happily, the towers were restored during the day and by night stood like mountains clearly against a crimson sunset sky. It was a sudden transition from the city of the '90s into one that makes us proud to live in it despite its congestion and noise and other discomforts.

As General Smuts said, we have at the heart of it an "eternity of wilds," the Natural History Museum with its memories of millions of years. There he saw the monster dinosaur who disappeared from earth because he grew so large that he was no longer able to adjust himself to his changing environment. Is there to be an analogous fate for our city of giant structures, the "latest development of human genius"? If it is some day to be "one with Nineveh and Tyre," what it has given in its towering architecture will never be forgotten. It will be a joy forever even if it is broken as the Parthenon or buried as Herculaneum, because of the thing of beauty that it now is in its heights that compete with the impressive Palisades of nature's architecture.

Youth Helping Blind Children.

Members of the Junior Red Cross in four countries—Italy, Hungary, Poland and the United States—have found a way of aiding in relief work which is of great benefit and which gives a sense of personal contact with those needing help. They have been told of the thousands of blind children who can have the pleasure of reading only through the use of braille and have set about making transcriptions of their own favorite stories. Care is taken by the teachers that no duplicates of the stories read to the blind children shall be transcribed.

The first enthusiasm of the public school children has not waned. It is two years since the boys and girls in the Chicago junior high and Catholic schools were asked if they would like to help. Now there are more every year learning how to "do the writing in raised dots" and sending personal letters as well as stories to the blind of their own age.

The children of an ex-service man who lost his sight have learned braille with the help of a volunteer in the local chapter of the Red Cross. He is away from home learning an occupation, and he has already graduated into the more difficult constructions of braille. As a happy surprise for the new year the children sent him a letter—the first that some one else did not have to read to him.

Warning Against Parrots.

The bottom has dropped out of the parrot market, at least for the time being. The Public Health Service at Washington has advised against all social contacts with recently imported parrots until an official investigation of a serious and mysterious "parrot disease" has been completed.

Many have long had the feeling that there is something diabolical about the parrot tribe. More than one family pet, known by its owners to possess the amiable and gentle disposition of a kitten, is regarded with fear and trembling by visitors. The long, curved beak, the beady eye, a knowing way of cocking its head, have given the bird a reputation for wickedness seldom deserved. The recent outbreak of a virulent disease, contracted from parrots, will appear to justify what is with many persons an instinctive distrust.

Psittachosis was first heard of last October in Argentina, where several members of a theatrical troupe were thought to have been infected from a bird owned by one of the actors. Several of these cases were fatal. Later four deaths were reported in Berlin, and two cases were reported last week in Prague. It is suspected that "parrot disease" may be the cause of the illness of four persons in Baltimore and of three in Annapolis.

The American cases were first reported as pneumonia. The disease is rare, and little is known about it. Until more has been learned about the nature of the malady the safest course seems absolute ostracism for recent immigrants of the parrot family.

AMBULANCE SERVICE COSTS.

City Appropriations Are Too Small to Allow Efficient Operation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Lately the alleged inefficiency of hospital ambulances has come in for a good deal of consideration. Knowing something about the problems involved in operating an ambulance service, I feel that I can express an opinion.

Private hospitals operating emergency ambulance service receive from the city, I understand, an annual allowance per ambulance of from $2,400 to $3,000, with a proposed increase to $3,500. For this amount they are expected to maintain a twenty-four-hour service, giving prompt response. It does not seem to me that if they fail to do so on such appropriations they should be very seriously criticized.

Granted that there should be a prompt ambulance service to handle street accidents and emergencies. But the city should be willing to pay the hospitals a sum sufficient to maintain such a service. Day and night response would require two shifts. The sum the city allows would not pay the salaries and keep of two dependable men. The private hospitals, therefore, are out of pocket for gasoline, oil, tires, car repairs and other expenses in connection with the operation and maintenance. That does not look like a fair proposition. It seems to me that when the hospitals are being criticized for the character of service they are giving, criticism is being directed to the wrong quarter.

Somewhere I have seen $7,000 as the estimated figure for annual ambulance operation. That seems more reasonable. But even that is considerably under my own experience. The costs of the company of which I am an executive amount to approximately $12,000 per ambulance. Certainly costs for a city emergency service could be cut below that, but hardly within any reasonable distance of the present city allowance.

It seems to me that before more is said about inefficient ambulance operation, something should be said about reasonable appropriation.

CONDENSED FICTION.

Of old, there lived a woman and a man,
He weak as water, she as strong as wine.
Now, these two met and loved each other well,
And on a day in Summer they were wed.

And on a night in Autumn she went out
And stood upon a hill and searched her heart.
Then vowed a vow, and kept it to the last.

And when he lied, she, knowing well the lie,
Smiled and believed him. And she gave him back
Whatever gracious falsehood would best serve
To medicine the palsy of his pride.

She was a gallant and a gentleman.
She laid aside the weapon of her truth
Because he had no sword to parry with.

So to the end. And never for an hour
Was he aware of this. Always she gave
Two lives for one, her puppet and herself.
He loved a marionette, and never knew.

Only sometimes he felt a shadow creep
Thickly between them, and he cried aloud
And reached his pitiful hands to draw her near.

And sometimes he would go away alone
And stand and face the craven that he was,
Scourging his soul with whips of penitence,
And cry out dumbly for her healing hand.

Always she met him proudly with a smile,
Stanching the blood he thought she did not see.
Always she laid his head upon her heart.

And when he died she left him where the pines
Were green and friendly all the year around.
She gave him to the kindly cleansing soil,
And then she closed the house and went away.

NEW YORK'S DIRTY STREETS

Again Our Methods Are Contrasted Unfavorably With Those Abroad.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A word in reply to the letter from "Old New Yorker" on the filthy condition of New York streets and the lack of law enforcement may not be amiss.

Those of us who have lived in foreign cities, or who have merely visited them for a day, cannot but contrast the slovenly methods of refuse removal here compared to the clean streets and better methods abroad.

Outdoor cleanliness, it seems to me, depends largely on the enforcement of regulations—on janitors, housekeepers and shopkeepers—to pick up sweepings and place them in covered receptacles, as is the custom in foreign cities and enforced by the police.

The conditions we witness in many of our filthy streets would never be tolerated for a moment abroad, but then foreigners are used to abide by the regulations and accustom themselves to habits of orderliness and tidiness.

Compare our familiar methods of street cleaning, such as I witness from my windows, with the results of those used abroad, as, for example, in Germany, and what do we see:

Each morning here the familiar "white wing" appears, sweeps the gutters, picks up the dirt and places it in his handcart. Shortly thereafter comes the sprinkler wagon, washes away all the small particles and leaves the gutters clean. Along comes the householder, does his sweeping right up to the curb and into the gutter, which has just been cleaned. Now comes the garbage truck with three or four men—it is a huge, uncovered truck. They throw the full cans onto the truck, with the result that the contents are wafted about in all directions, leaving on the previously cleaned street a mass of filth, paper and débris, an eyesore and a menace to health.

I believe there are already sufficient laws covering all these abuses and neglects, but no one enforces them.

I would characterize New York's refuse-collecting equipment as antiquated, insufficient and insanitary. Furthermore, the ash and garbage trucks cause undue congestion in our streets during the day, and work of this kind ought to be done between 7 and 8 A. M. or the same hours in the evening.

BANKRUPTCY LAW FAULTS.

Better Control Over Fees and Expenses Is Urged.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a movement on foot to present recommendations to Congress with a view toward amending the bankruptcy act.

As a credit manager of many years standing, and being fully familiar with the situation, I cannot too emphatically urge the need for more protective legislation as far as the interests of the creditors are concerned.

A point I have especially in mind, and which should receive legislative consideration, is the frequent dissipation of assets of the bankrupt estate by means of attorney fees and legal expenses, which in a great many instances seem to be all out of proportion. It is not at all an uncommon occurrence where 80 or 90 per cent of such assets are consummated in administration and legal expenses; even in minor estates attorney fees for receiver, trustee and bankrupt often reach a total of several thousand dollars, which usually leaves little or nothing for distribution to creditors.

If these legal and administration expenses were based upon the merit of each case no doubt large sums of money could be saved for the general creditors, and therefore an amendment to the bankruptcy act with a view to bringing such expenditures under better control would have a far-reaching and beneficial effect.

In order to bring this about it would be of vital importance for trade and credit organizations to bring pressure to bear for enactment of corrective measures in this respect.

Virginia Had Reason.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times editorial "History on Wheels" is complimentary but misses the point. Virginia has been compelled to adopt numbers for the marking of her historic spots because all the rest of the roadside space is occupied by billboards.

A picture on the grand mural scale, representing Captain John Smith paying court to Pocahontas, could not possibly be accommodated within visible distance of the right of way on a State road; if it were possible to do so, the composition would be taken by nine out of ten motorists to be an advertisement for the timely presentation of flowers. The death bed of Jefferson on the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration would inevitably be interpreted as a pious wish that his bones had been comfortably supported on Jimmins's mattresses.

The decision to employ numbers only is a wise one; there can now be no competition and no confusion, and, as any one can see for himself, there simply isn't room.

Scouts Want Nature Books.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May we appeal to those readers who may have books on nature subjects for which they have no use?

One of our troops, composed of boys residing in the midtown east side section, have specialized on nature study for several years and are doing some very unusual things in that direction. In connection with one of the community houses they recently established a troop library and are anxious to procure books on nature and related subjects. They are particularly anxious to procure copies of "The Nature Library" published by Doubleday, Page & Co. some years ago.

A phone call to our office—Wisconsin 7190—will bring a representative of the troop to the home or office of any of your readers who may have material of this character.

THE CASE OF THE NEGRO.

Group Economy Theory Is Called Attractive but Unsound.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All people in this country who are informed on the so-called negro problem must take sharp exception to your last paragraph of The Times editorial on Major Moton. It is ridiculous to assert that "distinction between the races in America is no longer indicated by a horizontal line, white above and black below, but by a vertical line, with negroes rising in the industries and professions on their side of it and the white on his side." I admit that this hand-and-finger theory of Booker T. Washington, bi-racial theory of Lothrop Stoddard and group economy theory of most negro leaders and their white friends are most attractive and comforting to many, but are most unsound, nevertheless.

It is almost childish to expect the negro group, suffering as it does from almost disheartening industrial jim-crowism, woeful lack of investment capital and the burden of illiteracy and inadequate educational facilities, to "build up its own social and economic life" as if it were a separate entity and not an integral part of our national life, subject to all of the influences and trends that mold and shape the white people.

Most negro businesses today are fighting a losing battle against encroaching white business because the former are small and the latter, strengthened by mergers and consolidations, is powerful. All of the negro businesses in the United States do not employ a total of more than 25,000 workers, while the number of gainfully employed negroes is close to 6,000,000.

These 6,000,000 are in the main subjected to the same discrimination and segregation in the field of labor that they are in education, transportation and places of amusement. There are literally thousands of mills, mines, stores and factories where a negro, no matter how capable, just cannot get employment except as a janitor or porter.

Moreover, under the circumstances there seems to be nothing either Tuskegee or Hampton can do about it. With no chance of the negro ever establishing a self-sufficient group economy except through consumers' cooperation, both of these schools continue to preach the old bourgeois ideology of individualistic competition in a world of combine, chain, trust and merger.

Comforting as is the idea of a self-sufficient group economy for the negro to white people wedded to the ideal of racial separatism, we must face the facts of the situation. What the negro needs now is not for a few philanthropists to give money to negro schools and stop there, but for these same philanthropists, who own and control the industry and commerce of the country, to lower the color bars in their stores, factories, mills, warehouses and so forth, thus enabling the negroes whom they have helped to educate to make a decent living and advance in the social and economic scale, not as negroes but as Americans.

Therein is the real distinction between the school of thought headed by Dr. Du Bois and that headed by Major Moton.

Opportunities and Development.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I comment on the editorial on Major Robert R. Moton appearing in The Times, which I feel in a sense is not quite fair either to Dr. Moton or Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, editor of The Crisis? The tenor of this editorial would lead the person who knows little of what the negro is thinking and doing in American life to believe that cleavage of thought in negro America is as sharply defined as it was twenty years ago.

Some years ago, at the time when the late Booker T. Washington founded Tuskegee Institute, any negro who advocated full participation by the negro in all phases of American life not only would have met with almost certain defeat but his life actually would have been in danger. Toward the turn of the century, however, due chiefly to progress made by the negro himself, a new school of thought in which Dr. Du Bois was the most prominent began to challenge the advice given by Dr. Washington that the negro should concentrate upon solution of his economic problems and forego participation in the political and other aspects of American life. This new school contended that so long as a man's opportunities and rights as a citizen and as a human being were limited in any one direction, just so long would that man be prevented from development to the fullest and finest extent.

As the years have passed, all negroes, whether they say so or not in the presence of white people, subscribe to this viewpoint. I have the feeling that your editorial does an injustice to Dr. Moton in its implication that he does not subscribe to full participation by the negro in all honorable fields of thought and endeavor. His recent book, "What the Negro Thinks," an admirable volume, played a considerable part in bringing to Dr. Moton the award of the Harmon Foundation.

Sunday Funerals.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. David G. Wylie berates Sunday funerals. Did it ever occur to him that the departed deserve tribute as well as the living deserve leisure? Many persons can attend the burial of a friend during day hours only on Sunday. Why should not the clergy, undertakers and grave diggers be willing to consider this?

So far as the undertakers and grave diggers are concerned, they are not forced to take orders they do not wish to fill. I think the minister is the man whose energy is chiefly taxed; and I believe he should be merciful to the extent of his strength. I should say it is unseemly for those well paid for their services to complain, and unbecoming for a clergyman to refuse this arrangement. The convenience of relatives and other loved ones is primary.

H. DU PUY DIES AT 73, A LEADER IN STEEL

Former Associate of Carnegie Was Once President and Chairman of Crucible Company.

LARGE REAL ESTATE OWNER

Had Extensive Holdings in Pittsburgh and Here—Also Known as Art Patron.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—Herbert Du Puy, former president and chairman of the board of the Crucible Steel Company of America, coal operator, large owner of New York real estate and art patron, died this morning at his home, 646 Morewood Avenue, after a long illness. He was 73 years old. He is survived by a widow, who was Amy Hostetter at their marriage in 1879, a daughter, Mrs. Frederic I. Merrick, and nine grandchildren.

Soon after his graduation from Lehigh in 1878 as a mining engineer, Mr. Du Puy became associated with Andrew Carnegie in the steel business. He discovered, and was the first to make practical use of roll scale, the oxide of iron formerly wasted in iron and steel manufacture. This material had been considered worthless, but it was found to be 70 per cent pure iron, richer than most iron ores.

Mr. Du Puy organized the Anderson & Du Puy Company, which took over the business of the Siemens-Anderson Steel Company, that had made the steel for the wire cables used in the construction of the Brooklyn Bridge. This company was later absorbed by the Crucible Steel Company of America, from which Mr. Du Puy retired in October 1919. His retirement followed an advance in the price of the stock on the New York Stock Exchange from $75 to $248 a share, and was believed to mark the victory of Horace S. Wilkinson of Syracuse and his associates, in their fight for control of the company.

For his realty operations Mr. Du Puy formed the Morewood Realty Holding Company, which became one of the large property owners of this city. In 1908 he bought the Empire Hotel at Broadway and Sixty-third Streets, and the Van Dyck and Severn apartment houses, two twelve-story structures covering the entire block front on the East side of Broadway from seventy-second to seventy-third Street.

At his death Mr. Du Puy was president of the Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel Corporation of the Connellsville Central Coke Company, the Morewood Realty Holding Company, chairman of the board of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, and of Breinig Brothers, Inc., a director of the Farmers Deposit National Bank of Pittsburgh and trustee of the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh.

In 1923, Mr. and Mrs. Du Puy gave to Carnegie Institute a collection of fifty drawings by old masters, including the work of da Vinci, Rembrandt, Corregio and Murillo. In 1927 he gave to the same institution the second largest collection of early miniatures in the United States. Three years ago, in association with his wife, he gave to Yale University two funds of a total value of $35,000 to assist self-supporting students, in memory of their sons, Wilfred and Charles M. Du Puy.

EDWARD BOK BURIED AS CARILLON TOLLS

Simple Service Is Held Before Body Is Laid in Crypt Under Singing Tower.

ONLY RELATIVES PRESENT

But 2,000 Pay Tribute Outside—Philadelphia Orchestra Honors Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNTAIN LAKE, Fla., Jan. 10.—A funeral dirge was tolled today for Edward W. Bok by the great bells he placed on top of Iron Mountain. Tonight his body was buried in a crypt at the base of the stone tower, erected as a monument to the beauties of nature.

The dirge was his favorite hymn, a Dutch folk piece, "God's Hand," arranged by Josef Hofmann, for which Mr. Bok had translated the words.

The ceremonies were simple. The Episcopal burial service was read in the tower in the big stone room with vaulted Gothic ceiling, where Mr. Bok often sat.

Only the family and immediate friends were there where the body lay in state all morning beneath a bright blanket of flame vine, roses and lilies, picked in the bird sanctuary. Hundreds of other floral tributes stood about the tower room.

Engraved in stone over the fireplace before which he lay was the motto of his life:

"Make you the world a bit more beautiful and better because you have lived in it."

More than 2,000 persons pressed closed to the ropes surrounding the tower lawn during the services and stood motionless as the United States flag streamed from a balcony on the stone shaft and bluttered at half staff during the ringing of the bells.

The bells, played by Anton Brees, blended into the hymn "Lead, Kindly Light," as the services were begun inside. Then came the folk song, "God's Hand." At the end Chopin's "Funeral March" was played.

Thousands of messages were received from friends in every corner of the globe today at the home.

Governor Carlton was represented by General Vivian B. Collins, Adjutant General of Florida.

Lake Wales halted business during the funeral hour and other Polk County towns observed minutes of silence in Mr. Bok's memory.

SIR L. WEAVER DIES; ADVERTISING MAN

Director of London Press Exchange, 53, Was Close Friend of the Late Earl Haig.

AIDED DISABLED SOLDIERS

He Organized Pottery Manufacture by 33 Veterans in Ashtead—Was Expert on Architecture.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Sir Lawrence Weaver, 53 years old, authority on architecture, died of heart disease at his home in St. John's Wood early today. He was taken ill two days ago and had been confined to his bed. He was well enough on Tuesday to attend the wedding of the Swedish Minister's daughter.

He was director of the United Kingdom section of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley.

Sir Lawrence, who received his knighthood in 1920, was director of the London Press Exchange, the largest advertising agency in England; trustee of Chequers, the country home of the British Prime Ministers; treasurer of the Housing Association for Officers' Families and trustee of the Douglas Haig Memorial Homes.

He was a great friend of the late Earl Haig and was associated with him in aiding disabled ex-service men. He organized the pottery manufacture by almost totally disabled British veterans at Ashtead in Surrey. Each of the thirty-three men working there had been in a hospital for at least four years and before 1923 had known nothing of making pottery. For three years they made pottery of the ordinary kind at a loss. Then Sir Lawrence, in harmony with his policy as president of the Design and Industries Association, which seeks to introduce art into the things of everyday life, enlisted the help of two eminent artists to make designs for the potters. Thenceforth the Ashtead pottery has been in demand and the business has succeeded financially.

"The public must be attracted by beauty of design," said Sir Lawrence at a dinner given in his honor here two years ago, and he cited Henry Ford as a great industrialist who had to turn esthete in order to hold his market.

Sir Lawrence was trained as an architect and worked for fourteen years as manager and director of various manufacturing and contracting concerns before becoming a journalist and author. Among his varied activities he had been Director General of the Land Department and Second Secretary in the Ministry of Agriculture from 1919 to 1922, and had served in the Anti-Aircraft Corps and as Controller of Unpaid Food Supplies in the war.

Among his books were a life of Sir Christopher Wren and "Small Country Houses of Today." His first wife, Miss Kathleen Purcell, died in 1927. The next year he married Miss Margaret de Caux.

DOCTOR-EXCHANGE WITH BERLIN SOUGHT

Dr. Bucky Sails to Start Movement for Interchange of Scientists.

PLANS AMERICAN HOSPITAL

Guest-Physician Project Would Tend to Promote Internationalism, Specialist Declares.

The first direct move toward realization of the idea discussed by Mayor Walker and Mayor Gustav Boess of Berlin, on the latter's recent visit to New York, for the interchange of physicians and scientists between this city and the German capital, will be made today with the departure for Berlin of Dr. Gustave Bucky, noted German-American roentgenologist, of 73 East Eightieth Street.

Dr. Bucky, who returns to Berlin in response to a call from the Rudolph Virchow Hospital of that city, has been entrusted by Mayor Walker with the task of arranging for an exchange of physicians between New York and the German capital. In addition to this task, Dr. Bucky revealed yesterday, he would seek also to start a movement for the establishment of an American hospital in Berlin, the ground for which, it is understood, will be offered by the German municipality. The American end in the work of arranging for an exchange of physicians will be in charge of Dr. William Schroeder Jr., Sanitation Commissioner. All phases of medicine will be represented.

Dr. Bucky to Form Committee.

Dr. Bucky said that on his arrival in Berlin he would seek to form a general committee of prominent laymen, with a board of directors, to cooperate with a committee of scientists who will direct the purely scientific aspect of the enterprise. In addition, there will be a joint executive committee of representatives of both cities, who will assign the exchange physicians to their respective posts.

"The interchange physician will not be merely a guest of the institution to which he will be accredited," said Dr. Bucky, "but a full member of the institution, with definite rights and duties. He will not be a fifth wheel, so to speak, of the institution and will not be dependent on mere courtesies. He will be expected to do much and constructive work and will not be regarded as a mere guest."

"I think there is a great deal to be gained from such a system," Dr. Bucky said. "First of all, there will be a broader and more comprehensive understanding between the institutions involved. The innovation will promote adoption of the latest methods of research and treatment. In general, it takes years before a new method or a new idea discovered in one country is followed in another. Under our system this delay will be greatly reduced if not entirely eliminated, for it will bring the methods and ideas of the two cities into intimate touch."

Dr. Bucky emphasized the need of exchanging young scientists and physicians rather than older men to break down the traditional conservatism which often stands in the way of progress.

Sees Aid To Internationalism.

"It will also tend to promote a solid and genuine internationalism," he said.

With respect to the proposed American Hospital in Berlin, Dr. Bucky pointed out the great need of such an institution, due to the great shortage of beds and facilities in Berlin. Many American concerns resident in Germany will be glad to support the project, he said.

Pointing out that America leads in hospital construction, Dr. Bucky said that the proposed institution is to be 100 per cent American, built in accordance with American ideas, with an American staff of internes and nurses, but with a mixed German and American staff.

This, he said, while offering young American physicians and nurses an opportunity for practical post-graduate work in Berlin will at the same time stimulate German-American cooperation in the development of medical science. In addition to this, the hospital will be a centre of advice and information for American physicians coming to study in Germany. As things are now, many of them suffer much loss of time and effort in trying to find the proper connections. With the American Hospital in Berlin, there will be no such trouble and delay. We hope to establish a mixed German-American medical society in connection with the hospital and this, too, should greatly promote the tasks we have in mind."

The idea of an American Hospital in Berlin will be enthusiastically received in Germany, Dr. Bucky declared, asserting that Berlin will probably provide the ground for the institution.

Although Dr. Bucky would not discuss this point, it is understood that a group of prominent Germans and Americans interested in the project hope to induce Owen D. Young to become chairman of the committee to be formed to promote the project. It is hoped also to enlist the support of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Dr. Bucky estimated that the total cost of the project will be $2,000,000.

TEXTILE TAX CALLED HIGH.

Manufacturers Argue Bay State Assessments Exceed Mill Values.

BOSTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in a report today on the textile tax situation during 1929 quoted Henry F. Long, State Tax Commissioner, as saying that the assessed values of cotton mills in Massachusetts are higher than their present-day value.

Mr. Long has told the association, the report says, that he knows of "no instance in Massachusetts where textile property changing hands has brought the assessed value, even where the assessment was admittedly low as of conditions prevailing ten years ago."

A. E. Ford Will Ignoring Son Upheld

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—The will of Albert E. Ford, Philadelphia manufacturer, under the terms of which the University of Pennsylvania receives $3,000,000 for the establishment of a school of fruit culture and Mr. Ford's only child, Leighton Ford, is disinherited, was upheld today by the Orphans' Court sitting en banc. Despite the fact that Mr. Ford made two other wills after the original one, which was upheld, the court in its opinion said that "the conclusion is irresistible that he intended it should become effective as his last wish." The will upheld provides $500 annuity for Mr. Ford's niece, the wife of former Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick.

Called "Stupidly Sentimental," He Admits a Manslaughter Charge.

Richard J. Lowenstein, 49 years old, who stabbed and killed his wife, Edna, with a pocketknife outside Memorial Hospital, 2 West 106th Street, where she was employed, last April 2, pleaded guilty to first degree manslaughter before Judge Donnellan in General Sessions yesterday and was sentenced to Sing Sing for from three years and three months to six and a half years.

Assistant District Attorney James E. McDonald recommended that the court accept the plea in place of the first degree murder charge on which Lowenstein had been indicted. Edwin J. Cooley, chief of the General Sessions probation bureau, in a report to the court described Lowenstein as having been "stupidly sentimental" in his affection for his wife, which led to frequent quarrels between them from the time of their marriage in 1926.

His wife left him shortly before the killing when he began to drink as the result of a quarrel over a trifling matter. He had waited outside the hospital for her and stabbed her in the neck when she rejected a reconciliation.

The prosecutor said that he had consented to acceptance of the lesser plea because there was a legitimate doubt whether Lowenstein had intended to kill his wife up to the second before he used the knife.

CENT AND SENSE STOP LEAK

Construction Man Plugs Hole in Main Near Nassau Street Tube.

Using a combination of uncommon sense and a common cent, J. M. McBride, emergency man for the Paul J. Moranti Construction Company, prevented serious flood damage to the new Nassau Street subway when a twelve-inch water main was broken in front of 44 Broad Street shortly before noon yesterday.

A heavy gas pipe, falling on the water main, opened a three-inch hole. McBride partly stopped the leak with a piece of two-by-four, fashioned with a hatchet into a rough wooden plug. But a steady stream of water poured out around the edges of the plug. Taking a penny from his pocket Mr. McBride sandwiched it between the wooden plug and the open end of a piece of iron pipe. He hammered the entire affair into the main until the iron pipe was wedged in tightly enough to reduce the flow of water to a mere trickle. The coin prevented the wooden plug from splitting under the impact of the heavy hammer blows.

The damage from the bursting main was slight. A police emergency squad which hurried to the scene found no work to do, thanks to Mr. McBride's ingenuity.

GET CLUE IN FAKE DEATH.

Forged Certificate Is Linked to $5,000 Insurance Scheme.

The forged death certificate made out for James Hamil with the fictitious address of 823 Grand Street, Brooklyn, and inserted in the files of the Brooklyn Bureau of Vital Statistics was believed yesterday to be part of an attempted insurance fraud. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced that it has a $5,000 policy registered for the man declared dead in the forged certificate. The person who had taken out this policy had not been traced late last night.

The false certificate was discovered by Dr. Helen Pearson, medical clerk at the Brooklyn bureau, which is an adjunct of the Health Department. Alphonse Rocco, elevator operator in the Brooklyn Health Department Building, who was guarding the building at the time the false certificate is supposed to have been inserted, is still suspended from duty pending the conclusion of an investigation.

HONOR AUSTRALIANS HERE.

The English-Speaking Union Has Brookes and Wife as Guests.

Herbert Brookes, Commissioner General of Australia in the United States, and Mrs. Brookes were guests of honor at a reception given by the English-Speaking Union at its national headquarters, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. John W. Davis acted as hostess and was assisted by Mrs. Edward Harding, Mrs. Alton Brooks Parker and Mrs. Francis Rogers.

Both the Commissioner General and Mrs. Brookes spoke briefly, being introduced by John Daniels, national secretary of the union. They expressed their appreciation of the warm welcome they had received in this country since arriving early in the Fall, and told of their interest in the union's purpose of advancing fuller understanding and peaceful cooperation among English-speaking people throughout the world.

The Commissioner General referred to the sailing of the American delegates to the London naval conference as one of the great sea pilgrimages of history.

Toronto Man Says He Took $500 on Impulse So He Could Travel.

A well dressed young man who said he was Fred Forbes, 29 years old, formerly of 103 Galley Avenue, Toronto, walked into the detective bureau at the West 123d Street police station last evening and said he wanted to surrender for embezzling between $500 and $600 from his employer in Toronto last Summer. He was held as a fugitive from justice pending word from the Toronto police.

Forbes said he had been overcome by wanderlust while working as assistant manager for the Loblaw Grocerettes in Toronto and had taken the money on a sudden impulse. He subsequently spent it on good times here, he said, and then his conscience began to bother him.

CRITICIZES METHODS OF CURBING CRIME

Tuttle Says They Are Out of Date—He Advocates 'Cultural' Wage for Workers.

The principal reason that so much crime exists in America today is because American society is attempting to handle the situation with out of date methods, declared United States Attorney Tuttle last night at a meeting of the Men's Club of Temple Israel, 310 West Ninety-first Street. Crime today is an organized industry, similar in every detail to a business like the United States Steel Corporation, and it will never be wiped out by the means now being used to combat it, Mr. Tuttle said.

He cited in support of his contention the fact that the doctrine of the living wage for labor was still being enforced by large corporations, when, he held, members of that class should be receiving a "cultural" wage. This would enable them to live under decent conditions, rather than force them into congested areas, where they have no light, no recreation and no means of enjoying the few advantages they are entitled to in a country as prosperous as the United States.

Crowded dwelling conditions are the breeding places of crime, Mr. Tuttle declared, just as crowded jail help to spread crime rather than curb it.

"In Atlanta, Ga., today," he went on, "in a prison built originally for 1,400 convicts there are housed 3,700 prisoners because the American people will not permit their representatives in Congress to approve appropriations for the erection of more Federal penitentiaries. Under such conditions it is impossible to reform the criminal. The old disciplinary methods of keeping them in restraint are used when we should be training him to realize that it is in his own interest to 'keep straight' on his release."

"If we are ever to see the end of the present crime wave we must realize that we can accomplish more by building up the character of the convict rather than by tearing it down. We must also make some arrangement to help the children living in the congested areas. They must be furnished with places where they can play."

ASSUMED BROTHER'S GUILT.

Painted Post (N. Y.) Youth Says He Was Forced to Confess Crime.

CORNING, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP).—Fear of an elder brother who had forced him to assist in a burglary and forgery and then confess that he alone had committed the crimes was admitted today by Bert Randall of Painted Post, following the arrest of his brother, Ernest, at Presho last night.

Bert Randall was indicted for forgery two weeks ago on his confession that he had stolen several checks from the mill of Lyman B. Hodgman, president of the Painted Post National Bank, forged the banker's name to one of them and then tried to cash it.

Investigation by District Attorney Guy W. Cheney of Steuben County showed the burglary could not have been committed by one man and an officer was sent yesterday to question the elder brother, Ernest, who threatened the constable with a revolver and fled. He was arrested later at Presho and confessed that it was he who had forged the signature and forced his brother to try to cash it and then confess the crime when he was arrested.

URGE HOCKING VALLEY SALE

Three New York Stockholders Shift Stand on C. & O. Merger.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP).—Three minority stockholders of the Hocking Valley Railroad, who formerly opposed the Nickel Plate unification plan advanced by the Van Sweringens, were permitted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in favor of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway proposal to acquire the Hocking Valley.

The commission also authorized nine organizations to intervene in the application of the Wabash Railway to form a new trunk-line system from the Atlantic seaboard to the West through the acquisition of nine other carriers.

William D. Wood and Dunlevy Milbank of New York City and John S. Stanton of Brooklyn, intervening in favor of the Chesapeake & Ohio plan, asserted they represent the common stockholders' protective committee, organized in 1925 to oppose the Nickel Plate merger. They stated, however, that they believed the proposal to acquire the Hocking Valley to be in the public interest, and the terms proposed to be reasonable.

PUTNAM, PUBLISHER, BACK.

Dekobra, French Novelist, Also on the France, Delayed by Strike.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the liner France of the French Line was George Palmer Putnam, publisher, who told of having received threats because of the announcement that he will publish "Escape," written by Francesco Nitti, a nephew of the former Italian Premier. It is an attack on Fascism.

Also on the France was Maurice Dekobra, French novelist, who is here to give a series of lectures.

On Jan. 3, when the France was due to leave Havre for New York and the passengers and mails were on board, the crew of 650 sailors, firemen, cooks and stewards went ashore at noon and demanded 300 francs a month increase in pay. After several conferences a compromise was reached by an increase of 200 francs. It delayed the France two hours.

HIGH PRICES BANNED ON PEMBERTON PLAY

Producer to Refuse Tickets After Monday to Brokers Who Ask "Excessive" Fees.

CIVIC GROUPS BACK PLAN

Merchants, Fifth Avenue and Eighth Avenue Associations Endorse Program of Theatre Managers.

Although the plan to minimize theatre ticket speculation, ratified by all but two theatrical managers, will not go into effect until March 1, Brock Pemberton, a member of the managers' committee, announced yesterday that beginning on Monday tickets for "Strictly Dishonorable" at the Avon Theatre would be refused to brokers who charge excessive premiums.

Mr. Pemberton's new policy was announced in a statement elucidating the notice sent to ticket brokers on Thursday that tickets for the Avon Theatre would be available to them for two months beginning next Monday.

"I have refrained, as a member of the Executive Committee of Managers' from mentioning anything about my personal affairs," said Mr. Pemberton. "Since it has been brought in I feel that I must clear up one point. The ticket brokers were not notified by me personally that the 'buy' for tickets for the Avon could be renewed for a period of eight weeks beginning Monday for the reason that I have nothing to do with the sale of seats at this theatre.

"The Erlanger offices, as lessee of the theatre, control the ticket sale and all I can do is to tell them how I would like to have the sale conducted. Sometimes I am listened to, other times I am not. In this particular instance the arrangement was made before the present agitation actually got under way. But being in close touch with it and foreseeing what might happen, as well as making an attempt to correct some of the evils I had observed during the first sixteen weeks of the play, I myself drew up certain new conditions to restrict the new 'buy.' One of the most important of these was that agencies which resold tickets at excessive prices could be cut off at any time from their allotments of seats.

"These rules were signed not only by myself but by John Dillon, general manager for Mr. Erlanger, and Harry Sommers, Mr. Erlanger's representative at the theatre. Should the new system go into effect on March 1 I could, therefore, cut off any broker who charged more than the 75 cents surcharge contemplated. As matter of fact, I do not have to wait until the adoption of the new scheme, but after next Monday I will cut off any broker who sells tickets for what seems to me to be an excessive premium.

"I have also arranged with the Erlanger offices to have seats left at the box office during the next 'buy,' whereas during the first sixteen weeks practically the whole house was sold to the agencies."

The ticket plan was endorsed yesterday by the Merchants' Association, the Fifth Avenue Association and the Eighth Avenue Association, whose cooperation had been sought by the managers.

In its letter to Arthur Hopkins, chairman of the managers' committee, the Merchants' Association said that it was "delighted" that the theatre managers "have at last united to remedy this abuse and we are doubly pleased that the plan you have adopted is in all essentials that which we suggested in 1925."

Captain William J. Pedrick, executive vice president of the Fifth Avenue Association, wrote Mr. Hopkins yesterday that he was sure that the members of the association as well as the transient population of New York would welcome the plan of the managers to retain control of their tickets and limit the surcharge to 75 cents. He said that the matter would be laid before the board of directors at the next meeting.

John C. Forster, president of the Eighth Avenue Association, Inc., congratulated Mr. Hopkins on the managers' efforts to reduce ticket speculation.

Bach Cantata Club.

The Bach Cantata Club of this city opened its third season last night in the Church of Heavenly Rest with an address by Dr. C. Sanford Terry, the distinguished Bach scholar on "The Church choral in Bach's Usage," and with the performance of thirteen of the chorales by the Bach Cantata Choir, and a fourteenth sung by the choir and the audience. A religious setting was given the occasion, not only by the interior of the church itself, but by the Lord's Prayer delivered at the beginning of the ceremonies and the blessing with which they were concluded. This occasion was outside the field of concert and operatic activities as they are purveyed in this city during the season, but it was not the less impressive for that. As Dr. Terry remarked, the essence of Bach's relation to life and art was his conviction that music reached its highest estate as "the apparatus of religious worship."

Dr. Terry's address was an admirable, concise and complete introduction to the performance of the cantatas. No less was to be expected of him. He is the author of the most comprehensive and authoritative biography of Bach that has appeared, and also of the monumental work which presents, with the most careful editing and critical addenda, the Bach Four-Part Chorales. These two works alone would place Dr. Terry in the front rank of the Bach authorities of this or any other day, but they are only parts of his contribution to this subject.

The chorales performed were very wisely chosen, so that the listeners, if the illustrations were necessarily limited in number, gained a really illuminatory impression of the range of Bach's work in this field alone. Dr. Terry had expatiated upon the circumstances and environment which especially fitted Bach for his task, and indeed set him apart from all the other members of his family, as a composer of religious music. He told of Bach's exceptional familiarity with all the literature of mediaval and Lutherian hymnology, and spoke of his reading and his studies in this direction as a man would speak of the favorite pursuits of an intimate friend.

The musical program furnished admirable examples of Bach's astonishingly varied treatment of the melodies which he set in the chorale style, and the manner in which, by the use of different harmonies, he interpreted the melodies in a way to make them specifically and intensively illustrative of the texts.

The chorales performed by the Bach Cantata Choir, Albert Stoessel director, included those based upon the hymnody of the medieval church, upon popular medieval hymns and melodies, upon Lutheran hymns, including, of course, treatments of the melody of "Eine feste Burg," referred to by the lecturer as "the Marseillaise of the Reformation"; settings of melodies by contemporaries and successors of Luther and original melodies of Bach, consisting of the poignant and haunting "Komm, susser Tod," sung as a solo by Robert Crawford, and "Jesu, Jesu, du bist mein," sung by the congregation with the choir.

The Bach Cantata Club thus opened its season with an occasion of exceptional interest and value. There are also encouraging reports of increased membership in this young music society; of the expansion of its activities through the formation of other Bach clubs in Los Angeles and Boston; of an instrumental recital to be given with the collaboration of the Juilliard Foundation and the performance later this season of the B Minor Mass in conjunction with the Oratorio Society in Carnegie Hall.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Frederick Lonsdale, British playwright who had sailed for New York on Wednesday to fulfill a talkie contract at Hollywood, surprised his friends by returning to London tonight. He left the Aquitania at Cherbourg and took the first Cunarder back to England, though estimates of what he might expect to make in Hollywood were put as high as $150,000.

The only explanation which Mr. Lonsdale offered tonight was that he had changed his mind between Southampton and Cherbourg and decided to return.

ROSA PONSELLE SINGS NORMA TO PLAUDITS

Her First Performance This Season of Difficult Role in Bellini's Opera Stirs Enthusiasm.

HER 'CASTA DIVA' EXQUISITE

Edward Johnson Returns to Metropolitan in Role of Ramerrez in "Girl of the Golden West."

NORMA, opera in four acts and five scenes. Book in Italian by Felice Romani, after an old French story. Music by Vincenzo Bellini. At the Metropolitan Opera House.

Pollione	Giacomo Lauri-Volpi
Oroveso	Ezio Pinza
Norma	Rosa Ponselle
Adalgisa	Marion Telva
Clotilde	Minnie Egener
Flavio	Giordano Paltrinieri

Conductor—Tullio Serafin.

Rosa Ponselle gave her first and probably only performance of Norma for this season yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House. If there were any of the prima donna's admirers who had any lingering doubts that her voice would be equal to the music of a rôle which Lilli Lehmann once said was "more difficult than all the Brünnhildes," their fears were happily dispelled by her singing yesterday. There was indeed somewhat more of care in her use of the big tone and the swelling top notes than formerly, but most of the opulence and velvet were there to delight the expectant throng and to stir them to the usual demonstrations of enthusiasm.

The "Casta Diva" was delivered with the exquisite modeling of phrase and the fine restraint which Miss Ponselle has employed in the latter years. There was, too, the fine dramatic "line," the skill in posture and movement, the surging emotion coupled with the stately repose of a musical period still not too remote from the epoch of the classics.

Marion Telva as Adalgisa, Minnie Egener as Clotilde and Messrs. Lauri-Volpi, Pinza and Paltrinieri shared with the prima donna the applause of a vast audience.

Edward Johnson's return to the Metropolitan marked the season's sixth performance of Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West" last night, with the uncommon coincidence of a man singing his own namesake on the stage. The popular Canadian tenor wore a complete Western cowboy outfit as Ramerrez, or "Dick" Johnson of the Belasco gold miners' story. Always a romantic actor, he was in capital voice and warmly applauded in a rôle he had sung in Italy.

Mme. Jeritza repeated her spirited performance as Minnie, the girl heroine of the California "Forty-niners" and the leading factor in the opera's current revival. Among nearly a score of picturesque characters were also Lawrence Tibbett, himself a California sheriff's son, and the equally American Everett Marshall. Mr. Belezza conducted the turbulent scenes to the satisfaction of a cordial and crowded house.

AMERICAN COMPANY DELIGHTS IN "FIGARO"

Mme. Sembrich in Audience at Casino as Nancy McCord Scores in Her Role of Suzanna.

THE MARRIAGE OF FIGARO, lyric drama in four acts. English text by Charles Lamb Kenny, after Da Ponte's libretto from the comedy of Beaumarchais. Music by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. At the Casino Theatre.

Figaro	Peter Chambers
Count Almaviva	Mark Daniels
Countess Almaviva	Margaret Stevenson
Dr. Bartolo	John Moncrieff
Don Basilio	Edison Rice
Antonio	William Scholtz
Susanna	Nancy McCord
Cherubino	Cecile Sherman
Marcellina	Helen Golden
Barbarina	Mary Stephan

Conductor—Willard Rhodes.

Mozart's tuneful and sparkling comic opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," received a performance filled with an ingratiating and youthful spirit last night at the Casino, where the American Opera Company gave the first hearing of this work for the season. With its settings and costumes of silver, white and black, designed with a touch of the modernistic that yet seemed singularly appropriate to the Mozartean period, the effervescent music and the ageless humor of the piece fared well at the hands of its devoted young interpreters.

It is useless to deny that much of the vocalization demanded by the score can be compassed with complete success only by carefully schooled, experienced singers gifted with voices of rare beauty; but last night the engaging spirit and the intelligent efforts of all concerned to capture the essential spirit of the immortal comedy were worthy of the highest praise.

Chief vocal honors, perhaps, went to Nancy McCord, the Suzanna, whose song in the last act, "Deh vieni non tardar," brought prolonged applause. Margaret Stevenson was a lovely picture as the countess and sang her music with considerable beauty of tone and style. Peter Chambers was a blithe Figaro, a little too gentlemanly, perhaps, but consistent with the general spirit of the production. Cecile Sherman as Cherubino, displayed a marked gift for comedy, especially in the disguise scenes and sang her chief air acceptably. Mark Daniels was an authoritative and vocally satisfying Almaviva and Helen Golden, an effective Marcellina.

The others, including Willard Rhodes, the conductor, cooperated in a performance which held the delighted attention of an audience till a late hour.

A famous Suzanna of former years at the Metropolitan, Mme. Marcella Sembrich, was among the many musicians and music patrons present.

BARONET TO ACT IN LONDON

Sir Basil Bartlett Has Dropped Plan of Diplomatic Career.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The latest titled recruit to the London stage is the 24-year-old baronet, Sir Basil Bartlett, who will play the rôle of Lord Monkhurst in a revival of "Milestones."

Sir Basil had intended to enter the diplomatic service, but while he was studying at Cambridge he became so keenly interested in the theatre that he abandoned the idea of a political career for the study of playwriting. He intends to concentrate on the writing side of the theatre, he said, but will act for the sake of technical experience.

He succeeded his grandfather, Sir Herbert Bartlett, in 1920, a year after his father was drowned from a Belgian steamship.

TWO ORCHESTRAS IN BENEFIT CONCERTS

Boston Symphony in All-Russian Program Aids Exiles—Philharmonic Helps Pension Fund.

Both the Boston Symphony and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony gave benefit concerts in Carnegie Hall yesterday, the visiting organization's special matinee producing gross receipts above $9,000, a large part of which will go to the American Society for Relief of Russian Exiles.

Conductor Koussevitzky and Manager W. H. Brennan cooperated with Mrs. Henry P. Loomis of the society in not only giving an all-Russian program of absorbing musical interest, but also introducing pictures during an intermission to show the relief work done in collaboration with the High Commission for Refugees, League of Nations and International Anti-Tuberculosis Union.

Moussorgsky's prelude to "Khovantchina" introduced the matinee in a popular crescendo leading up to Tchaikovsky's "Overture 1812" with a rising recall for players and conductor. J. M. Sanroma assisted at the piano in Stravinsky's applauded "Petruchka" suite, and Benno Rabinoff gave a notable performance of Prokofieff's violin concerto. Curiosity centred especially on Rimsky-Korsakoff's earliest sketch, Op. 5, for the opera, "Sadko," which is to be produced this month at the Metropolitan.

Mr. Mengelberg and the Philharmonic-Symphony players last evening played for members of their guarantor society, who filled the floor of Carnegie Hall, while a general sale above-stairs earned some $3,000 for the local orchestra's pension fund. Mme. Rethberg, as guest, sang an unfamiliar "Ino Cantata," by Tellemann. Messrs. Guidi and Hans Lange played Bach's D minor concerto for two violins and Mr. Mengelberg ended with Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" symphony.

TAMIRIS IN DANCE RECITAL.

Second Individual Appearance Is Enthusiastically Acclaimed.

In her second individual recital of the Dance Repertory Theatre at Maxine Elliott's last night, Tamiris gave perhaps the simplest and most quietly satisfying performance of the repertory season thus far. Without any claims to pretentiousness, without even so much as a single new composition, she stood forth very like the embodiment of Nietzsche's "strong, free, joyous movement."

All the dances revealed for the first time in her last concert were presented again, and without exception exhibited more fully the measure of their value. "Play Dance" and "Dirge" proved especially rewarding. The seven pianists listed for the latter remain still something of a mystery, but the dance is unquestionably a good one.

One of the Antheil "American Serenades" from last season opened the program and seemed once more to be clever if not particularly important. "Prize Fight Studies," a bit too literal to be an altogether perfect composition, is a marvel of plastic substance. The novel "Triangle Dance," the "Three Negro Spirituals," "Hypocrisy," "Lull," the charming Stravinsky suite, "Sentimental Dance and the stirring "Revolutionary March" completed the program. There were cheers of enthusiasm after the group of "Spirituals" and again at the close of the evening.

Today's schedule of events includes a matinee performance in which Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey, Tamiris and Charles Weidman will all take part, and an evening performance by Martha Graham and her group.

GIGLI SINGS AT BILTMORE.

Metropolitan Tenor Is in Fine Voice at Morning Musicale.

The Friday morning musicale at the Hotel Biltmore enlisted the services of Beniamino Gigli, the Metropolitan tenor; Raoul Vidas, violinist, and Helen Carriere, soprano. Mr. Gigli, in fine voice and spirits, sang the famous "Una Furtiva Lagrima" from "L'Elisir d'Amore," and Don Octavio's "Dalla sua pace" from "Don Giovanni," with which he has been delighting his Metropolitan opera audiences this season. He also added several other items, including an air from "The Bohemian Girl," and songs by De Curtis and Hardin Church.

Miss Carriere's contribution included an aria from Bellini's "Puritani," and Proch's "Theme and Variations." Mr. Vidas played Veracini's "Ritornello," Minuetto and Allegro, Leo Sach's "Lamento," and Ries's "Perpetuum Mobile."

COCHRAN SAILS FOR LONDON

Producer Well Pleased With Reception of Two Plays Here.

Charles B. Cochran, London theatrical manager, who came over three weeks ago to produce "Wake Up and Dream" with Arch Selwyn, sailed last night for England on the White Star liner Olympic. He said that he had worked very hard during his short stay and was leaving well satisfied with the reception given "Bitter Sweet" and "Wake Up and Dream."

Mr. Selwyn wished him to stay longer, Mr. Cochran said, but he had received urgent cables from London. The decision to sail on the Olympic was made at noon yesterday, Mr. Cochran said. A number of eminent theatrical persons went to the pier to see him off.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Jane Cowl will end her engagement in "Jenny" at the Booth Theatre tonight and the revival of "Babes in Toyland" will close at Jolson's. There will be three performances of "Babes in Toyland" today, the extra one at 10:30 this morning.

Bernard Jukes, who played for several seasons in "Dracula"; Warren Proctor, Marjorie Sweet and Edward Cianelli will have leading rôles in Mitzi's revival of "Sari," due at the Liberty on Jan. 27.

"The Armoured Train," a play which has attracted widespread attention in Soviet Russia, will be presented for the first time in America at the Pasadena (Cal.) Community Playhouse on Jan. 30.

The first of a series of Saturday morning programs for children will take place today at Assembly Theatre. Tony Sarg will explain how marionettes are made and operated.

Catherine Calhoun Doucet, Betty Linley, Nicholas Joy, Alfred Helton, Freddie Stange and Warren McCollum have been added to the cast of "Topaze," which the Shuberts are producing. The play will be presented at the Windsor Theatre in the Bronx on Jan. 27 and will go to Brooklyn the following week before opening on Broadway about Feb. 10.

Fay Bainter's starring vehicle, "She Got Away With Murder," will end a road tour tonight at Werba's Flatbush Theatre.

"Rubber Face," a play by Bayard Veiller, will, it is reported, presently be produced by Vincent Youmans, who this season has sponsored "Great Day" and "Damn Your Honor," on the last of which Mr. Veiller collaborated.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Songs, Skits and Dancing.

GLORIFYING THE AMERICAN GIRL, with Mary Eaton, Edward Crandall, Olive Shea, Dan Healy, Kaye Renard, Sarah Edwards and others, based on a story by J. P. McEvoy and Millard Webb, directed by Mr. Webb; "Modes and Models," staged by Boris Petroff, with Rudy Vallee and his "Connecticut Yankees," Chester Fredericks, Duffin and Draper, Nita Carol and others; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crawford, organists. At the Paramount Theatre.

The present film occupying the Paramount's screen is "Glorifying the American Girl," a title that is far more glamourous than the picture. Those who feel that their study of backstage life has not been completed by the flood of films dealing with the vicissitudes of song and dance teams possibly may be able to glean further information from this adventure.

The only really bright spots in this production are the episodes in which Eddie Cantor, Helen Morgan, Rudy Vallee and Mary Eaton officiate in "Ziegfeld Follies" numbers. Miss Morgan sings while seated on the piano in her accustomed pose and Mr. Vallee croons a tuneful composition. Mr. Cantor affords a heap of fun in his sketch in a cheap tailor's shop and Miss Eaton dances and sings.

The narrative of this production is dull and trite. There is the wise-cracking, slangy Mr. Miller, who during part of the narrative is Gloria Hughes's (Miss Eaton) vaudeville partner. Miss Hughes has an insistent and selfish mother, who expresses herself with an English accent and is constantly having trouble with her eyeglasses.

Miss Hughes is another of those brilliant shop girls who eventually succeed in winning recognition on a Broadway stage. She is enthusiastically applauded in the end when her cherished hopes are realized, but the beautiful heroine in this instance is forced to forego the pleasure of marrying the handsome young man. This Buddy, played by Edward Crandall, takes pity on a brunette and weds her. So the blonde Gloria is left on the stage, certain, of course, to be one of the stellar lights of the musical comedy world for years to come.

Mr. Miller, a saturnine individual, fancies himself as a performer, and therefore he is not a little surprised when Ziegfeld's agent, Mr. Sharpe, is much more enthusiastic over Gloria than himself. As for the deaf stage manager of the "Follies," he is likewise cold to Miller's performance, but so soon as he sees Gloria dance alone he at once appreciates that she will prove to be a great asset to the show.

Millard Webb, whose direction is not distinguished, tries valiantly to make something of the rehearsal episodes. There are the dancing girls going through a number, and every now and again the stage manager halts the practice to fire a volley of adverse criticism. The girls are then portrayed voicing their opinion of the stage manager as they hop from one foot to the other, and while the object of their scathing remarks is deaf, he is not blind to the movements of their lips, realizing that the girls are not throwing verbal bouquets at him.

Some of the Technicolor sequences are rather impressively staged, but the coloring is never especially striking. During one of these reproductions of stage numbers a chorus is heard singing "Die Lorelei," which compensates to some extent for the inferior narrative.

Mary Eaton is attractive and does as well as she can, considering the handicap under which she has to work. Edward Crandall is quite pleasing as Buddy, and Dan Healy at least succeeds in making Miller thoroughly obnoxious.

A Sailor on Leave.

NAVY BLUES, with William Haines, Anita Page, Karl Dane, J. C. Nugent, Edythe Chapman and Wade Boteler, based on a story by Raymond L. Schrock, directed by Clarence Brown; "Gypsy Dreams," devised and staged by Chester Hale, with Estes Jones, Carl Saxton, Renoff and Renova, Leon Navara and others. At the Capitol Theatre.

"Navy Blues," a talking picture featuring the irrepressible William Haines, yesterday afternoon drew more laughter than it deserves from the upper reaches of the Capitol Theatre. Whether Mr. Haines is silent or audible his portrayals are just about the same, and while watching this present characterization one may reflect on what would happen to any young man who behaved as Jack Kelly (Mr. Haines) does. How long would he be permitted to enjoy life?

In the film, however, he not only continues to live and breathe at the end of the picture, but in his arms is the beautiful Anita Page, who figures as the golden-haired Alice. Kelly is a sailor who succeeds in making the most of twenty-four hours' leave. Alice is the trim young thing whom Kelly encounters at a dance of the Ladies' Uplift Association, or something of the sort. He steals her as a partner from Sven Swanson, also an able seaman. From the moment the impertinent Kelly looks into Alice's long-lashed eyes, he feels that life has not been in vain. One gathers also that he senses that Alice is quite a lucky girl to have met him. He insists on taking Alice home, and on finding that the girl's parents have not returned from the theatre, Kelly cavorts about the rooms in a hardly rational manner. He succeeds in enjoying himself, however, and also in putting Alice in a wonderland all her own.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Alice's father and mother, are startled when they hear a rattle of pots and pans in the kitchen, where Jack Kelly is in hiding. They are astonished, on entering that room, to perceive a sailor with his head in a pail, his uniform generously spotted with flour. At that juncture Mrs. Brown might willingly have destroyed one of Uncle Sam's destroyer bluejackets, but the good natured Mr. Brown, who had once been happy in sailing the seas and earned the sobriquet of skipper, intercedes, which is another reason why Mr. Kelly still lives.

During the twenty-four hours, Kelly is in and out of funds. Roughly, about twenty-five men are bowled over unconscious by Kelly's pal, Swanson (Karl Dane), in the course of a few minutes.

Kelly tells Alice that he hasn't a sweetheart in every port, because he hasn't been to every port. When it is time for him to make a dash for his destroyer, he says that he isn't the marrying sort, which, seeing that Alice is very much in love with him, makes this charming creature melancholy, but only for a day or so.

Miss Page is an ornament to this silly, cumbersome affair. J. C. Nugent really gives a clever performance as Mr. Brown. Karl Dane talks with a Swedish accent and uses his right arm with miraculous effect. Edythe Chapman does well as Mrs. Brown.

The stage offering is "Gypsy Dreams," produced by Chester Hale. Leon Navara officiates as master of ceremonies.

ANN HARDING IN NEW TALKIE

"Her Private Affair" at the Colony Is Study in Blackmailing.

HER PRIVATE AFFAIR, with Ann Harding, Harry Bannister, John Loder, Kay Hammond, Arthur Hoyt, William Orlamond, Lawford Davidson, Elmer Ballard and Frank Reicher, directed by Paul Stein from the story by Leo Orvantzov; "Barber College," a comedy; "Grantland Rice Sportlight"; sound newsreal. At the Colony.

The capable Ann Harding easily leads her co-players a chase through "Her Private Affair," the talking film at the Colony in which she portrays the distracted wife of a Viennese judge.

The story of the picture is of ancient vintage and the happenings in the more crucial moments smack too much of improbable coincidence, but, primarily because of Miss Harding's charm, the film eventually shapes itself into a well-rounded study of extortion and its consequences, in this instance involving certain death for the blackmailer.

After Vera Kassler (Ann Harding), shoots Arnold Hartmann because he holds some of her letters and threatens to divulge their contents to her husband if she does not meet his mercenary demands, an innocent man named Grimm is placed on trial. Vera suffers through his trial until he is acquitted. Later, on New Year's Eve, she meets the innocent Grimm in a restaurant where he is employed as a waiter and she confesses her guilt. Her husband, the magistrate who presided over the case, overhears her, but forgives and takes her back.

Miss Harding is a sensitive performer and possesses a complete and sympathetic understanding of her rôle. Her voice has a vibrant, dramatic quality.

While the photoplay is irrational at times, it is nevertheless a penetrating drama and displays intelligence in most instances. Kay Hammond, last seen as the paralytic in "The Trespasser," gives a capable account of herself in this production in a minor part.

'THE AVIATOR' VERY FUNNY.

E. E. Horton's Aerial Misadventures Entertainingly Presented.

THE AVIATOR, with Edward Everett Horton, Patsy Ruth Miller, Johnny Arthur, Lee Moran, Edward Martindel and Armand Kaliz, directed by Roy Del Ruth from a story by James Montgomery; program of Vitaphone Varieties; sound newsreel. At the Warners' Beacon.

The misadventures of a spurious aviator, who has become an aerial enthusiast because his publishers wish it, are described in a hilarious audible production entitled, "The Aviator," with Edward Everett Horton in the rôle of the air-conscious author.

Mr. Horton upholds his reputation for being able to get more laughs out of slight facial contortions than most comedians. His manner of expressing fear for anything that goes up in this picture is amusing and clever and the lines written for this production adequately sustain the frivolous character of the situations.

"The Aviator" is very much like "The Hottentot," except that this time it is an airplane that causes Mr. Horton's fears, rather than a horse. The comic situations are much the same as in the equine comedy. They detail the adventures of one whose air complex is so pronounced that he says he gets dizzy when he looks down at his feet.

Mr. Horton, as Robert Street, a famous author, lends his name to a book on aviation he has never read, in order to help a friend's family. The author is then called upon to explain aerial tactics and various technical points until he is completely embarrassed. He escapes to a "quiet" country hotel, which happens to be near a landing field. The occurrences then are all up in the air when the novice, who misses mountains by inches and tail spins from scene to scene, is at the joy stick. It is all fast and quite funny and Mr. Horton is diverting as the unwilling pilot.

Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the rôle of a young society girl, is adequate, as are the other members of the cast.

TELLS PICKFORD EARNINGS.

Screen Actress Saved $420,000 Out of $560,000 in Year.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP).—The motion picture colony at Hollywood today got a glimpse of figures on the earnings of Mary Pickford, who appeared in Probate Court yesterday to protest inheritance taxes against her mothers' estate amounting to $38,284 in addition to $52,000 the State already has collected.

The actress contended that the State was not entitled to the additional tax, on the ground that $780,800 of her mother's $1,100,000 estate was in three trust funds held jointly by mother and daughter, the survivor to inherit all.

She testified that in 1917 she saved $420,000 out of a $560,000 salary. In 1919, she said, she was earning $10,800 a week. The following year she began producing her own pictures. About this time she created the trust funds. She paid her mother $26,000 a year salary in 1916 and $52,000 a year in 1917 and 1918. Asked what her mother did to earn such a salary, Miss Pickford said:

"She was taking care of our personal expenses, donations and paying the bills. The children, Jack and Lottie, lived with her and she was the head of the family. Her services were very valuable."

AUTO SHOW SUCCESS HEARTENS INDUSTRY

Attendance and Sales Marks Expected to Top Those of 1929 at Closing Tonight.

ACTIVE RETAIL BUYING

Large Wholesale Agreements and Contracts for Territories Made by Dealers.

ACCESSORY MEN OPTIMISTIC

Mack Trucks Opens Showroom—Conference on Street Safety Is Held.

The thirtieth annual National Automobile Show will end at 10:30 o'clock tonight, closing what was declared yesterday to be one of the most successful exhibits in its history. While attendance and sales records are not likely to surpass the high marks set in 1928, it was fully expected that by the end of today they will have topped those of 1929.

The show committee, consisting of Charles D. Hastings, Alfred H Swayne, A. R. Erskine and S. A. Miles, show manager, declared the show "remarkable in that its success has surprised the entire industry."

"Before the opening of the show," Mr. Miles added, "dark clouds loomed overhead and there was fear that the recent Wall Street depression would affect the show and the industry. Instead, attendance records were broken the first few days and the people who flocked to the show placed hundreds of orders.

Exhibitors Report Many Sales.

"Exhibitors report numerous retail sales—in most cases to customers who already possess a car in the family and expect no trade-in. Then, too, there have been wholesale deals and contracts for dealer territories consummated, deals which involve millions of dollars. Certainly the record for the week thus far augurs well for the industry."

Yesterday, named Theatrical Day, brought stage and screen stars, who took time from rehearsals and matinees to attend the show. Today has been designated Suburban Day.

New attendance and sales records established in the trade sections of the show indicated, according to James M. McComb, president of the Motor and Equipment Association, the attitude of automotive equipment and parts men toward business possibilities during the year.

"Wholesalers, dealers, service men and other trade representatives have been visiting our accessories and shop equipment exhibitions in unusual number, and all have expressed optimism," he said.

Mr. McComb asserted that reports from trade exhibitors indicated that sales at the show had been "good," that many customers who did not actually sign orders expressed their intention to do so in the near future, and that all were figuring on doing a large amount of business when the season got under way.

"Last year's record-breaking automobile output has made our field more extensive than ever before," he added. "The business done at the show indicates better than anything else how clearly the trade has interpreted its prospects."

Mack Trucks Open Showroom.

In connection with the show, Mack Trucks Inc., has opened showrooms at Lexington Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, where a varied line of transport vehicles is being shown. Officials reported that since its opening on Jan. 2 more than 100,000 had visited the exhibit.

Models on display include a score or more trucks of varying tonnage with a wide range of wheelbases; four and six cylinder buses, with bodies for city and interstate service; fire apparatus of several descriptions; one of seventeen emergency wagons used by the New York Police Department, and one of the new gas-electric locomotives.

In the truck section are displayed models designed for a variety of transportation requirements, from a mammoth ten-ton six-wheeled vehicle to the new Model BL, for light delivery service. Trailers, special body designs and other products of the company are also shown.

The national conference on street and highway safety held yesterday an executive committee meeting at the headquarters of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the Palace show is held.

Virtually all the automobile companies exhibiting at the New York show will have displays at the Brooklyn Automobile Show, the nineteenth in line, which opens next Saturday in the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, and continues until Jan. 25.

EXPLAINS NEW PAIGE LINE.

Graham Says Bodies Have Been Designed for "Commercial Cars."

In the announcement that the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation had decided to produce commercial cars it was stated in THE NEW YORK TIMES last Thursday that the corporation was entering the truck field. It was learned that the firm makes a distinction between "trucks" and "commercial cars." Ray A. Graham, its secretary and treasurer, explained the difference yesterday as follows:

"While we have supplemented our line of Graham passengers cars by producing two bodies for commercial use in combination with one of our passenger car chassis, we are not making the specialized vehicles properly known in the industry as 'trucks.' It is a common practice for merchants to purchase passenger car chassis for use with a specially built body for light and speedy delivery service. To provide vehicles better adapted to this service we have designed bodies to suit our Model 615 passenger car chassis and are offering the complete units as Paige commercial cars."

Schroeder Salary Set at $22,500.

The Board of Estimate adopted yesterday the salary schedules, as recommended by the committee of the whole, for the officials and staff of the newly organized Sanitation Commission. The schedule fixes the salary of Dr. William Schroeder Jr., chairman, at $22,500 a year and those of the two associate commissioners at $17,500 a year.

WABC TEST STATION TO BE ON LONG ISLAND

Radio Board Grants 10-Day Permit for Intensity Experiments Near Jones Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A ten-day permit was today granted to the Columbia Broadcasting Company by the Federal Radio Commission for a 500-watt experimental broadcasting station near Jones Beach, L. I., to be used in taking intensity measurements.

"We are desirous of making field strength measurements for our proposed 50,000-watt transmitter WABC," the Columbia company wired the commission, "at a location about twenty-five miles from New York City near Jones Beach, L. I."

The station will have call letters W2XAN, and operate on a frequency of 860 kilocycles. Granting of the license is another step in the Columbia's effort to find a suitable location for its high-power transmitter, which it wants to locate where it will not interfere with other stations. The original intention to locate the station at Columbia Bridge, N. J., was abandoned because of opposition in New Jersey. The company then thought of locating the transmitter near Jamaica Bay, but this was found inadvisable.

The RCA Communications, Inc., today applied to the commission for station licenses for WGX and WQZ, San Juan, for limited public service. The Radio Corporation of America asked for license for aeronautical experimental ground station W8XJ, West Dover, Ohio.

The Tropical Radio Telegraph Company asked for construction permits for a new high frequency transmitter for coastal service at New Orleans and for a general service station at Hialeah, Fla.

DR. MASTER MAY GET PRESBYTERIAN HONOR

Leader of $15,000,000 Pension Campaign Considered for Moderator in May

As a reward for leading the campaign which resulted in the success of the $15,000,000 Pension Fund for aged Presbyterian ministers, the Rev. Dr. Henry B. Master, secretary of the Pension Board of the Presbyterian Church, may be the next moderator of the General Assembly which will be held at Cincinnati, in May. This is the highest office in the Presbyterian Church. The present moderator is the Rev. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, professor in the Chicago Theological Seminary. His term expires with the next assembly.

The Presbytery of Fort Wayne, Ind., where Dr. Master has retained his membership, endorsed on Jan. 2 a resolution presented by the Session of the First Church, Fort Wayne, which Dr. Master served for fourteen years as pastor. For the last ten years he has been on the Pension Board.

The preamble to the resolution says in part:

"For years Dr. Master was a most successful pastor, but the greatest achievement of his life and the one for which he will be long remembered was the organizing of the campaign which was successful in raising the $15,000,000 for the Pension Board. It was one of the greatest achievements in the history of the Presbyterian Church in America. A noble work nobly accomplished."

It is expected that the suggestion of choosing Dr. Master for the moderatorship will meet with popular approval.

TEACHERS' BOARD TO ELECT

Berry Says Secretary and Assistant on Retirement Body Will Be Picked.

Controller Charles W. Berry announced yesterday that a secretary and an assistant secretary of the Teachers' Retirement Board would be elected at the next meeting of the board in the Municipal Building on Jan. 21. The Controller is a member ex officio of the board and stepped in recently to end a controversy between teacher and city members, which has prevented the selection of a secretary for two and a half years.

The Board of Estimate is expected to approve the creation of the post of assistant secretary and the retirement body will choose the incumbent. The creation of the position was suggested as a solution of the controversy. The secretaryship pays $5,000 a year, while the new position would carry a $3,500 salary. There are four applicants for the secretary's post—Louis Taylor, Edward F. Kilcoin, James J. Dennerlein and Elizabeth McCrystal, woman Tammany leader for the Twenty-second Assembly District.

$58,000,000 FORD ORDERS.

Business Placed Between Dec. 31 and Jan. 4 "Evenly Distributed."

Ford dealers throughout the United States booked more than $58,000,000 worth of orders for the redesigned Model A between its introduction on Dec. 31 and Jan. 4, it was announced yesterday by Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company.

Mr. Ford added that this business was "evenly distributed over the country" and he took it to indicate "a generally healthy condition."

Production schedules at Detroit and in all the branch plants of the company are being increased to meet the demand for the cars, it is reported.

In the first five days of the nation-wide exhibition of the new Model A 9,732,899 persons visited dealers' stores and branch headquarters to see the car, according to the company's official count.

SHRINERS GIVE MONUMENT.

Shaft at Toronto Will Commemorate Meeting of Hoover and MacDonald.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Shriners of North America to the number of 600,000 are making a contribution to the peace monument which will be unveiled in June at the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds in connection with the annual session of the Imperial Council of the order.

The monument will commemorate the peace meeting of Premier MacDonald of Great Britain and President Hoover, and is the suggestion of the Imperial Potentate Leo V. Youngsworth of Los Angeles. The monument is the work of F. Kelk, New York sculptor, and a large part of it will be constructed of Canadian marble by a Toronto firm.

President Hoover will be invited to Toronto to take part in the dedication ceremony. The Governors of a number of American States will also be here.

CHARGES FAILURE TO EQUALIZE RADIO

Dill, at Senate Hearing, Cites New York in Accusing Board of Unfairness on Power.

ROBINSON DEFENDS WORK

Chairman Opposes "Mathematical" Division—Profanity on the Air Warmly Debated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Inequality in the making of power allotments and failure to supervise properly the programs of broadcasting stations were among the charges made against the Federal Radio Commission by Senator Dill of Washington at today's hearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

The Senator accused the commission of having defeated the intent of the Davis amendment to the radio law, providing for equal allotments of power to all five radio zones.

"I would like to know the legerdemain whereby a law passed to assure equalization has left the power allotments as uneven as they were before," the Senator said. Then he served notice that any future legislation would be "ironclad," declaring that the commission "cannot be trusted with discretion."

"I consider the present working out of the Davis amendment unfair, if not actually unconstitutional," he continued. "There is too much concentration of power in small areas."

He cited the New York region as a case in point, charging congestion there, and asked Chairman Ira Robinson of the commission, who was testifying, if there were any plans to eliminate any stations.

Robinson Explains Policy.

Mr. Robinson replied that the commission had no such plans and added that he feared the regional or local stations would be the ones to suffer from such a policy.

On high power stations Mr. Robinson said there was a difference of opinion in the commission, the majority not being in agreement with him.

"Personally, I am opposed to the 'cleared channel,' which, in my judgment, drives a wedge into the situation," he said. "Power, when not in use, should be made available for regional purposes.

"There should be equalization, and I think the Davis amendment has been of use in that connection. But I have never believed that equalization could be achieved by a mathematical division, nor, indeed, that there could ever be perfect equalization of power."

Radio as a Public Utility.

Senator Dill, suggesting that radio stations be declared public utilities and placed under the rules of common carirers, asked the witness his opinion of this.

"I do not think it would have a great effect for a number of years, at any rate," Mr. Robinson replied. "We now have the common law, and the stations, most of them, are glad to get the business."

He expressed the belief that radio was a public utility, a great medium of expression which was and should be available to the use of the general public.

Discrimination against the people of New Jersey was charged by Senator Keane, who asserted that from 7 to 11 o'clock every night the New Jersey stations were cut off to give the New York stations a free wave for paid programs.

"Looks as if New Jersey is going Bolshevik," Senator Brookhart remarked.

"Billingsgate" Held Within Law.

Senator Dill assailed the commission for failure to act in the case of Station KWKA, owned by W. K. Henderson, at Shreveport, La., where, he said, the language used had been not only profane but obscene.

Mr. Robinson responded that an inquiry was being made into that complaint, adding that the commission did not usually but could in a "palpable case" start action against a station.

Senator Dill denounced as "billingsgate" the language used by Mr. Henderson, and Mr. Robinson replied that, however objectionable, "billingsgate" was not a violation of law.

"Mr. Henderson has been on the carpet before, within the past year, and was given a pretty clean bill of health," Mr. Robinson said.

"At that inquiry affidavits were submitted showing that his station had 165,000 listeners who apparently liked the service he was giving, and two Senators and a number of Representatives from his State testified in his behalf, saying he had not been guilty of the language complained of."

Censorship and Free Speech.

Senator Dill asserted that the language now complained of was worse than in the previous case, and the witness replied that if found to be profane, indecent or obscene, it constituted a violation of law. The words specifically complained of were "hell" and "damn."

"Don't you call that profane and indecent language"? Senator Brookhart asked.

"I thought so several years ago," Judge Robinson replied. "Now, I am not so sure."

Referring to Franklin Ford's Station WHAP in New York City, he continued:

"That station, we are told, spends much of its time in anti-Catholic argument. Not a day passes that we do not receive protests against it. The charge is made that the language at least borders upon obscenity and the listeners want it censored.

"The question is how far can we go in the matter of censorship and still preserve the liberty of the people in their right to freedom of speech."

Judge Robinson indicated that a shift to a regional channel was under consideration in Mr. Henderson's case, so that he might be heard by those desiring to listen without offending others at a distance who have protested against him.

Newspapers and the Radio.

The use of the radio by newspapers and public officials was brought up.

"Why should newspapers want radio stations?" Senator Brookhart inquired.

"Why should Senators want to use the radio as a mouthpiece?" countered Mr. Robinson.

"I am inclined to think that a good answer," Senator Brookhart said. Then he announced that he was thinking of offering an amendment to prohibit utilities, such as power companies, from owning and operating radio stations.

"Some people think public utilities should be barred from the air," he explained.

Senator Brookhart complained radio programs were "just one jazz tune after another. Mr. Robinson agreed with him that improvement in programs was much to be desired but dissented from the suggestion that government ownership was necessary to that end.

"Radio eventually will be used for more cultural purposes than at present," he said.

INDIVIDUALISM WANES, THOMAS DECLARES

Says Hoover's Campaign Remark on Need for It Is Belied by Events and His Own Acts.

President Hoover's pre-election remarks on the need for "rugged individualism" in American life are belied by everyday events and by his own acts as president, Norman Thomas, socialist leader, said last night. He spoke to more than 1,000 students of the night session of the College of the City of New York, 80 Willoughby Street, Brooklyn, on "Pre-Election Philosophy and Post-Election Events."

"What is there of 'rugged individualism' in the suggestion that State, municipal and national governments undertake extensive programs of public works for the relief of the unemployed?" Mr. Thomas asked. "'Rugged individualism' is an old formula which has no significance at all for the present economic situation."

Mr. Thomas also cited the tariff as an example of the irrelevancy of President Hoover's claims for individualism. He described the tariff as "the government in business for a favored few." The existence of the tariff, he said, was an admission on the part of its proponents that individualism had to be aided by the government.

"One of President Hoover's first acts," he added, "was to establish a revolving fund for the aid, not of independent farming, but of cooperative farm groups. If this is not a direct contradiction of the notion that our salvation lies in 'rugged individualism,' then I don't know what is."

He pleaded for the abondonment of inapplicable formulas in our economic life. The actual facts of modern life, he said, showed a tendency towards collectivism or competition. Finally, he asked that this collectivism be made an instrument to eliminate economic extremes rather than for greater profit for individuals.

TO TEST REPRIEVED SLAYER

Alienists to Examine Plaia—Edwards at Sing Sing to Check Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Frank Plaia, one of the two Brooklyn slayers who received a two weeks' reprieve by Governor Roosevelt two and one-half hours before the time set for them to die, will have another mental examination by alienists of the State Lunacy Commission within a week's time.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau County with his assistant, Albert De Maeo, and Captain Harold King of the Nassau County police today paid a visit to the death house for the purpose of checking up the statement made by Thomas Cirrone, an inmate at Dannemora prison, which said that he had hired the gunmen who kidnapped Zorro Graziano and his bride, who later were found murdered.

The reprieves were due to this statement. Mr. Edwards, when leaving the prison, declined to say whether he had talked to Frank Plaia. He said he was on his way to Dannemora to talk to Cirrone and that he had "learned something that would prove very satisfactory for the people."

Mike Sclafoni and Plaia were to have been electrocuted late Thursday night when the reprieve was received. The alienists who will examine Plaia are Dr. J. W. Moore of Beacon, Dr. George Smith of Central Islip, L. I., and Dr. Paul Taddiken of Ogdensburg.

FRATRICIDE HELD INSANE.

John Miller of Waldwick, N. J., Found to Have Hallucinations.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 10.—John Miller, 43 years old, of Waldwick, who on Monday shot and killed his brother, Everett, 47, and who was indicted the same day by the Bergen County grand jury for murder, was adjudged insane today by Dr. Ralph Gilady, county physician.

Dr. F. S. Hallett, jail physician, and Dr. Christopher C. Bellman, a Newark alienist, after an examination in the office of Prosecutor A. C. Hart, said:

"This man had a hallucination that his brother and neighbors were trying to cheat him out of his estate, and that is why he also tried to kill Mrs. John Vanblarcom a few minutes after he shot his brother."

"Miller is brilliant in every other way," the prosecutor said, "but is dangerous to society because of his hereditary insanity, and will be sent to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane."

WINS INTERVENTION PLEA.

New York Public Service Commission Enters Wabash Trunk Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Public Service Commission of New York was today authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the application of the Wabash Railway Company to build up a fifth rail trunk system in the East. Among numerous other intervenors authorized by the commission was the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The application of the New York commission asking permission to intervene, signed by William R. Pooley, acting chairman, stated its action was taken on behalf of a large number of New York State shippers, who would be served by the proposed Wabash System. The Wabash application sought to acquire numerous rail lines operating in the State.

AUTO KILLS TWO WOMEN.

Hit-and-Run Driver at Tea Neck, N. J., Eludes Pursuit.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 10.—Miss Mamie Graf of Tea Neck and Mrs. Jeannette Aitkins, negress, of Englewood, were killed by a hit-and-run automobile driver at Tea Neck this evening.

The women were employed in the Tea Neck Laundry and were on their way to the Hudson River trolley line when they were hit. The car came from behind them traveling south at a high rate of speed. It was recognized as a sedan by Henrietta Brown, negress, who was with them.

A driver coming from the opposite direction turned and followed the sedan, but the trail was lost. A general alarm was sent out.

URGES ENDOWMENT OF RADIO STATIONS

H. V. Kaltenborn Tells Rollins Institute Education Needs Freedom in Broadcasting.

AIR UNIVERSITY SUGGESTED

Speakers Condemn All Censorship and Regulating of Public Morals by Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WINTER PARK, Fla., Jan. 10.—H. V. Kaltenborn, associate editor of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, and Captain S. C. Hooper, director of naval communications, addressed the Institute of Statesmanship at Rollins College tonight on "Radio and Public Opinion."

"Radio is the Fifth Estate," Mr. Kaltenborn said. "It has the same faults, the same temptations, the same opportunities as the Fourth Estate. Unfortunately, we have not yet learned to hold it responsible for what it does and does not do. In Europe governments control radio; here business controls it. Both methods have their disadvantages.

"More and more the business point of view is dominating radio. This is evident in the decisions of the Federal Radio Commission.

"'The commission must recognize,' says the last annual report of that body, 'that without advertising broadcasting would not exist.' The commission does not recognize that the city of New York or the American Federation of Labor is entitled to any special consideration in the allotment of wave lengths. The commercial stations were first in the field, they are giving the public excellent entertainment and, says the commission, there is no reason why they should give way to stations which are not operated for profit.

"Radio stations run by colleges and universities have been forced to accept the poorest positions on the wave bands. Institutions like Columbia University and New York University have abandoned radio broadcasting because they could not get proper cooperation from the large broadcasting stations. No large station is willing to broadcast educational programs in those evening hours when advertisers are willing to pay standard rates for time.

"The solution is the endowed station," Mr. Kaltenborn said. "We need at least one university of the air that has its own high-power station, its faculty and complete control of its own hours. We need more stations that not dependent upon advertising income. We need more stations that are not dependent upon advertising income. We need a larger recognition on the part of the Radio Commission that 'public convenience and necessity' is not exclusively related to advertising and entertainment."

Captain Hooper described the work of the Navy Department in providing the incentive for development of the radio. He opposed a censorship, saying that public opinion held the broadcaster responsible for his programs.

Censorship Is Opposed.

Kimball Young, Professor of Psychology at the University of Wisconsin, led the day's discussion at the censorship round table with a group that included George Fort Milton, editor of The Chattanooga News; Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, and Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, editor of The Portland Evening News.

Professor Young declared that censorship was a form of social taboo exercised whenever set community standards are invaded by new habits. It has never been more widely applied to social conditions than during and since the World War, he said. "If we do not conform, we are ridiculed, punished, fined, put in prison, expelled, put to death." The country was in a serious condition of "reformeritis," he said, with misguided zealots imagining that social evils can be eliminated by more and more drastic laws.

"The real problem of social control," he said, "be it questions of censorship or prohibition, lies in the changes which come gradually from the cross-currents of opinion expressed in the press, on the stage, in the movie and through other mediums of public discussion."

Mr. Villard declared that people have tremendous faith in the magic of law, piling up law on law, and especially tending to put the burden upon the Federal Government. "There is no greater fallacy than that of control of morals by law," he said. "I am unalterably opposed to censorship of any kind and variety and believe that we must learn that the price of liberty is a certain amount of license."

Censorship in any form is a far greater evil than any which would result without it, was the opinion of Dr. Gruening. "The important thing," he said, "is to have freedom of thought."

Professor Clyde L. King of the University of Pennsylvania brought to a close the group discussions of propaganda with a large general assembly.

For Registration of Lobbyists.

Suggestions were made that registration of lobbyists be insisted upon, with a statement of their salaries and of the groups which they represent, and that public relations experts declare their real convictions along with their expressed propaganda. Professor King said that there were two ways to control propaganda—through legislation and through the convictions, beliefs and habits which are part of public standards of conduct.

Other speakers were Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League, and Miss Harriet W. Williott of the National League of Women Voters.

A motion picture conference, slated for only one session but held over for two, took up again a criticism of the industry by the Rev. William Sheafe Chase of Washington.

Canon Chase charged as an example of movie propaganda that newspapers had allotted most of their space to the opposition at the first meeting of the conference on Wednesday. It was stated that press notices had gone out with absolute impartiality, but that "a Will Hays report had been preferred by the newspapers."

2,500 AT DEDICATION OF TEMPLE EMANU-EL

Rabbis and Officers of the Congregation in Ceremony at New House of Worship.

TRIBUTE PAID TO MARSHALL

Judge Lehman Receives Key During Service—Descendants of Founders Take Part.

The new Temple Emanu-El at Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, house of worship of the consolidated congregations of Temple Emanu-El and Temple Beth-El, was formally dedicated last night by the rabbis and officers of the temple in the presence of more than 2,500 persons, including the rabbis and presidents of sister congregations in the city. The new $8,000,000 temple, chapel and community house have been in use since last October.

To the music of the procession from Meyerbeer's "Prophet" the officers and trustees of the Congregation Emanu-El carried the five scrolls in solemn procession three times up and down the length of the huge temple. As they brought the scrolls at last up the centre aisle to the sanctuary they were met by the rabbis of the temple, who placed the scrolls reverently in the ark, while the ceremony of sanctification of the ark was performed by Rabbi Hyman G. Enelow.

The key of the new temple was borne to the sanctuary by five children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the founders of the temple and its officers. By them it was presented to Benjamin Mordecai, chairman of the building committee, who in turn handed it to the president of the congregation, Judge Irving Lehman.

Tribute Paid to Marshall.

In accepting the key, Judge Lehman paid tribute to the memory of his predecessor in office, Louis Marshall, who died only a few weeks before the first services were held in the new temple.

"Not for the glory of the congregation, but for the glory of God have we built this temple," Judge Lehman asserted. "We are part of the household of Israel, the people of the book, sons and daughters of forebears who dedicated their existence to the service of the Lord and obedience to His commandments. In brick and stone we have sought to embody our spiritual longings and the traditions of our fathers, giving to beauty of form and color a spiritual beauty deeper and more pervading, though it is felt, not seen."

The founders of the two congregations, he said, discarding at time rigid forms which they felt confined the spirit of the law, renewed the power of growth and development in Jewish traditions, faith and ideals.

These traditions, he said, must be handed on "in joy and gladness," for Jews "worshipped the Lord in joy and gladness even when their days were darkened by persecution and oppression, and only in joy and gladness can His name be fitly worshipped."

Service Opened By Music.

The service opened with a musical program, including "Ma Tovu," written especially for the dedication by Lazare Saminsky, director of the Emanu-El choir. Then followed an opening prayer by Rabbi Samuel Schulman, and a short religious service conducted by Rabbi Schulman and Cantor Simon Schlager. Dr. Schulman asked that the pulpit of the new temple "be consecrated to the prophetic office of speaking Thy word and interpreting it with the fearlessness of truth," and to "the ever-growing knowledge which shall walk in perfect union with a reverent faith in Thee."

After the procession with the scrolls, the sanctification of the ark, and the presentation of the key, Judge Lehman, as president of the congregation, presented resolutions of appreciation to Mr. Mordecai, and to Robert D. Kohn, Charles Butler, and Clarence S. Stein, architects; Francis L. Mayers, O. H. Murray, and Hardie Phillip, consulting architects; and Myron S. Falk, consulting engineer.

An anthem, "May the Words of My Mouth," written for the dedication by Frederick Jacoby, and "Lift Up Your Heads," by Mr. Saminsky, followed. Rabbi Nathan Krass then led in a final prayer and adoration, after which the service concluded with the singing of "Hallelujah," by Cesar Franck, the "Star Spangled Banner," and the bendiction.

The five children who took part in the presentation of the key were Marian Effie Sulzberger, great-granddaughter of Rabbi Isaac M. Wise who took part in the dedication of the old Temple-Emanu-El; Benjamin Mordecai Cardozo, grandson of the chairman of the building committee; William Spiegelberg Frank and George Edward Herman, grandsons of founders, and Jerome Nathan Straus, grandson of Nathan Straus. The tray containing the key was borne by Miss Sulzberger.

Besides Judge Lehman, the officers of the congregation, who took part in the procession, are Sydney H. Herman, William I. Spiegelberg and Henry M. Toch.

The trustees are:

Ben Altheimer	Adolph S. Ochs
Henry J. Bernheim	Carl Rosenberger
Davis Brown	Edward Schaefer
Philip J. Goodhart	Roger W. Straus

'ESSENTIAL RELIGION' IS URGED BY MILLIKAN

He Asserts There Is No Conflict Between Science and Basic Purpose of the Faiths.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 10.—"There is no incompatibility between science and the essential purpose of religion that is to develop the consciences, the ideals and the aspirations of mankind," declared Professor Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist of the University of California, in an intervew today with The Daily Princetonian, undergraduate publication of Princeton University.

"Individual religions or branches of religion," he said, "often contain this essential, and much that is objectionable. Personally, I believe that essential and not dogmatic religion is one of the world's supremest needs."

Modern science is helping to abolish war, according to Professor Millikan.

"In my judgment, war is now in the process of being abolished chiefly through the relentless advance of modern science, the principal diverter of man's energies and interests from the warlike to the peaceful arts," he declared. "War will disappear like the dinosaur when changes in world conditions have destroyed its survival value, and I believe that this destruction is rapidly taking place."

Any tendency of American youth toward applied rather than pure science should not be called unfortunate, he declared. "The only difference between pure and applied science," Professor Millikan said, "is in the immediateness of the end. Pure science works for practical ends just as much as applied science does, but the ends are bound to be more remote. Of course, I am what might be called a pure scientist, myself, but I do not think on that account that pure science is necessarily holier or less selfish."

Scientists of this country are not necessarily handicapped because there is no government subsidy here as in Europe, according to Professor Millikan. American scientists seem to have got used to the idea, and not much suffering results from it, he said.

REPORTS ON ORIENT TRIP.

Dr. Hopkins Finds Gain by World's Sunday School League.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the North American Section of the World's Sunday School Association yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania the Rev. Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, general secretary, who recently returned from a four months' trip through Japan, Korea, China and the Philippine Islands, gave a report of the work of the Sunday School Association in the Orient.

Hugh R. Monro, president of the Montclair (N. J.) National Bank, chairman, presided at the meeting. Members from Canada and other countries were present.

After showing motion pictures of his trip Dr. Hopkins reported considerable progress in the Orient. He said 2,000 delegates were enrolled in Korea and more than 10,000 were present at a convention in Pyengyang. According to figures tabulated at the tenth convention, held in Los Angeles in July, 1928, the World's Sunday School Association has more thna 33,000,000 members.

The executive committee of the association, of which Dean Luther A. Weigle of New Haven is the chairman, will meet next June in Toronto during the convention of the International Council of Religious Education.

HOSPITAL PLANS ACCEPTED.

Sketches by H. B. Winston Chosen for Bronx Maternity Institution.

The Bronx Maternity Hospital to be erected at East 166th Street and Grand Concourse will be a ten-story and basement structure of modern design, with a capacity of 250 beds, it was announced yesterday by its board of directors. Following a competition, preliminary sketches by B. H. Winston, architect, have been accepted. The contemplated building will cost $1,000,000.

According to Miss Elinor P. Murray, superintendent, about one-fourth of the needed building fund is in hand and the remainder will be raised within the next eighteen months, when it is expected construction of the new building will begin.

The new building will provide a clinic and out-patient department. There will be a pasteurization plant to aid in the study of infant feeding, radium and X-ray equipment, a solarium and facilities for the prevention and cure of women's diseases. The plans also include research laboratories and a training school for nurses.

It is expected that treatment will be provided at cost to patients able to pay, but fifty beds will be free. The majority of the beds will be arranged in wards.

ITALIAN HERE TO LECTURE.

Giovanni Vidari to Give Course at California University.

Giovanni Vidari, Professor of Pedagogy and Philosophy at the University of Turin, Italy, arrived yesterday on the liner Augustus to give a series of lectures at the University of California. Professor Vidari said he would give two courses in the History of Italian Culture and Art, a subject in which he has made deep studies.

He has not been in the United States for several years, having visited here to attend the International Congress of Philosophy four years ago. He will be at the University of California for three months.

The Augustus was held in quarantine for several hours by the heavy fog. The liner arrived in quarantine at 2 A. M. and was boarded and cleared by health officers shortly after 9. It was after 10:30 before Captain Francesco Tarabotto considered it safe to proceed up the river to the West Fifty-seventh Street pier. The liner docked about 1 o'clock.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Narrow Movement on Stock Exchange—Call Money 4½%, Merchants' Paper Lower.

A fractionally higher call-money rate with a marking down of rates for merchants' paper, continuance of sterling around the par of exchange, and a stock market which drifted without purpose, made up the financial movement yesterday. As against the low level of sterling here, the Bank of England took in nearly $5,000,000 more gold, consigned from distant markets, and gave out practically none. With this addition, the gold holdings of the London bank once more exceed the £150,000,000 minimum, stipulated by the Cunliffe committee as requisite after amalgamation of the two note issues. They have been below that figure ever since last July; three months ago they were short of it by nearly $48,000,000.

Although transactions on the Stock Exchange continued larger than the small figure reached on Wednesday, the market moved idly, with small advances mostly dividing the day's perfunctory activities with small declines. A few stocks rose 5 points or thereabouts, a few others fell as much, but mostly the swing was in a narrower range. The only definite news with a bearing on the situation was the statement of increase in the United States Steel Corporation's unfilled orders, during December, of 291,848 tons. This is larger than the increase in any other month last year, and might seem paradoxical when production was falling to so very low a rate.

The increase in orders on the books is, however, in fact a direct result of the small production. Even the normal slackening of a year-end "inventory period" always leaves unfilled orders to accumulate; they rose 303,712 tons in December of 1928 and 518,533 in 1929. Last month, all steel trade experts declared that production had been reduced much more rapidly than inflow of new orders. But the increase nevertheless has elements of encouragement, especially when compared with other similar periods. In December, 1920, they increased only 17,872 tons and in 1907, although the statements then were published only quarterly, there was apparently a heavy decrease.

The surveys of the past week in trade by the mercantile reviews are about what other financial and industrial weather-signs would have suggested. "Scattered signs of general improvement" are reported by one of the agencies. Another, after reporting moderate recovery in the heavy industries, states that in the rest of them "marked changes are rare and resumption of operations leisurely." Aside from these views of the business situation, which merely confirm the testimony from other sources, there is evidently not yet anything to determine the trend of things in the very near future.

There is, however, no evidence of discouragement about the longer movement, and the reassuring reflection, that "the passing of the unbridled speculation in stocks has relieved the acute tension in credit," releasing funds which should help the merchant, is entirely sound, though it would equally have applied two months ago. Bradstreet summarizes its reports from eighty-nine lines of business in New York City as showing that thirty-four have this week fallen below their sales of a year ago, that fifty-two are about the same, and that only three (all of them minor industries) are doing better. It is not without interest to find, from the detailed list, that not only iron and steel but jewelry are reported to be selling as well as in January of 1929.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Although stocks generally moved within a limited range yesterday and many of them lost their morning gains in the afternoon trading, the sentiment in Wall Street appeared to be more cheerful. A few pools resumed work and there was a measurable increase in public participation in the leading stocks. For a while, just before the noon hour, when the favorable statement was issued by the United States Steel Corporation of its unfilled tonnage, the market advanced vigorously, but most of these gains were lost in the afternoon recession. Traders sold stocks on the theory that the good news was out. Individual issues which had gained good momentum during the morning advance were able to close the day with moderate gains. Considered as a whole, however, the best that could be said for the market was that it was irregular and that on the advances it met a good deal of stock. Pressure against the motor, tire and accessory stocks attracted considerable Wall Street attention, although the declines in these issues were not wide.

A Point in Its Favor.

Many brokers were anxious to call attention yesterday to the fact that the market had been able to break out of its rut on the up side. Most of them hailed this as a signal that the January rise, which has been a long while overdue, is finally under way. They also rejoiced that the leading issues had been able to establish "double tops" since the long decline. These market developments may or may not prove to be significant in the long run. Real significance, rather, will lie in the dependable and established barometric indices, of which one, the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, appeared yesterday and could be construed as bullish. It is sometimes true that business follows the stock market; at the moment it is quite apparent that the market is lagging, awaiting signs and indications from business. Wall Street as a whole is agreed that an advancing market, say over a period of a month or so, would have a tremendous psychological effect on the country. Bringing about that advance and carrying it through is quite another thing. It might be very expensive.

⁂

Sales of Stock.

To what extent the public has withdrawn from the stock market, by compulsion or choice, is evident from the sales on the Stock Exchange, which are less than half the total at this time last year, when a roaring market was in progress despite tightness of money. Sales to date this year have aggregated 16,944,340 shares. To the corresponding date last year they were 39,843,340 shares.

⁂

A Real Test of the Bond Market.

The offering on next Monday of the issue of $150,000,000 American Telephone and Telegraph Company 5 per cent debentures will afford the first real test of the bond market since early in October, when the issue of $100,000,000 Texas Corporation convertible 5s was placed on the market. The Telephone issue is the largest single bond issue brought out in many years. The only issue to approach it in size was that of $125,000,000 debenture 5s of the Telephone company marketed in January, 1925. However, the offering group of the new issue includes some of the largest and strongest bond houses in Wall Street, so that no apprehension is felt for the success of the offering. Although the bonds will be priced at 99½, trading on a when-issued basis was done on the Produce Exchange yesterday at prices ranging from 100⅛ to 101.

Public Apathy.

Perhaps one of the most surprising signs of the times has been the experience of a big investment house intimately concerned with a recent utility reorganization, which reports that less than a handful of letters and almost no telephone calls have reached it in the three weeks since the plan was first announced. While there are more stockholders than ever before on the books of the company, there are practically none sufficiently interested in possible speculative effects to seek enlightenment on their company's plan. Apparently the stockholders put their stock away, quickly signed and returned proxies without question, and are devoting all their time to the regular businesses in which they are engaged.

Japanese Gold Embargo.

From today the embargo on the export of gold from Japan is removed, thus returning to the gold standard the last of the allied nations. While the recovery of the yen has not yet lifted that currency back to parity, a good advance has been made since last June, when the yen sold at 43.46 cents, the low price for 1929, and it is not thought that the removal of the embargo will result in any considerable loss of gold by Japan. One factor which operates in favor of Japan in the retention of her gold holdings is the geographic circumstance that Japan is far removed from this country and the European money markets which might draw gold. The heavy ocean freight charges involved in carrying gold from Tokio to New York or London act as a strong deterrent to shippers.

Merging Subsidiaries.

The Pennsylvania Railroad seems to be taking a leaf from the notebook of the New York Central in respect to the policy of merging subsidiaries, it was remarked in railroad circles yesterday. The New York Central is about to merge its Big Four and Michigan Central. Now the Pennsylvania proposes to merge its West Jersey & Seashore.

Investigating Individuals.

The Congressional inquiry proposed by Representative Parker, chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, was discussed in financial circles from a new angle yesterday. It was pointed out that the proposed resolution called not only for investigation of holding company interests in railroads but also the interests of "individuals." It was remarked that the investigation of large railroad stockholders such as George F. Baker, Arthur C. James and O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen would be an interesting spectacle.

MONEY.

Friday, Jan. 10, 1930.

Stock Exchange call money was firm all day at 4½ per cent. Street funds loaned at 4 until early afternoon when rate recoiled to Board figure. Time money remained quiet and unchanged at 4½@4¾ per cent, a little 30 days' lending at minimum and 90 days' at maximum. Commercial paper came definitely down to 4¾@5, lowest since June, 1928, after several days of slow tapering in discount from 5@5¼. Buying was heavy, forecasting early sell-out of paper at high rate. Some advances in acceptance yields were announced preparatory to general advance shortly.

DOHERTY & CO. FACE STOCK LITIGATION

Shareholders' Committee of Cities Service and Arkansas Natural Gas Makes Plans.

CONTRACT TERMS DISPUTED

Group Seeks Substantial Sums Withheld by Bankers—Counsel and Attorney of Record Named.

Philip Adler of 110 West Fortieth Street was designated yesterday attorney of record and Daniel W. Blumenthal of the law firm of Maurice B. & Daniel W. Blumenthal of 233 Broadway was designated as counsel to a stockholders' protective committee representing purchasers of stock of the Cities Service Company and the Arkansas Natural Gas Company under the partial payment plan issued and conducted by Henry L. Doherty, doing business as Henry L. Doherty & Co.

The committee was organized recently by stockholders for the purpose of "protecting the interest and vested rights of themselves and thousands and thousands of other stockholders of the Cities Service Company and Arkansas Natural Gas Company, similarly situated," the announcement said.

The committee, at a special meeting yesterday, authorized Mr. Adler and Mr. Blumenthal to proceed at once, either by way of litigation or otherwise, for the purpose of recouping for the respective members of the committee substantial sums of money alleged now to be withheld from them by Doherty & Co.

Counsel for the committee said:

"The committee's investigation clearly indicates that thousands upon thousands of investors, domiciled throughout the world, are holders of Cities Service and Arkansas Gas stock, under a printed form issued by Henry L. Doherty & Co., providing for the partial payment plan. There are now pending in the courts of this State several test suits under the supervision of the protective committee, and others are soon to be filed to determine the correct interpretation of the partial payment contract issued by Henry L. Doherty & Co.

"Henry L. Doherty & Co. takes the position that the purchasers under its plan are liable for losses on the stock, whereas the committee is convinced upon advice of their counsel that purchasers under this partial payment plan are not liable for such losses.

"In addition, Henry L. Doherty & Co. has sought to deduct from the selling price of stock bought under this plan 10 per cent thereof, as so-called liquidating damages. In this instance also, the committee, upon advice of their counsel, insists that Henry L. Doherty & Co. has no right to make any such deduction for any legal reasons.

"The foregoing are just some of the points that are being raised under the partial payment contract."

The temporary officers of the committee will be supplanted by permanent officers at the next meeting, which is to be called within a few days.

BILL RATES ADVANCED BY TWO MORE HOUSES

One-Eighth of 1 Per Cent Rise Is Expected to Be Made General on Monday.

Following the move made earlier in the week by one leading dealer, two large acceptance houses yesterday advanced their quotations on bills up to 90 days' maturities one-eighth of 1 per cent. Other dealers adhered to the old rates and no official change was announced by the American Acceptance Council. It is expected, however, that the higher rate will be made general on Monday.

The new rates quoted are: 4⅛ per cent bid, 4 per cent asked. The advance, when it becomes general, will place dealers' asking rates on the same level as the buying rate of the Federal Reserve Bank, namely 4 per cent. This is expected to result in a large increase of offerings of bills to the bank of issue.

The money market displayed a somewhat firmer tone in other directions yesterday, although commercial rates softened to the lowest prices since the last week in June, 1928, at a bid and asked price of 4¾ and 5 per cent. Call money held at 4½ per cent all day at the money desk of the Stock Exchange and such outside money as was available at 4 per cent during the early part of the day dried up, leaving the rates outside and inside the Exchange even at the close.

A. T. & T. ISSUE TO GO ON MARKET AT 99½

$150,000,000 of 35-Year 5% Debentures Will Be Offered on Monday by Morgan Syndicate.

SALE IN ALL LARGE CITIES

Trading Over the Counter and on Produce Exchange Starts, With Quotations at 100½ to 101.

The $150,000,000 issue of American Telephone and Telegraph thirty-five-year 5 per cent gold debentures, official announcement of which was made yesterday, will be offered to the public on next Monday. The syndicate that will market the bonds was being formed last night by J. P. Morgan & Co., who have headed all groups for the Bell System's financing for many years.

Associated with Morgan & Co. will be the regular "telephone syndicate," which comprises Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., the First National Bank, the National City Company, the Bankers Company of New York, the Guaranty Company of New York, Harris, Forbes & Co. and Lee, Higginson & Co. Bankers in all the principal cities of the United States also will participate in the offering.

The offering price will be 99½, to yield 5.03 per cent. The bonds will be dated Feb. 1, 1930, and be due on Feb. 1, 1965. They will be redeemable, at the option of the company, as a whole but not in part upon sixty days' notice on any interest date at 110 and accrued interest on or prior to Aug. 1, 1961, and at 100 and accrued interest thereafter to maturity. The indenture under which they will be issued is dated Feb. 1, 1930. Coupon debentures will be in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, registerable as to principal, while registered debentures will be in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

Trading over the counter in the new bonds began yesterday, and they were admitted also to trading on the securities market of the New York Produce Exchange on a when-issued basis. Transactions totaled $110,000 on the latter market, at prices between 101 and 100⅛, with a closing quotation of 100⅝.

After giving effect to the issue of these debentures, the company's long-term debt will be less than $670,000,000, whereas the capital stock at its par value, including instalments, will be in excess of $1,400,000,000. In the last ten years the company has increased its stock capitalization much more rapidly than its funded indebtedness through biennial offerings of rights to stockholders to acquire additional shares at par.

The issue will provide funds required by the Bell System for additions and betterments and for other capital expenditures. The Bell System has a budget of $700,000,000 for the current year, and, as in former years, will pay for a large part of the expansion from earnings and savings.

Working in conjunction with a group of banks in Tennessee, a syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers, the National City Company, the Guaranty Company of New York, the Bankers Company of New York and Harris, Forbes & Co. has obtained $29,050,000 of the issue of $31,050,000 State of Tennessee bonds and notes as 4¾s and 4½s at a price of par, equivalent to a 4.676 per cent basis. The bonds will be reoffered today to the public at prices to yield 4.35 to 4.50 per cent.

At the close of business last night Lehman Brothers, as syndicate head, said advance orders for approximately $12,000,000 of the bonds had been received.

SUBSCRIBERS PROTEST TERMS FOR BANK STOCK

New National Exchange Group Forms Protective Committee —Holds Terms Violated.

A group of subscribers to the stock of the New National Exchange Bank and Trust Company and its investment affiliate, the Exchangebanc Financial Corporation, has formed a protective committee to protest against paying their subscriptions on the grounds that the original terms of the subscription contract have been violated. Herman Schapiro is chairman.

Mr. Schapiro, who recently brought action in the Supreme Court to compel the organization committee of the bank to give him its list of subscribers, contends that whereas the original subscription called for $115 for a unit of one share of the bank's stock at $65 and one share of investment company stock at $50, the new call of $65 for one share of bank stock and $5 on one share of investment stock, with the balance of $45 subject to later call, is a violation of the original agreement.

Meier Steinbrink, Republican leader of Kings County and member of the organization committee of the bank, said last night that there had been no violation of agreement inasmuch as the bank had merely deferred the payment of the balance due on the investment company's stock. This postponement may be permanent, he said, or a sum less than the $45 balance may later be called. He indicated that the whole amount might never be called and said the terms of the agreement gave the organization committee the power to establish the date of call for subscriptions as it saw fit. The call for the $65 for the bank stock is in accordance with Federal banking laws, he said.

The bank is capitalized at $2,000,000. It is scheduled to open its doors early in February.

TENDENCY UPWARD IN WEEK'S BUSINESS

Surveys Show Gradual Gains Following Completion of Yearly Inventories.

STEEL PRODUCTION RISES

Larger Buying for Manufacture of Automobiles — Wholesalers Report Improvement.

The minor changes in business so far in the new year have been mainly in the direction of improvement, with a rather deliberate resumption of industry following inventory shutdowns and with post-holiday sales and a gradual stepping up of wholesale and jobbing trade, according to the weekly reviews. One of the important factors in the general improvement has been an easing of money markets.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of business says in part:

"The passing of the unbridled speculation in stocks has definitely relieved the acute credit tension, while permitting the release of funds into other channels where their employment will be helpful to commercial advancement. That change was essential to economic stability and it is giving support now to other elements which are making for ultimate trade recovery. It was hardly to be expected that the recuperation would develop rapidly, for time is necessarily required for a completion of readjustments after a major financial upset, and the recent shock was especially severe.

"A strong basis for renewed progress exists, however, and scattered signs of gradual improvement appeared this week. Gains are to be looked for following the year-end holidays and inventorying, and they have come, although slowly, in one of the great basic industries. Thus steel output has risen above the low point of December and an additional increase is indicated, while there has been some revival of demand for copper, more purchasing of textiles and also of hides and leather. The continued caution among buyers is clearly evidenced and is accentuated by uncertainty regarding prices, yet supplies in different instances are apparently in need of replenishment, and this fact encourages hopes of larger commitments in the future.

Warm Weather Harmful.

"As usual, special January sales have been featured in the retail field, but distribution of seasonable goods has been restrained in various sections by exceptionally high temperatures for the period. Results of Christmas trade, on the other hand, gave proof of a sustained large consuming power, the turnover of medium-priced merchandise being particularly satisfactory in view of the preceding speculative collapse."

Bradstreet's state of trade says in part:

"Perhaps the chief outstanding feature of the week in the matter of new operations has been the better buying of steel, this mainly on account of automobile manufacturers, who had been stepping-up operations in December, and a like raising of steel productive operations from the low points of last year, with from 50 to 60, in some few instances 75 per cent, of capacity at work. Accompanying this has been some irregularity of prices in sheets, bars and strips for automobile manufacturers, but with rather marked strength reported in the steel scrap market.

Situation in Lighter Industries.

"In the other, and especially in the lighter, industries, marked changes are rare and resumption of operations is leisurely. Curtailment in cotton manufacturing is markedly in evidence, but silk and rayon manufacturing show much more life. Ease in leather prices has affected buying, but from both East and West there are reports of cutting-up operations having been expanded in both sole and upper grades preparatory to new shoe making. In the furniture trades the usual January shows have drawn large numbers of buyers, with cheerful reports as to orders placed at both Chicago and Grand Rapids.

"The weather has not been altogether favorable to new activities, because of a spell of very high temperatures being followed in the West and Northwest by a wirespread storm of rain, sleet or snow, and, finally, very cold weather. The warm weather has lingered in the Eastern half of the country, with a slowing up effect on sales of seasonable goods. Collections have continued to lag.

"Building is, naturally, at a low ebb, this based on seasonal conditions in the country as a whole and the low ebb in permit operations reached in the late months of 1929. December permit values in 215 cities were the lightest in years and 43 per cent below the like month a year ago. For the calendar year the total permitted-for value in 215 cities was the smallest since 1922, the decrease from 1928 was 11.8 per cent, and the decline from the peak year, 1925, was 24.9 per cent."

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Mount Vernon, N. Y.

The city of Mount Vernon has awarded a new issue of $1,545,000 various improvement bonds, due serially on Jan. 1, 1931 to 1960, at 100.0001, for $651,000 of the bonds as 4s and $894,000 as 4¼s. The bid figures a premium of $160 on the entire issue. The banking group comprises R. L. Day & Co., the First National Old Colony Corporation, Phelps, Fenn & Co. and the American National Bank and Trust Company of Mount Vernon. The second highest tender was 100.029 for $573,000 of the bonds as 4s and $972,000 as 4¼s, made jointly by Eldredge & Co. and Ames, Emerich & Co., Inc. The third highest bid was 100.04 for $544,000 as 4¼s, $727,000 as 4s and $284,000 as 5s. This was made by a group consisting of George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc.; Dewey, Bacon & Co., and Roosevelt & Son. Seven other groups competed.

East Providence, R. I.

The town of East Providence, R. I., will be in the market on Jan. 21 with a new issue of $500,000 4¼ per cent bonds. The issue will consist of $300,000 bridge land bonds, due serially in from one to thirty years, and $200,000 school bonds, due in from one to twenty-five years.

Seaford Bank Marks Expansion.

The Seaford National Bank of Seaford, L. I., of which Frank W. Raynor is president, will hold a reception today in its building on the Merrick Road to celebrate its recent expansion. The institution, three years old, has just doubled its floor space, added a safe deposit department and built a new stone front. Deposits have increased to more than $500,000.

Good Business Year Forecast by Klein; Predicts Turn for Better in March or April

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said yesterday that 1930 would be a good year for business, that there was likely to be a slight lull for the first three months, but that this would be followed by a return to normal economic trends. Broadly speaking the prospect is distinctly good, he told the convention of the eastern district sales force of the Devoe & Raynolds Company at the Hotel Plaza yesterday.

"I wouldn't for a moment have you go out and say that everything is sweetness and light," he said. "We're going to have some rough sledding, but I believe that the turn will come about March or April for the country as a whole."

The airplanes and radio industries are likely to have trouble for a time because they have admittedly overproduced, he said.

There has been no physical destruction of assets in the Wall Street situation, he declared, the regrettable losses having been very largely confined to the speculative element. He said that the Department of Commerce estimated that there were about 1,000,000 speculative accounts in Wall Street, one for every twenty-seven families in the country, and added that "and a lot of these didn't lose." It is healthy for the country to get out of a situation of "abnormal opulence," he asserted.

Dr. Klein stressed the importance this year of considering "inexcusable wastes in selling." It has been learned by conservative estimates, he said, that there is probably an annual loss in the United States of between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000 from leaks in distribution, equaling 10 per cent of the country's total annual income, estimated at $89,000,000,000, and nearly equal to the nation's total annual import and export trade.

Emphasizing the importance of inventories in retail stores, covering stock not only by totals but by salable and unsalable lines, he said that of the first fifty-six of a series of Northern New Jersey retail store bankruptcies studied by the Department of Commerce only seven of the proprietors had kept inventories and only three knew what an inventory was for.

He also emphasized the need for a more careful study of market prospects, focusing sales efforts where the market for a particular product is best rather than trying to "plaster the entire country." He referred to a recent "Market Data Handbook" published by the Department of Commerce, which contains detailed information on all the counties of the United States.

$11,573,914 SOUGHT BY MUNICIPALITIES

New Bond Issues to Be Awarded Next Week Decline Sharply From $64,161,007 This Week.

$1,507,000 FOR AKRON, OHIO

$1,500,000 Loan to Be Placed for Philippine Water District—Long-Term Issues in Demand.

A sharp decline in new municipal financing will occur next week when issues totaling only $11,573,914 will be up for award by fifty communities throughout the country. This week's revised total was $64,161,007; of which nearly half was accounted for by a single issue, that of $31,050,000 of the State of Tennessee, of which $29,050,000 actually was awarded.

Next week's principal offering will be that of $1,656,500 Hamilton County (Tenn.) tunnel, bridge and school bonds which were originally scheduled for sale on Dec. 3. The next largest issue is that of $1,507,000 city of Akron (Ohio) various improvement bonds which will be awarded on Monday. The only other issue of $1,000,000 or more is that of $1,500,000 Philippine Islands Metropolitan Water District 4½s which will be sold through the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department.

One notable feature of the week was the closing of the syndicate books on the issue of $41,000,000 city and county of San Francisco (Cal.) 4½ per cent Spring Valley Water bonds which were brought out in mid-December.

Demand for Long-Term Issues.

An important development in the municipal bond market this week was the improved demand for long-term bonds, accompanied by a less insistent demand for short-term issues. This switch in the demand is interpreted as a healthy sign, the bulk of the new issues brought out being of long maturities. Much of the improved demand for long-term bonds has resulted from the outlook for easy money rates, since at present long-term issues afford some attractive yields over a period of years.

In general the demand for municipal bonds this week has not been heavy. Dealers report that bonds are moving out steadily and the market has benefited considerably by the fact that new offerings since the first of the year have been comparatively light. The sale of the issue of $65,000,000 city of New York serial bonds and corporate stock is progressing steadily, but owing to the magnitude of this issue it is expected that it will be some time yet before the entire issue is sold.

Offering of the issue of $11,667,000 State of Kentucky 5 per cent toll bridge bonds which were awarded this week to a group comprising C. W. McNear & Co., Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Inc., and Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. of St. Louis, at prices ranging from 90.01 to 90.31, is expected shortly.

NITROGEN PRICES MAY DROP

Danger of World Overproduction Seen in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—A new reduction in prices for nitrogen—which only six months ago were considerably lowered following the conclusion of an agreement between the dye trust and the Chile salpeter industry—is being discussed among interested circles.

It is pointed out that, regarded from an international viewpoint, there is a great overproduction. This became evident during negotiations regarding the prolongation of the nitrogen syndicate, which were only partly successful inasmuch as the trust insists that no new plants should be erected.

Herr Bueb, for several years a leading figure in the syndicate, declared at a recent meeting of the nitrogen industrialists that prices would soon be heavily reduced. This indicates that the danger of world overproduction is not only looming ahead, but it is imminent.

TRADING SLOWER IN LISTED BONDS

Government Issues Dull and Slightly Softer — Narrow Range in Convertibles.

INDUSTRIALS IRREGULAR

Sugar, Oil and Steel Groups Quiet—Foreign Loans Steady and Higher on Average.

Trading was considerably slower in the listed bond market yesterday and prices, on the average, made little headway in either the domestic or foreign loan groups. United States Government bonds softened slightly in dull trading in which most of the activity centred on the Fourth Liberty 4¼s, which were off 5-32. The balance of the active issues in this group finished 4-32 higher to 9-32 lower.

American Telephone and Telegraph bonds continued active yesterday on the news of the projected offering of $150,000,000 debenture 5s next Monday at 99½. The debenture 5s, due in 1960, sold off ¾ of a point to 101½, which was the price at which the new bonds were traded yesterday on a "when issued" basis in the outside market. The company's convertible debenture 4½s moved up ¼ of a point to 140.

Convertible bonds were not especially active and price changes in the group were unusually small. Texas Corporation convertible 5s were up ¼ of a point, while International Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s sold off ⅛. Erie convertible 4s, series A, closed 2 points lower for the day. New Haven convertible 6s gained a point.

Industrial bonds showed considerable irregularity. Sugar bonds were dull. East Cuba Sugar 7½s advanced 2⅛ points in light trading and Sugar Estates of Oriente held unchanged at the previous low of 45. Cuba Sugar 8s, stamped, touched a new low at 37⅛, closing ⅛ of a point above this figure with a net loss for the day of 3¾ points. Oil and steel bonds were quiet. In the former group White Eagle Oil 5½s, with warrants, touched a new high at 106, up 2⅜ points.

Foreign loans were steady and slightly higher on the average, although a handful of issues touched new lows.

15% DROP REPORTED IN BANK CLEARINGS

Total for Twenty-three Cities About the Same as Two Years Ago.

A decline of 15 per cent in bank clearings for the past week, as compared with the same week a year ago, has been reported from twenty-three leading cities of the country. The total, however, was substantially the same as two years ago, being reported by R. G. Dun & Co. as $12,325,693,000, compared with $14,493,125,000 at the corresponding date in 1929. REPORTS BUSINESS NEARING NORMAL

National Chamber of Commerce Finds an Optimistic Feeling in Industrial Centres.

SAVINGS DEPOSITS GAIN

Credit Is Flowing Back to Productive Enterprise, All Statements Indicate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The nation's business has rounded the turn of the year with "the volume of production and distribution approaching normal for this season and confidence in the immediate future unimpaired,' the weekly bulletin of the United States Chamber of Commerce said today. "Taken as a whole the reports indicate that readjustments are being made in an orderly way with definite signs that credit is flowing back to productive enterprise."

The bulletin cited what it characterized as "strikingly optimistic reports" on trends of business submitted by members of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, which met here yesterday. These stated that in widely scattered localities, most of which are typical of large areas, employment conditions are normal, while in some employment is on the upgrade and in others where conditions have not been normal an improvement is perceptible.

The National Business Survey Conference, organized by the chamber following the recent White House business conferences, today issued the first of a series of a bulletins, which, according to Julius H. Barnes, its chairman, are intended to "aid the exchange of accurate appraisal of what has happened in various lines of industry since the severe shock to security values of late October."

"We believe they will show increasingly that in all lines of industry the qualities of energy, courage and collective common sense are quite generally being brought into play, with their inevitable results." Mr. Barnes said.

The chamber's summary of reports submitted by industries and trade associations cited an increase of savings deposits in December and a reduction to normal volume of applications for loans on life insurance policies as indices of a gradual return to business stability.

"Industries in the construction group report the usual seasonal dip," the report continued, "but indicate a more encouraging outlook for the coming months. Paper and pulp activities remain at a high level for this time of the year.

"Utilities observe a slight slowing down in the rate of increase in the industrial use of gas and electricity, but the trend remains upward.

"Exports have fallen off, as a result of disturbed foreign conditions. Import trade is increasing. The mining group shows no definite change. Anthracite coal is active and bituminous stocks are reported to be low."

A slight falling off was experienced in the cotton and wool branches of the textile group, but rayon is expanding and silk maintains its activity, Mr. Barnes said.

"Both retail and wholesale distribution dipped slightly toward the end of the year," he added, "but stocks are generally reported low and a prompt pick-up is anticipated. In the radio field, which looked for serious recessions, one important manufacturer reports a decided increase."

$46,882,000 BONDS OFFERED THIS WEEK

Total Is $22,000,000 Less Than Last Week—One Issue Dominant in Each Case.

3 FOREIGN LOANS ON LIST

Seven Domestic Flotations Led by That of Trenton, N. J.—New Loans on Way.

New offerings of bonds for the first full week of the new year totaled $46,882,000, compared with $68,661,000 in the previous week and with $13,651,978 in the corresponding week last year. As was the case last week, a single issue accounted for most of the new financing.

The principal offering was that of $30,000,000 Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston three-year 5 per cent notes, marketed on a 5.45 per cent basis by a group headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. Prior to the formal public offering, orders exceeded the total of the issue. This issue was exceeded this year only by that of $60,000,000 for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., last week.

The largest foreign loan brought out this week was of $4,000,000 Province of Buenos Aires six months' 6½ per cent notes, which were quickly oversubscribed. The two other foreign loans were Canadian municipals.

Seven domestic municipal issues were placed, the largest being $2,432,000 City of Trenton (N. J.) 4½ per cent bonds, offered to net 4.20 to 4.25 per cent.

Offerings by groups of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$31,000,000	....
Foreign	10,000,000	....
State and municipal	5,882,000	$5,661,000
Investment corporation	....	60,000,000
Industrial	....	3,000,000
Total	$46,882,000	$68,661,000

Talk of new foreign financing was renewed this week, but in most instances such financing is still a considerable distance away. Most of such loans range in size from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000 with the average about $10,000,000.

GAIN FOR GRIGSBY-GRUNOW.

$1.99 a Share Earned—Concern to Enter Refrigeration Field This Year

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—B. J. Grigsby, president of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, issued tonight his semi-annual report to stockholders and said the company would enter the electric refrigeration field in 1930.

"Because theis field is the opposite in its seasonal aspect to radio and the adaptability of our equipment to its manufacture," he said, "we are very optimistic as to results. Large economies should result due to lessened labor turnover and a leveled sales curve. Under a contract with Radio Corporation of America, General Electric and associated companies, our radio tube shortly will be transferred to a separate corporation, of which stock representing our company's interest therein, will be distributed to the stockholders."

Net income of Grigsby-Grunow for the six months ended on Nov. 30 was $3,989,717, equivalent to $1.99 a share on 1,997,897 shares of stock outstanding, including 249,737 shares issued on Nov. 21 and sold to bankers. For the corresponding period in 1928 the net income was $2,642,646, equivalent to $1.94 a share on a comparable basis.

The report shows current assets of $26,037,313 and current liabilities of $10,067,227. Surplus stands at $7,105,729.

BONDHOLDERS' PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE
Bonds Issued and Sold by The F. H. Smith Co., Inc. (A Delaware Corporation).

To Holders of Bonds issued and Sold by The F. H. Smith Co., Inc.:

The undersigned have been requested by the holders of a large amount of bonds heretofore issued and sold by The F. H. Smith Co., Inc., a Delaware Corporation, to act as a Committee, and have consented to so act, for the protection of the interests of such bondholders.

The necessity for a committee is due to the following facts:

1. Bondholders are widely located throughout the United States and therefore cannot effectively protect their interests except by acting in concert with each other through a committee duly appointed for that purpose.

2. Legal proceedings have been instituted against the company and its principal officers and directors in Washington, D. C., Wilmington, Delaware, and New York, in which charges of mismanagement, waste and conversion of the assets of the company and its various subsidiary corporations are made, and for the appointment of receivers.

3. A suit has been instituted by the Attorney General of the State of Delaware to forfeit the company's charter.

4. The F. H. Smith Co., Inc., has been enjoined from the sale of its securities in the State of New York on an application made by the Attorney General of the State under the Martin Act.

5. Other legal proceedings have been instituted against the company and several of its principal officers and directors.

In view of the critical condition of the affairs of the Company, the Committee is convinced that the interests of bondholders can only be conserved by promptly depositing their bonds with the Broadway National Bank and Trust Company of New York, 281 Fifth Avenue, New York City, which has been designated the Depositary of the Committee, and which will issue to depositing bondholders its negotiable receipts.

Bondholders who deposit their bonds will be kept promptly informed of all matters affecting their interest.

Brisk Opening Yields Later to Dullness — Upswing on the German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The stock markets were cheerful today despite keen disappointment that the bank rate was not reduced yesterday. A sharp advance to £92⅞ occurred in the 4 per cent Victory bonds, while other gilt-edge securities were in good demand. The war loan rose ⅛ to £101⅛, with the funding loan up ⅜ to £87.

Internationals forged upward, led by Columbia Graphophone, which rose ⅛ to £6⅛. His Master's Voice Gramaphone was £4¾. Hydroelectric advanced 1½ to 44¼ and Associated Electric was strong at 27s 3d, but General Electric fell 3d to 45s 9d. United States Steel leaped 2½ to 177, while Brazilian Traction was 1½ higher at 40¾.

International Nickel joined the upward procession, rising 1⅝ to 37⅝. Ford advanced ⅛ to £2⅞, while Canadian Pacific gained 1½ to $197. Oils were buoyant, notably Royal Dutch at 33⅛, Canadian Eagles at 12s 10½d and Shell at £4⅜.

Rubber was still flat, with the price of the commodity plunging to a new low of 7¼d a pound. Rand Mines, which had been booming all the week, sagged slightly to £3⅞, but most of the South Africans continued steady. Bwana rose 3d to 23s 9d in an active Rhodesian list.

Money was tight in Lombard Street, with the overnight rate sometimes exceeding 3¾ per cent. Discount rates sagged to 4 per cent for three-month bills. Sterling was dull at $4.86⅝, but the Spanish peseta rallied from its recent crash to 37.45 per pound sterling. The Bank of England received £1,000,000 in sovereigns from Australia and bought £1,153 of bar gold, while £29,237 of bar gold was sold.

Paris Dull in Late Trading.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Bourse trading was brisk today during the opening period, so that the volume of transactions again advanced. A good portion of the market, however, was quiet and the afternoon period dull.

Failure of the Bank of England to reduce the discount rate has not caused any concern here and it is still hoped that the arrangement of a uniform rate in European countries will be realized soon.

There were numerous offers of rentes today, but they were quickly absorbed, and the following closing prices showed the levels unchanged: The 3 per cents, 87.75; 1918 4s, 99.85; 1920 amortizable 5s, 136.10; 1928 5s, 105.60; 1920 6s, 105.05; 1927 amortizable 6s, 112.90.

Prices Firm in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Today's session on the Boerse was the firmest since the beginning of the new year and with few exceptions most stocks registered considerable gains. Although the volume of business transacted was larger than on the previous day, the improvements were to a certain extent due to the emptiness of the market.

Artificial silks especially were strong, Bemberg advancing 13 and Akushares 9 points. Stoehr of the textiles improved 10 points. The electricals, primarily Siemens and A. E. G., Reichsbank shares, the potash group, Dye Trust, Celanese, Karstadt of the department stores, and Polyphone were much sought also from abroad and gains averaged 5 to 6 points. The mining group was slightly neglected, but was steady.

The upward movement continued after the closing hour. Call money was in demand at 5½ to 7½ per cent.

STEEL'S ORDERS UP SHARPLY IN MONTH

Corporation Reports 291,848 Gain in Unfilled Tonnage in December.

BIG INCREASE OVER 1928

Second Largest Month Since February, 1926 — Production Steadily Mounting.

Unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation increased 291,848 tons in December, according to the monthly statement issued by the company yesterday. This increase was in line with the most optimistic predicitions which have been made during the past week. While the holidays and the reduced rate of operations undoubtedly lowered the deliveries for the month, the increased unfilled tonnage also reflects good orders received during the period.

The unfilled tonnage on Dec. 31, 1929, was 4,417,193 tons, compared with 4,125,345 tons on Nov. 30. This year-end total is nearly 500,000 tons greater than the corporation had at the end of 1928 and is only 10,570 tons below the figures noted at the end of April when the total was 4,427,763 tons. It is the second largest month since February, 1926, when the unfilled orders amounted to 4,616,822 tons.

The following table gives the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation at the end of each month since the beginning of 1926:

(Last three figures omitted.)

	1929.	1928.	1927.	1926.
January	4,109	4,275	3,800	4,882
February	4,144	4,398	3,597	4,616
March	4,410	4,335	3,553	4,379
April	4,427	3,872	3,455	3,867
May	4,304	3,416	3,050	3,649
June	4,256	3,637	4,053	3,478
July	4,088	3,570	3,142	3,602
August	3,658	3,624	3,196	3,542
September	3,902	3,698	3,148	3,593
October	4,086	3,751	3,341	2,683
November	4,125	3,673	3,454	3,807
December	4,417	3,976	3,976	3,960

While the corporation does not announce the tonnage of orders shipped during the month, it is estimated that they did not exceed 750,000 tons because of the low rate of operations and the holiday curtailment at the end of the month. If this estimate is correct it indicates new orders in excess of 1,000,000 tons were received during the month. This figure is an increase of more than 100,000 tons over the estimated orders received by the corporation in November, and indicates that expectations of increased buying of steel toward the year-end have been realized.

Orders are expected to increase greatly during January, due to the ending of inventory takings with the consequent replenishing of supplies. The fact that the corporation is also steadily increasing its rate of operations is taken as an indication that the orders so far received since the beginning of the year have come up to expectations.

Washington Looks for Canada To Borrow Money Here Soon

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Extensive Canadian loans in the New York market for the purpose of returning the Dominion to an actual gold standard are a prospect of the near future, in the opinion of some government financial experts.

In view of the excellent credit which the Canadian Government has, there is not the slightest doubt, it was said today, that Canada could obtain such a loan in almost any amount at an attractive rate of interest, perhaps not in excess of 5 per cent.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS REPORT INCREASES

United States and Foreign Securities and Subsidiary Show $98,896,209 Assets.

SURPLUSES UP $10,174,701

Statements Reveal Purchasing Costs of Holdings and the Present Market Values.

The annual reports of the United States and Foreign Securities Corporation and its subsidiary, the United States and International Securities Corporation, investment companies sponsored by Dillon, Read & Co., were made public yesterday. They show total assets for the two companies, with securities figured at cost, of $98,896,209 as of Dec. 31.

United States and Foreign reported a net income for 1929 of $11,710,089, equivalent, after Federal taxes and preferred dividends, to $9.91 a share on the outstanding common stock, compared with $7,652,887 or $5.85 a share in 1928.

An increase in the surplus of $9,910,336 was made during the year, bringing the total surplus to $22,134,702. Cash and loans on Dec. 31 amounted to $20,538,430. Securities in the company's portfolio were valued at $41,684,315, based on available market quotations or "estimated fair value," compared with a cost of $33,341,623, indicating an appreciation of $8,342,682. The company's investment in United States and International Securities Corporation was carried at the cost price, $9,304,963, in the balance sheet as of Dec. 31. Upon this basis, net asset value of United States and Foreign common stock was approximately $30.57 a share, as of Dec. 31.

International's Values.

United States and International Securities Corporation reported that the aggregate market value of its securities and its interest in syndicate accounts decreased $2,675,000, compared with the cost price, during 1929. This depreciation, however, was partly offset by a net income of $1,592,447. The company's securities, at market price or "estimated fair value" were valued at $37,067,836 on Dec. 31.

United States and International announced that during the year it had purchased for retirement 5,563 shares of its first preferred stock at a price below the figure at which it carried the stock on its books, the purchase resulting in an addition to surplus of $164,365.

WEST JERSEY DEAL WITH P.R.R. REVIVED

Committee of Seashore Line Is Appointed to Consider Lease of the Property.

RISE OF STOCK EXPLAINED

Rumor of Intended Move Gave 6% Basis for Deal—Both Directorates Interlock.

Revival of the old project of the Pennsylvania Railroad to merge the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad was disclosed yesterday in an announcement by directors of the controlled road that a committee had been appointed to consider the lease of its property and franchises to the Pennsylvania. The committee comprises William J. Sewell Jr., Joseph W. Cooper, A. C. Middleton and David Baird Jr., all directors of the short line.

The Pennsylvania owns $45,350 of the $98,250 guaranteed stock and $6,747,900 of the $11,586,450 common stock of the West Jersey outstanding. A proposal to lease the West Jersey to the Pennsylvania for 999 years was denied by the New Jersey Public Utility Commission, and this denial was sustained by the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals in 1915. The recent consolidation plan published by the Interstate Commerce Commission awarded the West Jersey & Seashore to the Pennsylvania.

Yesterday's announcement explains a rise of about ten points in about two months of West Jersey stock on the Philadelphia Stock Exchange. The rise was accompanied by reports of a lease on a 6 per cent basis.

The West Jersey runs to resort points and its traffic is chiefly in passengers. Motor car competition has cut its revenues in late years, but in recent months it has increased its net operating income despite decreases in gross. Its common stock pays 5 per cent.

The directorate of the West Jersey interlocks with that of the Pennsylvania. The merger proposal comes at a time when the New York Central is completing the merger of the Big Four and the Michigan Central, to go into effect on Feb. 1.

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR READING POWER

Philadelphia Company to Supply Electricity for Suburban Lines at $1,500,000 Annually.

William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric Company, a subsidiary of the United Gas Improvement Company, and Agnew T. Dice, president of the Reading Company, yesterday signed one of the largest contracts in the history of the public utility industry. It provides for the supply of electric power for the electrified suburban lines of the Reading System.

The contract will involve the ultimate expenditure of $1,500,000 a year. The negotiations covered three years. The power will be used for the operation of electric trains, including electric heating, and also for a new electric color light signal system which is being installed throughout Reading's metropolitan Philadelphia district.

The contract will be in effect twenty years and may be extended ten years. It may be terminated at the end of ten years, however, by the Reading with certain provisions for the purchase of equipment installed by the Philadelphia Electric Company for the exclusive use of the Reading Company.

The Conowingo water power generating station on the Susquehanna River and several steam generating stations will supply power to be used by the Reading Company. The railroad will be supplied by underground 13,000-volt cables carried to a frequency changing station to be erected at Wayne Junction by the Philadelphia Electric Company at an approximate cost of $1,500,000.

LOW MILL TAKINGS HIT COTTON PRICES

Consumption in December Was Smallest for Month Since 1920, Except in 1923.

EXPORTS ALSO DECREASED

World's Spinners Estimated to Have Used 400,000 Bales Less Than Last Season.

An estimate by the Cotton Exchange Service that domestic mills had used only 477,000 bales in December counteracted yesterday the influence of the improvement shown in goods sales, and prices were set back a dollar a bale. Consumption was placed at the smallest figure for any December since 1920 with the exception of 1923, when there was an actual scarcity of raw material. With a sharp break in wheat, the market came under increased weight of contracts, leaving final quotations 11 to 16 points off on the day.

An advance of a quarter cent in American spot quotations in Liverpool and further improvement in contract prices there started the local market slightly above previous closing levels, but early buying orders were readily supplied and professional operators resold contracts as the session progressed. Estimates of smaller spinners' takings than last year and exports totaling 654,000 bales under the corresponding date last season influenced sentiment. Dry goods advices reflected a general opinion that a continuation of curtailment will be necessary until more active distribution develops.

Week-end figures showed world spinners have taken about 400,000 fewer bales than last season to date, and a smaller decrease in the visible supply than last year left the world's supply of American cotton 100,000 bales larger than a year ago. The visible supply of all kinds increased 43,000, to 8,140,000 bales, or about 300,000 larger than last year and 750,000 greater than two years ago.

Mining Company's Output Declined.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 10 (Canadian Press).—Production of metals by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., for 1929 showed a large drop, as compared with the previous year, according to the official figures made public today. Zinc is the only metal in which an increase was reported. In spite of the lower tonnage figures, the earnings of the company have been well maintained by the higher prices which have prevailed.

FEAR OF BIG CROP DROPS WHEAT 3C

Prices Lowest Since Dec. 21 as McKelvie of Farm Board Deplores Great Acreage.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Wheat sold at the lowest figures today since Dec. 21, May dropping to $1.29 as the result of general selling induced by a statement by S. R. McKelvie of the Federal Farm Board in Topeka, Kan., in which he mentioned the possibility of a domestic crop of 900,000,000 bushels for 1930 if Spring wheat farmers increased their acreage, as they apparently intend to do. Prices dropped 3½ cents from yesterday's finish, with stop-loss orders uncovered. The market showed little disposition to rally, closing 3 to 3¼ cents lower, with January quoted at $1.21⅞, or within 3⅞ cents of the Farm Board loan price on No. 1 hard.

Further selling of wheat at Winnipeg was attributed to Chicago account, and the trade continued to feel that longs in rye had been hedging their holdings by sales of wheat. Winnipeg closed 2⅞ to 3⅛ cents lower, while Buenos Aires dropped 1⅛ cents and Rosario 1⅝ to 1¾ cents. Argentine markets did not fully reflect the decline in North America. Liverpool was ⅛ to ½d. higher, but there was no aggressive buying.

Cables reporting that Russia was offering wheat in Europe and had sold 1,200,000 to 1,600,000 bushels of rye to Scandinavia had some effect on sentiment, which became extremely bearish, especially toward the last, when it was found there was relatively little support. July wheat gained fractionally on the May and closed 1 cent over the near-by future, although no complaints were made regarding the outlook for the new crop.

Primary receipts were 650,000 bushels; a week ago 617,000 and a year ago 578,000. Shipments were 506,000 bushels; a week ago 515,000 and a year ago 535,000.

Corn was firm early, despite selling by local and cash interests. Later the break in wheat caused the pit element to take the selling side, and the close was at about the bottom, with net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents, outside buying being absent. Primary receipts were 1,168,000 bushels; a week ago 1,284,000 and a year ago 1,161,000. Shipments were 654,000 bushels; a week ago 579,000 and a year ago 871,000.

Oats were dull and easier with other grains and closed ⅝ cent lower. Houses with Northwestern connections were fair sellers.

Rye lost 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents in sympathy with wheat. The reported Russian sales to Norway had little effect, although requirements of the latter country are said to have been filled until May. The market acted congested owing to the large holdings of cash grain.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.
Thursday 5 to 5¼ per cent for the best names.

⁂

Bleached Muslin Price Cut.

A reduction of a cent a yard in the price of "Fruit of the Loom" 4-4 bleached muslin was announced yesterday by Fruit of the Loom Mills, Inc., covering deliveries during this month, February and March. The new quotation on the goods is 17½ cents. The reduction represents the first price change made on them since March, 1929. None of the other leading brands of bleached muslins had been repriced up to late yesterday afternoon.

⁂

Silver Fox Brought $2,050,000.

The special silver fox sale of Frederick Huth & Co., which has been going on here since last Monday, concluded yesterday with a total realization of $2,050,000. Prices throughout showed an average decline of about 25 per cent from those obtained at a similar Huth sale here last January. About 80 per cent of the total offering was estimated actually to have changed hands. Tops for the various grades reached during the sale were full silver, $500; three-quarter silver, $650; one-half silver, $300; one-quarter silver, $140; one-eighth silver, $82.50, and black, $80. Prompt day for the sale will be Feb. 5.

Cotton Blankets Reported Lower.

The first indication of cotton blanket prices for the new season came to light in this market yesterday with the report that quotations had been made confidentially on one of the less important lines on a basis about 2½ per cent under the corresponding 1929 opening figures. A sales executive of the concern named in the report refused to confirm it. The only previous information which had been available on 1930 blankets was that prices on standard lines of jacquards and specialties had been cut 5 per cent. General openings of all-wool and part-wool lines are scheduled for next Tuesday.

Derbies and Opera Hats Gaining.

Sales of derby hats at retail are easily running 10 per cent ahead of last year at this time, according to a leading retailer here. He finds that the vogue for velvet collar overcoats has done much to aid derby sales, together with the tendency of more consumers to purchase a derby "as an extra hat." The sale of opera and silk hats has also gained, although not to the same extent as a year ago. The period of greatest demand for these hats, this executive said, runs from about the middle of this month to March.

Activity in Home Items a Surprise.

Contrary to expectations, manufacturers of gift novelties and small utility items for the home have enjoyed an excellent business during the first two weeks of this month. Buyers have come to the market earlier than usual and have placed numerous orders for regular merchandise. This early activity along normal lines has given a tone of confidence to the industries affected and fears of a decline in volume have disappeared entirely in many quarters. Active buying on the part of the retailers is attributed to the fact that stores were over-cautious when filling their Christmas requirements, and as a result, ran short of goods.

Silk Group for Vestal Bill.

Approval in principle of the Vestal bill, providing for the protection of original designs, was announced yesterday by the executive committee of the design piracy group of the Silk Association. The group, it was stated by Sol C. Moss, chairman, will make a concerted effort toward the passing of the measure, subject to any modifications deemed necessary after further study. He called attention to the fact that hearings on the bill will be held before the Ways and Means Committee of the House in the near future.

Kitchenware Orders Placed.

Fill-in orders for current requirements and requests for special merchandise for impending sales furnished a fair degree of activity for manufacturers of kitchenware this week. A number of buyers visited the market for sales goods and their orders were augmented by requests sent in by mail. Electrical appliances for home use were also in fair demand. Specially priced heaters, percolators, toasters and waffle irons were most in demand.

⁂

Seasonal Quiet in Glass Trade.

Conditions in the window glass field have undergone virtually no change of late, The American Glass Review will say today. Demand is slow and the week witnessed no impetus to speak of in movement of stocks from manufacturers' warehouses. Movement of plate glass is none too active, reflecting the customary slackening at this time of the year. With the Autuomobile Show now concluding here and others soon to be held in other cities, an early revival of activities in that industry is in prospect. A corresponding quickening in demand for plate and laminated glass is expected.

Bituminous Demand Holds Up.

The movement of bituminous coal so far this month has been on a par with that of early December, when tonnage was being produced at the rate of 11,000,000 a week, Saward's Journal will say today. There have been some slight recessions, due to smaller orders from railroads and to reduced heating requirements, but most industries are using as much coal as they did before the turn of the year. Suspensions and drastic reductions are exceptions rather than the rule. In the anthracite market the volume fell somewhat under the early December orders for fuel for domestic use. Mild weather is blamed.

Gray Goods Not Active Here.

Gray goods trading was not active here yesterday and more disposition was shown to sell standard printcloth constructions under recent levels. Some mills, however, still held out for the recent tops. Sales included 39-inch 68-72s at 7¾ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 6¾ cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 5¾ cents. For 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings 7¼ to 7½ cents was paid, depending on quality. Buyers took 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings at 10 cents, and they also bought 36-inch 5.50s at 5½. There was trading in 37-inch 3.95-yard drills at 7¼ cents, and 11¼ cents was done on 40-inch 88-80, 8.50 yard combed lawns.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

The sugar futures market was easier during early trading yesterday, due to selling by trade houses and also by European interests. As a result, prices at one time were 3 to 5 points lower. Late in the afternoon, however, trade houses entered the market as buyers covering short hedges, and prices rallied, with final quotations 1 to 3 points lower.

The raw market was more active. There were sales of 2,150 tons of Philippines, 6,500 tons of Porto Ricos, and 1,000 tons of Cubas ex-warehouse at 3.77 to a local refiner, and later 4,150 tons of Porto Ricos, prompt shipment, at 3.80, the latter being equivalent to 21/32. There was general buying interest at 3.77, with outport refiners interested at 3.80. London was quiet and easier. Refined sugar locally was unchanged, with good withdrawals.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Dwelling Sales Feature Wide Variety of Activity in Manhattan Properties.

BANK FOR YORKVILLE SITE

American Union to Build Modern Quarters at First Avenue and East Eighty-first Street.

Real estate yesterday kept up its wide variety and slightly increased volume of activity. Although there was an absence of outstanding deals, the market made a good showing in the number of widely scattered transactions. Brokers' reports indicated that there is a substantial demand for apartment and business space in Manhattan.

The growing demand for banking facilities in the Yorkville area will be met by the erection of modern quarters at the southeast corner of First Avenue and East Eighty-first Street, it was learned when plans were announced for a new branch of the American Union Bank. The site was formerly improved with a motion picture theatre, which was demolished after the sale of the corner to the bank by Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum, Inc., operators. The Mandelbaums had acquired the realty from the Wohlfarth estate, and in its resale there was no indication of what disposition would be made of the property by the new owners until announcement of the banking project yesterday.

The new structure will be two stories, with ground floor stores rented out and the bank occupying the entire second floor. This will be the Yorkville branch of the American Union Bank, replacing the present branch at 1,597 Second Avenue. The building will be ready for occupany in March or April. The Corn Exchange Bank and the National City Bank have recently established Yorkville branches.

Other sales of Manhattan residences were announced. Mathilde, Madeline and Frederic Hess sold the four-story house at 404 East Fiftieth Street to the Mitchell Place Realty Corporation, which owns the adjoining property and now controls sixty feet on Sixtieth Street and 100 feet on First Avenue, adjoining the twenty-six-story Pan Hellenic Hotel. The entire site will be improved by James J. Summers, who had previously acquired the lease on the corner, with an apartment house. Butts & Molloy, Inc., were the brokers.

The three-story residence at 117 Manhattan Avenue, between 104th and 10th Streets, was sold by Alexander H. Neuowich to Maurice Mencher of the law firm of Mencher, Sacher & Mencher. The property is thirty-seven feet from the southwest corner of 105th Street and includes a private garage. The sale was handled by the Houghton Company, broker.

Charles Mager and Anna Isselhardt sold to the Huestes Realty Company, Max Greenberg, president, the four-story tenement house at 1,071 Second Avenue, near the south corner of Fifty-seventh Street. The buyer also owns 1,073 Second Avenue. The Leonard S. Gans Company acted as broker.

The same broker sold to Edgar A. Levy for A. M. Rau and others the northeast corner of Canal Street and Sixth Avenue, known as 393-395 Canal Street.

The Warrington Holding Corporation sold the three five-story flats at 505, 507 and 509 West Fifty-second Street, seventy-five feet west of Tenth Avenue, to the Kesdir Realty Corporation, Jacob Kessler, president. George H. McCullough was the broker.

Jacob Goodman sold to an investor the five-story clubhouse and dwelling which he recently purchased at 762 St. Nicholas Avenue, size 20 by 125 feet. The purchaser intends making extensive alterations for immediate occupancy.

REALTY FINANCING.

Loans secured by mortgages on the following properties were announced yesterday:

Cyrus C. Miller, president of the Exchange, in a statement regarding listings, said: "Operation of the Exchange has stimulated a large number of inquiries, many of them relative to securities not now listed or admitted to trading on an unlisted basis. Mr. Miller said, In these instances, the Committee on Listing considers the securities.

"If they pass the test of requirements, they are approved for unlisted trading. If application is made for their listing on the Exchange, they will be listed, if the result of the investigation is favorable, and traded on the Exchange as listed securities.

"The committee expects shortly to be ready to announce additions to the present listings. Requests for information on the method of operation seek to learn how investors may buy or sell. So far, more have wanted to know about buying."

It is understood that some of the bond and stock issuing institutions, as well as individual concerns, are not in favor of having their issues traded in or listed on the Exchange.

Fred F. French of the Fred F. French Company, which built Tudor City and owns many valuable parcels of Manhattan real estate, protested against having the various issues of his companies listed or traded in in the Exchange, and threatened legal action if they were.

An official of the Exchange said last evening that it was likely there would be some protests regarding the list of stocks and bonds admitted to unlisted trading, but so far the only one on record was that of the Fred F. French Company. Yesterdays sales and bid and asked quotations were as follows:

VACANCY SURVEY DROPPED.

But Tenement House Commissioner Deegan Will Gather East Side Data.

The apartment house survey of Manhattan, usually held in January by the Tenement House Department for the purpose of gathering statistics on vacancies in suites of various price levels, will not be conducted this year, Commissioner William F. Deegan said yesterday.

"The value of such a survey has diminished with an increase in apartment house construction, which has overcome the housing shortage so acute a few years ago," Mr. Deegan said, "and we haven't enough men available to cover this task, which requires nearly two months. Our men are busy on inspections and in other work incident to the new multiple-dwelling law."

The commissioner added that he expected to direct a special survey soon into the vacancy situation on the lower east side, a section built up largely in old-law houses. He has received reports that the number of unoccupied apartments in that territory has been increasing in recent months.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.—The disturbance that was over the Ohio Valley Thursday night has moved rapidly eastward, being central tonight south of Sable Island, and the Far Western disturbance has moved slowly eastward over California and the southern plateau region. The disturbance over the ocean northeast of the Bahamas is still of only moderate intensity. Another disturbance is moving rapidly eastward over Eastern Alaska and the lower Mackenzie Valley, and pressure remains abnormally lower over the Greenland-Iceland area.

Pressure is high over the greater part of North America except the plateau region and the Pacific States, and it is abnormally high from Ontario and Western Quebec southward to the Ohio Valley and the Middle Atlantic States.

Mostly fair weather will prevail Saturday in the Washington forecast district, but the eastward advance of the western disturbance will cause much cloudiness during Sunday, and precipitation is probable by Sunday afternoon or night over practically all sections east of the Mississippi River except the Florida Peninsula.

The temperature will be lower in the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States and Southern Appalachian region Saturday, and it will rise slowly Sunday in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States.

STORING OF FREIGHT ON PIERS IS UPHELD

Appellate Division Voids Writ Setting 15-Day Maximum for Removal of Shipments.

GOODS STILL "IN TRANSIT"

Warehousemen's Association Had Sued to Compel Railroads to Alter Their Handling Methods.

The storage of newsprint and other emergency merchandise on piers in the East and Hudson Rivers, which was attacked by the Warehousemen's Association of the Port of New York and was temporarily checked when it obtained a writ of mandamus restraining Dock Commissioner Michael Cosgrove from permitting the practice, won legal sanction yesterday in a decision handed down by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

The original writ granted by the Supreme Court was based on a decision that the city piers were being used illegally by the New York Central, the Lehigh Valley and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Companies. Commissioner Cosgrove was ordered to have freight removed after a maximum of fifteen days because it "encumbered and interfered with the free use of the piers."

The Appellate Division holds that there is no proof that a public interest is affected adversely by the storage practice and rules that the capacity of the Warehousemen's Association, "based as it is upon an endeavor to divert a portion of the business of warehousing into premises of members of the petitioning association" is not sufficiently established to permit it to bring action. The court holds that the railroads, which were made codefendants with Commissioner Cosgrove at their own request, were carrying out their ordinary functions as transportation lines in storing freight on the piers.

It pointed out that the original decision granting the mandamus was based on a previous decision in an action brought by the Warehousemen's Association against Commissioner Cosgrove, in which it was held that the use of piers for storage or warehouse piers encumbered them. The Appellate Division denied that this holding was valid, as the piers were leased exclusively to the companies using them and they could not therefore be impeded by themselves.

Under the Greater New York Charter, the lessees of city piers are permitted to erect and maintain sheds to protect cargo. The defendant railroad companies acted within this right, the Appellate Division holds, and retained on the piers only such freight as had been received over the rail lines or was about to be shipped. Thus the status of the freight in the present case is different from that in the case used as an authority for the granting of the mandamus, the court holds. It continues as follows:

"In the cited case the transportation had been completely halted and the goods were 'in storage.' Here the merchandise is held during the implied continuance of transportation. The storage business in the former case bore no relation to the transportation of the goods which were stored. Here the companies are all engaged in the transportation business, and as an integral part of their public duty thereunder, merchandise is temporarily held by these carriers for the convenience of the shipper or the consignee.

"The merchandise here is still 'in transit,' for concededly it has not been delivered to the consignee. Nor do we think that a writ of mandamus in a case of this kind is an appropriate remedy 'to compel a course of official conduct, or long series of continuous acts, as it is impossible for the court to oversee the performance of such duties.' The enforcement of this mandate would be quite impracticable. The order should not have been granted, and must be reversed."

W. E. GRIFFITH RETIRES AS FLEET MANAGER

Will Go to Virginia Farm While E. E. Crowley, Former Head of Corporation, Succeeds Him.

Announcement of the retirement of Captain William E. Griffith as manager of the New York office of the Merchant Fleet Corporation and of the appointment of Captain Elmer E. Crowley, former president of the corporation, as his successor was made yesterday at the offices at 45 Broadway. The change will be effective next Wednesday.

Captain Griffith will go to his farm in Lancaster County, Virginia, after thirty years of marine activity, at sea and shore.

Captain Griffith went to sea when he was 20 years old and spent about twenty years at sea. He ended his sea career after fifteen years of service with the New York and Porto Rico Line, coming ashore in January, 1918, to take charge of the government's fleet activities at Hampton Roads. He remained there as district director until 1922.

When A. D. Lasker became chairman of the United States Shipping Board in 1925, and A. J. Frey became vice president in charge of operations, Captain Griffith was taken to Washington as manager of the board's operating department. In 1925 he resigned and spent a year on his farm. When General A. C. Dalton became president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation a year later he offered Captain Griffith the management of the New York office, which he accepted, taking charge here in August, 1926.

Several months ago General Dalton resigned as president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation and T. V. O'Connor assumed the position temporarily. John R. Gordon was appointed to the presidency two weeks ago and several rumors were circulated concerning changes of personnel.

In shipping circles surprise was expressed yesterday at the retirement of Captain Griffith.

Captain Crowley has had a long experience at sea, is an experienced navigator and once commanded the largest sailing vessel in the world, the seven-master Thomas W. Lawson.

PLAN RAISING SUNKEN SHIP.

Engineers to Work on Removal of Fort Victoria From Channel.

Army engineers plan to have specifications for the removal of the Furness-Bermuda liner Fort Victoria from the entrance to Ambrose Channel prepared within the month and expect that work will be started in the early Spring. The ship was rammed and sunk on Dec. 19 by the Clyde liner Algonquin during a heavy fog, and she now constitutes a menace to navigation.

The ship has been abandoned by the line and her place in the Bermuda run has been taken by another ship. At the office of Colonel G. M. Hoffman, engineer in charge of the army district, it was said that every effort would be made to salvage the ship's mail. Estimates of the cost were not available.

BEGINS PASSENGER SERVICE

Liner Republic Leaves Philadelphia Amid Civic Demonstration.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—With the city staging a farewell demonstration and a crowd estimated at 12,000 persons at the pier, the United States liner Republic sailed today for the West Indies on a cruise which Philadelphians hope will be the forerunner of regular transatlantic passenger service from this port.

Captain H. A. Moore told Mayor Mackey that the passenger list of 270 persons "exceeds by 100 our expectations, and overtops that of any other cruise to the tropics from other ports."

TRADE GAIN SHOWN BY CHECK PAYMENTS

Volume in Week of Jan. 4 Was Above Previous Week, but Below Last Year.

STEEL ACTIVITY REDUCED

Cattle Receipts Increased, but Wheat, Cotton and Hogs Fell Off at Primary Markets.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Commercial transactions during the week ending Jan. 4, as measured by the volume of checks presented to the banks for payment, were substantially larger than during the previous week, although less than a year ago, according to today's weekly statement of the Department of Commerce on business conditions.

Steel plants were operating at a lower level than in the corresponding period of last year. Receipts of wheat, cotton and hogs at the principal markets were smaller than in 1928, while receipts of cattle exceeded those of a year ago.

The distribution of goods, as indicated by the volume of carloadings for the latest reported week, was lower than in the same period of a year ago.

The general index of wholesale prices was fractionally less than during the preceding week and considerably lower than a year ago. Cotton prices also declined from the previous week, while the price of wheat increased and was also considerably above last year's level.

"Interest rates on time money remained at the same level as during recent weeks but rates on call money were considerably above recent levels," the department said. "Bond prices increased fractionally but were substantially lower than a year ago. Business failures were somewhat more numerous than during either the previous week or the corresponding week of last year."

The business indicators for the weeks ending Jan. 4, and Dec. 28, as compared with the week ending Jan. 5, 1928, and with the 1923-25 average of 100, were given as follows:

	1930. Jan. 4.	1929. Dec. 28.	Jan. 5.

BOISSEVAIN ESTATE WAS ONLY $14,245

He Inherited Half Interest in $1,204,050 From Mother Four Months Before Death.

MRS. ADAMS LEFT $478,110

Bulk of Property in Securities—W. W. Kelchner, School Head, Had $1,067,151 Estate.

Although Mynhart J. Boissevain inherited a life interest in half the residue of the $1,204,050 estate of his mother, Mrs. Arabella M. Boissevain, he left only $14,245 when he died on Oct. 31, 1928, four months after his mother's death, according to the appraisal filed yesterday by Compton & Delaney, attorneys for the Irving Trust Company, executor. His own estate and his interest in his mother's property then went to his brother, John Magee Boissevain.

Mrs. Helen Adams Left $478,110.

The estate of Mrs. Helen Adams, who died on Jan. 30, 1929, was valued yesterday at $517,374 gross and $478,110 net, of which $20,000 went for life to her brother, William H. Coolidge, and $35,000 to her grandson, Thatcher M. Adams. The residue was divided among her children, Henry Coolidge Adams of Paget, Bermuda; William Adams of 15 East Thirty-eighth Street; Thomas Safford Adams of Flushing and Margaret Adams Greenleaf of Loudonville, N. Y. She owned securities worth $448,282 and had $59,550 in mortgages.

W. W. Kelchner Estate $1,067,151.

William W. Kelchner, who retired several years ago as principal of the High School at Williamsport, Pa., and died on June 24, 1928, left an estate appraised yesterday by Deputy Tax Commissioner Stephenson at $1,128,123 gross and $1,067,151 net, of which $1,096,414 was in securities. He had $29,277 in cash, while the remainder of the estate was personal property worth $2,119 and a $311 note.

Mr. Kelchner gave the residue, $1,062,026, to his wife, Helen V. Kelchner, and left $2,500 each to his children, William H., and Georgia Dunham Kelchner.

L. S. GIMBEL'S ESTATE WILLED TO FAMILY

Widow and Sons Get All but $30,500 of Millions—William Long Disposed of $100,000.

Louis S. Gimbel, retired vice president of Gimbel Brothers, department store owners, left all but $30,500 of his estate of several million dollars to his widow and two sons, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed for probate in Surrogate's court. His widow, Julia M. Gimbel of 555 Park Avenue, gets automobiles, other personal property and a life income from one-third of the residue. Upon her death the principal of her trust fund passes equally to the sons, Lee Adam Gimbel of 950 Park Avenue and Louis S. Gimbel Jr. of the Madison Hotel.

Both the sons receive the income equally from the remaining two-thirds of the residue until they reach the age of 35, when they get half the principal; at 40 they are to get the remainder of the principal.

The sons, both of whom became members of the New York Stock Exchange within the past year; the widow, and Edmond E. Wise, lawyer, of 888 Park Avenue, are named executors and trustees.

Of the $30,500 in specific bequests, $30,000 goes to charity. The Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies receives $7,500 and the Franciscan Missionaries of Mary, $2,500. Legacies of $5,000 each go to Villa Nova College, Villa Nova, Pa.; Big Sisters, Inc.; Presbyterian Hospital and Stony Wold Sanitarium, Lake Kushagua, N. Y.

The other specific bequests were made to household employes. Fraulein Valesca Kwitt received $2,500 and A. A. Abel and Anton and Julia Wranetih, all got $1,000 each.

William Long's Will Filed.

The will of William Long, sportsman, of 355 West Eighty-fourth Street, was offered for probate yesterday, disposing of an estate of more than $100,000. His widow, Loleta Long, gets a life income from the residue, the principal passing to a son, William Long Jr.

The only other legacies were $5,000 to each of three friends. They are Dr. Joseph S. Baldwin of 175 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn; Harry McKee Douglas of 156 East Seventy-ninth Street and Mrs. Dorothy Hayes of 228 Coleridge Street, Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn. Mr. Long died on Jan. 1.

PRESSES JERSEY PLEA FOR BREAD STANDARD

Report of Weights and Measures Officials Asks Additional Help and Equipment.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 10.—In its annual report to the Legislature, submitted to Governor Larson today, the State Department of weights and measures reviews its recommendation for adoption of standard weight for bread.

The report recommends that an assistant superintendent, another inspector and a clerk be added to the department to handle the increasing work and that new office and laboratory facilities be provided.

The suggested consolidation of the department with some other division of the State Government is opposed in the report.

Notwithstanding the repeated defeats met by bills to standardize the sale of bread, the campaign will be continued, it was said, until it succeeds.

During the year the department made a total of 1,499,146 inspections of equipment, such as scales, weights, measures, baskets, boxes, barrels and bottles, it was stated. As a result, there were 11,978 confsications. In addition, 249,198 reweighings were conducted, inaccuracies being found in 4,889 instances. Prosecutions numbered 105 and fines collected totaled $1,800.

An aggregate of 28,491 gasoline pumps were checked during the year, and 485,845,477 gallons of gasoline were dispensed in New Jersey, the report revealed.

Special investigation of butter sales resulted in uncovering practices calling for correction, the report said. One shipment of 37,000 pounds was rejected for short weight and inferior quality.

LAYS GARVIN SHOOTING TO JEALOUS OFFICER

Detroit Detective Charges That Another Inspector Hired Gangsters to Shoot Him.

DETROIT, Jan. 10 (AP).—Round-ups of underworld characters suspected of connection with the shooting of Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the police crime and bomb squad, were overshadowed tonight by alleged revelations by a detective of the Black Hand squad, which directed the investigation against the police themselves.

The Detroit News today published an account of charges said to have been made by this officer that the attack made on Inspector Garvin was engineered by another high police official and was the outgrowth of years of ill-feeling and jealousy. The same story included a complete denial by the detective of these charges.

The detective, according to the story, is Adolph Van Coppenolle, who, it is claimed, revealed how he and an inspector of police sat in an automobile six weeks ago and plotted to take Inspector Garvin's life. On this occasion, the newspaper says, the detective quoted the inspector as saying about Inspector Garvin:

"I'm tired of hearing about him and I'm going to have him bumped off, and you're going to help me."

Then, according to the story attributed to the detective, the two drove to an east side saloon where the latter went into arrange matters with gangsters. Instead of doing this, the detective is quoted as saying, he "double-crossed" the inspector and laid the whole matter before Inspector Garvin.

The charges, however, were later dropped.

HAMILTON HONORED ON 173D ANNIVERSARY

Patriotic Group Lay Wreaths at Base of Monument to Former Secretary of Treasury.

Brief and simple ceremonies commemorating the 173d anniversary today of the birth of Alexander Hamilton were held yesterday afternoon at the grave of the former Secretary of the Treasury in Trinity Churchyard. While a group of several hundred financial workers looked on, representatives of several patriotic societies, the National Republican Club and Columbia University laid wreaths at the foot of the marble monument, and Alexander Hamilton, a great-great-grandson of the honored national figure, extended the thanks of the family for the anniversary celebration.

Richard W. Lawrence, president of the National Republican Club, said:

"The organization I represent honors the patriot Hamilton today and rejoices in the foundation he laid for our protective tariff system in his famous 'Report on Manufactures' that has served and will serve for all time as an inspiration to those who believe in promoting the national interest by a sound system of protective tariff legislation."

The ceremonies consisted of a prayer led by the Rev. Dr. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity Parish, and the placing of the wreaths by:

Brig. Gen. OLIVER D. BRIDGEMAN, president of the New York Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution.

PELHAM ST. GEORGE BISSELL of Columbia University.

LLOYD STRIKER, president of the local alumni society of Hamilton College.

Mrs. RUDOLPH O. BOTHFELD of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

J. HENRY SMYTHE Jr., chairman of the committee of arrangements.

New Yorker Robbed in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP).—C. B. Holland of New York City today reported to the police the theft of $7,000 in securities and other valuables. He said he left them locked in his automobile while he was making a call. The thief got in, he said by removing the hinges from one of the doors.

MURDER-STORY FAN HUNTED AS SLAYER

Wife Found Shot After He Forced Her to Listen to Mystery Tale on the Radio.

RELATIVE ACCUSES HIM

Sister-in-Law Says He Admitted Crime When Noise of It Awoke Her in Jersey Home.

Mrs. Jennie Morales never liked murder stories; her husband, Louis, always had a ready ear for them. Late Thursday night while the couple were in the upper floor apartment of Morale's brother, Frank, at 579 Thirty-ninth Street, North Bergen, N. J., listening to the radio, Louis Morales was keenly attentive while Mrs. Morales fidgeted nervously as an anonymous entertainer intoned the fast-approaching climax of a fictional murder mystery.

Suddenly Mrs. Morales jumped from her chair.

"I'm going to bed. I never liked this blood and thunder stuff anyway."

"Wait a few minutes," urged her husband. "It'll be over in ten minutes."

She waited.

"Good story," said her husband as the narrative ended. Mrs. Morales smiled. They said goood night to Frank Morales and his wife Rose and descended to their lower floor flat, where their two children, Charles, 7, and Jerry, 4, were asleep in a room adjoining their bedroom.

Frank Morales and his wife retired in a room directly over the bedroom of their relatives about 11 o'clock.

Hours later Mrs. Rose Morales was awakened by rattling sounds. She sat up in bed, but the noise ceased. She vowed she would never again read or listen to a murder story. As she returned to her pillow there was a noise of shuffling feet below her. She ran to the door, calling down, "Who's there?"

"It's Louis."

"What's the matter?"

"I just killed Jennie," he replied.

As she ran to awaken her husband, she said, Louis, without a hat or overcoat dashed through a side door and jumped into his Chevrolet coach and fled.

Detectives were called and found three bullets in Mrs. Jennie Morales's body. A .32-calibre revolver was on a dresser.

Police were told the couple had married eight years ago and had been estranged several times. Mrs. Morales was 29 years old and her husband 33.

The Passaic police last night recovered the car in which Morales fled at the foot of Water Street and the Passaic River. They immediately began grappling for his body on the theory that he committed suicide.

Man Hit by Subway Train, Loses Leg

John Boswell, 45 years old, of 347 East Seventy-eighth Street, who for an unknown reason was on the tracks of the west-side subway at the Rector Street station, lost his right leg when he was struck by a southbound train early yesterday. Joseph Rogin, the motorman, said he had seen the man lying on the track too late to stop the train. One car passed over him and members of Police Emergency Squad 11 had to jack up the car to remove Boswell. At Bellevue Hospital his condition was pronounced critical.

GANGSTER IS SLAIN; FOUND IN HIS AUTO

Harry Veasey, Brooklyn "Giant Killer," Shot and Left in Car in Hoboken.

FOUGHT HARD FOR HIS LIFE

Police Seek Clue to Underworld Vengeance—Victim a Beer-Runner and Labor Racketeer.

Harry Veasey, a neatly dressed, mild-mannered little man, whose spectacles made him look like a clerk, left his usual haunts yesterday in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, for an automobile ride to New Jersey. The ride terminated the career of "the giant-killer," so named by fellow-gangsters and so known to the police.

His body was found early yesterday morning in the rear seat of his own sedan in Hoboken, his head battered and cut, pillowed on the neat folds of his overcoat. Patrolmen Charles Winter and James McKeever discovered the murder when they peered into the sedan, which they had noticed parked without lights in front of 716 Madison Street.

Member of Greenpoint Gang.

A driver's license in his pocket gave a Hoboken address, which was found to be false, but fingerprints gave his real identity, Harry Veasey, 37-52 Sixty-second Street, Woodside, Queens, a member of the notorious Jacobs gang of the Greenpoint district of Brooklyn. The records revealed that he had been arrested four times for homicide, but never convicted. The New York police knew Veasey, whose appearance belied his reputation, as a dangerous criminal, a labor racketeer, beer runner, member of a gang which dealt in stolen jewels and automobiles. He was a friend of Edward Lynch and James Sentor, whose bullet-torn bodies were tossed into the roadside in the past few months.

The Hoboken police, searching through his past for a motive for his murder, became convinced that he was a victim of gang vengeance. But in what particular he transgressed the underworld's code is not clear. One theory is that he extended his beer-running activities from Brooklyn, his own territory, to Hoboken, and paid the usual toll. Another theory advanced by the police was that he was a victim of mistaken identity.

A gangster closely resembling Veasey recently "absconded" with $50,000, a fund collected to aid the wives and children of gangsters who had been "taken for a ride." The police think that Veasey may have been mistakenly slain for this man.

Fought for His Life.

Two things were made clear by the investigations: That Veasey was not murdered where his body was found and that he fought hard against his fate. Assistant County Physician Arthur P. Hasking found that his clothes were muddy and disarranged, but his overcoat was clean. His face and head were battered and hammered either with a blackjack or pistol butt.

This would indicate that he fought stubbornly against superior force; was knocked unconscious and then was shot. There were two bullet wounds in his head; another through the shoulder and arm. The body had been moved about a great deal after death, Dr. Hasking said, making it impossible to determine at what hour death had taken place.

Hoboken detectives investigating the murder turned their attention to Veasey's New York and Brooklyn activities. They found that he had been at one time a bookmaker and was one of a group which terrorized and preyed on labor unions. His associates in Greenpoint were questioned last night.

Convicted Only Once.

Veasey's last arrest was on Dec. 30. He, with other gangsters, was seized at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, where they were interfering with an election of the painters' union. Veasey was held on a charge of homicide, but was released in court the next day when detectives admitted they had no direct evidence. That had been frequently the case.

July 4, 1928, he was arrested for homicide and was discharged a week later. On Feb. 28, 1929, he was arrested for homicide and released on March 2. Other arrests were for homicide in 1925 under the name of Joseph Daly; for grand larceny in 1920 and attempted felonious assault in 1918, when he received a suspended sentence, his only conviction.

He was a "pal" of the Frank Kiekart, now serving a term in Atlanta for the Elizabeth mail hold-up a few years ago. A letter from Kiekart found in his pocket begged him to "do something" about getting a reduction of sentence.

RUTGERS TO REBUILD BURNED GYMNASIUM

Trustees Act on Plan to Raise $600,000 Among Alumni—Fees and Rentals Advanced.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 10.—An attempt to raise $600,000 will be made by Rutgers University to replace the Robert F. Ballantine Gymnasium, which was burned on Tuesday. At a meeting of the board of trustees of Rutgers today, a resolution was adopted empowering the president, Dr. John Thomas, to appoint a committee of three to appeal to alumni and friends for the funds. The trustees are holding one of their four annual meetings at the Hotel Dennis as the guests of Walter Buzby, a member of the board. Sessions will continue tomorrow.

John Herbert of New York, Justice Clarence Case of Somerville, N. J., and Edward Katsonback of Trenton comprise a committee named to consider the request of the American Legion for scholarships for children whose fathers died in the World War.

Announcement was made that dormitory rentals would be advanced $50, effective after September, 1930. The student activity fee will be increased from $30 to $32.

It was announced that 398 members of the faculty had subscribed to $1,841,000 under the group insurance plan. Dr. Eliot Payson, Professor of the History of Education and Associate Professor of German, was placed on the retired list. Dr. Payson, who is 84 years old, has been voted the most popular member of the faculty for the past four years.

Attacks Invitation to Simmons.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 10 (AP).—John H. Kerr Jr. of Rocky Mount, chairman of the Second Congressional District organization of Young Democrats, has objected to an invitation given Senator Simmons by the State organization to attend a Jackson Day dinner here March 15 because Senator Simmons opposed Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Both Senator Simmons and Josiah William Bailey, who has announced his intention of attempting to unseat the Senator in the Democratic primary next June, were invited.

RED STRIKERS STONE 4 POLICEMEN IN RIOT

Batons Wrested From Guards During Disturbance at Brooklyn Shoe Plant.

FOUR HELD FOR ASSAULT

Stret Battle Ends With Firing of Four Warning Shots Into Air by Reserves.

Four policemen were slightly injured yesterday morning when a group of about fifty Communist workers on strike at the Elmore Shoe Company's factory at 1,958 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, rioted after the policemen tried to quell their demonstration at the plant. Four of the strikers were arrested on charges of felonious assault.

The demonstration which led to the battle between the shoe workers and the police reserves began about 10 o'clock, when between fifty and sixty strikers paraded before the factory. The group was singing the Internationale, according to the police, and jeered at the three patrolmen assigned to strike duty there.

When they sought to quiet the demonstration, the policemen later reported, they were attacked and stones were thrown at them. The policemen's clubs were wrested from them and they fought their assailants with their fists. When the reserves arrived the three patrolmen had been overpowered and were on the ground wrestling with strikers. The group dispersed when one of the policemen fired four warning shots into the air and threatened to shoot to kill.

The injured policemen, including the three who had been on duty at the scene of the strike, were:

JOSEPH A. PLATE, 28 years old, of 9,738 138th Street, Jamaica, Queens, right hand injured.

JOHN STEMMERMAN, 41, of 6,117 Sixty-eighth Street, Glendale, Queens, a gash on the forhead.

LAWRENCE RANPELL, abrasions of head and body.

JOHN F. QUIGLEY, abrasions of head and body.

Jacob Tieber, 37 years old, of 632 Ashford Street, Brooklyn, striker, charged with taking Patrolman Ranpell's nightstick and beating him with it, was held in $5,000 bail for examination Jan. 24 by Magistrate Jeanette Brill in New Jersey Avenue Court. The other three rioters arrested and charged with felonious assault were held in $2,500 bail each for hearing on the same date. They gave their names as Morris Chapewitz, 29 years old, of 192 Sutter Avenue; Sol Weingast, 31 years old, of 198 Wilson Street, and Joseph Eduk, 40 years old, of 1,572 Remsen Avenue, all of Brooklyn.

Electric Ferries Run On Time Despite Fog

Modern Construction Explains More Efficient Handling—on Lines Between W. 23rd St. and New Jersey

ALONE among all the ferry lines operating in the harbor and over the North and East Rivers, the Electric Ferry line, which runs between West 23rd Street, Manhattan, and New Jersey, have kept up actual schedule time throughout the foggy weather which has blanketed the waters about the city at various times during the past few days.

They are able to do this because of their modern construction. Operated by electricity, they can start faster, stop faster. And they are entirely under control of the pilot—which makes them almost as easily operated as a street car.

These ferries, which carry only motor vehicles, run on an eight-minute headway and operate night and day. In over three years of operation they have made more than 300,000 trips and have never been delayed because of weather conditions.
